THE SIMPLEX TYPE-SETTING MACHINE.

PROGRESS OF DAILY PRESS

It Appears Today in a Brand New Dress of Type Set by Machinery.

TYPE SETTER DESCRIBED

A Simplex Machine Has Been Installed in The Daily Press Composing Room and Is New Run by Our Own Employes.

In order to keep pace with the steady advance in newspaperdom, The Daily Press has installed a Simplex type-setter and has made the installation of this wonderful piece of machinery the occasion for the equipping the paper with a brand new set of type, known in printers' phraseology as a "new dress." This issue sees The Daily Press in its brand new garment for the first time. The bulk of the type in this issue is set by the Simplex machine.

There have been and still are a number of machines designed to set type. In some cases the type is cast in a line and, in others, the individual types are set. A thorough investigation of the merits of the different machines demonstrated the fact that the Simplex answered the requirements of this office better than any other machine of a similar nature. The machine has been tested and found to be entirely satisfactory in every newspaper office where it has been placed. It is far more accurate than hand compositors and does the work of several. It is easily operated and does not require a trained machinist to look after it. Under the charge of two of the compositors from this office, it will undoubtedly do its work well and expeditiously.

The machine was assembled a week ago by F. T. Jackson, an employe of the Unitype Company, of New York and Chicago, the sole manufacturers of the Simplex. During the last week, O. J. Houck, an expert operator in the employ of the Unitype Company, has been in charge of the machine and has taught the local operators how to use and care for it. Barnes C. Putnam and Henry [illegible], two trusted employes of The Daily Press, have been selected to operate the machine. While one man can run it, two can accomplish almost double the amount of work, one at the keyboard and the other at the distributer.

This is the first type-setting machine of any kind to be put in a Plainfield newspaper office and the second in any composing room in Union county. Naturally the people of Plainfield will be interested to learn how the machine is operated. An excellent idea of the machine will be found on this page. A description of the machine and its operation is herewith given.

The body of the Simplex consists of two cylinders, one above and revolving on the other, having a common axis. In both cylinders, extending vertically their full length, are ninety parallel channels, those in the lower cylinder forming the magazine into which type distributes from the channels of the upper cylinder and is stored for re-setting. The channels are slightly wider than the body of the type which the machine is made to set.

The distributing mechanism is regulated by small steel strips in each channel of the lower cylinder, called "wards," as they perform the same function as the wards of a lock. The combination of wards in each channel differs from that in every other channel. Each type character in a font is given a combination of nicks corresponding with the combination of wards in one particular channel, and can enter this channel only.

The channels in the upper cylinder have no wards, so that lines containing all characters in the font will enter freely. In each channel is a sliding weight which presses lightly on the line of dead type contained in the channel and when the bottom type comes to its proper channel in the lower cylinder it will drop quickly. The channels in the upper cylinder are loaded automatically with type and the cylinder is revolved step by step, bringing each of its channels in direct alignment over a channel in the lower cylinder. Every type with a combination of nicks corresponding with a combination of wards in the lower cylinder channels drops down in its proper channel, the distributer making a slight pause to allow this dropping.

The mechanism by which this distributing is accomplished is most accurately made and allows of no mistake being made whatever. If the matter being distributed is leaded the leads are withdrawn automatically while type is being loaded into the upper cylinder for distribution.

On the setting mechanism is a keyboard with ninety keys, one for each channel in the cylinder, each key being connected by levers to the bottom of its particular channel. When a key is depressed on the board, its corresponding character is assembled in a continuous line directly in front of the operator.

The letters mostly used are located in the most convenient position, and may be played with greatest rapidity, the type coming into the line in the desired order. The type is ejected from the lower cylinder or magazine onto a rapidly revolving disc which carries it around to the right-hand side of the machine where a swicth or guide deflects it off the disc upon a traveling belt to the continuous line mentioned above.

Midway between the cylinders and the keyboard is a receptacle called the packer which receives the tpye lying on its side in a horizontal position and stands it on its feet ready for justification. This packer is capable of assembling properly six hundred type per minute or about one hundred words.

At the left of the keyboard is the justifying mechanism. The operator with a small instrument known as a "grab", set to the required length of line used in the paper, separates from the continuous line enough to fill this "grab."

Having justified the line by the addition of a few spaces the operator touches a thumb lever located beside

BURGLARS WERE AT FANWOOD

WORKED WITH SUCCESS AT HOME OF W. R. STANBERY.

Also Operated at Residence of William Collins—List of Their Plunder.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, December 2—Burglar entered the home of William R. Stanbery last night, and decamped with booty valued at many dollars.

Among the articles taken were two automobile coats, one spring overcoat, one dozen silver plated nut picks, one dozen silver plated oyster-forks and an Ingersoll watch. Entrance was effected by prying open a window on the first floor.

The residence of William Collins, on Park avenue, was also entered and change amounting to $2 was taken from clothing. There is no clue to the burglars.

ANANIAS AND SAPPHIRA

SUBJECT OF DISCOURSE BY REV. J. W. RICHARDSON.

How Many People Pretend to Act for God and Really Serve Themselves.

A discourse on "The Modern Ananias and Sapphira" was delivered at the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday morning, by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson. After an exposition of the history of the text the speaker said that God meted out such severe punishment to these two that others might be turned from copying their presumptuous sin.

"Ananias," said he, "sought to escape the scrutiny of the men of the church by calling on God to witness a false profession. When a man under the garb of a special piety in a voluntary deed pretends to be acting for God while at the same time he is acting for his own selfish interest he mocks God. Ananias is still in the world."

A Plainfield pastor, declared the speaker, received this letter: "Rev. and Dear Sir, I am a practicing physician residing in———. I am an active member of Rev. Dr.——'s church, but I think of removing to your city and if there are no physicians in your congregation and you think there is an opening for me, I will transfer my letter to your church. P. S.: I treat clergymen gratis."

"Here was a modern Ananias coolly proposing to deceive church people," continued the speaker. "He was willing to appear pious but kept back the price of genuine piety. The sin of this transaction lay in attempting to impose upon the Holy Ghost. There are those who go to the sanctuary as Ananias did giving the appearance of presenting themselves to the Lord, yet withholding part of the price which goes with genuine discipleship. Self is uppermost in the heart.

"The profession they make is carried only so far as it gives them pleasure or suits their convenience or gratifies their ambition. This narrative was presented to teach that it is a stupendous sin to appear to make sacrifices for God and not make them."

DR. RAYMOND PREACHED.

Two Excellent Sermons Delivered at Crescent Avenue Church.

The pulpit at the Crescent Avenue church yesterday morning and evening was occupied by Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, president of Union College. Large congregations attended both services. In the morning President Raymond preached concerning the Kingdom of God as likened unto searching for goodly pearls, and in the evening his text was "Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things."

F. H. JACOBS SPOKE.

Addressed Men's Meeting at Y. M. C. A. Yesterday Afternoon.

F. H. Jacobs, the evangelist, was greeted by a large audience of men at the regular Sunday afternoon meeting at the Y. M. C. A., yesterday. Members of the Gospel Campaign choir sat on the platform and assisted in the service. "Forgiveness" was his subject. "God was the author of it," said he," and Christ is the medium through which it comes."

Parish Meeting.

The members of Holy Cross church will hold a parish meeting in the Parish House this evening. Reports of work accomplished during the year and other matters will be heard.

—Once tried, always used. The Rockdale print and Rockdale creamery butter sold by Neuman Brothers.

LITERARY WORKERS.

Interesting Programme Given at Meeting of Y. M. C. A. Literary Society Saturday Evening.

An interesting programme was given at the meeting of the Plainfield Literary Society, Saturday evening, in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. Carl E. Drange read an essay on "Thanksgiving," and E. K. Hartley delivered an address on "National Currency."

A synopsis of the principles of the law of contracts was stated by Charles M. Dolliver and another synopsis of the Constitution of New Jersey was given by N. Douglass Drake. J. Henry Crane, the present of the society, recited the famous jury speech of Judge Curtis, of Kentucky, on early affections.

The next meeting of the society will be held Saturday evening, Dec. 14.

OLD RAILWAY FACILITIES

RELIC OF PLAINFIELD'S FIRST RAILWAY SERVICE.

One of the First Commuters' Tickets Used Between Plainfield and New York.

A reminder of the times when railroad facilities were first introduced into Plainfield is exhibited in the office of Elston M. French & Co., on North avenue. In a neat frame has been placed a sample of one of the first commuter's tickets used by Plainfielders and a promissory note given by the company for construction work done.

Both are connected with the history of the Elizabeth and Somerville Railroad, the forerunner of the New Jersey Central. The commuter's ticket is made out in favor of the late Phineas M. French, the present owner's father. Its use is limited until May 1, 1848, but the date of issue is omitted. Notice is given that the ticket is not transferrable, but no penalty is provided for violation of the stipulation. Typographically it is very plain and would result in endless trouble to the authorities of a road today on this account.

The promissory note is for $100 and is payable to Ephriam Drake or order. It was issued by Charles Green, as president of the Elizabeth and Somerville Railroad and is dated at Elizabethtown, Nov. 1, 1839. It was issued by Charles Green, as president of the Elizabeth and Somerville Railroad and is dated at Elizabethtown, Nov. 1, 1839. It was endorsed to Phineas M. French, who furnished the pine railroad ties used in the construction of the road. Shortly after it came into Mr. Erench's possession the company failed and the note was never paid.

This railroad line extended from Elizabethpoint to Plainfield, the passage with New York being made by means of a line of boats plying between the Metropolis and the "pint" daily. The company soon became involved in financial difficulties and the extension to Somerville was never made.

NEW JERSEY DAY.

Will Be Observed at Burlesque Pan-American Tonight.

New Jersey Day will be celebrated at a burlesque Pan-American Exposition, given this evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening in the lecture room of the First Baptist church.

The entertainment is under the auspices of the young people's societies of the church and will include supper with the following departments of entertainment: Modern dairy, fisheries, horticultural building, art gallery and Indian reservation.

FUNERAL OF CHILD.

Services Held Over Remains of the Little Daughter of Mr. Whalen.

Funeral services over the remains of Margaret Whalen, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Whalen, of West Fifth street, were held from the parents' residence, Saturday afternoon. Rev. Father Smyth officiated. The pallbearers were John, Joseph and Martin Whalen and Michael Monyhan. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

City Nurse Will Not Return.

Miss Olive DeLany, formerly city nurse, but now taking an extended course in Canada, has decided not to return to this city. She will make her home in Canada permanently.

Invitation Dance.

An invitation dance will be given at the Camera Club rooms Thurdsay evening, December 5.

—The union Bible class, taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns, will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

GOLF SEASON ENDED AT HILLSIDE CLUB

Robert Abbott Finished First in Season's Play for the Golf Committee Cup.

NO SCORES SATURDAY.

MISS VAN HERWERDEN WON THE MELLICK CUP COMPETITION.

Excellent Showing Made by Robert Abbott During the Year—D. H. Barrows Was Second and C. W. Abbott Third.

Saturday marked the closing of the active season at golf at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. Although the final play for the Golf Committee cup was scheduled and there was a large number of players on the course, not a single score in the competition was handed in. This was no doubt due to the fact that Robert Abbott, with a total of fifteen and a half points, was assured of victory a week ago.

Not many weeks ago Abbott took the lead and he held it steadily until the close. He played a strong game throughout the season and proved himself to be one of the most promising players in the club. A close second to Abbott in the finish was Dudley H. Barrows, who has a total of twelve and one-third points. At one time it looked as though Barrows would win out. He has shown himself to be one of Hillside's strongest players. The third man in the list is C. Westley Abbott, another strong player. He held the lead for several weeks, until his brother set the pace which proved to be too fast for him.

There were a host of other contestants in this competition, who are numbered among the club's best players, but, through their inability to take advantage of every Saturday's play and other reasons, they have failed to secure a position nearer the top.

As for the weekly competition for the Mellick cup, Miss Lida vanHerwerden was the winner with a goodly number of points to her credit.

It will be noticed in the standing for the Golf Commitee cup that Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers is seventh in the list. She stopped playing after the golf committee refused to concede to her what she believed were her rights.

The clubhouse was officially closed Saturday, but arrangements have been made by the golf committee to have the caddy house open during the month of December. Edward Erickson, the expert, has also been engaged for that time. The course will be kept open for any wishing to play and the caddy house will make a convenient place to warm up on cold days.

As the season closes too much cannot be said of Steward Ivamy for the excellent and very satisfactory manner in which he has provided for the comfort of the members. Expert Erickson has also given entire satisfaction and proved himself to be the right man in the right place.

The final standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

Robert Abbott	15½
D. H. Barrows	12⅓
C. Westley Abbott	11
W. L. Glenney	9½

No Sunday Golf Here.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, at Trinity Reformed church last evening, preached on the Commandment: "Remember the Sabbath Day To Keep It Holy." He incidently denounced the desecration of the Sabbath by golf playing and expressed his thankfulness tha the evil practice does not extend to Plainfield, although it has reached the vicinity.

DISLOCATED SHOULDER.

Little Son of George B. Wean Met With a Peculiar Accident a Few Days Ago.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wean, of West Fourth street, is recovering from a dislocated shoulder, the accident being a peculiar one.

A few days ago the little fellow started to walk down the cellar steps, when his aunt, Miss Scarborough, happened to notice him. To prevent the boy from falling a great distance with possible severe injury, she caught hold of his shoulder and lifted him back to the first floor. The boy is unusually stout for his age and in attempting to lift him his shoulder was pulled out of place. The family physician was summoned at once and now the boy is greatly improved.

LITTLE WORKERS IN CHARGE

ENTERTAINMENT AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH SATURDAY.

Given by Members of the Primary and Intermediate Classes of Sunday-school.

The pupils of the primary and intermediate classes of the First Baptist church, gave an entertainment Saturday afternoon to their parents and friends. The attendance was unusually large and the young people acquitted themselves in a creditable manner.

In addition to class readings and anthems, the programme rendered was as follows: Recitation, "A Little Girl's Joy," Violet Cronce; piano solo, "Hunter's Song," Miriam Hall; recitation, "When Grandma Bastes the Turkey," Charles Lee, Jr.; reading, George Rogers; piano selection, Miss Mae Batchelor; recitation, "Work and Play," Russell Miller; recitation, "Tommy Gone to Sleep," Lawrence and Elmer French; song, "In a Manager," Hazel Todd; recitation, "Five Little Pussies," Elmer French; piano solo, George Rogers; recitation, "Puritan Maid," Elizabeth Winn; song, "President McKinley's Last Words," Russell Miller; recitation, "Our Secret," Ouida Hetfield; recitation, "Shadows," Lawrence French and Jessie Clawson; recitation, "At Seven in the Morning," Jed Smalley; recitation, "Who made the Speech," Lillian VanWinkle.

At the conclusion of the programme refreshments consisting of cocoa and wafers were served by the teachers.

TOMORROW'S CONCERT.

Princeton Clubs Appear in Strong Programme at the Casino.

Who does not know how strongly the soul is stirred to love of country by patriotic music. The strains of "Star Spangled Banner" have inspired many a wearied column to a brave and successful charge against the foe.

And in the smaller college world with its mimic battles and varied contests the song that tell of "Old Nassau," of the boy's love for the "Orange and the Black," and of "Dear Old Princeton" have nerved many an athlete to do his best and spurred many a team on to victory.

These are the songs that will be heard tomorrow night at the Casino, songs breathing a love for Alma Mater not such as a foundling gives the orphan asylum that shelters him, but such as a child gives to his own nourishing mother.

The banjo and mandolin clubs will set your feet in motion and your heart to swinging long before the dance that follows the concert.

FUNERAL OF MRS. PRUDEN.

Held from the Second Street Residence This Morning.

The remains of Mrs. Eliza M Pruden were interred in the North Plainfield cemetery at 3 o'clock, this afternoon. In the morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, conducted the funeral services at the house, on East Second street. William Shotwell, A. L. Cadmus, E. H. Holmes and A. V. Searing acted as pall bearers.

COMPLAINANT IN BED.

So Hearing of Kneeland for Assault and Battery Was Adjourned.

Charles Saueracker, of West Sixth street, appeared before Justice Hand, Saturday afternoon and preferred a charge of assault and battery against Patrick Kneeland, Sr., of South street. A hearing was set for 10 o'clock this morning but at that time Mrs. Saueracker brought word that the complainant was unable to leave his bed. The matter was adjourned until Saturday morning.

RELATIONS OF CHURCH AND POPULAR PASTIMES

First of Series of Sermons by Pastor of Monroe Avenue M. E. Courch.

GIVEN LAST EVENING.

DISCUSSED QUESTIONS OF THEATRE AND DANCING.

He Censured Only Those Amusements Which Consumed Hours Intended for Sleep or Weakened Moral Character.

Before a large congregation in the Monroe Avenue church last evening, Rev. John McMurray delivered the first of a series of sermons. His subject was "Twentieth Century Christianity and Popular Amusements."

In the course of his remarks Mr. McMurray said there has always been a sort of antagonism between the Christian church and so called popular amusements, but it is doubtless mostly traditional owing to the hatred held by the early Christians for the riotous Roman circus.

Continuing Mr. McMurray said all amusements should be censured which consumed hours intended for sleep or weakened moral character. Baseball, golf, football and like games, he said, were healthful and could be played and praised by any Christian. Prize fighting and wine drinking he classed with the diversions to be avoided and which were degrading in their effects.

In regard to theatre going Mr. McMurray said he would not give his opinions but quoted from Bishop Kyron and Dr. Herrick to the effect that the ideal theatre is impossible and the stage as it now exists is a synonyin for moral debaseness. Gambling in all its forms, he said, originated in harmless card games at home in the evening and should be censured.

Regarding dancing, Mr. McMurray said he would deal with it only by asking his congregation three questions which they could answer but too well. These were: What constitutes the chief charm of dancing and what makes it popular? Does dancing have anything about it to develop the character? Is the soft impeachment true which says it is impossible to have a social evening without dancing?

In conclusion Mr. McMurray stated that it was not his purpose to denounce these divertisements but to picture them in a strong light in order that the contrast might be seen. It is not the place of the church, he said, to furnish pastimes to take their places as its proper function is to teach Chritsianity and not go in the show business.

PLOUGHED UP MACADAM.

Results Were Rather Disastrous for Arthur Denton.

John Morton, of West Front street, jumped from his wagon suddenly while on that thoroughfare, Saturday afternoon, directly in front of Arthur Denton, of Washington avenue, who was on a wheel. The two came together with disastrous results to Denton.

He parted company with the bicycle and then ploughed up a few yards of macadam to the great detriment of the skin on his face. Morton went down but was not hurt.

GOLD MEDAL AWARDED.

Just Received by the American Engine Company of Bound Brook.

The American Engine Company, of Bound Brook, received last week the gold medal awarded by the Jury of Awards, Pan-American Exposition, for its American-Ball Duplex compound engine. F. H. Ball and F. O. Ball, of Washington Park, are both officials of the company. The former is vice-president and general manager, while the latter is the general superintendent.

Expensive Production.

It has already cost $100 to properly stage and give the cantata of "Queen Esther." It has been found necessary to allow persons to attend the dress rehearsal Wednesday evening, the price of admission being given in the advertisement.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. Safe pills. L. W. Randolph.

—Golden Rule Circle of the King's Daughters, of Grace M. E. church, will hold a meeting at the home of Miss Clara VanFleet, of Jackson avenue, this evening.

PROGRESS OF THE DAILY PRESS

the galley, on which the type is placed ready for the forms, this releases a pawl which engages with a ratchet on a rotating wheel beneath the keyboard. The rule which stands behind the type line is drawn below it, while a line pusher comes up in front of the line and carries it back onto the galley, which rests on a support behind the rule.

On top of the "line pusher," which carries the line of type into the galley as above described, is a receptacle for leads. The mechanism is so arranged that a supply of leads can be quickly inserted, and, being in full view, the operator can tell when the supply is exhausted and replenish it without disturbing or stopping the working of machine for a moment. The matter may be set either solid or leaded by simply turning a thumb screw on the leading device.

All parts of the machine have been designed in the most simple and substantial form, particular attention having been given to making them accessible and interchangeable.

LITERARY.

December's contributions to The Century's leading feature, the "Year of American Humor," are "Blackgun Ag'in' Thunder," by Frank R. Stockton; "The Testimonial," by Gelett Burgess, with pictures by Florence Scovel Shinn; "The Deception of Martha Tucker," an automobile extravaganza, by Charles Battell Loomis, with pictures by Miss Cory; more of "Policeman Flynn's Adventures," by Elliot Flower, with pictures by F. D. Steele; "Officer Brady (the Modern Recruit)," a humorous poem, by Robert W. Chambers, author of "The Recruit;" and "Lighter Vein" contributions from Ruth McEnery Stuart, E. L. Sabin, Beatrice Hanscom, Oliver Herford, Carolyn Wells, and others.

There is no lack of the Christmas spirit in the December number of the Ladies' Home Journal. Among the stories that go to fill this largest number of the magazine ever issued are: "The Baby Behind the Curtain," by Elizabeth McCracken; "Christmas Eve on Lonesome," by John Fox, Jr., the Kentucky author; "How the First Letter was Written," by Rudyard Kipling, and the first part of an amusing story of Western ways called "The Russells in Chicago." "The People Who Help Santa Claus" are told about; the Rev. David M. Steele relates some pathetic stories of the New York poor, and Elliot Flower delightfully describes "The Linfields' Christmas Dinner." The second room of the "Bradley House," the library, is shown in detail. Mr. Bok's editorial is headed "Personal," and that it is. There is a charming Christmas play for children, and a double page of college girls' pictures, which shows groups of students from almost every well-known girls' school in the country. This is the first installment of The Journal's great "picture story" of "What a Girl Does at College." Their regular departments are most ably presented by their respective editors, and the holiday cover is the work of Thomas Mitchell Peirce. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

Plainfielders Honored.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of this city, has been appointed a member of the executive committee from Union county, of the McKinley Memorial Association. Other Union county members are Governor Voorhees, Senator John Kean, Congressman Fowler, C. C. McBride and H. B. Rollinson. The members' names from Somerset county are Frederick P. Olcott, Senator Charles A. Reed and James J. Bergen.

Of Benefit to You.

D. S. Mitchell, Fulford, Md.: "During a long illness I was troubled with bed sores, was advised to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and did so with wonderful results. I was perfectly cured. It is the best salve on the market." Sure cure for piles, sores, burns. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Engaged in Business.

William S. Vroom, of Somerville, a brother of Theodore Vroom, of the borough, has resigned his position with the New Jersey Central, to engage in business at Somerville. He has been with the railroad company a great many years.

Special Musical Features.

There will be special music at the mass meeting to be held at the Crescent Avenue church, Thursday evening, December 5, when the interest in the ante-polygamy movement will be aroused.

Date Is Set.

The date has been set for the public entertainment to be given by the local lodges Ancient Order United Workmen. It will be given in the Y. M. C. A. January 19.

HIS GIFT WAS A HOUSE

HOW A WEALTHY PITTSBURG MAN REMEMBERED HIS OLD FRIENDS.

Presented Abram Suydam and Charles Halcombe, of Somerville, Each With a House.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 2.—Probably the two happiest men in this place are Abram Suydam and Charles Halcombe, who were formerly residents of Clover Hill, Hunterdon county.

A short time ago the former entertained an old friend of both at dinner, A. R. Peacock, the wealthy steel manufacturer of Pittsburg. During the chatter Suydam said he expected Mr. Peacock would soon be giving away public libraries like Andrew Carnegie. Mr. Peacock replied that he intended to look after his old friends first and that he would buy any two houses in town that Suydam and Halcombe might choose and give the houses to them.

They would not believe this at first, but when they found Mr. Peacock was in earnest the residences of Geo. W. Abbott and Miss Carolyn O. Gildersleeve on High street were picked out and Mr. Peacock bought them at a cost of nearly $10,000.

His old friends, one of whom is a cripple and the other too aged to work, are now living in their new homes, and are loud in their praises of Mr. Peacock for his goodness to them.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

In passing sentence upon Mrs. Sarah Willet, who was convicted of keeping a disorderly house, in the city court a few days ago, City Judge Runyon took occasion to refute the allegations preferred by irresponsible parties to the effect that the city is honeycombed with "speak easies". Mrs. Willet protested her innocence but the evidence gathered by the police was overwhelming and her tears and entreaties were of no avail.

"It has long been the aim of the local authorities," said the Judge, "to weed out just such characters as you, and once the necessary evidence is obtained I shall not stand in the way of purifying the city. Enough untruths have been told of late regarding a state of affairs which does not exist to place the police in an unfavorable light and convey the impression they are not performing their duty. The matter has been grossly exaggerated, but in your case there is no doubt but what they have established your guilt, as they will do in others of a like character."

It is a noticeable fact that never before in the history of Plainfield have so many of her young men and women been away at college. As nearly every one of the big colleges is represented in this city there is naturally a well-balanced sentiment. The world will probably hear more in the future from these same young people, in fact already some have won distinction.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Given to Mrs. George Fielding, of Proscott Place, Friday Night.

A birthday surprise party was given to Mrs. George Fielding, of Prescott place, Friday evening. It was arranged by Alvah Waldron and W. Fielding. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. D. Medlar, the Misses Bertha and Florence Medlar, Elsie Slorah, Mr. and Mrs. Sisson, Mr, and Mrs. G. Wallace, L. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Waldron, and Adam Scott, G. Hunter, R. Thompson, B. F. Couck, D. Randolph, A. Aldrich. William Fielding, Hugh Gray, Alvah Waldron and M. Johnson.

Suit Over a Horse.

A six man jury in Justice Hand's court, Saturday, brought in a verdict for $33 and costs in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Rose Murphy against Absalom Dunn. Miss Murphy sued to recover the value of a horse for which she gave Dunn the money to buy. The defendant's counsel, V. W. Nash, Jr., filed a notice of appeal.

Another Entrance.

The members of the German Reformed church on Craig place are planning to have an entrance built to the Sunday-school room on the Duer street side. It would be a great convenience to the attendants at the church.

Another Mayor.

Omission was unintentionally made of the name of Dr. J. H. Cooley, in the published list of the former mayors whose portraits will be placed on the walls of the Borough Council chamber.

Important Business.

At the next meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps there will be election of officers and other important business.

Chemical Engine in Rahway.

The Rahway Fire Department has purchased a chemical engine similar to the one in use in this city.

BRIEF LOCAL HAPPENINGS

MENTION OF MINOR EVENTS PAST AND PRESENT.

Items of Interest Gathered Up Within the Boundaries of Greater Plainfield.

—Old Glory Council, No. 62, Daughters of Liberty, will meet this evening.

—The Plainfield Board of Education will meet this evening in regular session.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., will hold a regular communication tomorrow evening.

—Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will initiate several candidates tomorrow evening.

—A regular meeting of the Sons of Veterans is scheduled for tomorrow evening and a full attendance is desired.

—There will be business of importance at the meeting of Martha Washington Council, Daughters of America, tomorrow evening.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., will meet in regular session Wednesday evening. A full attendance of members is desired.

—Druggist John Power, of Somerset street, is exhibiting a litter of thoroughbred fox-terriers in the windows of his pharmacy.

—There will be a regular business meeting of the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

—Mr. and Mrs. Nelson VanWinkle, who have been living temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ryder, of Central avenue, have taken up their residence in their own home on Duer street.

THEATRICAL.

"Mme. Butterfly" will end its tour of the Proctor circuit with its two weeks engagement at the Fifth Avenue, Dec. 7. Last season the little Japanese tragedy ran for twelve weeks at Manager Proctor's Broadway house and has since been presented seven weeks at his other houses, including one week each in Albany and Montreal.

F. F. Proctor's Newark theatre, now nearing completion, will be Newark's first vaudeville theatre dedicated especially to family patronage. As is the rule at all Proctor theatres there will be no smoking or drinking in the Newark theatre. Manager Proctor realizes the necessity for a strictly refined vaudeville resort in Newark and will conduct the house so that lovers of vaudeville may attend with their families and where women and children, unattended, may visit afternoon or evening with perfect impunity. Sandow will probably be the feature of the opening programme.

AN APPEAL FOR AID.

From Organized Aid Association for Colored Family in Need.

The Organized Aid Association appeals to the charity of Plainfield people to prevent a colored family, who have never before asked for or received aid, from becoming charges on the city. Their distress is owing to illness and will be temporary. Rent and coal is needed to tide them over for a month or two.

There are five small children, the father has been ill for about two months and the mother has done her utmost. Medical attendance, medicines and food have been given and will continue as long as the need lasts, through the kindness of physician, druggist and the Relief Association. Will any one volunteer to help with coal and rent?

Further information may be gotten from the agent, Miss VanBoskerck, at the office, 544 West Front street. All contributions will be acknowledged through this paper.

May Change Lesson Helps.

The officers of the First Baptist church Sunday-school are considering the advisability of changing the lesson helps. Some favor another publication, while others are in favor of "The Baptist Teacher," the ones now in use."

Regarding Individual Cups.

As yet there has been no report from the committee from the First Baptist church regarding the adoption of the individual communion cups. It is said that a majority of the members favor the change.

Miss Stites, of Steiner place, is visiting friends in Jersey City.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures Catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

ASTHMA CURE FREE.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. F. F. WELLS of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.
AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

February 5, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington street.

Mother and Four Children Perish In Flames.

HUSBAND AND FATHER INJURED.

Mysterious Nighttime Fire In a Pennsylvania Town—Inmates of the Burning House Have No Time to Escape.

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 2.—Five persons, a mother and her four children, have been burned to death at Gwinn Station, on the Wopsononock railroad, three miles north of this city. The husband escaped with severe injuries. The dead are Mrs. Mary C. Burk, forty-two years old; Adam G. Burk, sixteen; Mary E. Burk, thirteen; Joanna Burk, eleven, and Joseph Victor Burk eight. Carl W. Burk, the husband, is seriously burned about the back.

Mrs. Burk and the children, save Adam, retired at the usual hour at night. Mr. Burk, who was in Altoona, did not get home until late. The lamp was burning in the kitchen for him. Before he went up stairs he turned it low. A lunch was left on the kitchen table for Adam, who is a stage hand at the Altoona Opera House. It is not known what time Adam came home.

About 1:30 o'clock Mrs. Burk was awakened by a dense smoke in her room. She awoke her husband. He dressed hurriedly and hastened down stairs. Opening the kitchen door, he found the room was ablaze. The draft caused by the open door accelerated the fire, and with a roar the flames swept through the house.

Burk's clothing was ignited, and he sprang outside and rolled in the snow to extinguish the tiny tongues of fire. He then summoned the assistance of neighbors. There was no hope of saving the house when they arrived, and to rescue the inmates was impossible. Every time the men tried to enter the intense heat drove them back. Burk, in a mad frenzy, tried to rush through the flames, but was prevented.

Meantime the agonizing screams of the inmates could be heard. For one brief second Mrs. Burk appeared at an upstairs window. In her arms she carried a child. Then the flames arose about her, and she sank back and was seen no more. Burk was sent away to a hospital about this time crazed with grief.

The house, which was a two story frame structure, was soon consumed, and the search of the ruins was commenced. As there was nothing left but the foundation stones the bodies, charred and blackened, were speedily recovered. One corpse could not be distinguished from the other. They were brought to a morgue in this city.

The Largest White Lead Factory.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2.—News has reached here that the Union Lead and Oil company will attempt to begin work immediately in St. Louis on the largest white lead manufacturing plant in the United States and probably the largest in the world. Negotiations for a site are now well under way, and those connected with the company say the plant will be in operation within a few months. The company will have a capacity of 15,000 tons. All the raw material for the plant will be obtained in Missouri, where the company controls extensive lead mines. The company is a half owner in the new Federal Lead company organized recently under the laws of New Jersey with a capital stock of $10,000,000.

No Connection With Stone Case.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Naval officials say the reported dispatch of the cruiser Dixie from Naples, Italy, to Smyrna has no connection with the case of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, whose release from the Bulgarian brigands our government is now seeking to enforce. The Dixie is now engaged in the training service and has a number of landsmen aboard. Her movements while on the Mediterranean cruise were chosen with the intention to give the best training experience possible to the men aboard, and it is reported she has been sent to Smyrna. This, it is said by naval officials, is without special significance as bearing on the Stone case.

Russians Emigrating to Turkey.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 2.—One of the noteworthy results of the famine is the extensive emigration of Tartars and Kirghizes from the Crimea to Turkey. About 1,500 families have recently embarked for Constantinople. Typhus is prevalent in fifty-seven volosts and other dangerous diseases in eight volosts. Scarlatina, diphtheria and smallpox are also beginning to make their appearance in the famine districts of this province. The villagers of Khavlinsk, where famine was first declared, have left in such numbers seeking work that the population has been reduced from 22,000 to 15,000.

Fresh Turkish Outrages.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 2.—Official reports received here from Mush are to the effect that Andranik, a leader of Armenian bandits, has again occupied an Armenian monastery in the neighborhood of Mush, where he and his forces are surrounded for a second time by Turkish troops. Fresh Turkish outrages on Armenians are reported from the Mush, Sassun and Bitlig districts.

Carpenters Want More Pay.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—The district council of the Brotherhood of Carpenters has sent to every employer of carpenters in the city a notice asking for an increase in pay and for shorter hours. The union asks for 45 cents an hour, eight hours to constitute a day's work, and half a holiday on Saturday.

RETURN POSTPONED

Chinese Court Delayed by the Dowager's Fatigue.

CITY PEKING IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE

Condition of Imperial City Greatly Improved—All Offenses Against Foreigners Punished Severely and With Good Results.

PEKING, Dec. 2.—Prince Ching has informed the ministers of the foreign powers that owing to the fatigue of the dowager empress, resulting from her travels, the last stage of the imperial court's journey has been postponed for one week.

Great preparations are being made here for the reception of the royal party. All the palaces and temples have been repainted and regilded. The foreign residents of Peking have never seen these buildings look so imposing as now.

Upon the day of the reception the route followed by the royal cortege will be lined with Mantchoo bannermen, and elaborate ceremonies will be observed.

The condition of Peking has improved immensely, and good discipline is maintained among the European troops stationed here.

Chinese officials have severely punished all offenses against foreigners. This has had a salutary effect upon the demeanor of the people. The higher Chinese officials now manifest an increased desire to cultivate personal relations with the diplomatic corps.

The settlement of claims between the local officials and the missionaries not included in the general indemnity has been arranged. Payments on these claims amount to 5,000,000 taels.

In an edict the dowager empress has authorized the instruction of foreign sciences in Chinese schools.

The policy of Sir Robert Hart, collector of imperial maritime customs, in the matter of the disputed points of the tariff is to deal generously with the importers.

Court May Relate Its Sufferings.

PORT TOWNSHEND, Wash., Dec. 2.—According to oriental papers brought by the steamship Glenogle, a high official of the Chinese government has memorialized the throne to publish an illustrated book showing the sufferings the court sustained during its memorable flight from Peking and that the book be circulated throughout China so that the people of the empire may see what they were responsible for in countenancing the Boxer uprising and that it will serve as a warning to them not to place the court in such a humiliating position again. As a reactionary effect of the Boxer movement large numbers of Chinese at Kiaochow are becoming Christians. The bow and arrow have ceased to be an official army weapon in China. According to the Hongkong Press, an imperial edict was issued Oct. 26 abolishing the bow and arrow and substituting the gun.

The San Francisco Disaster.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—The number of lives lost in Saturday night's collision on the bay between the ferryboats San Rafael and Sausalito is still a matter of conjecture and probably will never be accurately determined. So far as determined only three persons are actually known to be missing. They are W. G. Crandall, secretary of a sirup refining works in this city and a resident of Sausalito; George Treadway, a waiter on the San Rafael, and the three-year-old son of Mrs. Waller of Ross Valley. The officers of the sunken vessel strongly maintain that nearly all were saved. About twenty people were injured.

Miss Cropsey Still Missing.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Dec. 2.—Excitement is aroused here over the mysterious disappearance of Miss Cropsey, of whom no trace has been discovered since she left her home late one night some days ago. The river has been dragged again, but without result. A mass meeting attended by 600 people was held in the Academy of Music yesterday and a citizens committee appointed to push the investigation into the fate of the missing girl. The speeches made indicated a strong feeling against young Wilcox, who has been under suspicion of knowing something about the matter which he has not divulged.

The Switchmen's Strike.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 2.—Reports from the managers and operators of the different railroads affected by the switchmen's strike assert that they have the situation well in hand and that the new men who have taken the strikers' places are now working to good advantage. Yesterday being a day when little new freight is received, considerable work was accomplished in the way of clearing the yards of their congested condition. In spite of the good reports made by the railroad officials the strikers' officials are claiming a decided advantage gained.

War Against Whisky Trust.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 2.—Great interest is taken in the meeting here this week of the United States Spirits association, as it is expected war will be declared against the trust. The United States Spirits association is the distributing agent of spirits and alcohol and is under contract with the Standard Distilling company, one of the concerns composing the Distilling Companies of America, the whisky trust, to take its entire output. The United States Spirits association is an independent organization.

A BULLER DEMONSTRATION.

Sunday's Parade In London Passed Without Trouble.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—"Buller Sunday" passed without serious incidents. The government had taken every precaution to prevent disturbances. This included the reading at three parades last week of a special order in the military regulations which forbids officers or soldiers from "taking part in any meetings, demonstrations or processions for party or political purposes."

A large body of police, many of whom were mounted, were stationed along the line of the procession's march and notably in front of the war office.

The trades unions and workmen's societies, with bands and banners, assembled along the embankment yesterday afternoon. There were thousands of spectators. Owing to the difficulty of marshaling the large bodies of men the procession was late in starting. It was headed by a huge banner, on which was a portrait of General Buller. The procession traversed Northumberland avenue, Pall Mall, St. James street and Piccadilly to Hyde park. The windows of clubland and especially of the service clubs were crowded with sightseers.

At Charing Cross several mounted policemen rode up to the head of the procession and attempted to seize a plaster bust of General Buller. The man carrying the bust dashed it to the ground. This incident caused much indignation, but the leaders were able to curb and restrain the paraders, some of whom wished to attack the policemen.

Opposite the war office there was considerable groaning and cries of "Shame!" from the men in the procession, but otherwise the proceedings were without incident.

When Hyde park was reached, it was almost dark. Here speeches from several platforms representing England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Devonshire and the colonies were made. The confusion was so great as to render the words of the speakers almost inaudible, but amid a roar of cheers a resolution of sympathy for General Buller was proposed and adopted with great enthusiasm and a wild waving of handkerchiefs and hats.

A New Railway Project.

DENVER, Dec. 2.—Senator W. A. Clark of Montana and Thomas F. Walsh of Colorado, it is rumored, have joined in railroad consolidation and will build practically a transcontinental railroad. The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific is said to be in with Senator Clark and Mr. Walsh. The new transcontinental line would give Senator Clark an outlet for his Los Angeles and Salt Lake City road, which has been left without one through the absorption of the two Colorado mountain lines by George Gould. The Rock Island would get a new and short route to California.

To Preserve Valley Forge.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Early in the coming week Senator Penrose and Representative Wanger of Pennsylvania will introduce bills for the acquisition of Valley Forge and its incorporation into a national park as a memorial of one of the most historic places in Revolutionary days. The measures will be practically the same as those introduced in the senate and house respectively last year and will provide for an appropriation of $200,000 for park purposes. The project has the earnest indorsement of twenty-seven patriotic associations.

Troops Home From the Philippines.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The United States transport Buford arrived yesterday from Manila with eight companies of the Twenty-third United States infantry, Companies A to H, 901 enlisted men, noncommissioned staff and band and 37 officers, under command of Colonel J. Milton Thompson. There were also 115 discharged soldiers and government employees on board. All were well and hearty. The men are a fine, robust lot, in good spirits and glad to get home.

Suffocated by Gas.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 2.—Fifteen persons living in a large tenement house were made seriously sick by inhaling illuminating gas, and one, Mrs. Agnes Gauld, who was found unconscious in bed, may die. At the New Haven hospital last night her condition was reported as critical. The other sufferers from the gas will recover. A leak in a street main which allowed gas to enter a sewer in front of the house was found to be the source of the trouble.

Quiet at Colon.

COLON, Dec. 2.—Yesterday passed uneventfully at Colon and Panama. Both Liberals and Conservatives are gradually resuming their customary intercourse and fraternizing the one with the other. There is no undue boasting on the part of the victors or ill concealed hatred on the part of those who sympathize with the vanquished. Consequently there have been no disturbances or unseemly behavior.

Fire In Oldtown, Me.

OLDTOWN, Me., Dec. 2.—Fire burned the Masonic block here and caused a total loss of $20,000. The building was owned by A. F. Bradbury and was insured. The F. E. Allen Clothing company had $10,000 loss, the Masonic lodge $2,000 and the New England Telephone company $1,000.

Chicago Live Stock Show.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—The formal opening of the international live stock exposition will take place tonight, when nearly 15,000 draft horses, fat cattle, big hogs and shaggy sheep will be put on exhibition. The opening address will be delivered by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson.

ONLY THE BEST paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. Paint is the main defense. Put your faith in something that will not fail you. A reliable article at a top price is cheaper than something else sold way down.

KEEP OFF THE EARTH

During the cold and wet weather as much as possible—that is, keep as much shoe leather between the soles of your feet and Mother Earth as you can conveniently carry. It's wisest in the beginning and cheaper in the end to provide yourself with shoes having good solid soles—cold-proof and water-proof, if possible.

We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.

Well built, with broad, heavy soles and with stout uppers.

They're a very paradise of rest for weary feet, and a paradise of economy for weary purses.

THE CHARLESTON EXPOSITION.

Opening Occurs Today—The Preliminary Exercises.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 2.—Impressive religious exercises, intended as a prelude to today's opening of the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian exposition, were held at the exposition grounds yesterday.

The naming of Dec. 1 as the opening day of the exposition was without consulting the calendar, and the fact that Dec. 1 was Sunday was discovered only a short time ago. It was then decided that a proper way to fulfill the promise made in the resolution as to the opening was to hold exercises appropriate to the day.

Ellison Capers, Episcopal bishop of South Carolina, made the invocation.

A dedication ode by George Herbert Sass of Charleston and set to music by Theo Saul was sung by a large chorus, accompanied by the First Artillery band.

Addresses were made by several ministers, and the benediction was pronounced by Mgr. Quigley.

The exposition will be formally opened this afternoon. The ceremonies at the Ivory City will be preceded by a parade composed of marines, naval reserves, cadets, state volunteers and various civic societies under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Charles Morris, U. S. A. The city is handsomely decorated, and there have been many arrivals at the hotels.

Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, United States senator from New York, who is to deliver the dedication oration, has arrived in Charleston and is being entertained at Summerville by F. W. Wagener, president of the exposition company.

Governor McSweeney and staff are here to participate in the exercises.

WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING.

Posed as an Evangelist—Alleged to Be a Noted Forger.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 2.—S. E. Murphy, said to be a noted forger, is in jail in Eufaula, Ala. He is specifically charged with having forged a check on the American National bank of Kansas City, Mo. By request of the metropolitan police bureau of Washington the Montgomery department has been on the lookout for Murphy several days. He was located in Eufaula, where he has been conducting a business college, and his arrest followed.

It is said Murphy has been going by the name of J. Thornton, alias Compton, alias J. B. Hamilton, alias James T. Douglas, and that he is wanted in various parts of the country on different charges.

The police claim that Murphy has served as a preacher in Georgia and Virginia and that he conducted a church revival in Remington, Va., in September and October. At Lithonia, Ga., he is said to have made warm friends as a Congregational minister. It is alleged that Murphy while posing as a preacher at Lithonia, Ga., married a young woman at Decatur, Ga., and deserted her there shortly after the wedding. The citizens of Decatur were greatly aroused over the action of the pseudo evangelist and offered a reward for his capture.

Partridge's Successor Named.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Charles Spencer Boyd of this city has been selected by Governor Odell to take the post of state superintendent of public works, which will become vacant when Colonel John N. Partridge, the incumbent, resigns to accept the police commissionership of this city. In announcing his selection of Mr. Boyd, who was one of his classmates in Columbia university, Governor Odell said: "I made the selection because I believe Mr. Boyd's training in engineering and his business qualifications, of which I know something, together with his ability to deal with men, made him a proper person for the place."

A National Football Game.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—Philadelphia's annual football game between the army and the navy Saturday was a national spectacle. With the president came the secretary of war, the secretary of the navy and other members of the cabinet. In the army and navy grand stands nearly every box of the foremost tiers held a national hero. Admiral Dewey and General Miles, ranking officers of the two branches of the service, were there to inspire the future generals and admirals to deeds of valor. The West Pointers outplayed the Annapolis eleven by a score of 11 to 5.

Intercollegiate Chess.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The tenth annual intercollegiate chess tournament between Columbia, Harvard, Yale and Princeton has been scheduled to take place at the Columbia Grammar school in this city Dec. 26, 27 and 28. In previous contests two students from each university in the league played one game each with every other student of the opposing teams, and the tourney was therefore played in six rounds. This year four men from each university will play, but each team will meet each of the opposing teams only once, so that the contest may be played in three days.

A Duel to the Death.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 2.—A duel to the death between James Spicer and John Spicer occurred in the woods between Spencer's island and Advocate harbor Saturday, and John Spicer was shot dead. Both parties lived near Fishermen's cove, and at various times they had disputes over land matters. They met in the woods, and apparently John Spicer made at James with an ax, and James then shot John dead.

Florence Nightingale Well.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The report cabled to the United States that Florence Nightingale was near death was unfounded. Florence Nightingale is well.

A FINANCIAL ALARM

Situation In the Philippines Causes Uneasiness.

WAITING FOR CONGRESS TO ACT.

Sixto Lopez's Secretary, Who Refused to Take Oath of Allegiance, Will Be Deported—He is Said to Have Aided the Insurgents.

MANILA, Dec. 2.—The financial situation in the Philippine Islands is causing considerable alarm. In an interview published in Manila Henry C. Ide, chief of the department of finance and justice, referred to the probable enforcement of an alteration in the immediate future of the present government parity of two Mexican dollars for one gold dollar. The United States postoffice here now refuses except to government employees to issue money orders in exchange for Mexican silver. The banks of Manila have been making from 6 to 8 per cent on exchange. Merchants and others are forced to carry their accounts in Mexican silver.

The commercial community had relied upon the United States Philippine commission to continue the situation of two Mexican dollars for one gold dollar, which the commission itself created. The commission unfortunately is unable to act in the matter without the authority of congress. This authorization has been requested. Charles A. Conant, special commissioner of the war department to investigate the state of coinage and banking in the Philippines and report to the secretary of war recommendations for remedial legislation, who recently arrived in Washington from Manila, is the bearer of the commission's views on this matter.

Mr. Patterson, the Englishman acting as secretary to Sixto Lopez, Aguinaldo's agent, who refused to take the oath of allegiance to the United States when he landed at Manila, is awaiting deportation from the island as a result of this refusal. Patterson had been accorded temporary liberty at the request of the British consul at Manila. Patterson, through his lawyers, brought a writ of habeas corpus returnable next Tuesday. The British consul withdrew his protection from Patterson, and the latter has been arrested. W. Morgan Shuster, customs collector for the Philippines, declaring that he has evidence of incriminating correspondence by Patterson and that he has been aiding the Filipino insurrection.

Bail for Patterson was refused.

The military departments of northern and southern Luzon have ceased to exist. Major General James F. Wade, formerly in command of the southern department, will leave Manila today to assume command of the American forces on Cebu island, and Major General Lloyd Wheaton, formerly commander of the northern department, will take command of the department of the north Philippines.

Several small engagements have occurred in Batangas province in the last few days. The forces of the insurgent leader Caballos have become badly demoralized. His followers are broken up into several small bands. Caballos holds two American prisoners.

The Treacherous Aguinaldo.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 2.—A letter received here says General Chaffee has recommended that Aguinaldo be brought to this country. It is stated that he has been detected in carrying on treasonable correspondence and trying to stir up strife. Aguinaldo is a close captive, but advices received here say that Chaffee believes the leader's presence in the islands is responsible for the insurgents' recent activity. It is said that correspondence of Aguinaldo of a treasonable nature has been detected and that he will probably be tried and brought over here under a sentence ranging from two to three years.

Sousa Played Before the King.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Sousa and his band played by royal command last night at Sandringham before their majesties King Edward and Queen Alexandra and the royal family. The concert lasted two hours. At its close Mr. Sousa was presented to King Edward, who received him very graciously. The king displayed keen delight with the music. All arrangements were made for the convenience of Mr. Sousa's party. Dinner was served on board the train going to Sandringham and supper on the train returning to London. It is particularly noticeable that King Edward has chosen an American company as the second company of artists to appear before his court since his accession to the throne.

Large Cotton Exportation.

PORT TOWNSHEND, Wash., Dec. 2.—The exportation of cotton to the orient by way of Puget sound during the past few years has made a wonderful increase. November has been a record breaker in that line. According to customs house records here, shipments amounted to 14,000 bales of cotton valued at $800,000.

Irish Tenants Urged to Fight.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—John Dillon, M. P., addressing an Irish league demonstration at Loughrea yesterday, counseled the evicted tenants to take back their farms by storm and that they should fight and suffer if necessary. He said the league funds would be given to assist those who showed a soldier's spirit.

American Library For Rome.

ROME, Dec. 2.—The establishment in Rome of an American library has been ordered by royal decree. The library will contain all publications relating to the new world since its discovery.

OUR LATEST STEP.

There can be no middle course. A newspaper must be continually making progress or retrogression is inevitable. In these days of activity in the twentieth century, there can be no standing still. During the years that The Daily Press has been published, we have not stood still. The history of The Daily Press is one of steady and continual advancement. Its appearance today in a brand new "dress" of type, most of which was set on that great modern wonder, the Simplex type-setting machine, is not only another step along the lines already laid down in previous years.

It is no slight task to prepare a new garment of this nature. There have been delays and other troubles during the last week. Besides carrying on the regular routine, it was necessary to prepare everything for today. Now The Daily Press appears in entirely new type, news, advertisements and all. There was plenty of hard work but we pride ourselves today that there is no better looking paper in the State. If the people of Plainfield will continue to support us in the future as well as they have in the past, it will not be long before we will be able to make still further improvement in equipment and service.

The Simplex type-setting machine, which has just been installed in The Daily Press composing room, is one of the greatest marvels of the age. It seems almost human. It is the first to be placed in any local printing office and only the second in Union county. We realize the kindly interest in the machine which the Plainfield public has taken. In a short time, as soon as the strangeness of the operation of the machine wears off, we shall be pleased to allow our friends to inspect it.

Elizabeth is to have water meters. It is going to cost the Elizabeth Water Company many dollars but the saving of water will be worth it, so the company's officials have decided. It is also going to regulate the cost of water on a far more equitable basis than at present. There isn't any doubt that the arguments, which apply to Elizabeth, also apply to this city. Some day, the Plainfield Water Supply Company is going to decide that the people of Plainfield have wasted enough water and then the long wished for water meters will be a reality. Meanwhile do not fail to let the officials know that you are very anxious for the installation of the meters.

The season for golf at the course of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club is over although it is still possible to play there. The concluding play for the Golf Committee cup was held Saturday. The winner is Robert Abbott, yet a school boy. He has played a careful and consistent game all through the season and his victory is one well earned.

It is not surprising that the people of Dunellen have voiced their objections to the location of the isolation hospital for Plainfield on the farm where the city sewage disposal beds are located. As a matter of fact, however, there would not be the slightest danger, even in time of epidemic, for the residents of Dunellen.

The first installment of "The Trouble on the Torolito," an interesting serial story by Francis Lynde, is published in today's Daily Press. The story will be continued daily until completed. It is a good story, cleverly told and Daily Press readers will undoubtedly find it worth their while to read.

On account of the press of advertisements, an unusually large amount of news will be found today on the second page. Local news is always to be found on that page.

EXCELLENT TALENT.

Will Take Part in Recital at Casino December 9.

The highest salaried church choir singer in New York City, Hobart Smock, tenor soloist of All Angle's church, will be a special feature of the Willis-Howell recital at the Casino, Monday night, December 9.

Mr. Smock possesses that unusual gift, a rare tenor voice. When one hears the delicious quality of his tones, realizes the great range and virility of his voice, the naturalness of his art and his thoroughly musical temperament, one knows that he deserves his enviable position in the front rank of concert singers. On this occasion he will be heard in his selections.

No less more pleasing will be the offerings of the three young women who will appear, Miss Mae Colt, reader of New Haven, Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis, soprano, and Miss Saidee Mae Howell, pianist.

A SLICK FLIM-FLAMER.

Arrested Before He Could Get in His Work in Plainfield.

A slick swindler, who gave his name as James Johnson, of Lancaster, Pa., but who Chief Kiely declares is Alphonse Marion, of New York, was arrested Saturday evening, after he had attempted to flim-flam a clerk at Voehl's bakery out of a ten dollar bill.

The man's method is well-known in this city and the police say he has tried it successfully several times. The clerk at Voehl's positively identified Marion as the stranger who had attempted the same trick in the store last year.

A clerk at Wirth's bakery, who was euchered out of $10 last winter, could not identify Marion, and the police were forced to let him go. He was escorted to the North Avenue station and put on the 2:14 train yesterday morning.

INFORMALLY ENTERTAINED.

It Was in Honor of Miss Susan Titsworth, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Titsworth, of West Seventh street, entertained a number of friends at their home, Saturday evening, in honor of Miss Susan Titsworth, of Milwaukee, Wis., who is their guest. Several hours were spent in a social way after which refreshments were served. Miss Titsworth is at present taking a post-graduate course in Columbia University.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed. Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

Funeral of John Scott.

The funeral service of John Scott was held at the home of his mother, Mrs. Martha Scott, of Fairchild's Alley, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock and at Calvary Baptist church at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Scott Wallace officiating. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Former Plainfielder Married.

The wedding of Miss Alice Louise Haskell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Haskell, to Henry Marion Hall took place Thursday at the Church of the Disciples in Boston, Mass. Mr. Hall is a son of Mr. and Mrs. David Prescott Hall, of Madison avenue.

Announcement of Engagement.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Lucy Clifton and James Arden, both of the West End. The wedding will take place in the near future.

DUNELLEN.

The Dunellen Literary Circle held an interesting meeting Saturday evening with Miss Rita Brokaw and the subject of famous places in Europe was pursued. Miss Rita Brokaw read an excellent paper on "Florence," Miss Weatherwax a paper on "Milan," Harry Boice a paper on "Florence" and Miss Whitenack a paper on Michael Angelo. After the programme of the evening was finished, a short business session was held and the following committees appointed: Programme, Mrs. W. H. Hamilton, Miss Ella Dunham and Miss Imogene Smith; Christmas, Mrs. Edmund Teel and Mrs. John Herbert. A meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. T. Titsworth, December 21, when a special programme will be presented.

Next Sunday will be the first anniversary of the pastorship of Rev. N. J. Sproul at the Presbyterian church and special services, at which the pastor will speak, will be held.

A. A. Parker was called suddenly Saturday to the bedside of his mother who lives in Worcester and who has been very ill for a long time. Mr. Parker left Saturday morning.

Peter Bowlby, of Hampton Junction, has taken up his residence with his son, Frank Bowlby, of the borough, and will reside with him in the future.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Ella Dunham.

Misses Minnie and Kate Dineen, of Brooklyn, spent Thanksgiving with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dineen, of the borough.

The small ponds in the vicinity of this place were all crowded Saturday with skaters eager to enjoy the first ice of the season.

The Dunellen Mandolin, Banjo and Guitar Club will meet this evening with Abner Coriell, Jr., for practice.

A cottage prayer meeting will be held Tuesday evening with Mrs. A. A. Lake. All are invited.

Miss Nancy Thomas has returned to Hacketstown where she attends school after a visit with Miss Janie Churchill.

The Romacker-Belline Co., magicians and entertainers, are billed for Dec. 4 in Apgar's Hall.

Dr. Benton, of Sterlingworth Sanitarium, has returned from a trip through Pennsylvania.

The Borough Council will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening in the borough hall.

Miss Mathena Bodine has been visiting at her home on Dunellen avenue for a short time.

Miss Mildred Titsworth is visiting her sister, Mrs. David Green, in Hartford, Conn.

Communion was held yesterday morning in the Presbyterian church.

Arthur Craig has resigned his position at the Central Railroad station.

Mass was said in St. John's church yesterday morning at 9 o'clock.

George Apgar, who broke his leg some time ago, is improving.

Miss Janie Churchill has been entertaining out-of-town friends.

Mrs. Charles Ross is entertaining her sister from Brooklyn.

Henry Vail is recovering from a several days' illness.

Edward Book visited relatives in Roselle Sunday.

NEW MARKET.

The annual union meeting of the Jr. O. U. A. M. and D. of L. Councils was held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Sunday evening, with a large attendance. Rev. L. E. Livermore and Frank Fletcher made addresses. A number of members from other councils were present.

Now is the time when the ordinance, prohibiting skating on ice, which is to be harvested, will be tested. It is not likely that much trouble will occur on the lake here as there is plenty of room for skating outside of the limits where ice is ordinarily cut.

The entertainment in the Seventh-Day Baptist church parlors, Saturday evening, was attended by a fair sized crowd. The entertainment consisted of musical selections, recitations and dialogues. A silver collection was taken up.

Dr. M. J. Whitford was confined to his home on Friday and Saturday by a severe attack of malaria.

Quite a large crowd was on the pond, Saturday afternoon, enjoying the skating.

Mrs. David Blackford was taken ill Saturday evening but is now much better.

Henry Elliot, of New York, visited friends in town yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The following cases have been heard in Judge's Clark: On complaint of John B. Anderson, Adolph Brandt was arraigned to plead to a charge of disorderly conduct, having broken a window glass in Mr. Anderson's hotel several days ago. Brandt was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs or thirty days in jail. The fine was paid. The contract case of Stocker against Ryno, the plaintiff not appearing, the case was dismissed with cost on the plaintiff.

The Union News Company's stand at the station was broken into again Friday night and several dollars worth of candy and tobacco taken. Several times during the last few months the stand has been burglarized but as yet no evidence has been secured. Although the stand is within a few feet of the station, the work has been done so quitely that the operator in charge of the station has not heard the thieves at their work.

The effort to organize a young men's club in town has partly failed. A meeting was called for Friday evening for the purpose of adding more subscriptions to the list. There had been raised $40, but this was not considered a sufficient sum to start with. As the balance was not raised, it was decided for the present to abandon the project and return what money had been collected.

The members of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., attended divine service last evening at the Methodist church. The council made a good showing, about twenty turning out. Rev. Mr. Beacom took for his subject, "A Goodly Heritage."

Rev. G. M. Shott, of the Baptist church, preached two powerful sermons yesterday, in the morning taking for his subject, "Christ's First Utterances From the Cross;" in the evening, "Perfect Righteousness."

No football game was played Saturday afternoon much to the sorrow of the boys in town. The manager of the Bayonne Field Club telegraphed at the last minute not to come as his team was unable to play.

The weekly meeting of the Baptist Young Peoples Society was held in the church parlors, last evening, subject, "Children of God."

School re-opened this morning after a short but enjoyable Thanksgiving vacation which was enjoyed by both teachers and pupils.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A school entertainment, given by the pupils of the New Market and South Plainfield schools, will be held in Washington Hall, Wednesday evening. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the ninth and tenth grades of the New Market school. The trustees of Washington Camp, No. 41, P. S. of A., will give the use of the hall to the schools free of charge.

A number of the boys of this town have clubbed together and purchased a foot ball. The result is shown by the manner in which they limp about the streets.

An endless chain letter system, for the benefit of the "heater" fund, is being put in circulation by some of the friends of the Baptist church.

Rev. J. H. Jones, of Bayonne, preached yesterday morning at the Bnptist church. Mr. Jones is a former resident of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred LaTourette, who are wintering in Jersey City, spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Peter LaTourette.

Albert Manning has returned home after a week's visis in Metuchen.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

STOLE AN OVERCOAT.

Burglars Were at Work on Berkeley Avenue Yesterday.

Burglars paid an early morning visit to the home of Frederick Smith, of 830 Berkeley avenue, yesterday, and appropriated a valuable overcoat. They were heard by Mr. Smith who frightened them off before anything further was taken.

Sergeant Frederickson and Patrolman Higgins investigated and tracked the men to Dog Tavern, where a Lehigh freight train was evidently taken. The men entered through the dining room window which had been left open.

Miss Alice Woodruff, of New York, returned home today after a pleasant visit at the home of her cousin, F. S. Cutter, of East Second street.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST HACKMEN

SUSPENDED FINES ARE NOW BEING IMPOSED IN CITY COURT.

Quartette Arraigned Before City Judge Runyon This Morning —Kennedy Fined.

Consternation spread among the local hackmen today, when it became noised about that the suspended fines for violations of the hack ordinance had commenced to be imposed. The first to pay $5 for the offense was Michael Kennedy who, with Cornelius Guinee, Edward Korman and Michael Higgins, was arraigned this morning on the old charge preferred by Patrolman Saffron.

All pleaded not guilty with the exception of Higgins. The charge was proved against Kennedy and Korman. As it was the first time the latter and Higgins had been arrested, the customary fine was hung over them, while Kennedy had been up before and the fine dropped.

Guinee claimed to be waiting for a friend who had notified him by letter that he was coming on the 3:35 train Saturday afternoon. He was given until tomorrow to produce the letter, including the envelope.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

In the matter of Vincent L. Frazee, Bankrupt, } In Bankruptcy.

By virtue of an order dated October eighth, A. D., nineteen hundred and one, notice is hereby given that the undersigned, trustee of the estate of Vincent L. Frazee, a bankrupt, has made a report as such and has been ordered to sell the property which is hereinafter briefly described, and that he will so sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder on the premises, 920 West Front street, in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey, on the SIXTEENTH DAY OF DECEMBER next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, subject to the lien now held by the estate of William H. Moore, deceased, and discharged of the lien now held by the Wilkinson Gaddis Company.

The following is a brief description of the property which will be offered for sale.

All that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a point in the northwesterly side line of West Front street, said point being two hundred feet southwesterly from a stone planted for a monument in said side line, said point also being seven hundred and ninety-nine and thirty-seven hundredths feet southwesterly from the intersection of the northwesterly side line of West Front street with the southwesterly side line of West End avenue; thence northwesterly along line of lot number nine (9) and along the rear line of lots number twenty-six (26) and twenty-five (25) and extending seventy-five feet beyond lot number twenty-five (25), three hundred and fifty feet to a point; thence southwesterly parallel with West Front street sixty feet to a point; thence southeasterly and parallel with the first course herein three hundred and fifty feet to a point in the northwesterly side line of West Front street; thence northeasterly along said side line of West Front street, sixty feet to a point and place of beginning. Including all of lot number eight (8) and parts of lots number seven (7), twenty-six (26) and twenty-five (25); and a small plot of ground seventy-five feet by sixty feet northwesterly and adjacent to lot number twenty-five (25) as shown on "Map of West End Park, City of Plainfield, N. J., property of Moore and Rocap," said map now on file in the Union County Clerk's office. Together with the land in front of the same to the middle of West Front street subject to the easement of the public therein as a public highway. This covenant to run with the land.

The terms of the said sale will be as follows: The sum of ten per cent of the amount bid to be paid, the balance upon confirmation of the sale by the referee, the trustee reserving the right to reject any or all bids. Dated. Plainfield, N. J., the twenty-ninth day of November, A. D., nineteen hundred and one.

A PRO-BOER MEETING.

British Policy Denounced and End of Empire Predicted.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 2.—Four thousand Boer sympathizers attended a meeting in Light Guard armory yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the local Transvaal league and applauded the anti-British sentiments of Commandant Jan Krige, who served under General Botha, and Congressman J. J. Lentz of Ohio. Resolutions denouncing the policy of this government in allowing the exportation of horses and mules to the British in South Africa, denouncing the detention in reconcentrado camps of Boer women and children and extending sympathy to the Boers now in the field were unanimously adopted and will be sent to President Roosevelt with the request that he offer the friendly mediation of this country to the combatants.

Commandant Krige said:

"The British must now fight to the end, for if they give in the people in little India will say that they are tired of British rule and want their independence. Then Australia will be next to demand her liberty, and I believe now that the Boers' fight for freedom is but the stepping stone to the freedom of other British colonies. As surely as the South African war killed the great old queen just so surely will the South African war sound the deathknell of the British empire."

Bandits in an Ohio Town.

ALLIANCE, O., Dec. 2.—Three desperadoes gave a display of wild west tactics here yesterday when they entered two houses, held up the inmates, held up seven persons on the street and finally stole a horse and buggy, with which they made their escape. The home of Mrs. Margaret Teeters was the first entered, where she and her son Carl were robbed of their jewelry and $20. While one of the three guarded the Teeters home two others entered the home of ex-Senator Silas J. Williams, but got nothing. They next tried to enter a saloon, but were met at the door by Lawrence Cavanaugh, who, though covered by revolvers, shouted for help. Six young men who ran to Cavanaugh's assistance were covered by the revolvers of the highwaymen and made to give up what valuables they possessed. The trio then jumped into a carriage stolen from a livery and got away.

Embassador Tower's Experience.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 2.—Mr. Charlemagne Tower, embassador of the United States, is preparing to give up his house within the next few days and will probably live in the Hotel de l'Europe during the remainder of his service here. He has had the usual experience of an American diplomatic representative abroad. The greater part of the first year he was here was spent looking for a suitable house. He was finally able on payment of a rental which alone represented a large part of his salary to secure a house for two years. The remainder of the year witnessed the outfitting of the house. At the end of two years the house owner announced the lease would not be extended except upon an increased rental amounting to several thousand dollars.

Man Who Threatened Roosevelt Held

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—A. H. Mueller, the man arrested Saturday evening at Broad and Chestnut streets, charged with having declared that President Roosevelt should be served the same as was McKinley, was held in $800 bail for disturbing the peace. At the hearing before Magistrate Kochersperger at the city hall Mueller had nothing to say beyond declaring that he was not responsible on Saturday for using the words imputed to him. Mueller was arrested on complaint of F. T. Tobin, who claimed to have heard him use the threatening language in the Hotel Lafayette at the time the president was looking at the football game in West Philadelphia.

Would Release Mrs. Maybrick.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 2.—Former Canadians resident in American cities are again active in their efforts to have Mrs. Maybrick released from her English prison. A petition is being drawn up by a Cleveland lawyer, and copies of it will be sent along the cities bordering on the great lakes. Copies will also be sent to the mayors of Montreal and Toronto. The petition will ultimately go to the king of England and the English premier. The present is considered opportune for an appeal to his majesty for clemency by the Canadians because of the gallant work of Canadian soldiers in the Boer war.

Boer Strength Accounted For.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Pretoria gives indication why, with continuous capture, the Boer forces do not seem to diminish. The dispatch says the Boers are constantly escaping from the concentration camps and towns to rejoin the fighting forces and that measures will have to be taken to stop this leakage. The Boers in the towns are still irreconcilable, says the dispatch, and believe their cause will eventually triumph.

A Burns Relic.

There has come to light in one of the auction rooms an interesting relic of Robert Burns. It is described by the Scotsman as an ordinary businesslike tumbler inclosed in an oak case lined with velvet and secured by a Brahmin key. The tumbler has engraved on it the following inscription: "This glass, once the property of Robert Burns, was presented by the poet's widow to James Robinson, Esqre., and given by his widow to her son-in-law, Major James Glencairn Burns, 1840." The James Robinson to whom Jean Armour gave the relic was a Sunderland gentleman, who became by marriage connected with the Burns family. The box is made from one of the piles of old London bridge, with some lighter pieces of oak, relics of the Royal George.—London Globe.

The wife of a well-known contractor and builder in a town of Northern New Hampshire has for several years suffered from gall stones, and at the time of the passage of one of these she experienced such intense pain that it would generally cause her to take to her bed and remain there sometimes from twenty-four to forty-eight hours. She had taken Ripans Tabules for a stomach trouble and was surprised to note that a Tabule, taken at the time of an approaching paroxysm with the gall stones, lessened the pain. As time went on, and she learned to apply them in season, she found most surprising relief, and her husband lately said: "If it had not been for Ripans Tabules I do not believe she would be alive to-day." He is very careful, indeed, to see to it that the supply of Tabules is never allowed to run low.

When this testimonial was shown to the lady, it having been taken down from her reported sayings, she said the only suggestion she could make regarding it was that it did not give the severity of her case in strong enough terms nor sufficiently express the almost immediate relief she derived from the use of the Tabules. Her husband said he had always been haunted with the fear that for some reason the manufacture of the Tabules might be suspended, because he feels confident he shall never be able to find anything that will take their place.

WANTED:—A case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R·I·P·A·N·S on the package and accept no substitute. R·I·P·A·N·S, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded for sixty-five cents (Chemical Co., 59, in Spruce St., New York.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—Yours truly, R. O. RUNYON, 629 LaGrande Ave.

DAY AND EVENING WRAPS.

How to Have Them Made and Trimmed.

The variations in winter coats are almost endless. The most popular shapes are the three-quarter sack coat, the Eton, the bolero, the Russian blouse and the long overall wrap. Capes are not fashionable except for carriage wear. They come under the head of wraps.

Cloth coats are shown in the double and triple highwayman capes, and these are pretty when edged with narrow bands of fur or fanciful velvet applications. Opera coats of delicately hued cloth have wide sleeves and spreading collars trimmed with sable or embroidery. Many white coats are trimmed with black or brown fur, which gives a very striking effect.

A very striking coat, which may be used both for day and evening wear, is made of tucked taffeta or striped silk, the tucks and stripes being placed horizontally. Broad panels of black panne run perpendicularly down the body of the coat and the sleeves. The latter end in pointed effects, as do the panels on the skirt. There is a wide, square collar to give width to the shoulders. A narrow line of ecru applique relieves the severity of the front. The coat is lined throughout with flowered satin.

The picture hat is of tucked taffeta and panne. JUDIC CHOLLET.

DRESS TRIFLES.

Elaborate Buttons Appear on Many of the Smartest Gowns.

Buttons are more stylish than ever. They appear on both dressy and ordinary gowns and even on hats. On fur garments they are made of the same or contrasting fur. On lighter costumes they are of velvet, plain and pompadour ribbons, embroideries and of both fine and coarse lace. The popular fancy runs rather to decorative effects than to stones and metals.

For evening wear jet has come into great favor not only on black, but even on dresses of the purest white. Beautiful gowns of cream lace are appliqued with jet tabs and ornaments so disposed as to give a careless effect. Narrow black velvet ribbons appear on nearly every gown.

Pure white is almost always unbecoming to a young girl of immature figure. Cream is her color. All sayings to the contrary, white should only be worn by women of irreproachable figure and striking complexions.

A dainty party dress for a little girl is made of pale blue crepe de chine. The skirt is made with a slightly gathered ruffle headed by two narrow insertions, the ruffle itself being edged with three of these insertions. The waist is laid in alternate tuckings and insertions placed horizontally. The sleeves are carried out likewise. They end at the elbows with full ruffles. The collarless neck is finished by a fancifully pointed yoke of insertion and tucking. The girdle is of pale blue satin ribbon, and there is a smart bow of it on the left shoulder.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Trouble on the Torolito.

BY FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright, 1898, by Francis Lynde.)

CHAPTER I.

ANGUS THE FIRST.

It was a crystalline evening of a sort unpaintable in any poor word-pigments of mine; an evening vibrant with the harmonies of the altitudes, unspeakable for me, and altogether indescribable to any who have never looked upon the soul-quelling glories of a Colorado mountain sunset. Macpherson had propped me with two bear-skins and a spare poncho on the squared log which served as a door-stone for the ranch house, and had given me the field-glass wherewith to amuse myself. It was my first sane glimpse of the sheltered upland valley watered by the Torolito. Three days before, when Macpherson had brought me up from Fort Cowan swathed in blankets and lashed lengthwise on his buckboard, I had been too ill to know or care greatly about the whence or whither.

It was a stockman's paradise, the park-like little valley shut in by lofty mountains, and from the heaving swell crested by the ranch buildings and corral the metes and bounds of Macpherson's small kingdom were well within eye-sweep. Eastward, no more than a rifle-shot from the home ranch, a black gash in Gringo mountain marked the portal of Six-Mile canyon, the only gateway to the paradise; and from thence the inclosing ranges diverged to meet again in the snow-coifed summit of Jim's peak at the head of the valley. The "X-bar-Z" men, with the exception of the mild-mannered desperado who cooked for us, were still out; and Macpherson sat beside me, naming the mightinesses in their order, and pointing them out with the stem of his black kitty pipe. When I lowered the field-glass in sheer weariness, he told me about the single fly in his pot of ointment.

Now it may chance that when one has given hostages to death, panoramic sunsets and friendly confidences may become alike mere flotsam and jetsam on the ebbing tideway of time; but Macpherson was too good a fellow to be flouted in his time of asking. Wherefore, when he had made an end, I was fain to put a little life, galvanic or otherwise, into the moribund body of human interest.

"Then you think this land company will ultimately drive you out of the Torolito?" said I.

"Sure. It's only a question of time if the syndicate once gets hold. The stock-raiser is, like the Indian; he must move on when the farmer comes."

"The relentless march of civilization, and all that, eh?" quoth I, lying in wait to spring upon him.

"Yes; it's the survival of the fittest, I suppose."

A near-hand view of eternity is subversive of many theories, and I lashed out in fine scorn.

"What an infernal lot of cant we can swallow when it's sugar-coated with the ipse dixit of the theorists! Why don't you call things by their right names and say that when the strong man comes, the weak have to give him the wall? You drove up here five years ago when everybody said that the first winter in this altitude would cost you every hoof you owned. You proved the contrary; and now, when you've set up your little kingdom in one of the waste places of the earth, a lot of capitalists come along and invite you to abdicate. I'd see them hanged first!"

Macpherson made a dumb show of applause. He was a latter-day recrudescence of the physically-fit heroes of the Homeric age, with square shoulders and legs like posts; a man who can bend nails in his bare hands, and who has never found the bottom of his well of strength; but he has laughing brown eyes with a womanish tenderness in them—eyes that may glow with righteous indignation, but which know not vindictiveness.

"Oh, you be damned," he said, affectionately. "What would you do?"

"I'd be governed by circumstances and fight for my own to the last gasp. You can do that as well as another, can't you?"

He took time to think about it. "I don't know. If Selter would stand by me—"

"Who is Selter?" As I have said, it was only my third day in the Torolito, and the first two had been spent in the spare bunk of the ranch house.

"I'll have to begin back a bit to account for him. Three years ago a rattletrap of a prairie schooner—but say; you're sick, and I don't want to bore you with folk-lore."

"Go on; I'm three planetary orbits beyond the boring point."

"Are you? Well, as I was going to say, a shackly old schooner drifted up Six-Mile canyon and into the park. Jake Selter was its skipper, and the crew consisted of a wife, a half-grown daughter, and a flock of little ones. They were homesteaders looking for a bit of prairie with a stream convenient which could be dammed and ditched, and the old man drove up to ask me what I thought of the Torolito from the point of view of potatoes and the small grains."

Now I submit that anyone save Angus Macpherson would have divined at once that this was the entering edge of a wedge which would ultimately split him in twain, and I said as much.

"You should have told him the altitude was prohibitory, but I suppose you didn't."

Macpherson grinned. "No; I have my weaknesses, same as other people. I was the king of the Torolito, as you have remarked, but I had only the 'X-bar-Z' men for subjects and I was lonesome for a sight of women and children. You don't know what that means now, but you may, sometime. I piloted the schooner to the head of the valley, helped Selter stake up his claim, took the boys up one day and knocked him up a cabin, and another and built him a dam, and there he was, a fixture."

"Of course. Go on."

"Well, the potatoes were a success. That summer, Selter got word to some of his old neighbors in Tennessee, and more prairie schooners came up Six-Mile. We built a bigger dam and dug a longer ditch; and in the course of time the settlement at Valley Head named itself and built a schoolhouse."

The crimson and gold in the sky-fire over the shoulder of Jim's peak faded to fawndun and ashes of roses, and I waited for Macpherson to drive on. When it became evident that he had stopped at the schoolhouse, I gave a tug at the halter.

"That accounts for Selter; but you haven't told me how he figures in the syndicate matter. I should think he and his neighbors would be a unit with you in trying to keep the land-grabbers out."

"You would think so. They'll be between the upper and nether millstones if the big company ever gets control of the water. But human nature is pretty much the same the world over—short-sighted and easily fooled. The promoters tell the settlers that the big ditch will jump their land from nothing to $100 an acre, and so it would if they could contrive to hold on to their own water-right."

"Why can't they?" I had been born and reared in a land where the former and the latter rains fail not, and irrigation is unknown.

"Because the syndicate is too sharp to take chances. It must control the water absolutely and exclusively in order to make the scheme successful. As the first homesteader to prove up on his claim, Selter has the prior right to the water, much or little,—owns the present ditch, in fact, in fee simple. So long as he stands in the way, the money-people will do nothing but talk; but I'm afraid they're talking to some purpose. If Selter sells, that settles it."

"Can't you buy him out and hold the whip in your own hands?"

"I thought I could at one time, but latterly he's been dodging me; just why, I don't know."

"Perhaps the syndicate has overbid you."

"I've thought of that; but in that case you'd think Selter would whip-saw back and forth between us. He is an avaricious old sinner."

I remembered the half-grown daughter—whole-grown, doubtless, by this time—and looked askance at the handsome young athlete whose guest I was. "Family coolness all around?" I queried, feeling my way.

Macpherson was bronzed and sunburned like any son of the wilderness, but I saw the red blood go to his face.

"Blest if I don't believe you've hit it. Since the school-ma'am came—but that's another story."

"Out with it," said I. "Dead men tell no tales, and I'm as good as dead, you know."

The half jest went nearer to the loving heart of him than I meant it should.

SAVED THE LAUNCH.

How Mrs. Joseph Peno Proved Herself a Real Heroine.

At the Helm of a Frail Gasoline Craft She Battled for Hours with a Most Furious Storm on Lake Ontario.

For four hours Mrs. Joseph Peno stood at the helm of the little gasoline launch May and battled with the most furious storm that has raged over Lake Ontario for years.

The nerve and coolness of Mrs. Peno saved not only her own life but that of her husband and her two little daughters, Mary and Agnes. Time and again the waves swept over the little boat, and sometimes the wind seemed to lift it clear out of the water.

If the sea had caught the launch on its beam a single time the little vessel would have been capsized and neither the Peno family nor their boat would ever have been heard of again. But not once did the merciless waves catch Mrs. Peno off her guard. Every time they swept down upon the little boat Mrs. Peno with a quick, sure twist of the wheel would head the launch up into the sea and meet the waves bow on. Peno was obliged to remain all the time over the tiny engine of the launch keeping the machinery moving without a moment's stop.

Peno, his wife and two daughters, says the Chicago Tribune, had been spending their vacation at the Thousand Islands camping. When they decided to return home Peno planned to go alone in the launch, taking the camping outfit and the tents. The lake was so smooth and the weather so good on the day that Peno was to start that Mrs. Peno decided not to go home with her daughters by rail but to make the trip in the launch. It was a beautiful run up the St. Lawrence river and along the shores of the lake until Lake View was reached.

Off this point a black squall, the same one that piled a number of good, stanch ships on the rocks before its fury had abated, broke over the little launch. The children were made to lie down in the bottom of the boat so that they could not be washed overboard. Then Peno sprang to his engine and Mrs. Peno took the wheel.

The engine of the launch had been constructed for cruising up and down tiny lakes and smooth rivers, and not for bucking against a black squall in Lake Ontario, and Peno could not take his attention from the machinery for a second for fear that some break would occur and the launch would lose headway or fail to respond to the rudder and let the boat swing about so that the seas could strike it abeam. The howling of the storm prevented his shouting any orders to his wife and she had to handle the wheel as her best judgment dictated.

The launch was not far off shore when the storm broke, but it was a lee shore, on which the waves broke with tremendous fury. To have gone too near the coast during the squall would mean the instant demolition of the little craft on the rocky reefs. So Mrs. Peno of her own volition headed the launch squarely out to sea. Whenever possible she would head the boat for Fort Ontario Hill, where there is a river, into which Mrs. Peno planned to run the boat and find safety. Every few minutes, however, she would have to put the helm hard down to meet some mighty wave that would come tumbling down on the devoted little craft. Finally the boat reached the point where the rushing current of the river met the surging waves and where the two during a squall fight a fierce battle. Into this maelstrom the little launch boldly plunged. For a time it seemed that nothing could save the boat, but in some way it fought its way through and gained the smooth water of the river inside the land.

Mrs. Peno, in speaking of her experience, said: "I have often wondered why it was that so many schooners and steamers have been so close to port and then wrecked under the Fort Ontario hill. I shall not wonder again. The meeting place of river current and lake waves is a boiling caldron. The wheel struggled in my hands like a living thing. Sometimes I felt as though my arms were being pulled from my body. I breathed a farewell to my children and husband.

"Every moment I expected the launch to capsize. At the worst moment little Agnes crawled up to me and shouted: 'Mamma, I have been praying to God to quiet the storm. I know He has heard me.'"

Going Out Of The Retail Business.

$20,000 Stock of Clothing and Furnishing Goods to be sacrificed at the Star Clothing Co., 207 W. Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

BRIDGE WRECKED.

Shifting of Load Caused Accident Near Bound Brook.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Dec. 2.—An accident happened on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, a mile east of this place, at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, which resulted in the partial wrecking of the big iron bridge which spans the Middlebrook. A heavily loaded freight train, east bound, carrying structural iron work, caused the accident.

In some way this iron work was shifted from its position and projected over the side of the cars. When the bridge was reached there was a collision and one of the strong uprights on the bridge was damaged to such an extent that the bridge sagged.

This wrecked a number of cars and traffic was blocked for several hours. Trains on the Philadelphia and Reading were run over the Lehigh Valley road between this place and Port Reading Junction.

Trip Around the World.

DEATH OF MRS. HUMBLE.

Passed Away After a Life of Nearly Four-Score and Ten.

Mrs. Ann Humble died at the home of her son, Joseph Humble, Sunday morning. Weakness due to her advanced years caused her death.

She was born in London, 1804. She removed to Washington Valley in 1868, when her husband died. The only child surviving is Joseph Humble, Mrs. Henrietta Moore, of Duer street, being a step-daughter. Mrs. Humble was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

The funeral services will be held at the house, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Charles E. Herring and Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, officiating. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

URGENT APPEAL.

Donations Wanted for Christmas Festival at New York Mission.

At the anniversary exercises of the Endeavor Society in the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday evening, Miss Florence G. Hawkins, as president of the Local Union, made an earnest appeal in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Dosseri, the mission workers in New York.

The Christmas festival will be held at the mission in New York December 26, and there is an urgent demand for dressed dolls for the children, as well as clothing, shoes, etc. Anyone having such things to contribute can send them to Miss Hawkins at her home on LaGrande avenue, or to Mrs. William Wilson, of Grandview avenue.

Prize for a Raffle.

A handsome white enameled mantle piece has been contributed to the West End Hose Company's fair committee and will be raffled off at the fair, which will be held in Saengerbund Hall this week. The donors are L. Cronk & Son, of New Brunswick.

Three New Members.

Antietam Command, Union Veterans' Union, will muster in three members at its regular meeting Wednesday evening. At the conclusion of the business session an informal programme will be rendered.

Five Church Members.

Five persons united with Trinity Reformed church at the communion service yesterday morning, three by letter and two on confession of faith. There was a large congregation present.

The new Johnson trolley line between Princeton and Trenton is now in operation. It is eleven miles long.

Big Contracts.

Among the many contracts that Woodhull & Martin have secured recently, has been the furnishing of large lots of crockery and china for the Park Club, Trinity Reformed church and Gesang and Turn Verein.

Henry Clay Randolph, the father-in-law of C. Frank French, of Craig place, is improving from a serious attack of bronchitis. He is now staying with his cousin, Charles Randolph, near Bound Brook.

TROLLEY MUST MEND ITS WAYS AT ONCE

Common Council Notifies the Company That Franchise May be Revoked.

FAILED IN AGREEMENT

LOTS OF KICKS WERE MADE AGAINST THE DOG TAX.

Trolley Company Will Lose Franchise if Service Isn't Immediately Improved—Contract for Printing Ordinances.

The local trolley company must mend its ways. So the Common Council decided at its regular monthly meeting last evening. Besides this action, the councilmen managed to look after considerable other business of more or less importance.

There were many petitions from taxpayers who claim that they do not now own a dog or never had one on their premises. Among those who protested against a dog tax were William Albert, Charles Jaeger, John Taylor, L. E. Cadwell and E. T. New kirk. The latter gave a lengthy review of his case. All of these petitions were referred to the finance committee.

Included among the other petitions was one from Nelson and Wm. N. Runyon, counsel for George O. Stevens, assignee for F. W. Jones. The latter has sold his saloon at 125 and 127 North avenue to A. B. Rosell, and the petitioners asked that the license be transferred to him. This was agreed to after the payment of the usual fee of $25.

Another petition was received from L. B. Woolston, who purchased the Naylor paint works on Rock avenue, some time ago. He claimed that he had paid the tax and asked for the refunding of $38.65 a personal tax, which he does not owe. Arthur L. Otterson, of 940 Central avenue, asked the Council to remit his taxes for the present year as he lived in New York and paid his personal and poll tax there for 1901.

J. T. Case, formerly of this city, but now of New York, replied to the receipt of a tax bill by stating that he does not now own any taxable property in this city. He forwarded $1 to pay his poll tax.

Patrick Plunkitt, of Jersey City, who has the contract for the extension of the sewer work in this city, asked for an extension of time on the ground that he could not get his pipe in time to complete the contract at the specified time. He asked that the time be extended to May 24. The request was granted. All of the other petitions were referred to the finance committee.

An official statement of the result of the November election was received and filed. Upon a motion of Mr. vanHerwerden the question regarding the payment of the election bills was referred to Corporation Counsel Marsh for an opinion. Mayor Jenkins appointed Sydney E. Frazee as a full-paid fireman to take the place in the department formerly held by Frank Day, who resigned. The appointment was confirmed.

Corporation Counsel Marsh presented his report concerning certain matters referred to him. Regarding the case of a mortgage of a piece of property formerly owned by J. E. Martin, and who believed that he held a prior right to the city, who had purchased the property at a Martin Act sale, Mr. Marsh's opinion was that the city held the prior right. Regarding the petition of Robert L. Marcley, who wants damages for the killing of his chickens by dogs, Mr. Marsh held that Mr. Marcley has no claims against the city. In the case of James B. Guttridge, who asked for tax exemption on the ground of being an exempt fireman, it was stated that he was not entitled to the exemption.

Collector of Taxes F. H. Smith reported that no tax warrants were issued last month, but thirty-five from the previous month were returned. The collections amounted to $524.55. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that twenty-one permits were granted during November.

Mr. vanHerwerden offered a resolution, subsequently passed, which called for the issuance of a warrant for $54,598.25, to pay the Plainfield's share of the county and school tax. Another resolution by the same member provided for the borrowing of $4,000 for sewerage improvements, the same to be secured by notes.

PAY OR GO TO JAIL.

Drastic Measures Being Taken to Collect Delinquent Taxes.

City Collector Frank Smith has commenced warfare against delinquent taxpayers who have allowed his warnings to pay up to go unheeded. Yesterday he made up a batch of five warrants for the arrest of some of the most tardy ones, which have been placed in the hands of Constable Mattox to serve.

The delinquents are allowed no hearing in this city. Unless payment is made when the warrant is served, is served, they are escorted to the county jail. There are many slow payers on the waiting list, and they will be dealt with as soon as convenient.

TO ACCOMMODATE ALL.

Public Will Be Given Opportunity to Attend Dress Rehearsal.

In view of the fact that the Y. M. C. A. Hall is practically sold for Thursday evening, when the cantata of "Queen Esther" will be given for the benefit of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, those in charge are anxious that all who can should see the performance. This opportunity will be afforded tomorrow evening at the dress rehearsal, at prices noted in the advertisement. Those holding tickets for Thursday evening are requested to be on hand early to select seats.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE.

House on Caffrey Estate, Westfield, Burned to the Ground.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, December 3.—A house located on Central avenue, on what is known as the Caffrey estate, caught fire in a mysterious manner, Saturday evening, and was burned to the ground. The building was occupied by Robert L. Crickenburger, whose family was away at the time. He lost $500 worth of furniture which was insured for $400. The loss on the house is $2,000, not insured.

MET IN COLLISION.

Boy on Bicycle Had Worst of the Encounter.

A boy on a bicycle, dragging a small two wheeled cart used for delivering orders, collided yesterday morning with a carriage belonging to O. T. Waring and driven by Edward Marcellus. The boy had a narrow escape from injury, being dragged for some distance before Marcellus brought his horse to a stop. The cart was wrecked and one wheel of the carriage was badly damaged.

Surprised on Fifth Birthday.

A pleasant surprise party was given to Charles Beckman, of 303 East Second street, Saturday afternoon, when the little fellow celebrated the fifth anniversary of his birthday. The affair was arrainged by his mother. There were fourteen young folks present. The afternoon was spent in playing games, after which refreshments were served.

Meeting of City Union.

The semi-annual meeting of the City Union, King's Daughters, will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Thursday afternoon next at 3 o'clock. Mrs. I. C. Davis, of the Central Council of the International Order of King's Daughters and Sons, will make an address.

Work in Oklahoma.

The regular meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. E. B Horton, who has just returned from visiting the Indian Mission in Oklahoma, will speak. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Balance on Hand.

The encampment committee of Antietam Command, Union Veterans' Union, met Saturday evening and settled all accounts. A balance of $35 remains in the committee's hands and will be turned over to the command's treasurer, Wednesday evening.

To Wed New Year's Day.

The marriage of Miss Ella Taylor Trimmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Trimmer, to William Wyman, of West Fourth street, will take place at the home of the bride's parents, on West Front street, Wednesday evening, January 1, at 7 o'clock.

TOURED MANY LANDS IN SINGLE EVENING

Altogether Remarkable Trip Arranged by Societies of First M. E. Church.

TO FOUR COUNTRIES.

BRIEF GLIMPSE OF HOLLAND, INDIA, JAPAN AND AMERICA.

Each Was Found at a Different Residence and the Guests Were Transferred in Stages and Furniture Vans.

It was a "Trip Around the World" conducted on decidedly novel lines, that left Vincent chapel, last evening, under the combined auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society and the Young Ladies Mission Band, of the First M. E. church. Four stops were made and the tourists were given brief glimpses of life in Holland, India, Japan and the United States.

The would-be travellers assembled at the chapel where First Assistant Passenger Agent Harry Gee, of this truly remarkable transportation system, sold the tickets and started the travellers on their way for Holland, the first stopping place. Two stages and a furniture van were utilized as means of transportation. General Passenger Agent Samuel Bingaman was on duty all along the line.

At the home of Mrs. P. S. Dyer, of 519 Central avenue, a bevy of Dutch maidens in the parlor of a home in Holland and fed their guests on brown bread, cheese and cocoa in a Dutch kitchen. There was a large display of old curios including old furniture, crockery and counterpanes. Mrs. P. S. Dyer impersonated the Dutch frau while becomingly costumed in appropriate fashion were her assistants, the Misses Persis Snodgrass, Lillian Snodgrass, Daisy Randolph, Blanche Randolph, Stephanie Krom, Edith Dyer, Alma Dyer and Eleanor Dyer. George A. Horne served as tourist agent.

Next the travellers were transported to the home of G. M. Rittenhouse, 44 Sandford avenue, where the lower floor had been transformed into a bit of India. Miss Bertha Whitney and Miss Susie Davies, gowned in real Hindoo costume, received the visitors in the reception room which was an Oriental den for the time being. Mrs. John M. Lewis was the chairman of the committee in charge and she was assisted by Mrs. G. M. Rittenhouse, Mrs. C. C. Cokefair, Mrs. I. M. Courser, and the Misses Elizabeth Stafford, Carrie Mulford and Humble. Miss Frances Rittenhouse, in the garb of that land, assisted in serving.

In addition to the profuse decorations which covered the walls, a novelty was provided in two "cooleys," N. A. Miller and Wilson Derby, who fanned the guests while they partook of tea and cake. G. M. Rittenhouse, Jr., and Ralph Bingaman alternated in the duties of tourist agent.

It was quite a voyage that brought the travellers to Japan, located at the home of J. C. Peck, 34 Myrtle avenue. Very striking, indeed, was the whole effect. The walls were hidden by paper and bamboo screens while several hundred lanterns and small parasols were used in decoration. Bamboo curtains were at the doorways.

Mrs. Harry Gee, chairman, and Mrs. J. C. Peck, both in Japanese costume, received the guests who were promptly served with tea, poured by Mrs. Arthur Crone, Miss Bessie Valiant, Miss Edna French and Miss Elsie Horne, and served by two dear little "geisha girls," the Misses Margaret Townsend and Gladys Peck. Herbert Dyer and F. Roland Horne were the sober faced mandarins. Arthur Crone served as tourist agent.

Then back to the United States for which the beautiful home of James R. Joy, 80 Myrtle avenue, was utilized. The American flag was used profusely and formed the only deocration. In evening garb, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Joy, Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. French, Mrs. Henry A. McGee and Miss Harriet French were ready to receive the visitors and supply them with refreshments, lemonade and wafers. William Symons was the tourist agent while Clarence Mills appeared in all the glory of "Uncle Sam."

The whole affair was arranged under the supervision of a committee consisting of Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. Harry Gee, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass and Mrs. L. M. French. The Young Ladies Mission Circle provided the assistants at the different houses.

The attractiveness of all the houses and the novelty of the affair attracted many and a goodly crowd made the trip during the evening. It was not as large as it would have been had the nature of the affair been generally understood.

PREPARING TO PREVENT SPREAD OF SMALLPOX

City Board of Education Wants Children Attending School Vaccinated.

SUBJECT WAS DISCUSSED

CAME UP AT MONTHLY MEETING OF THE BOARD.

There Was Little Else of Special Interest Done at the Meeting—Defective Wiring Reported in Irving School.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education, held last evening, was devoid of special business, only matters of a routine nature being transacted. All the members were present with the exception of Mr. Lounsbury.

Tax Collector Smith's report showed a total of $41,563.94 collected during the month and deposited to the credit of the board. The custodian of school moneys reported the receipts for the month to have been $53,030.24 and the disbursements $8,143.46, leaving a balance of $44,886.86. According to the medical inspectors, seventy-six pupils were examined during the past thirty days. Superintendent Maxson reported the receipt of $13 from the Irving school library account.

Mr. Maxson also reported having received a bill of $105 from the Dunellen Board of Education for the tuition of seventeen Plainfield pupils living near the city line. In looking into this matter, he said, he had found that of these pupils, eight were in low grades and the remainder in the upper departments. These latter, he said, were old enough to walk to the nearest Plainfield school and he recommended that they be compelled to do so. By their transfer the local board would save $200 a year. On motion of Mr. Lovell the bill was ordered paid but the clerk was instructed to inform the Dunellen board that after January 17, when the half year is completed, the older pupils be sent to the Irving school.

A resolution passed by the Board of Health at a recent meeting, asking that the principals of the various schools prepare a list of the vaccinated and unvaccinated children for reference in the event of a small pox epidemic, was read and approved. It was further ordered that where pupils were found unvaccinated the parents be notified that it must be done at once.

A communication was read from the insurance company holding the policy on the Irving school, in which it declared an inspector had examined the electric light wiring of the building and found it defective and a menace to the safety of the children. The appliances used in wiring, the inspector found, were those used ten years ago and which are now condemned by all insurance underwriters. The company suggested that the matter be attended to at once. On motion of Mr. Lovell it was ordered that specifications be prepared and bids asked for the complete re-wiring of the school.

After an informal discussion on the new school law, the meeting was adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

DEATH OF REV. MR. BRISTOL.

Funeral Today at His Charge in Hartford, Conn.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Rev. Cornelius G. Bristol, rector of the Church of the Good Shepard, at Hartford, Conn. He died Saturday following an illness of two weeks. Eleven years ago he married Miss Caroline Lowrie, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Lowrie, of Park avenue. She and two children survive him. The funeral services were held today at Hartford. Interment took place in the native town of the deceased at Milford, Conn.

Missionary Exercises.

A missionary exercise, entitled, "Ye are the Light of the World," will be given by the Junior Endeavor Society of the Congregational church, at the church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

WEST END COMPANY BEGINS WEEK'S FAIR

Many Attracted to Saengerbund Hall Last Evening for the Opening Night.

THOSE IN COMMAND.

DANCING AND SKETCHES FORMED LAST EVENING'S PROGRAMME.

Different Programme on for Every Evening—A Number of Contests Have Been Started—The Various Committees.

The West End Hose Company, of North Plainfield, is gathering in the coin in Saengerbund Hall. Last evening, its week's fair opened under favorable auspices and there are lots of attractions, which induce the visitor to part with the odd nickle and dime. Many things of useful nature are on sale, many contests are being fought for prizes and forms of entertainment are given.

Dancing was the particular attraction last evening, the music being furnished by Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra. Between the dances, Anderson and Cuff amused the crowd with sketches and the like. They played the mandolin and guitar.

This evening Madam Menzeli Bartlett will conduct a Japanese Tea Party, in which a lot of young people will figure. The hall is well decorated and no little amount of time has been spent in adorning the various booths scattered around the hall.

Those in charge of the fancy work department include the Misses Mamie Keller, Nellie Gunning, Edith Kreutzfell and Gussie Korman. Mrs. Lewis Bimble and Mrs. Herman Klinsman are in charge of the crockery booth, while Mr. Charles Keller conducts the sales at the grocery counter. Candy is sold by the Misses Lena Bremmer and Annie Feiring and Mrs. William Mills, and Mrs. Frank Keller. Peter Stram and George Giddis sell the soft drinks.

Down stairs the "Babies," which travel with the show, are in charge of Frank Perry. In a contest between Mrs. Herman Klinsman and Mrs. Charles Keller, the former won having raised $250, which represents cash and goods, towards the affair, while the latter secured $20 the same way.

Among the contests for the week are: For a bicycle, Albert Perry, Frank Dean and William Hardy; for a drum, George Perry, Charles Bimble, and Herman Klinsman, Jr.; for a gun, William Gaub, Fred Bimble, Wesley Gartwaith, Fred Keating and Louis Hansen; for a gold watch, the Misses Maggie Kiely and Mary Kliner; for a diamond ring, the Misses Lillie Bremmer and Nettie Deam; for a rubber coat, all the members of the company; for a pair of rubber boots, all the members of the company.

Frank Keller is floor manager and Dennis Begley is his assistant. Gus Feiring acts as cashier and Charles Grader is in charge of the cloak room. The doorman is J. H. Higgins.

REMARKABLE SUCCESS.

Which Has Met "The Brixton Burglary" Since It Was First Given.

"The Brixton Burglary," most successful of all English farce comedies seen in this country, will be the first dramatic attraction offered by Manager Maze Edwards at the Casino Saturday, December 14, with matinee the same day.

When this play was produced in London, Charles Frohman and S. S. Shubert, of the Herald Square Theatre, New York, made the author propositions for its American producing rights. Mr. Shubert gained the exclusive right and selected an exceptionally strong company which included the best comedians available in this country. The comedy was produced for the first time at the Herald Square Theatre May 20. Its success was somewhat spectacular inasmuch as it remained as it remained at this theatre long after most of the other theatres had closed, owing to the extremely warm weather of June and July. The theatre was filled nightly, and it was conceded to be the most emphatic comedy success of the entire year.

Booming the Interest.

In an effort to revive an interest in the Excempt Fiemen's Association the members at a meeting held last evening, decided to hold a smoker and entertainment the evening of January 6. The arrangements for the affair will be looked after by President L. E. Barkalew and the trustees.

DR. COX'S WEDDING.

Those Who Will Make Up the Bridal Party.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Mabel L. Judson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Judson, of Brooklyn, to Dr. Roland Cox, of New York, in the Second Presbyterian church, Brooklyn, Wednesday afternoon, December 11.

Miss Helen T. Judson will be her sister's maid of honor and Miss Ethel Pearson, Miss Fanny Cox, of Plainfield, Miss Mary Post, Miss Felicia Judson, Miss Agema Wheeler, Miss Beatrice Barnes and Miss Katharine McCann, the bridemaids. Among the ushers will be Dr. Percy R. Turnune, Dr. Augustus B. Wadsworth and Mr. Johnson DeForest, of New York.

PARISH MEETING.

Officers Elected for Grace P. E. Church Without Opposition.

The largest parish meeting in the history of Grace Episcopal church was held last evening and the vestry for the coming church year was elected. Especially gratifying was the financial report of the present condition of the parish.

The rector, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, presided at the meeting. M. S. Ackerman acted as secretary. Archibald Cox and Jules Erickson were chosen tellers. Everything was harmonious and in short order the following were elected: Wardens, DeWitt C. Ivins and Marion S. Ackerman; vestrymen, E. H. Booth, C. E. Brooks, W. T. Gough, O. G. Waring, Arthur Masters, Jules Erickson and Lewis G. Timpson.

DR. HEDGES' LECTURE.

Large Audience Listened to It With Much Pleasure.

The announcement that Dr. B. VanD. Hedges was to give his illustrated lecture on Califorina was sufficient last evening, to fill the large hall at the Y. M. C. A. with a highly appreciative audience.

The lecture was a decided success. Dr. Hedges was thoroughly familiar with the subject and held the unabated interet of his hearers. All the familiar scenes which easterners link with the Sunset state were graphically described and pictured. The views in and about SanFrancisco, the Yosemite Valley and the shore resorts were especially fine.

The mechanical apparatus for the illustrations was operated by A. V. Searing, Jr.

WHAT HAPPENED THEN.

List of Catastrophies Which Followed an Eventful Drive.

Carl Powlison, a North Plainfield bartender, and Annie Philmore started on a drive to Westfield, yesterday afternoon. They reached there safely, took a little too much drink, started home drunk.

They ended the day with the following result: Collision with a trolley car at Berckman street (neighbors say it was only a tie post), woman thrown out and hurt, $20 damage to the rig and both Powlison and his friend arrested.

In the city court, this morning, sentence was suspended on Powlison's agreeing to pay the livereyman for the damage done his wagon.

DRILLED THEN ATE.

Dinner Given to Company K Boys at Hotel Plainfield.

At the conclusion of the regular drill of Company K, last evening, the members partook of a dinner in their honor at the Hotel Plainfield.

In addition to enjoying the excellent menu provided by Manager McConnell, the boys were entertained with speeches given by Lieutenant Mosher and A. B. Phillips, piano selections by J. B. Harsel and vocal selections by the Plainfield Hotel private quartette. There was also selections by the company vocalists in which everybody joined in the chorus.

Kipling's Poetry.

"The Poetry of Rudyard Kipling," will be the subject of a lecture to be given by Ansoinette Carroll at the residence of Henry Wliiott Bowen, 740 Watchung avenue, tomorrow afternoen at 3 o'clock.

New House on Front Street.

John Wyman and son have purchased a lot from J. Fred MacDonald, on East Front street, opposite Sandford avenue, and will erect a $6,500 house. Work was started yesterday.

Illustrated Lecture.

An illustrased lecture on the Pan-American Exposition will be given this evening under the auspices of the Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

—At the meeting of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., last evening, the third degree was worked on one candidate.

PAN-AMERICAN OPENS RIGHT IN PLAINFIELD

Exposition Reproduced on a Small Scale in Rooms of First Baptist Church.

MANY OF THE DEPARTMENTS DID A RUSHING BUSINESS.

Besides the Attractions on the Midway There Was a Supper—A New Jersey Room—Those in Charge.

Those that failed to grasp the opportunity of seeing the wonders of the Pan-American Exposition may find consolation in the fact that the exposition gates are now open at the First Baptist Sunday-school room. Although many of the features of the real fair are absent yet there is sufficient to afford both entertainment to Plainfielders. The affair is being conducted under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society and the Young Ladies' Missionary Society.

There is one unfortunate feature to the exposition as here given. It opened last evening and the managers have announced that it will close this evening before midnight. There is still time for the people to see the wonder and incidentally partake of the supper which forms no unimportant part of the entertainment.

Then there is also the "Ballad of the Oysterman." This is reproduced most vividly in pantomime, while Miss Mae Batchelor sweetly renders the words of the composition. The effect of the whole affair is greatly enhanced by the attractive decorations which were in perfect harmony with the various departments at an exposition.

After passing the gateman, the first thing that comes in view is the fishery department, where are exhibited a large collection of nautical instruments, nets, hooks and shells. Miss Mary French is the enterprising superintendent of this attraction. Assisting her are Mrs. Browning and Mrs. McNabb and the Misses Bessie Wilson and Mabel Smith.

Next to is the Ethnological building, where a congress of women of all Nations is in session. Candy is on sale and a good weight is promised. Miss Sue Woodland presides over the congress and the delegates are Mrs. W. B. Vail and Mrs. Holder and the Misses Bertha Needham, Carrie Weiss, Ursula Krewson, Grace Bonney and May McLaughlin.

Horticultural Hall, which abounds with rare plants and shrubs, is always crowded with visitors for it is there that good lemonade is sold. Mrs. Clinton Randolph is the manager and Mrs. Frank Runyon is her aid. The servers of the cooling drinks are the Misses Minnie Marsh, Bessie Flanders, Pauline Denton, Grace TenEyck and Ella Serrell.

Surrounded by a veritable fence of cornstalks is the "model dairy." There is dispensed ice cold milk and ice cream by a number of country lasses. The tin pans, all bright, give the quarters the appearance intended for such an attraction. Miss Grace Yerkes is the proprietor. The milk maids are Mesdames Harry Coddington, Robert Barnes and the Misses Helen Spear, Jessie Coddington, Alice Scribner, Carroll Bird and Douglas.

An Indian encampment proves to be quite popular. Fortune telling reaps revenue for the squaws and affords amusement to the patrons. Seated near the tepee are the Misses May Shreve, Elsie Brokaw and Elizabeth Wynn. Miss Margaret Case acts as palmist and certainly has the knack of making one believe that his future is predestined by her.

Adjoining the main room is the New Jersey building, adorned with portraits of Governor Voorhees and Governor-elect Murphy, interspersed with American flags and bunting. At the other end of the room is the kitchen.

All during the evening piano selections are rendered in the main hall while in an adjoining room is given the "Ballad of the Oysterman." Hustling about the hall are N. Douglass Drake, costumed as "Uncle Sam," and Herbert DuBois, gotten up as a Western cowboy. Their business is to drum up trade.

Those participating in the shadow pictures include Miss Edith Cairns, who acts as manager as well, and the Misses Ella Serrell, Minnie Serrell, Mabel Smith, Mae Batchelor, Ada Fountain and Helen Robins, Mrs. Batchelor, DeWitt Brokaw, Harry Joseph and Randolph Chandler.

NEW COMPANY FORMED.

Garwood Foundry and Machine Company Was Incorporated.

Joseph C. Pierson, of this city; John B. Coriell, of Dunellen; Charles Poor and A. J. Wilson, of Westfield, are named as incorporators of the Garwood Foundry and Machine Company which filed papers with the county clerk yesterday. The stated object of the company is to do a general foundry and machine business. The capital stock is $50,000 divided into 2,000 shares of $25 each. $10,000 of this amount has already been paid in.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. Safe pills. L. W. Randolph.

Repairing Culvert.

Street Commissioner Gavett placed a number of men at work yesterday repairing the culvert at the corner of East Fifth street and Watchung avenue. It had become choked up with refuse and has been a source of annoyance to residents in the vicinity.

Sold for Taxes.

More than 330 acres of land will be sold for default of the owners in paying taxes levied by the North Plainfield township committee. Collector J. Worth Coddington will conduct the sale at Nelson's Hotel, Tuesday afternoon, December 10.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution requesting the city treasurer to withhold the payment of a bill of the Gleason-Kiely Contracting Company, until the company satisfies the street commissioner that claims against the company have been satisfied. It was passed.

Mr. Tolles reported that the proper committee had held a conference with the Plainfield Water Supply Company regarding the renewal of a contract for water, but that as yet no definite decision had been reached. The city's contract for ten years will soon expire.

Mr. vanHerwerden made a motion, which was carried, that H. C. VanEmburgh be employed for the present year to make the necessary changes on the assessors' maps for a compensation not to exceed $100. The same member offered an ordinance providing that between the first of January and the first of February the books of the collector of taxes be examined by an expert, the expense not to exceed $300. This ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

As previously predicted, the Common Council, through Mr. Lee, took up the matter of the poor trolley service in this city. Resolutions were adopted which will revoke the franchise of the company if the ordinance under which the road is operated is not lived up to. The resolutions call attention to the fact that the company has violated every section of the ordinance, such as the allowing cars to stand for more than five minutes on the street, unless through unavoidable circumstances, that the cars shall be properly heated in winter, that noiseless gearing shall be used, that the streets through which the tracks are laid shall be properly repaired, and other provisions.

The resolutions further says "that whereas, the railway company has violated all of the provisions in said ordinance above referred to by running cars which have flat wheels, are insufficiently heated, are badly in need of renovation and are unsanitary, and the motors and gears of which are badly in need of repairs; and

"Whereas, the said company is indebted to the city in the sum of $806.65 for work done on the streets from May 23 to September 3, 1901, which amount said company is bound, under the provisions of said ordinance, to pay on demand, but failed and neglected so to do after having had proper and sufficient notice served upon it so to do;

"Now therefore, be it resolved that the city clerk be, and he hereby is, directed to notify the Plainfield Street Railway Company and its successors that the Common Council will be compelled to exercise the power granted it in section 14 of a certain ordinance * * * * * unless all the provisions in said ordinance contained, or any ordinance or contract to which reference is therein made, are at once strictly complied with by said street railway company; and be it

"Further resolved, that a certified copy of this resoltuion be served upon said railway company."

The resolutions were adopted unanimously, it being the sense of the members that some action is at once necessary.

Mr. vanHerwerden moved that inasmuch as the bid of The Daily Press for printing the ordinances of the city was the lowest, the contract for printing the same be awarded to The Press. This motion was supplimented by another motion that 1,000 copies be printed. This concluded the business of the evening and the Council adjourned to December 30.

Of Benefit to You.

D. S. Mitchell, Fulford, Md.: "During a long illness I was troubled with bed sores, was advised to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and did so with wonderful results. I was perfectly cured. It is the best salve on the market." Sure cure for piles, sores, burns. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Successful Operation.

Dr. J. H. Carman performed a successful operation on Miss Blanche Sharkey, of Whitewood avenue, Friday, removing a large polyphus from her nose.

Pulpit Supply.

Rev. Dr. L. E. Livermore, of New Market, purchased a very interesting and helpful sermon at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday morning.

ASTHMA CURE FREE.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. F. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alieviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER,
AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Ashmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully,
O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

February 5, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE C.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington street.

SHIPPED AS FREIGHT

Man Forwarded From Germany In a Box.

FOUND STARVED IN SHIP'S HOLD.

Too Weak to Tell the Story of His Long Ocean Voyage, the Stowaway Is Taken Out In a Dying Condition.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—When a longshoreman dropped into the hold of the steamer Palatia of the Hamburg-American line, just arrived at the Hoboken docks, he was startled to hear a weak voice call for water. Then he heard moans. Summoning assistance, he made a search and came across the form of a man lying across some salt sacks. The man was dragged to the deck and became unconscious and is now at a Hoboken hospital, with little chance of recovery or, indeed, of ever telling his strange tale. He is suffering from starvation.

A detailed investigation shows that the stranger had been boxed up in Germany in a packing case marked "J. B. 71." In the case was a small bottle which had contained whisky and also some crumbs of bread. A piece of paper was found marked "John Beck." The box was marked in German, "This side up, with care." There were no air holes in the case, and the man must have existed on what came through the joising of the boards. The hatch to this hold had not been opened from the time the Palatia left port until yesterday. It is the opinion of the investigators that during the last of the trip the stowaway became so frenzied that he broke out of the box, and there was no way for him to give the alarm.

The man was well dressed, evidently a German about thirty years old. Up to the present the consignor or consignee of the case has not been discovered. Yesterday an American Express wagon called for a box marked as this one was, and it is believed that through this circumstance something more may be learned of the strange affair.

The Palatia is a freighter, very slow and was longer than usual in making this trip. It is believed the man was in his perilous position at least fifteen days.

A Pan-American Bank.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 3.—The order of yesterday's session of the pan-American conference called for a discussion of the projects for a pan-American bank and the exchange of official publications, but at the opening of the session Mr. Baez of Paraguay took the floor and made a speech advocating a comprehensive scheme of arbitration. At its conclusion Mr. Matte of Chile said that he thought it would be better for the conference to confine itself to the order of the day instead of listening to mere academical discussion. Mr. Bermejo of Argentina when he arose to report on the project for the pan-American bank took exceptioin to Mr. Matte's remarks. The Chilean delegation offered an amendment to the effect that interested governments give the proposed bank a subsidy of $100,000 gold per annum for five years to start with, to be contributed according to population by the several countries.

McCoy Disposed of Three.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—At Mile End last night "Kid" McCoy, the American pugilist, carried out his engagement to defeat any three heavyweights, each within four rounds. This offer was especially open to Jack O'Brien, who, however, did not respond to it. McCoy disposed of Dave Barry of Philadelphia in two rounds, of Jack Scales of England in twenty seconds and of Jack Madden of Boston in four rounds.

Thieves Steal a Relic.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 3.—St. Ann's Roman Catholic church was broken in during the night and the relic of St. Anne, a part of the bone of the forearm of the saint, presented to the church by Rev. Father Knapp several months ago, was carried away. The velvet lined box containing the relic, valued at $150, was defaced and ruined, and other acts of vandalism were committed about the church.

Miner's House Dynamited.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 3.—A special from Coal Creek says a house at Briceville occupied by a nonunion miner named Emmitt was almost entirely destroyed by a dynamite explosion. The house was owned by the Knoxville Iron company, at whose mines a disturbance was recently reported on account of the organization of a branch of the United Mine Workers of America.

The Buffalo's Cruise.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 3.—The United States training ship Buffalo left here yesterday morning on a new cruise for Fort de France, Martinique. She is due at Hampton Roads April 4. When the Buffalo sailed, she left fourteen deserters behind on shore. Eleven of these men have already been arrested by the police.

Seven Weeks' Strike Ended.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Dec. 3.—The 400 men employed at the Moffit Coal company's mine at Sugar Notch, who have been out on strike for the last seven weeks, returned to work today. The men struck against a reduction of wages. A new company has now taken possession of the mine, and it will pay the old wages.

Three Children Drowned.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 3.—Three little daughters of Mrs. William Lafford of Grand River, St. Peter's, C. B., were drowned Sunday afternoon while their parents were attending church. The children went sliding on thin ice on a pond.

THE FIRST SESSION.

Fifty-seventh Congress Assembles at Washington.

FRYE PRESIDES IN THE SENATE.

Henderson Again Speaker of the House—Little Business Transacted—President's Message Not Read—Bills Introduced.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—With the desks of senators covered by generous and beautiful floral tributes, with the galleries occupied by the usual first day crowds and the hall resplendent in new furnishings the senate was called to order at noon, with President Pro Tem. Frye in the chair. There was a good attendance of both old and new senators.

Mr. Thomas C. Platt of New York was an arrival. He looks well and expressed himself as being in good health. Mr. West appeared better than at the last session. Mr. Hanna, although still using a cane, seemed in good physical condition.

The chaplain's prayer was impressive. He referred pathetically to the death of President McKinley, characterizing his death as an unspeakable calamity. He also spoke feelingly of the late Senator Kyle and prayed for the recovery of Senator Sewell of New Jersey, now ill.

Seventy-one senators answered the roll call.

Senators Hale and Morgan were appointed a committee to wait upon the president and inform him that the senate was ready to transact business, and a recess was taken.

When the senate reconvened at 2 o'clock, Senator Gamble of South Dakota announced the death of Senator Kyle, and the senate then adjourned out of respect to his memory.

It was decided Saturday at a conference between Senators Frye, Cullom, Allison, Foraker and Platt of Connecticut that the senate, according to precedent, could only adjourn out of respect to its own members. It had been previously expected an adjournment would be had in memory of the late President McKinley.

The precedent established at the death of President Lincoln will be followed, and the senate will not officially know of Mr. McKinley's death until so informed through President Roosevelt's message. Senator Foraker will subsequently offer resolutions of regret and eulogy.

OPENING SCENES IN THE HOUSE.

The opening day of the first session of the Fifty-seventh congress in the house of representatives furnished a spectacle that delighted the crowded galleries. The machinery of the house is cumbrous and is set in motion by a laborious process, but the spectators evidently did not consider it tedious, as they clung to their places through the entire proceedings, which lasted four and a half hours, probably half the time being consumed in the monotonous calling of the roll.

The organization of the house was accomplished according to time-honored precedents. Speaker Henderson was sworn in by General Bingham, the "father of the house," and after delivering a very graceful speech in recognition of the honor bestowed upon him he in turn administered the oath to the members elect.

SPEAKER HENDERSON.

The usual committees were appointed to inform the president and the senate that the house was organized and ready to do business, a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Payne, Bingham and Richardson, was appointed to join a similar committee of the senate and wait upon the president and inform him that congress was ready to receive any communication he might have to make, the rules of the last house were adopted after a slight jar, and then the biennial seat drawing occurred.

This latter ceremony was robbed of much of its interest by the fact that under the new arrangement of seats there are more than enough to go round, and those whose names are drawn last do not suffer as they did on former occasions. The flower show, which is the great feature of the opening day, was not as imposing as usual. More flowers than ever before were sent to members, but after the seat drawing the house adjourned before a third of them were brought into the hall.

Resolutions respecting the late President McKinley will be introduced in the house by Representative Grosvenor today simultaneous with the introduction by Mr. Foraker in the senate of the same resolutions. The isthmian canal bill will come in later, Representative Hepburn of Iowa saying that it would not be deferred until the organization of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

It was estimated by officials of the house that over 3,000 bills had been introduced before 12 o'clock. There was much rivalry for the honor of having bill No. 1, no less than fifteen members having asked for this precedence. The indications are that the bill of Mr. McCleary restricting the sale of oleomargarine will be so designated when the records are made up. The bills took a wide range. Three Pacific cable bills by Representatives Sherman of New York, Corliss of Michigan and Jones of Washington gave varying phases of this project, Mr. Jones proposing the northern route via Puget sound, with an appropriation of $8,000,000; Mr. Corliss proposing a government built and maintained route and Mr. Sherman offering the plan allowing private participation in the enterprise. Among the other measures introduced was one by Mr. Sulzer of New York protesting against the conduct of the war in South Africa.

CAPTAIN TILLEY ACQUITTED.

Was Tried Before United States Naval Court at Tutuila.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Dec. 3.—The United States naval court at Tutuila, Samoa, has honorably acquitted Captain Benjamin F. Tilley, the naval governor of Tutuila, of all the charges against him. No evidence to sustain these charges was presented to the court.

Commander Uriel Sebree has succeeded Captain Tilley as naval governor of Tutuila.

The charges against Captain Tilley arose from certain allegations made by missionaries in Samoa against the captain's moral character.

Scranton Strikers Weaken.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 3.—Seven more of the street car strikers have gone back to work. The company claims it has applications from thirty of the strikers for reinstatement and indirect assurances from many others that they intend to apply in the course of a few days. For the first time cars are being run until midnight on nearly all the city lines. At a meeting of the strikers it was decided not to accept the proposition of the company to take back as many of the old employees as it had places for. It was resolved to continue the fight until the company agrees to take the men back in a body and as a union. Rev. William C. Davis, pastor of the Welsh Methodist church, has resigned his pastorate because of the feeling aroused against him in his congregation by reason of his having ridden on the boycotted trolley cars.

German Editors on Trial.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—The trial was begun yesterday in the Berlin criminal court of three members of the editorial staff of the Forwaerts. These men are charged with insulting Major General von Kettler by the publication of the so called "Hun letters," which accused General von Kettler and his column of summary and barbarous treatment of the Boxers during the China expedition and especially of shooting twenty-two Boxers at Yachiao. General von Kettler maintained that these twenty-two men were shot in pursuance of a sentence of court martial for the massacre of 200 Christians.

Early Ice Blockade.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 3.—Reports received here from the northern coast show that heavy icefloes already block the strait of Belle Isle. The ice is sweeping out into the Atlantic. Numerous icebergs have also been sighted. These conditions indicate an early and heavy ice pack along the Grand Banks during the coming winter. American herring vessels are securing good cargoes along the western coast of Newfoundland. More than thirty such vessels are already loaded.

Another Exposition Scheme.

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 3.—A meeting has been held here for the purpose of perfecting a permanent organization of the Jamestown Tercentennial exposition to be held somewhere in Virginia in 1907. Norfolk, Portsmouth, Newport News and other towns in this vicinity were represented. It is proposed to ask the government for $5,000,000, and those present today favor a site near Norfolk.

Live Stock Show Opened.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—The International Live Stock exposition was formally opened here last night before a large crowd which filled the Dexter Park amphitheater. Mayor Harrison, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Governor Yates and R. W. Hall of Texas spoke in the order given. A parade of prize winning horses and a concert preceded the speechmaking.

Intense Cold In Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 3.—The extremely cold weather throughout Russia and especially in Siberia has delayed the mails, and many trains are snowbound. Grain steamers on the Vistula are frozen in the river.

COMMENDABLE ACTION.

The action of the Common Council, in threatening to revoke the franchise of the local trolley company if the service is not improved, is very commendable. It shows that the councilmen are awake to the city's needs. The service has been notoriously unsatisfactory and there has been a public clamor for a change.

Now that the Common Council has take this step, it is to be hoped that it will remain firm and actually take some action revoking the franchise if the company does not come to terms without delay. Plainfield has suffered long enough with this woefully poor street car service.

While the moon shone so brightly, it was possible to see the fence which separates the tracks at the North Avenue station. Now, however, when the moon keeps such late hours, there is need of a coat of paint of some color that will make the fence easy to distinguish.

Already the local merchants have begun their Christmas advertising telling of many excellent bargains. What is the use of going to New York when there is just as good to be found at the local stores.

Although the early closing movement has been suspended during the month of December, it is well to remember that early shopping will make it far easier for the local clerks.

CHURCH OFFICERS CHOSEN.

At Annual Parish Meeting of Church of the Holy Cross.

That the Church of the Holy Cross is in a prosperous condition was evinced from the reports read at the parish meeting last evening. Rev. William Montgomery Downey, the rector, presided at the meeting. As has been the general rule under the present incumbency of Rev. Mr. Downey everything passed off pleasantly. Dr. J. H. Carman and George P. Dupee were chosen wardens and A. E. Faber, Horstley Barker, E. C. Perkins, J. A. Alexander and C. L. Nichols were elected as vestrymen.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed. Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

Pipes Thawed Out.

Progress has been made in thawing out the frozen pipes at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Clubhouse and there is now a supply of water. However, it is not likely that there will be much use for it now, as the season closed Saturday.

Help for African Mission.

There will be an important sewing meeting of the Woman's Society for Christian Work at the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow afternoon. The women are preparing a box to be sent to an African mission field.

RUSHMORE PROPERTY'S FATE

MODERN BUILDING WILL BE ERECTED ON THE SITE.

One Building Sold and to Be Moved —Brick Saw Mill Will Be Left.

Some decided changes are being made in the Rushmore property, corner of East Fourth street and Watchung avenue, which was recently purchased by F. A. Pope, of Park avenue.

There are four separate buildings on the property. Of these the one next to the brick building on Fourth street, has been sold to Runyon Fields, of Bound Brook, and the latter will move the structure to Bound Brook. Mr. Pope is having the structure between the office building and the railroad on Watchung avenue torn down and he will probably erect a modern building on that part of the property, with offices and flats. This would necessitate the removal of the office building.

The brick building will probably be allowed to stand. This is thoroughly equipped for a saw mill and Mr. Pope has had several offers for it. The residents in the vicinity of the property are much pleased over the decided improvements, believing it will enhance the value of all adjoining property.

Feared Fatal Results.

Mrs. Dora Neilsen, the woman living on Jackson street thought to be insane, was examined yesterday by physicians and found to be seriously ill. The police refused to take her to the State Hospital as the journey would evidently result in her death. The woman is now being taken care of by the city nurse.

Flim-Flammer Was Gone.

Alphonse Marion, the swindler who was arrested Saturday night and afterward let go for want of evidence, flim-flammed a bartender at Blatz's saloon out of $10. The fact was made known to Chief Kiely yesterday, but it was then too late to catch the fellow as he had been put on a train bound for New York.

Right Hand Crushed.

Wililam McElroy, aged twenty-six, of Bayonne, a brakeman on a local freight train, had his right hand crushed late last evening, while coupling cars at Dunellen. He was brought to Plainfield on a train and taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

Going to a Cock Fight.

The local police gave a chase Sunday evening, to a crowd of sports who were congregating at Richmond street, previous to journeying to Scotch Plains, where they were to participate in a cock fight. PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Mr. Roosevelt's Recommendations on Many Subjects.

DISCUSSION OF TRUSTS.

Publicity Deemed the Only Sure Remedy at Present.

MONROE DOCTRINE'S PURPOSE

Not Intended as Hostile to Old World Nations, but a Step Toward Insuring Universal Peace by Securing the Possibility of Permanent Peace on This Hemisphere.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The president in his annual message to congress says:

The congress assembles this year under the shadow of a great calamity. On the 6th of September President McKinley was shot by an anarchist while attending the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo and died in that city on the 14th of that month.

Of the last seven elected presidents he is the third who has been murdered, and the bare recital of this fact is sufficient to justify grave alarm among all loyal American citizens. Moreover, the circumstances of this, the third assassination of an American president, have a peculiarly sinister significance. Both President Lincoln and President Garfield were killed by assassins of types unfortunately not uncommon in history. President Lincoln falling a victim to the terrible passions aroused by four years of civil war and President Garfield to the revengeful vanity of a disappointed office seeker. President McKinley was killed by an utterly depraved criminal belonging to that body of criminals who object to all governments, good and bad alike, who are against any form of popular liberty if it is guaranteed by even the most just and liberal laws and who are as hostile to the upright exponent of a free people's sober will as to the tyrannical and irresponsible despot.

Anarchy and Anarchists.

The president continues with a eulogy of Mr. McKinley, then turns to the subject of anarchy, denouncing its doctrines and preachers. He says:

I earnestly recommend to the congress that in the exercise of its wise discretion it should take into consideration the coming to this country of anarchists or persons professing principles hostile to all government and justifying the murder of those placed in authority. Such individuals as those who not long ago gathered in open meeting to glorify the murder of King Humbert of Italy perpetrate a crime, and the law should insure their rigorous punishment. They and those like them should be kept out of this country, and if found here they should be promptly deported to the country whence they came, and farreaching provision should be made for the punishment of those who stay. No matter calls more urgently for the wisest thought of the congress.

A Subject For Federal Courts.

The federal courts should be given jurisdiction over any man who kills or attempts to kill the president or any man who by the constitution or by law is in line of succession for the presidency, while the punishment for an unsuccessful attempt should be proportioned to the enormity of the offense against our institutions.

Anarchy is a crime against the whole human race, and all mankind should band against the anarchist.

The president next considers business conditions, which he finds highly satisfactory. He continues:

The tremendous and highly complex industrial development which went on with ever accelerated rapidity during the latter half of the nineteenth century brings us face to face at the beginning of the twentieth with very serious social problems. The old laws and the old customs which had almost the binding force of law were once quite sufficient to regulate the accumulation and distribution of wealth. Since the industrial changes which have so enormously increased the productive power of mankind they are no longer sufficient.

Trade Combinations.

The growth of cities has gone on beyond comparison faster than the growth of the country, and the upbuilding of the great industrial centers has meant a startling increase not merely in the aggregate of wealth, but in the number of very large individual and especially of very large corporate fortunes. The creation of these great corporate fortunes has not been due to the tariff nor to any other governmental action, but to natural causes in the business world, operating in other countries as in our own.

The process has aroused much antagonism, a great part of which is wholly without warrant. It is not true that as the rich have grown richer the poor have grown poorer. On the contrary, never before has the average man, the wageworker, the farmer, the small trader, been so well off as in this country and at the present time. There have been abuses connected with the accumulation of wealth, yet it remains true that a fortune accumulated in legitimate business can be accumulated by the person specially benefited only on condition of conferring immense incidental benefits upon others. Successful enterprise of the type which benefits all mankind can only exist if the conditions are such as to offer great prizes as the rewards of success.

Reasons For Caution.

The president adds that there are many reasons for caution in dealing with corporations. He says:

The same business conditions which

EXPOSITION OPENED.

Imposing Ceremonies Held at Charleston.

PRESIDENT PRESSED THE BUTTON.

South Carolina Interstate and West Indian Fair Formally Set in Motion—Dedicatory Address by Senator Depew.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 3.—With imposing ceremonies, embracing a parade of federal forces, state militia and Confederate veterans, beautiful women and cheering college ians, a programme of exercises graced by distinguished speakers and with words of greeting from the president of the United States, the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian exposition was opened officially yesterday afternoon. The day was set aside as a holiday, and all places of business were closed.

In the auditorium at the exposition grounds, where the exercises were held, an audience of 4,000 people cheered the name of the president of the United States, gave hearty applause to Hon Chauncey M. Depew, the orator of the day, listened attentively to the afternoon's exercises and then joined the crowds inspecting the grounds and marveled at the audacity of Charleston in undertaking an exposition of such magnitude.

About 300 people, including the governor of South Carolina and staff, the officers of the exposition, the board of lady managers and the city council of Charleston, were on the stage of the beautifully decorated auditorium when the exercises began.

Senator Depew on entering was given an ovation by the audience, the cheering continuing for several minutes. After welcoming addresses by F. W. Wagener, president of the exposition company, and Governor M. B. McSweeney Senator Depew was introduced by J. Adger Smyth, mayor of Charleston.

The exposition on signal from the White House, where President Roosevelt touched a key connecting with the exposition, was declared open. Greetings were exchanged between Captain Wagener and President Roosevelt, Captain Wagener's telegram in part being as follows:

"The purpose of this exposition is to illustrate the marvelous industrial and commercial development of the southern states during the last quarter of a century and to contribute to the expansion of American commerce in other lands and among the islands of the southern seas. The exposition is in itself a remarkable triumph of American genius and represents the highest aspirations of our people. We are sure that as the representative of the greatest nation on earth you will rejoice with us in the accomplishment of our work. With one country, one aim, one flag, one destiny, we invite you to join us in the determination that this great Union of our fathers and ours shall speedily attain the supremacy of the world in commercial endeavor and in the promotion of all the arts of peace."

The president in responding asked Captain Wagener to "please accept for yourself and convey to your associates my hearty congratulations upon what has been achieved and my earnest wishes for the complete success of your undertaking. I hope it may prove of great and lasting benefit to our industries and to our commerce with the West Indies."

The fair, while not as large as other expositions that have been given, is an exhibition of much merit and is already an artistic success.

The exposition is not in the state of preparedness, however, which its projectors had hoped for, chiefly owing to the scarcity of cars to transport exhibits here. Between two and three hundred carloads of exhibits are on the tracks at the park, but they are rapidly being unloaded and put in place by an army of men working twenty-four hours a day.

An Antianarchist Congress.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—According to a special dispatch from St. Petersburg, Germany and Russia have now reached an entire agreement concerning the advantage of calling an international antianarchist conference. These two powers have sent identical notes to the other powers of the world and presumably to the United States inviting them all to participate in this conference.

Mrs. Booth Stricken.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Dec. 3.—Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth of the Volunteers of America was stricken yesterday while delivering an address before the students of Colorado college and was taken to the home of Senator Seldom Ridge. The trouble is a complication of the heart caused by the excessive altitude. Her condition has improved somewhat.

Quarrymen Strike.

YORK, Pa., Dec. 3.—Three hundred skilled workmen and laborers employed at the Delta Slate quarries are on strike. The men demand an increase of wages, the skilled workmen wanting 20 cents and the laborers 15 cents an hour. Every quarry in the region but one is affected.

New Trial Denied Mrs. Edwards.

READING, Pa., Dec. 3.—Judge Ermentrout has handed down an opinion refusing a new trial to Mrs. Kate Edwards, who was convicted in the first degree of murdering her husband, John Edwards, on July 3 last.

Ice Blockade Lifted.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Dec. 3.—The mild weather of the last few days has reopened the ice locked Hudson river, and the Catskill and New York night boats have resumed their trips.

IT IS SERIOUS.

Some Plainfield People Fail to Realize the Seriousness.

The constant aching of a bad back,
The weariness, the tired feelings,
The pains and ache of kidney ills,
Are serious—if neglected,

A Plainfield citizen shows you how to avoid them.

Mr. F. D. Smith, of 686 West Front street, contractor for painting, etc., says: "There was a distressing pain across the small of my back which clung to me all the time. When I got seated at times if I moved a sharp pain struck me in the back and loins and almost made me exclaim. Any change in the weather, or if I caught the least cold always aggravated the trouble and caused me to suffer severely. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by one of my employes who had been cured of a long standing case of kidney complaint by their use. I commenced the treatment, derived benefit from it immediately and before I had finished the first box I was cured."

To the Woman Who Is Furnishing Her Home

Buy your furniture for comfort and with a view to durability. Do not be inveigled into buying cheap sets. Cheap sets are mere gaudy trash. Buy each piece for its own particular merits. Be sure that the wood really is what it is represented to be. Better an honest bit of oak than the most elaborately mahoganized soft wood, with mock inlaying. A good piece of standard design will last the purchaser through life and be a joy forever; a poor bit will show its true quality almost immediately.

For your parlor you will need a delicate wall paper of a striped or empire pattern. The floors are prettier made of hardwood polished, which allows a rug of soft, not too pronounced, markings harmonizing with the wall paper. The furniture may consist of two easy chairs upholstered all over, two chairs with upholstered seats and backs and mahogany frames and arms and a divan with a mahogany or plain cherry frame. Then there should be three odd chairs of upright design, with or without upholstered seats, and one of those useful circular backed chairs which can be twirled around to face as one wills. A little round or oval table should be placed where it looks the best, but never in the center of the room. With a few good pictures in empire frames and the furnishings of the fireplace the room is complete. The latest covering for chairs is not brocade, but light tapestry, which is combined both with gilt and with mahogany frames. This expensive tapestry is imitated in English linen cretonnes, with charming results. These cretonnes, which range from 50 cents to $2 a yard, are ribbed and have ecru grounds covered with flowered effects in soft, rich colorings, quite different from those of the bedroom cretonnes.

MISSION FURNITURE.

The latest parlor clock is a gilt figure poised gracefully. This holds a large watch with a convex glass and a jeweled rim. An artistic bit of this sort can be obtained as low as $12. The latest lamp is called the art nouveau. It is in the shape of a flower or a huge butterfly, through which the light shines. Eastern maidens holding branches of tropical flowers in which are placed electric light bulbs are also beautiful novelties. Crepe paper shades imitating orchids or roses are sold in the department stores for 50 cents apiece. They come both for electric and for gas fixtures.

For the dining room Flemish oak furniture is shown remarkably cheap with rush bottom chairs and a dresser, where choice bits of odd blue ware may be displayed, or the new mission furniture may be used. This is made of stained wood with a dull satinlike finish. It comes in brown and in dark and light green. The shapes are quaint and artistic, and it is solid, cheap and in good taste. The latest fad in dining rooms and libraries is to have the pictures framed to match the furniture. In the library oak can be used, with a couple of Morris chairs and a window seat heaped with bright cushions. Green wicker or grass furniture can also be introduced with good effect. The wall can be covered with plain cartridge paper or else with one of the new tapestry designs which also come in panels. The latest bedrooms are entirely done in cretonne, an English idea. The walls are "papered" in flowered cretonne, and the furniture, the bed furnishings, even the tables sometimes, are covered with the same design. The woodwork is tinted in plain colors to correspond. A charming effect is gained by combining pale yellow and pink cretonne with white woodwork.

A CRETONNE ROOM.

In the oriental stores pretty hangings of Indian cotton are shown in very good rug patterns. The peacock design is one of the latest, in which a procession of peacocks is outlined against a deep red center. These hangings make excellent backgrounds for a library or smoking den couch. They come from $1.25 up.

Millinery Fancies.

The three cornered hat is being rapidly supplanted by the saucy sailor with the upturned brim. These hats, which are in almost every case made of rough felt in delicate tintings, are very simply trimmed with wreaths of white or pale colored roses and loops of black velvet. Lace scarfs enriched with embroidery form the sole trimming of some of the more dressy hats. They are passed through jeweled buckles. Flat drooping trimmings are still all the rage in millinery.

The Trouble on the Torolito.

BY FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright, 1898, by Francis Lynde.)

"Drop that, old man," he said, with a hand on my shoulder. "It hurts me, and it doesn't do you any good. You must believe that this clean air and the out-door life are going to make a man of you again."

"Not in a hundred years, Angus, my boy; I've put it off too long. But tell me the story—the other story. What has the school-ma'am to do with it?"

Macpherson is Scotch only in name. His manner of attacking a thing is more like that of an English trooper charging a masked battery with the odds against him.

"The school-ma'am isn't to blame," he made haste to say. "She is an angel, pure and simple; and, as I happen to know, she has been trying all along to make peace. But since she came, the Selters have been offish,—mulish is the better word,—and for no reason on top of earth, that I can understand."

I smiled in my beard. When an angel, pure and simple, is set over against any daughter of the solitudes, a casus belli with a handsome young athlete like my friend is not far to seek.

"You used to visit the Selters pretty often along at the first?" I ventured.

"Why, yes; we were neighborly."

"Gave the daughter a pony, let us say, and taught her how to ride?"

Macpherson laughed. "Now how the mischief did you know that?"

"If I had lived a century or so ago, your ancestors would have said that I was fey and had the dying man's gift of second sight. But never mind that. You made yourself agreeable to the Tennessee girl—gave her the pony and went a-gallop with her, and all that. But when the angel, pure and simple, came—"

He threw up his hands. "Let up on that, old man," he said, with a little laugh of embarrassment. "I'm no woman's man—wasn't in the old high flying college days, if you happen to remember. I've been no more than decently civil to Nancy Selter; and as for Miss Sanborn—"

The interruption was a scurrying dust cloud whirling up from the portal of Six-Mile canyon; a cloud which presently resolved itself into a horseman, riding as if for life. Macpherson picked up the field-glass and focused it.

"It's Bart Kilgore, coming back from his regular after-pay-day spree, at Fort Cowan," he said. "Just lean back against the door-jamb and hold your breath when he gets here. I shall have to give him the usual cussing out, you know."

CHAPTER II.

THE INVADERS.

I obeyed orders literally, leaning back and closing my eyes when the dust-begrimed range-rider galloped up and swung out of the saddle. But Kilgore proved to be a bearer of tidings; and when he had opened his budget the breach of ranch discipline and its merited out-cursing were alike forgotten.

"You're sure you know what you are talking about, Bart?" said Macpherson, eying his man suspiciously. "You know I've a good right to be doubtful of anything you say you see or hear at the fort after pay-day."

The scourger of dumb brutes grinned and turned his pockets inside out.

"I reckon that calls the turn. Cash here, six times in the haffen dozen, but I'm jug-proof this evenin'; no dust, no drink. An' I'm givin' it to you straight. Ther' ain't no kind of a balk on it this time; Selter's sold us out, lock, stock and barrel. The deal's done dealt, papers signed, gradin' outfit on the way, and the engineers a-comin' up the canyon this identical minute,—tepees, telescopes, barber-poles, and all."

A far-away look came into Macpherson's eyes, and the pipe between his teeth began to go up and down in a way that swept me back through a decade to a stuffy little college dormitory, with a big-limbed young son of Anak sitting across the table from me, hammering away at his mathematics.

"Who is it, Bart?—the Englishmen?"

"I reckon."

"And they're on the way in now, you say?"

"Yep."

"I guess that settles it," said Macpherson, half absently. "We might as well round up and drive over the range."

His seeming reluctance to fight for his own nettled me past endurance. "You'll do nothing of the sort if I can help it," I cut in. "You're going to contest this thing from start to finish; and when your money's gone, you can have mine."

He shook his head. "It's no use. I can give and take with the next fellow when it's worth while; but I'd have to go, in the end. These people are well within their lawful rights, if they've bought Selter's ditch; and I—I'm only a squatter."

"Law be hanged!—you've right and possession. And in the last resort, you can at least make them pay you to go."

Knowing Macpherson as I did, I should have said that he was the last man in the world to take the sentimental point of view in any matter of business, but surprises lie in wait for one at every turn in this vale of incertitude.

"If it were only a question of profit and loss, I shouldn't mind," he said. "But it's just as you said awhile back; I've been the Macpherson of Torolito, and I've come to look upon the park as my own particular little kingdom."

I wheeled promptly into line with the sentimental point of view, and spoke to the matter in hand.

"Put it upon any ground you please, but don't give up without trying a fall or two with them. I'll back you, as I promised; you might as well have the patrimony as the charity-people who will scramble over it after I'm gone. We can homestead a quarter-section or two on their line of ditch for a beginning, and pull down a few injunctions on them, if they try to cross. I'm far enough past qualifying and going into court for you, but I can be your consulting attorney while I last."

He shook his head again, as one whose mind is made up. "It wouldn't do any good. There isn't a ghost of a show for us in any legal fight. It would be your bit of money and mine against millions."

Kilgore took the short-barreled rifle from its sling under his saddle-flap and flicked the dust from it with his soft hat. He had a trick of looking tired and sleepy upon occasion, and at such times, as I afterward learned, those who knew him best watched his pistol-hand.

"Back yonder in the Tennessee hills, wher' I come f'om," he said, "ther' was wunst a feller f'om the north 'at 'lowed he was a-goin' to build him a ho-tell on the mounting and run a railroad up to it. Nobody never said a blame' word ag'inst it, as I ever hearn, but somehow'r 'nother, he got sorter tired and wo'n-out atter-awhile and quit; and ther' ain't no ho-tell n'r no railroad on that ther' mounting yit."

THE TIGER'S REIGN.

All Seats Sold for Concert of Princeton Clubs This Evening.

Not the Tammany tiger, but a Princeton tiger, resplendent in orange and black, hanging decorously over the fireplace; that is the beast that will smile a welcome to the crowds who will attend the concert of the Princeton Glee, Mandolin and Banjo clubs at the Casino tonight.

Princeton cheers will make the rafters ring this evening and Princeton enthusiasm will be let loose. The management announces that the full capacity of the house and gallery has been sold and that no tickets will be on sale at the door.

The dance following the concert promises to be a brilliant affair and the floor will be graced not only by the society young women of Plainfield but by a goodly number from out of town.

SPECIAL COMPLIMENT.

Steinway Company Will Supply Miss Howell With Grand Piano.

As a special compliment to Miss Saidee Mae Howell, the talented young pianist, who, in conjunction with Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis, soprano soloist, will give a recital at the Casino next Monday night, the Steinway Piano Company, of New York, will furnish for the occasion one of their finest grand pianos. This is a compliment rarely extended, except to artists of great reputation. Miss Howell will be heard in beautiful selections, and equally entertaining will be the offerings of Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis. The young woman will have valuable assistants in Miss Mae Colt, the talented reader of New Haven, and Hobart Smock, the renowned tenor of All Angels' church, New York. The recital, in its entirety, promises to be the musical event of the season.

Gave a New Excuse.

Departing from the time-worn excuse that two drinks caused his drunkenness, Charles Messler told City Judge Runyon, this morning, that he wasn't intoxicated, last night, but that he had been drugged at Scotch Plains. The court advised him to steer clear of Scotch Plains and suspended sentence.

Used Firearms in City Limits.

In the city court, this morning, sentence was suspended on Offley Brown, a Netherwood boy, for shooting off firearms.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

have produced the great aggregations of corporate and individual wealth have made them very potent factors in international commercial competition.

Moreover, it cannot too often be pointed out that to strike with ignorant violence at the interests of one set of men almost inevitably endangers the interests of all. The fundamental rule in our national life—the rule which underlies all others—is that, on the whole and in the long run, we shall go up or down together.

The mechanism of modern business is so delicate that extreme care must be taken not to interfere with it in a spirit of rashness or ignorance. In dealing with business interests, for the government to undertake by crude and ill considered legislation to do what may turn out to be bad, would be to incur the risk of such farreaching national disaster that it would be preferable to undertake nothing at all. The men who demand the impossible or the undesirable serve as the allies of the forces with which they are nominally at war, for they hamper those who would endeavor to find out in rational fashion what the wrongs really are and to what extent and in what manner it is practicable to apply remedies.

How to Correct the Evils.

All this is true, and yet it is also true that there are real and grave evils, one of the chief being overcapitalization because of its many baleful consequences, and a resolute and practical effort must be made to correct these evils.

It is no limitation upon property rights or freedom of contract to require that when men receive from government the privilege of doing business under corporate form, which frees them from individual responsibility and enables them to call into their enterprises the capital of the public, they shall do so upon absolutely truthful representations as to the value of the property in which the capital is to be invested. Corporations engaged in interstate commerce should be regulated if they are found to exercise a license working to the public injury. It should be as much the aim of those who seek for social betterment to rid the business world of crimes of cunning as to rid the entire body politic of crimes of violence. Great corporations exist only because they are created and safeguarded by our institutions, and it is therefore our right and our duty to see that they work in harmony with these institutions.

Publicity the First Essential.

The first essential in determining how to deal with the great industrial combinations is knowledge of the facts—publicity. In the interest of the public the government should have the right to inspect and examine the workings of the great corporations engaged in interstate business. Publicity is the only sure remedy which we can now invoke. What further remedies are needed in the way of governmental regulation or taxation can only be determined after publicity has been obtained by process of law and in the course of administration. The first requisite is knowledge, full and complete—knowledge which may be made public to the world.

Artificial bodies, such as corporations and joint stock or other associations, depending upon any statutory law for their existence or privileges should be subject to proper governmental supervision, and full and accurate information as to their operations should be made public regularly at reasonable intervals.

The large corporations, commonly called trusts, though organized in one state, always do business in many states, often doing very little business in the state where they are incorporated. There is utter lack of uniformity in the state laws about them, and, as no state has any exclusive interest in or power over their acts, it has in practice proved impossible to get adequate regulation through state action. Therefore, in the interest of the whole people, the nation should, without interfering with the power of the states in the matter itself, also assume power of supervision and regulation over all corporations doing an interstate business.

Amend Constitution if Necessary.

When the constitution was adopted, at the end of the eighteenth century, no human wisdom could foretell the sweeping changes, alike in industrial and political conditions, which were to take place by the beginning of the twentieth century. At that time it was accepted as a matter of course that the several states were the proper authorities to regulate, so far as was then necessary, the comparatively insignificant and strictly localized corporate bodies of the day. The conditions are now wholly different, and wholly different action is called for.

I believe that a law can be framed which will enable the national government to exercise control along the lines above indicated, profiting by the experience gained through the passage and administration of the interstate commerce act. If, however, the judgment of the congress is that it lacks the constitutional power to pass such an act, then a constitutional amendment should be submitted to confer the power.

There should be created a cabinet officer, to be known as secretary of commerce and industries, as provided in the bill introduced at the last session of the congress. It should be his province to deal with commerce in its broadest sense, including among many other things whatever concerns labor and all matters affecting the great business corporations and our merchant marine.

Labor.

The president declares that he regards it necessary to re-enact the Chinese exclusion law. In regard to labor he says that the government should provide in its contracts that all work should be done under "fair" conditions and that all night work should be forbidden for women and children as well as excessive overtime. He continues:

Very great good has been and will be accomplished by associations or unions of wageworkers when managed with forethought and when they combine insistence upon their own rights with law abiding respect for the rights of others. The display of these qualities in such bodies is a duty to the nation no less than to the associations themselves. Finally, there must also in many cases be action by the government in order to safeguard the rights and interests of all. Under our constitution there is much more scope for such action by the state and the municipality than by the nation. But on points such as those touched on above the national government can act.

He asserts that the immigration laws are unsatisfactory and that a law should be enacted to keep out not only anarchists, but persons of a low moral tendency or of unsavory reputation and those who are below a certain standard of economic fitness to enter our industrial field as competitors with American labor.

The Tariff and Reciprocity.

The president declares that nothing could be more unwise than to disturb the business interests of the country by any general tariff change at this time. He adds:

Yet it is not only possible, but eminently desirable, to combine with the stability of our economic system a supplementary system of reciprocal benefit and obligation with other nations. Such reciprocity is an incident and result of the firm establishment and preservation of our present economic policy. It was specially provided for in the present tariff law.

Reciprocity must be treated as the handmaiden of protection. Our first duty is to see that the protection granted by the tariff in every case where it is needed is maintained, and that reciprocity be sought for so far as it can safely be done without injury to our home industries. Just how far this is must be determined according to the individual case, remembering always that every application of our tariff policy to meet our shifting national needs must be conditioned upon the cardinal fact that the duties must never be reduced below the point that will cover the difference between the labor cost here and abroad. The well being of the wageworker is a prime consideration of our entire policy of economic legislation.

Need For Wider Markets.

Subject to this proviso of the proper protection necessary to our industrial well being at home, the principle of reciprocity must command our hearty support. The phenomenal growth of our export trade emphasizes the urgency of the need for wider markets and for a liberal policy in dealing with foreign nations. Whatever is merely petty and vexatious in the way of trade restrictions should be avoided. The customers to whom we dispose of our surplus products in the long run, directly or indirectly, purchase those surplus products by giving us something in return. Their ability to purchase our products should as far as possible be secured by so arranging our tariff as to enable us to take from them those products which we can use without harm to our own industries and labor or the use of which will be of marked benefit to us.

It is most important that we should maintain the high level of our present prosperity. We have now reached the point in the development of our interests where we are not only able to supply our own markets, but to produce a constantly growing surplus for which we must find markets abroad. To secure these markets we can utilize existing duties in any case where they are no longer needed for the purpose of protection, or in any case where the article is not produced here and the duty is no longer necessary for revenue, as giving us something to offer in exchange for what we ask. The cordial relations with other nations which are so desirable will naturally be promoted by the course thus required by our own interests.

The natural line of development for a policy of reciprocity will be in connection with those of our productions which no longer require all of the support once needed to establish them upon a sound basis and with those others where either because of natural or of economic causes we are beyond the reach of successful competition.

I ask the attention of the senate to the reciprocity treaties laid before it by my predecessor.

The Merchant Marine.

The condition of the American merchant marine is such as to call for immediate remedial action by the congress. It is discreditable to us as a nation that our merchant marine should be utterly insignificant in comparison to that of other nations which we overtop in other forms of business. We should not longer submit to conditions under which only a trifling portion of our great commerce is carried in our own ships. To remedy this state of things would not merely serve to build up our shipping interests, but it would also result in benefit to all who are interested in the permanent establishment of a wider market for American products and would provide an auxiliary force for the navy. Ships work for their own countries just as railroads work for their terminal points. Shipping lines, if established to the principal countries with which we have dealings, would be of political as well as commercial benefit. From every standpoint it is unwise for the United States to continue to rely upon the ships of competing nations for the distribution of our goods. It should be made advantageous to carry American goods in American built ships.

At present American shipping is under certain great disadvantages when put in competition with the shipping of foreign countries. Many of the fast foreign steamships, at a speed of fourteen knots or above, are subsidized, and all our ships, sailing vessels and steamers alike, cargo carriers of slow speed and mail carriers of high speed, have to meet the fact that the original cost of building American ships is greater than is the case abroad; that the wages paid American officers and seamen are very much higher than those paid the officers and seamen of foreign competing countries, and that the standard of living on our ships is far superior to the standard of living on the ships of our commercial rivals. Our government should take such action as will remedy these inequalities. The American merchant marine should be restored to the ocean.

Financial.

The passage of the act establishing gold as the standard money has, it is declared, been shown to be timely and judicious. The president adds:

In many respects the national banking law furnishes sufficient liberty for the proper exercise of the banking function, but there seems to be need of better safeguards against the deranging influence of commercial crises and financial panics. Moreover, the currency of the country should be made responsive to the demands of our domestic trade and commerce.

Economy in expenditures is urged. Amendment of the interstate commerce act is advised to insure the cardinal provisions of that act. The work carried on by the department of agriculture is next considered and praised highly. The president then turns to forest preservation and irrigation of arid lands, saying that both are highly necessary. He would put all the work in connection with the forest reserves in charge of the bureau of forestry.

Irrigation.

The president continues by tracing the connection between the forest reserves and the water supply. He says:

The forests are natural reservoirs. By restraining the streams in flood and replenishing them in drought they make possible the use of waters otherwise wasted. They prevent the soil from washing and so protect the storage reservoirs from filling up with silt. Forest conservation is, therefore, an essential condition of water conservation.

The forests alone cannot, however, fully regulate and conserve the waters of the arid region. Great storage works are necessary to equalize the flow of streams and to save the flood waters. Their construction has been conclusively shown to be an undertaking too vast for private effort. Nor can it be best accomplished by the individual states acting alone. The government should construct and maintain these reservoirs as it does other public works. Where their purpose is to regulate the flow of streams, the water should be turned freely into the channels in the dry season to take the same course under the same laws as the natural flow.

The reclamation of the unsettled arid public lands presents a different problem. Here it is not enough to regulate the flow of streams. The object of the government is to dispose of the land to settlers who will build homes upon it. To accomplish this object water must be brought within their reach.

The pioneer settlers on the arid public domain chose their homes along streams from which they could themselves divert the water to reclaim their holdings. Such opportunities are practically gone. There remain, however, vast areas of public land which can be made available for homestead settlement, but only by reservoirs and main line canals impracticable for private enterprise. These irrigation works should be built by the national government. The lands reclaimed by them should be reserved by the government for actual settlers, and the cost of construction should, so far as possible, be repaid by the land reclaimed. The distribution of the water, the division of the streams among irrigators, should be left to the settlers themselves in conformity with state laws and without interference with those laws or with vested rights.

The declaration is made that in the arid states the only right to water which should be recognized is that of use. The president says that the doctrine of private ownership of water apart from land cannot prevail without causing wrong.

Insular Problems.

Insular questions are next treated. In Hawaii our aim must be to develop the territory on the traditional American lines. Porto Rico is declared to be thriving as never before. The attention of congress is called to the need of legislation concerning the island's public lands. In Cuba it is stated that much progress has been made toward putting the independent government of the island upon a firm footing, and it is declared that independence will be an accomplished fact. The president adds:

Elsewhere I have discussed the question of reciprocity. In the case of Cuba, however, there are weighty reasons of morality and of national interest why the policy should be held to have a peculiar application, and I most earnestly ask your attention to the wisdom, indeed to the vital need, of providing for a substantial reduction in the tariff duties on Cuban imports into the United States.

In dealing with the Philippine people we must show both patience and strength, forbearance and steadfast resolution. Our aim is high. We do not desire to do for the islanders merely what has elsewhere been done for tropic peoples by even the best foreign governments. We hope to do for them what has never before been done for any people of the tropics—to make them fit for self government after the fashion of the really free nations.

The only fear is lest in our overanxiety we give them a degree of independence for which they are unfit, thereby inviting reaction and disaster. As fast as there is any reasonable hope that in a given district the people can govern themselves self government has been given in that district. There is not a locality fitted for self government which has not received it. But it may well be that in certain cases it will have to be withdrawn because the inhabitants show themselves unfit to exercise it; such instances have already occurred. In other words, there is not the slightest chance of our failing to show a sufficiently humanitarian spirit. The danger comes in the opposite direction.

Troubles Ahead Yet.

There are still troubles ahead in the islands. The insurrection has become an affair of local banditti and marauders, who deserve no higher regard than the brigands of portions of the old world. Encouragement, direct or indirect, to these insurrectos stands on the same footing as encouragement to hostile Indians in the days when we still had Indian wars.

The president declares that the time has come for additional legislation for the Philippines. He says:

It is necessary that the congress should pass laws by which the resources of the islands can be developed, so that franchises (for limited terms of years) can be granted to companies doing business in them and every encouragement be given to the incoming of business men of every kind. It is urgently necessary to enact suitable laws dealing with general transportation, mining, banking, currency, homesteads and the use and ownership of the lands and timber. These laws will give free play to industrial enterprise, and the commercial development which will surely follow will afford to the people of the islands the best proofs of the sincerity of our desire to aid them.

The Cable and the Canal.

I call your attention most earnestly to the crying need of a cable to Hawaii and the Philippines, to be continued from the Philippines to points in Asia. We should not defer a day longer than necessary the construction of such a cable. It is demanded not merely for commercial but for political and military considerations. Either the congress should immediately provide for the construction of a government cable or else an arrangement should be made by which like advantages to those accruing from a government cable may be secured to the government by contract with a private cable company.

No single great material work which remains to be undertaken on this continent is of such consequence to the American people as the building of a canal across the isthmus connecting North and South America. Its importance to the nation is by no means limited merely to its material effects upon our business prosperity, and yet with a view to these effects alone it would be to the last degree important for us immediately to begin it. While its beneficial effects would perhaps be most marked upon the Pacific coast and the gulf and South Atlantic states, it would also greatly benefit other sections. It is emphatically a work which it is for the interest of the entire country to begin and complete as soon as possible.

I am glad to be able to announce to you that our negotiations on this subject with Great Britain, conducted on both sides in a spirit of friendliness and mutual good will, have resulted in my being able to lay before the senate a treaty which, if ratified, will enable us to begin preparations for an isthmian canal at any time and which guarantees to this nation every right that it has ever asked in connection with the canal. It specifically provides that the United States alone shall do the work of building and assume the responsibility of safeguarding the canal and shall regulate its neutral use by all nations on terms of equality without the guarantee or interference of any outside nation from any quarter.

The Monroe Doctrine.

The Monroe doctrine should be the cardinal feature of the foreign policy of all the nations of the two Americas, as it is of the United States. The Monroe doctrine is a declaration that there must be no territorial aggrandizement by any non-American power at the expense of any American power on American soil. It is in nowise intended as hostile to any nation in the old world. Still less is it intended to give cover to any aggression by one new world power at the expense of any other. It is simply a step, and a long step, toward assuring the universal peace of the world by securing the possibility of permanent peace on this hemisphere.

During the past century other influences have established the permanence and independence of the smaller states of Europe. Through the Monroe doctrine we hope to be able to safeguard like independence and secure like permanence for the lesser among the new world nations.

This doctrine has nothing to do with the commercial relations of any American power save that it in truth allows each of them to form such as it desires. In other words, it is really a guarantee of the commercial independence of the Americas. We do not ask under this doctrine for any exclusive commercial dealings with any other American state. We do not guarantee any state against punishment if it misconducts itself, provided that punishment does not take the form of the acquisition of territory by any non-American power. Our attitude in Cuba is a sufficient guarantee of our own good faith. We have not the slightest desire to secure any territory at the expense of any of our neighbors.

The Navy.

The president devotes considerable space to the navy, the upbuilding of which, he says, should be steadily continued. The navy offers us, it is declared, the only means of insisting on the Monroe doctrine, and a strong navy is the best guarantee against war. He recommends that provision be made not only for more ships, but for more men. Four thousand additional seamen and 1,000 additional marines should be provided, as well as an increase in officers. After indorsing the naval militia forces the president says:

But in addition we should at once provide for a national naval reserve, organized and trained under the direction of the navy department and subject to the call of the chief executive whenever war becomes imminent. It should be a real auxiliary to the naval seagoing peace establishment and offer material to be drawn on at once for manning our ships in time of war.

The Army.

It is not necessary to increase our army beyond its present size at this time, but it is necessary to keep it at the highest point of efficiency. The individual units who as officers and enlisted men compose this army are, we have good reason to believe, at least as efficient as those of any other army in the entire world. It is our duty to see that their training is of a kind to insure the highest possible expression of power to these units when acting in combination.

A general staff should be created. Promotions should be made solely with regard to the good of the service. Congress ought to provide, the president adds, for field exercises. He continues:

Action should be taken in reference to the militia and to the raising of volunteer forces. Our militia law is obsolete and worthless. The organization and armament of the national guard of the several states, which are treated as militia in the appropriations by the congress, should be made identical with those provided for the regular forces. The obligations and duties of the guard in time of war should be carefully defined and a system established by law under which the method of procedure of raising volunteer forces should be prescribed in advance.

The Merit System.

The president approves the merit system of making appointments and says:

I recommend the passage of a law which will extend the classified service to the District of Columbia or will at least enable the president thus to extend it. In my judgment all laws providing for the temporary employment of clerks should hereafter contain a provision that they be selected under the civil service law.

It is important to have this system obtain at home, but it is even more important to have it applied rigidly in our insular possessions. The importance of improving the consular service by the passage of new laws is emphasized.

The president then turns to the Indian question. He says:

We should now break up the tribal funds, doing for them what allotment does for the tribal lands—that is, they should be divided into individual holdings. There will be a transition period during which the funds will in many cases have to be held in trust. This is the case also with the lands. A step should be put upon the indiscriminate permission to Indians to lease their allotments. The effort should be steadily to make the Indian work like any other man on his own ground. The marriage laws of the Indians should be made the same as those of the whites. In the schools the education should be elementary and largely industrial.

Cordial support from congress and people is asked for the St. Louis exposition. The Charleston exposition is commended to the good will of the people. The work of the Pan-American exposition is praised.

It is recommended that the census office as now constituted should be made a permanent government bureau.

The Postal Service.

A tribute is paid to the postal service, and the extension of free rural delivery is commended. The postoffice department should be sustained, the president says, in its efforts to remove the abuses in connection with second class mail matter.

Much attention is paid to the situation in China, and the progress toward the establishment of peace there is recapitulated. Stress is laid on the importance of our continuing to advocate moderation in the dealings with China. The president concludes his message as follows:

The death of Queen Victoria caused the people of the United States deep and heartfelt sorrow, to which the government gave full expression. When President McKinley died, our nation in turn received from every quarter of the British empire expressions of grief and sympathy no less sincere. The death of the Empress Dowager Frederick of Germany also aroused the genuine sympathy of the American people, and this sympathy was cordially reciprocated by Germany when the president was assassinated. Indeed, from every quarter of the civilized world we received at the time of the president's death assurances of such grief and regard as to touch the hearts of our people. In the midst of our affliction we reverently thank the Almighty that we are at peace with the nations of mankind, and we firmly intend that our policy shall be such as to continue unbroken these international relations of mutual respect and good will.

MAY FALL BACK ON MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

How That Subject Has Been Threshed Out by the Borough Council.

REPORT IS PROGRESS.

MAY TALK ABOUT IT AT MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT.

What the Committee on Municipal Ownership Has Accomplished—About That Long Talked-of Visit.

There will be no specially important business to occupy the attention of the Borough Council at its next regular meeting, Friday evening. From present appearances it is possible that the Councilmanic body will have to fall back on its old standby, municipal ownership of the water supply, for want of some other subject for discussion. While it seems that all the wheat, of the sort there is, has already been threshed out of municipal control of the water works, yet it can generally answer the purpose as a topic.

Soon after the reorganization of the Council, subsequent to the spring election, a committee was appointed on municipal ownership and the first task assigned to it was to investigate and report on the feasibility of the establishment and control of a municipal water plant. Three Councilmen were placed on the committee and the chairmanship given to Charles A. Lee, who espouses the cause. Apparently the committee set about its duty in an earnest manner and frequently it reported "progress" at successive Councilmanic meetings.

Wisely the committee's actions have been kept quiet for the reason that should its plans become generally known, some objects might be frustrated by opposing interests. In some manner, however, the information was spread abroad that a Boston syndicate had made a most favorable offer to the committee, one of its terms being that the borough would be given the right to purchase the plant at its actual value after a certain time limit. This offer was made several months ago and an early report on it may be expected.

It was found that that the committee's work was somewhat handicapped by reason of the fact that it was without funds with which to pursue its investigations, and this obstacle was overcome by the appropria on of $100 to be used in municipal water ownership research. This sum, as was said, would permit the committee to engage a competent engineer to make soundings for a water supply, and it was stated that in a very short time an expert from New York would be on to undertake the work. It is possible that in the very near future a report on this part of the task may be made, although it has not been made public whether much progress has been made in this particular line.

An interesting feature of the question was presented in an open council meeting when the mayor of Deckertown addressed the body upon the practical side of the subject, as found from experience in his borough. The talk served to renew the energy of the committee.

On more than one occasion Councilman Northrop, who is a member of the committee, extended an invitation, in open council, to visit a place where municipal ownership of water supply works admirably. Care was taken that the locality of the place in question be not become known, but it was generally accepted that Vineland, N. J., was to be the objective point of the journey. It is quite probable that the second committee will visit the place before a final report, embodying statistics and minute details, is presented to the Council.

Over on Greenbrook road, the mayor is experimenting on his own hook. He has had a well drilled, and the flow of water therefrom is said to be exceptionally good. Certain it is that this result will be of value to the committee. The $100, which was appropriated some months ago, will permit Chairman Lee and his fellow committeemen to perform the duty in a business-like manner.

Silver Medal Contest.

The W. C. T. U. will hold a silver medal contest under the direction of Miss Mary A. Luckey, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Thursday evening, December 12, at 8 o'clock. This is a new feature of the temperance work and it is hoped that the friends of the union will attend.

THE NEXT BATTLE.

Lunch-Wagon War Will Be Renewed at Board Meeting.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 4—The lunch-wagon war is still on, but it is now probable that no definite action will be taken by Superintendent of Police Hardgrove until the next regular meeting of the Board of Town Commissioners Monday evening.

Wm. Montgomery, the proprietor of the wagon, says his lawyer, Hon. A. A. Clark, will be on hand to look after his interets. It will doubtless be a pretty lively scrap, as the Superintendent declares the wagon is a nuisance and must be closed on Sundays.

Peter Sheehan, who was arrested for causing a disturbance in the wagon, was released by Justice W. R. Sutphen because of an error in the warrant.

SOMERVILLE'S NEW STATION

MANY IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE BY JERSEY CENTRAL.

New Station for North Branch Road Will Connect by Tunnel—New Tracks.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 4—The New Jersey Central has a large gang at work on its proposed improvements at the station here.

The freight house has been removed to Bridge street. Gallagher & Richards have removed their large ice house to a sidetrack on the South Branch road, and Sergeant Brothers will be obliged to remove their coal and lumber building. Where these three structures stood will be located the new yard. The tracks to this are now being laid by the workmen.

The new Y for the South Branch road is about completed, and the more direct tracks of that branch are almost finished. The Y will do away with the backing of trains down over Bridge street.

As told some time ago in The Press a station for the South Branch road will be erected opposite to the regular one and a fence constructed between the eastbound and westbound tracks. The connection between the two stations will be by an underground passage.

When all the proposed improvements are completed Somerville will have a depot that will compare favorably with any along the line.

BE THERE ON TIME.

Rev. C. E. Herring's Instructions to His Congregation on Funerals.

At the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, Rev. C. E. Herring, the pastor, took occasion to make a few remarks concerning late arrivals at funerals. He said that these persons, who always are late at such services, cause extreme annoyance to the minister officiating and he considered it the height of rudeness to the mourners. His injunction was that unless people can attend a funeral on time they had better stay away, thus they would show more repsect to the mourners and all concerned.

Gift of Wild Turkeys.

Frank Hedden received yesterday a gift of three fine wild turkeys from Herbert Rockfellow who is at present in Cardinal, Matthews county, Va. They are nearly as large as the domesticated Jersey bird and are only a sample, Mr. Rockfellow says, of the game to be found where he is located.

Work in Oklahoma.

Mrs. E. B. Horton, who has just returned from visiting the Indian mission in Oklahoma, will speak to the members of the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, at its meeting to be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Tenth Anniversary.

The tenth anniversary of the Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be celebrated Saturday morning, when reports of the past year's work will be received. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis will make the address.

Adjourned Sale.

There will be an adjourned sale of horses, wagons, contents of stable, etc., of the late P. M. French, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, on the premises, rear of 36 Somerset street.

Endeavor Society.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a social in the church Tuesday evening, December 10, to which all friends of the society are invited.

Cleared $50.

The West End Hose Company cleared $50 on the opening night of its fair, which was Monday evening.

IS LOOKING AFTER CITY'S MILK SUPPLY

City Health Board Has Engaged Expert to Investigate Local Conditions.

AFTER MILK DEALERS.

L. R. THURLOW, OF BROOKLINE, MASS., NOW EMPLOYED HERE.

Plainfield Board of Health Starts More Aggressive Campaign Regulating Milk and Water Supply.

The Plainfield Board of Health has decided upon a more aggressive plan of work for the future which will insure to the residents of this city an absolutely pure milk supply. For some time past the board has been grappling with these questions, especially the one in referance to milk. That there have been gross violations of sanitary rules regarding the serving of milk in this city, goes without saying, and it is the purpose of the board to put a stop to them.

Former Street Commissioner R. A. Meeker, has, for several months past, taken the initiative in this matter for the board and his work has resulted in the accomplishment of much good. The milk supply has been better and there has been no outbreak of disease from that cause for some time in consequence. It is held by the board that the people are entitled to pure milk and that the conditions under which it is served should be as sanitary as it is possible to make them.

In order to carry out this plan the board has engaged L. R. Thurlow, of Brookline, Mass., to take up the work in Plainfield and devote his entire time to looking after the general hygiene of the city, especially as regards milk and water. Mr. Thurlow is twenty-three of age and a graduate of the Massachusetts Instititute of Technology. He has the very highest recommendations from the institute as to his qualifications for the work and the board is congratulating itself that it has been able to secure such a person.

Mr. Thurlow entered upon his work this week and is already busily engaged. He has been devoting much of his time thus far to getting the names and location of the milkmen and their dairies and as to where they get their milk. It has been discovered that considerable milk sold in Plainfield comes from out of town farms, some coming as far as from Budd's Lake. While the board does not make it compulsory for a milkman to take out a license, whereby he is entitled to a certificate giving him a clear bill, the board intends to place such restrictions about the milk business that a dealer will want to protect himself as well as his customers to the fullest extent.

Mr. Thurlow will keep a watchful eye on all dairies and other places coming under the supervision of his department and will personally see that every rule of the board is strictly adhered to. In this way the people of Plainfield will have every reason to feel safe regarding the milk that they use. For the present, Mr. Thurlow will devote most of his time to the milk question, and when that is well under control he will give his attention to other matters.

Prize Choristers.

The prize choristers of Grace church for November were John Yose, Stanfell Forbes, and the Misses Jessie Little, Mildred Ulrich, Beatrice Miner, Bessie Martin and Ethel Forbes. Miss Beatrice Miner received the prayer book and hymnal.

Church Question Box.

At the mid-week prayer-meeting service in Trinity Reformed church this evening the question box topic will be "How can we get the greatest good out of our daily reading of the Bible." The offering will be for the improvement fund.

Twenty-one Permits.

During the month of November, Building Inspector T. O. Doane granted twenty-one permits, seventeen being for the erection of new buildings and the remaining four for extensions and improvements.

Tea and Sale.

The Daughters of the Cross will hold a tea and sale at the home of Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, of Myrtle avenue, Friday afternoon.

Result of Entertainment.

The junior class of the Plainfield High School raised approximately $50 by the entertainment it gave in the Franklin School last week.

FIREMEN'S FAIR IS A DECIDED SUCCESS

Second Night of West End Hose Company's Affair at Saengerbund Hall.

DIFFERENT PROGRAMME

"JAPANESE TEA PARTY" WAS THE FEATURE OF IT.

There Were Also Recitations and Musical Selections—Those Who Took Part in the Programme.

The second evening of the West End Hose Company's fair, being held in Saengerbund Hall this week, fully warranted the prediction freely made that it was destined to be a success. While the attendance was not as large as desired, yet those who were there had a jolly good time.

There was an important change in the programme. Madame Bartlett superintended the rendition of the "Japanese Tea Party," which was given by a number of youthful boroughites. Miss Clara Weber recited "The Fire Fiend" and also a selection in the Dutch dialect. Two soprano numbers were sung by Miss J. Smith. These included "'Tis Not True" and "Only To See Her Face Again" Madame Bartlett, herself, rendered in mezzo-soprano, "Musica Prohibita" and "The Widow's Song." The Gesang and Turn Verein's singing section favored the audience with several songs of the Fatherland.

The principal characters in the "Japanese Tea Party" were taken by Madame Bartlett, and the Misses J. Smith and Agnes Bailey. Taking the part of Japanese girls in the umbrella drill were the Misses Clara and Florence Smith, Mamie Carney and Edna Ryal.

Others in the cast included the Misses Irene and Bernette Duchsne, Maggie Wyckoff, Florence LaPorte, Frances Newman, Ethel and May Wickoff, Jennie Watson, Ellen Connolly, Mary Conroy and John Conroy, Andrew Carney, Fred Emmons, Edmund Fitzgerald, Joseph Blatz, Jr., Frank Riley, Henry Haurand, Jr., Edmund LaPorte, John Kennedy, Edward Bimble, Raymond Smith and James O'Neill.

During the evening, Miss Tina Smith rendered "Would You" to the delight of the crowd.

All the contestants were well patronized and the sales at the various booths surpassed expectations.

As equally an attractive programme as that given by Madame Bartlett last evening, is billed for tonight. Emil G. Sokol, recently of the Empire Concert and Comedy Company, and James D. Nerrie, will give a comic sketch and several individual features.

The bowling contests which were commenced last night will be continued. Prizes so far have been won by John Wirth, Jacob Hoffman, Henry Rummell, John Brucher and Theodore Kreutzfell.

Tomorrow evening, which is firemen's night, Company K., of this city, will attend the fair. A new feature of the affair will be a lunch counter in charge of Mrs. Charles Keller and Mrs. William Pasch.

Getting Ready For Sale.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church has formed a sewing circle and will meet for the purpose of sewing garments at the home of Mrs. J. Angerbauer, of 318 East Third street, tomorrow afternoon. In January, a sale will be held in the church by the society.

All-Day Conference.

By appointment of the General Synod, an all-day conference on foreign missions will be held in the Marble Collegiate church, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York, Friday at 10 o'clock in the morning, 2:30 and 8 o'clock in the afternoon and evening.

Election and Smoker.

There will be election of officers and a smoker at the meeting of Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, Thursday evening, December 12.

Other Things Doing.

Owing to the fair being held by the organization, there was no meeting of the West End Hose Company Monday evening. The members will assemble on call.

Wardrobe Needed.

Muhlenberg Hospital is much in need of a wardrobe. If any friend has one to give, it will be thankfully received.

PAN-AMERICAN CLOSED AFTER TWO NIGHTS

But Coffers of United Societies at the First Baptist Church Were Filled.

WAS A LARGE TURNOUT.

SECOND NIGHT EVEN MORE SUCCESSFUL THAN THE FIRST.

"Ballad of The Oysterman" Again Attracted Much Interest—A Change in Those in Charge of Supper—Goodly Sum Netted.

The burlesque on the Pan-American Exposition at the First Baptist church, which closed last evening, surpassed the great model at Buffalo in one important respect and that is that the great receipts coupled with the revenue obtained from the numerous attractions, not only permitted the full payment of all expenses but netted a good sized surplus. The joint treasury of the Christian Endeavor Society and the Young Ladies' Missionary Society was provided with a handsome increase and the patrons of the show were well rewarded for the suins they expended.

All the attractions of the previous evening were to be seen last night and if anything they were better.

There was a goodly attendance and the suppers, ice cream, candy, lemonade and countless other things went "like hot cakes" as the saying is.

The "Ballad of the Oysterman" was given twice and the audience in each case was appreciative. Added to this was a recitation given by Mrs. John French. She read F. P. Dunn's article on "Mr. Dooley on the Midway" which provoked unlimited applause. Clifford Braider rendered several selections on the piano. Miss May Rodman, at the Indian reservation, told fortunes.

A change was made in the corps of those entrusted to preside at the various supper tables. Those in charge included Mrs. G. H. Robins, Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. Hannah Flanders, Mrs. C. E. Runk, Mrs. Samuel St. J. McCutchen, Miss Rafferty and Miss Florence Marsh. Much credit was given the originators of the affair for their ingenuity in devising the scheme of arrangements.

TO AID HOSPITAL.

Somerville Women Have Established a Temporary Store.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 4—Under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary Board a five and ten cent store has been opened in the Galpin building in the interests of the Somerset Hospital. It will be continued for one week.

It is the purpose of the women to interest all the people of the county in the hospital, and secure additional support. All people who visit this sale will be told of the work done at this institution and the great benefit it is to the county.

Tea will be served every afternoon at a trifling cost.

Struck a Fortune.

Thomas Lister, of Tamaque, Pa., has struck a fortune in copper after years of work. He is engaged in mining in New Mexico and recently found a vein of copper, which is especially rich. As a result he was paid $80,000 by investors, who have organized a company of which he is the president. Mr. Lister is a brother of Charles and Harry Lister, of this city.

Banking Paper Published.

J. Herbert Case, of the Market and Fulton Bank, New York, has an article on "Discount Department" in the December Bulletin of the American Institute of Bank Clerks. Mr. Case read this paper before the New York Chapter at its meeting last month.

Grand Officers Elected.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., will meet this evening and elect Grand Lodge officers and subordinate lodge officers will be nominated. A full attendance of members is requested.

Practicing Christmas Music.

Sunday afternoon the members of the Sunday-school of the First Baptiss church began practicing Christmas music. John G. McLaughlin is chairman of the Christmas committee.

Box for Southern School.

The Woman's Association of the Congregational church will meet tomorrow afternoon to prepare Christmas boxes for teachers in a southern school.

FANWOOD IS WEARY.

Residents Are Not Pleased at the Many Burglaries.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, Dec. 4.—No new developements have come to light in the burglaries Sunday night of the residences of Wm. R. Stanbury and Wm. E. Collins.

The borough during the past few years has been a mecca for burglars, and the residents are beginning to wonder if there will ever be an end to it. It is the general impression that the work is not that of professionals, but of tramps, many of whom many of whom make their winter rendezvous in the woods near by.

Several efforts were made last winter to clear out the gangs that were making life miserable for the residents, but it did very little good. As soon as the officers left the camp the tramps would begin to return.

IN NEW ENGLAND FASHION

A SUPPER FOLLOWED "THE TRIP AROUND THE WORLD."

A Successful Affair Which Was Given at First M. E. Church Last Evening.

A happy and pleasant ending to "The Trip Around the World," given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society and the Young Ladies' Mission Band, of the First M. E. church, Monday evening and yesterday, was the old fashioned New England supper given in the basement of the church, last evening. Owing to the very enclement weather of yesterday the trips were not as successful as hoped for, but many braved the storm, last evening, to partake of the excellent supper provided.

The large room in the basement of the church was attractively decorated and the tables presented a pleasant appearance. Mrs. L. M. French was chairman of the supper committee. She was assisted by Mrs. O. L. Jenkins and Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass. Those who presided at the various tables included Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. James P. Homan, Mrs. John H. McNaughton, Mrs. Nelson A. Miller and Mrs. James R. Joy.

These women were assisted by the following waitresses: The Misses Florence Derby, May Brown, Florence McDonald, Mabel Vail, Mabel Jenkins, Carrie Mulford, Lottie Montross, Grace Webster, Cora Harris, Katy Slade, Eva Webster, Florence Symons, Mabel Symons and Luella Derby. Miss Edna French was the cashier, while Dr. Frank W. French proved himself a valuable assistant in helping the waitresses.

DIED IN HIS CHAIR.

Sudden Demise of One of Dunellen's Oldest Citizens.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Dec. 4—Suydam Sutphen, an old resident of this place, died yesterday, aged eighty-one years.

Mr. Sutphen had been complaining for some time but yesterday morning felt somewhat improved. In the afternoon he took a nap in his chair. When his housekeeper attempted to arouse him, she was unable to do so. Dr. Brakeley was called and found the man had been dead some time, and the body was cold.

He had presumably had an attack of heart failure while asleep. He leaves one son.

Junior Missionary Exercise.

The missionary exercise, entitled "Ye are the Light of the World," given by the Congregational Juniors in costume will be repeated by request this evening at 8 o'clock. Contrary to the notice given Sunday, the exercise may be expected whether the weather is fine or not, as it has been learned that the exercise cannot be given later.

Souvenir Postal Card.

The Daily Press is in receipt of a souvenir postal card of Weimar, Saxony, sent by George C. M. Smith, a graduate of the North Plainfield High School, who is pursuing a course of musical instruction in the University of Weimar.

Working for Building Fund.

Rev. O. G. Norseen, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Pilgrim church, has raised the sum of $150 towards the fund for the new edifice the congregation contemplates erecting. This amount was donated by two individuals.

Endeavor Business Meeting.

A business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the East Third Street chapel will be held Thursday evening. Business of importance will be transacted.

HEARTY WELCOME FOR THE PRINCETON BOYS

Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs Gave Concert at the Casino Last Night.

HALL WAS CROWDED.

COLLEGE INSTRUMENTALISTS WERE PARTICULARLY FINE.

After An Enjoyable Programme the Floor Was Cleared and the Young People Enjoyed a Dance.

A fashionable audience packed the Casino to the very doors, last evening, for the opening concert of the season by the Princeton University Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs. The college boys were in high favor and merited the hearty applause which followed every number. At the conclusion of the concert, the floor was cleared and a dance enjoyed by the college boys and local society folk.

While the entire programme was much enjoyed, it was the work of the banjo and mandolin clubs which was particularly acceptable. No finer music on those popular instruments by a college organization has ever been heard in Plainfield. The glee club was well liked. The boys sang well and with lots of spirit and enthusiasm. Their selections pleased. The quartette sang in good form while G. Young, the soloist, was very popular in his comic negro songs.

Under the leadership of Chas. H. Bradley, the banjo club shared the chief honors of the evening. The time was perfect, the collegians played with accuracy and spirit while the selections caught the popular ear. The mandolin club had some difficult numbers, but, led by Damon B. Pfeiffer, they were rendered with a skill that was extremely commendable. Schuberts "Serenade," played by that club, was of rare excellence.

The dance was well attended and continued until 2 o'clock this morning. The college boys were entertained at Plainfield homes. The Casino was lavishly decorated with Princeton flags and orange and black bunting.

AT SON'S HOME.

Funeral of Mrs. Ann Humble Took Place Yesterday.

The funeral of Mrs. Ann Humble, mother of Joseph Humble, of Somerset street, took place at the latter's home yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church and Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass officiated.

There were a large number of bereaving friends, and the floral tributes were quite beautiful. Rev. Mr. Herring read the scriptures and Rev. Dr. Snodgrass made a few appropriate remarks and closed with a prayer. Lynn Edsall rendered two favorite selections of Mrs. Humble. The pall bearers were William Shotwell, William Lunger, Jacob Voehl and Lewis Barkalew. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

THAT CLIPPING SOCIAL.

King's Daughters of Grace M. E. Church Prepare For It.

A meeting of the Golden Rule Circle, King's Daughters, of the Grace M. E. church, was held at the home of Miss VanFleet, of Jackson avenue, Monday evening. A report of the Thanksgiving committee was approved. Arrangements were made for the clipping social, which will be held tomorrow evening in the church edifice. Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock a special meeting of the society will be held in the church edifice.

ON ECONOMICS.

Lectures by Superintendent Wightman at Borough Schools.

Superintendent Homer J. Wightman is giving occasional lectures on economic topics before the pupils of the North Plainefild High and grammar departments of the Somerset street schools. At least once a week he speaks on some social question at the chapel exercises. His plan is to state facts gleaned from a thorough study of the particular subject and to allow the pupil to draw his own conclusions. On Monday his topic was "Strikes."

Invitation Dance.

An invitation dance will be given in Red Men's hall Monday evening, December 9.

At El Paso tourists for California only, who will leave New York February 25, will join the party, and the Mexican tourists who do not care to go to the Pacific Coast will return to New York. The California party will visit Los Angeles and the Southern California coast resorts, San Francisco, and, on the return trip, the Grand Canon of the Colorado in Arizona. Tourists will have thirteen days in Mexico and nineteen days on the Pacific Coast, the California tour returning to New York on March 27, the whole tour covering forty-five days. The rate, covering all necessary expenses during the entire trip, will be $575 from points on the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburg. For Mexico only the rate will be $350, and for California only $375. The party will travel over the entire route in a special train of Pullman drawing-room sleeping cars, compartment, dining, smoking, and observation cars. California-only tourists will use special cars to El Paso, and Mexico-only passengers will use special cars returning from El Paso. For detailed itineraries and fullinformation address Geo. W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. Safe pills. L. W. Randolph.

Headache Remedies.

If ordinary remedies give you only temporary relief, your headaches are probably the result of eye-strain. Glasses correctly fitted will effect a permanent cure. Stiles & Co., 107 East Front street.

SALARIES FIXED FOR ELIZABETH'S FIREMEN

How They Are As Compared With Those Paid in Plainfield.

ARE NEARLY ALIKE.

LOCAL OFFICERS GET LESS, WHILE DRIVERS AND TILLERMEN MORE.

Sliding Scale Arranged on Term of Service for Paid Men in This City—Elizabeth's Call Men Get Double.

A schedule of the salaries in connection with the paid fire department service of Elizabeth has been prepared by the fire commissioners of that city. It differs to some extent from that of this city.

The chief of the new department, which begins its duties this week, will draw $1,000 a year. Here Chief Doane receives $700, even less than some of the firemen of this city are paid. It should be stated, however, that he is allowed $500 per annum as building inspector, the two offices being distinct. The assistant chief at Elizabeth will receive $900 a year, which is $100 more than the second assistant chief of this city draws. The first assistant chief, who is on call, gets $100 here for his services.

The engineer of the steamer, on call, in this city, receives $75 per annum and the position at Elizabeth will pay $720, although in the latter instance the engineers are on duty. There is a decided advantage in favor of the Elizabeth so far as call men are concerned, for there they will be given $60 per year, while in this city they draw but $25.

The tillerman and drivers at the county seat will be paid $50 a month and there is no reward for long service. This is where the Plainfield department excels. Here they get $40 a month as soon as they go on duty and after six months the pay is increased to $50. When they have been in the department for three years, another advance is made and the men draw $55. Then comes the final reward which is $60 per month, when they have served for five years. As can be seen a tillerman or driver here receives $10 a month or $120 a year more than the man holding a corresponding position in the Elizabeth department, when the latter will have served for five years.

ENTERED ON WINTER'S WORK

YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB INSTALLED IN ITS NEW ROOMS.

Business Meeting and An Entertainment Each Month—Classes Held During Week.

The Young Women's Club, one of the few thriving female organizations in this city, is now fully installed in its rooms in the Babcock building and has entered upon the winter's work.

Its members now number forty who are divided into four classes as follows: Monday evening, physical culture; Wednesday, book-keeping, typewriting and stenography; Thursday, dancing; Friday, singing. Other classes are to be formed as needed.

The first Monday of each month is devoted to a business meeting. On the last Thursday, a general entertainment is given to which all the friends of the club are always welcome. All young women over fourteen years of age are eligible for membership and an excellent opportunity is offered for enjoyment and improvement.

LITERARY.

Dr. Rudolf Eucken, the distinguished Jena professor, is the author of the leading article in the December Forum. It deals with "The Status of Religion in Germany," and discusses how far the religious life of that country has been affected by the scientific and other progress of the last century. An urgent reform in international law is advocated by James G. Whiteley in the article which follows on "Private Property at Sea." "The Spanish Treaty Claims Commission," by Hon. Robert Hutcheson, is a rejoinder to a previous article in the same review. The business that will probably come before "The Present Session of Congress" is outlined by Henry L. West. "The Empire of Islands," by Joseph Sohn, emphasizes the importance of insular possessions in colonial expansion. The list of contents also includes "Reciprocity and Foreign Trade," by E. J. Gibson; "Licensed Gambling in Belgium," by George F. Babbitt; and "Lessons from International Exhibitions," by Joseph M. Rogers.

Like the November number, the Christinas issue of Leslie's Popular Monthly is beautifully decorated with color plate illustration, and the general appearance of the magazine is notable among the monthlies. The opening article, written by the famous showman, Frank C. Bostock, is illustrated by a score of sketches and finished portraits of living animals drawn from life by Charles C. Bull.

Israel Zangwill writes upon the long cherished design of the Jews to redeem and repeople the Holy Land. As for stories, the number is full of them. One a delightful story by the author of "Your Uncle Lew," another by the rising novelist, William McLeod Raine, a third by Onoto Watanna, a fourth by Sewell Ford, and still another by Cy Warman and others yet. The ingenuous Diary of a Japanese Girl is continued in this number, while Maurice Hewlett's novel continues its delightful course. In Marginalia Gelett Burgess appears at the head of a band of humorists.

ASTHMA CURE FREE.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. F. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully,
O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

February 5, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington street.

A TEN MILLION STEEL PLANT.

Mammoth Project For Canada, In Which Americans Are Interested.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Sir Christopher Furness, M. P., sailed for England yesterday, taking with him signed contracts for the building of twelve freight carrying steamers of from 6,000 to 10,000 dead weight capacity, the capital, nearly $4,000,000, to be furnished by Americans. Besides this he had also made arrangements with the Clergue interests at Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, for the erection of an immense shipbuilding plant, to be located at Sault Ste. Marie, close to the junction of the "Soo" canal and Lake Superior. Here will be erected steel works which will cost approximately $10,000,000, and the iron and coal fields of Canada will furnish the raw material.

Before sailing Sir Christopher said that during the two months he had spent in this country he had found out why the United States manufacturer is crowding the British producer. He has seen here the railroad locomotives hauling twice the load that is hauled on the English roads with half the expense. Everything else he had seen done on the same economic scale. Because he believes Canada is sure to profit by the greatness of the United States he has chosen to locate his next project there. The drawback of ice in the St. Lawrence river would be overcome by immense ice crushing steamers which would be constructed.

The Studebaker Will.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 4.—The will of Hon. Clem Studebaker has been admitted to probate. The estate is worth several million dollars and is divided among his wife and children. Six thousand shares of stock in the Studebaker Manufacturing company is divided equally among Colonel George M. Studebaker, Mrs. Charles Arthur Carlisle and Clement Studebaker, Jr. Each is also given $5,000 in cash. Ten thousand dollars is given to each of seven grandchildren and provision made for their education. The remainder of the estate goes to his wife, and $25,000 a year is set aside for her. No bequests are made to charity, but members of his family are requested to make such gifts as they should, considering their financial condition.

Army of Unemployed In Germany.

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—Official investigations made by the municipal council as to the number of unemployed in the various industries of Germany reveal a rather worse condition of affairs than had already been intimated by the German press. These investigations have resulted in showing that 20,600 men are employed in the metal trades today as against 73,100 employed in these same trades in the month of October, 1900. The working hours have been reduced in half of the factories. The unemployed in the larger towns amount to from 7 to 10 per cent of their populations, and the aggregate of unemployed in Germany reaches 500,000 men, or 4 per cent of the total number of artisans in the country.

The Bonine Trial.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The case of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine, on trial for the murder of James Seymour Ayres, Jr., is expected to go to the jury the latter part of this week. Three witnesses, intimate friends of the Ayres, were put on the stand yesterday and swore that they had seen a revolver in Ayres' room. Two of them, Duncan B. Hubbard and Thomas Ford, had come from Michigan to testify. They said the revolver greatly resembled the one in evidence. The wrapper worn by Mrs. Bonine on the night of the tragedy was again the subject of discussion, the defense putting on the stand witnesses whose evidence was intended to discredit that given by Dr. Shaeffer, the government expert.

Wireless Experiments at St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 4.—William Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, is due here today on the Allan line steamer Sardinian, from Liverpool Nov. 26, to conduct a series of experiments in wireless telegraphy in the fogbound regions around Cape Race. Workmen are now preparing a staff 240 feet high and other appliances to enable Mr. Marconi to conduct these trials. If the experiment succeeds, the government of Newfoundland proposes to install the wireless system of telegraphy along the coast of Labrador next summer.

BANK TELLER A THIEF

First National of Ballston Spa Reported $100,000 Short.

IS CLOSED BY THE COMPTROLLER.

The Alleged Defaulter Had Been a Trusted Employee For Thirty Years and Never Took a Vacation.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Teller Charles E. Fitcham of the First National bank is under arrest at his home here, charged with defalcations amounting to $100,000, which have closed the bank.

The bank began business in 1865, and its present officers are: President, Judge J. S. Lamoreaux; vice president, Harvey J. Donaldson; cashier, Stephen C. Medbery; teller, Charles E. Fitcham.

Judge Lamoreaux succeeded the late George West as president early in October of this year, at which time Mr. Donaldson succeeded to the vice presidency. The new executive officers began at once a thorough investigation of the bank's affairs and discovered indications of a defalcation on the part of Fitcham.

Cashier Medbery discovered the fact that one regular depositor's account of many years' standing had been marked closed. Knowing this to be erroneous, the investigation was pursued until it was seen that the stealing had been begun many years ago and attained large figures.

Bank Examiners E. J. Graham and Josiah Van Vranken were sent for and began a thorough examination. At the close of banking hours they reported a shortage of $100,000. The directors held a meeting and decided to close the bank pending an investigation. United States Commissioner Davison issued a warrant for Fitcham's arrest, and he was taken into custody at his home shortly before noon and was so startled by the knowledge that he had been discovered that he was taken with a nervous fit and became so ill that a doctor was called, and he was put to bed. An officer is now on guard in his room.

Fitcham did not live extravagantly, but it was known he had speculated in stocks, and it is surmised he lost his stealings in the market.

The examinations show the teller alone is responsible. It is not thought possible that any loss can come to depositors or certificate holders, as the bank has a surplus of $100,000, which it is hoped will nearly or quite meet the deficit and leave the bank's capital of $100,000 unimpaired.

Large Shipbuilding Order.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 4.—The Pere Marquette Railway company has ordered from the American Shipbuilding company a car ferry steamer at a cost of $400,000. The boat will be 338 feet keel and 50 feet beam. The second vessel ordered was a freighter for parties whose names are withheld. It will cost $250,000 and will be 356 feet keel and 50 feet beam. The car ferry will probably be built in Cleveland, the freighter probably in the South Chicago yard, and both boats will come out as soon as they can be built.

Lord Strathcona Ill.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the Canadian high commissioner, who has been confined to his house with a severe cold for some time, is still seriously ill. He cannot leave his bed and is unable to do any business. Several specialists have been consulted by Sir William Broadbent, who is attending the patient, and they have forbidden visits from any one excepting the members of his family.

Colored Foreman Causes Strike.

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Dec. 4.—Fifty-two employees of the Logan Iron and Steel company have quit work because of the appointment of a colored foreman over them. More colored workmen have been brought here to work in the scrapyards, but the mill men refuse to work the iron handled by them. Serious difficulties between the white and black workmen are feared.

Injunction Made Perpetual.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 4.—Judge John H. Baker of the United States district court has made perpetual the injunction issued by him five weeks ago against the strikers at the Conkey printing establishment at Hammond. The injunction prohibited the strikers from in any way interfering with the workmen at the plant.

Illinois Bank Robbed.

WILLIAMSVILLE, Ill., Dec. 4.—The state bank of Williamsville was entered by robbers, and the safe was blown open and robbed of $4,000 in cash and jewelry valued at several thousand dollars. The explosion aroused the town, and citizens were soon on the scene, but the robbers had escaped on a handcar.

French Players Injured.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—During a rehearsal last night at the Theatre des Varietes a staircase representing the grand staircase of the Opera House collapsed, and several persons were seriously injured. These include M. Lasouche, the comedian, and Mlle. Alencon, the well known actress.

American Oil Prohibited.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The District railway has ordered that the use of American oil be discontinued everywhere on the line excepting for office and signal lights. American oil is retained for use in these lights because it does not smoke the lamps.

THE MESSAGE READ.

Congress Listens Attentively to Roosevelt's First.

MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS PRESENTED

Out of Respect to McKinley's Memory No Business Was Transacted In Either House—A Deluge of Bills.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Not in many years have the members of the house listened with such rapt attention to the annual message of a president of the United States as they did yesterday to the reading of the first message of President Roosevelt. Every word was followed intently from the announcement of the tragic death of President McKinley in the opening sentence to the expression of the closing wish that our relations with the world would continue peaceful. The reading occupied two hours, but not over a dozen members left their seats until it was concluded. Several times there was applause, and at the conclusion there was an enthusiastic demonstration on the Republican side.

On motion of Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio that portion of the message relating to the death of the late president was referred to a committee to consist of one member from each state to join a similar committee of the senate to consider and report by what token of respect and affection it may be proper for congress to express the deep sensibility of the nation to the tragic death of the late president. The speaker appointed a committee, headed by Mr. Grosvenor, and then as a further mark of respect the house adjourned.

It was not until the session of the house closed that the weary clerks were able to catch up with Monday's deluge of bills and begin sorting the further deluge of yesterday.

The president's annual message to congress went in this year for the first time in print. The two copies for the two houses were printed on paper of the same size as that which was used heretofore for the written copies, though the paper is a heavy white instead of the blue tint which has been in use. Each copy was richly bound in brown morocco, with stiff covers, with simple gold border and lettering, the words on the front being, "Message of the President of the United States."

The senate listened to the first message of President Roosevelt and adopted a resolution directing the appointment of a committee to co-operate with a like committee from the house to consider by what token of respect and affection congress might express the sorrow of the nation upon the tragic death of the late President McKinley. The message was delivered soon after the senate met. The reading occupied nearly two and a half hours and was listened to with marked respect by the senators. The first portion, dealing with the Buffalo tragedy, excited the most profound interest in the senate.

At the conclusion of the reading of the message Mr. Foraker, senior senator from Ohio, presented the McKinley resolution, and as a further mark of respect the senate adjourned.

Troops For the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The Twenty-seventh regiment of infantry will go to the Philippines in three detachments. The first will leave New York on the 5th inst. on the transport Crook, the second will leave the same port on the 15th inst. on the transport Buford, and the third detachment will leave San Francisco on the 16th inst. on the transport Sheridan. On the arrival of this regiment at Manila the Seventeenth regiment of infantry, which has had the longest continuous service in the Philippines, will return to the United States.

Croker Retires Jan. 1.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Richard Croker at the Democratic club practically announced his retirement as the leader of Tammany Hall after Jan. 1. Mr. Croker's remarks, showing that he had for some time contemplated this action, were brought about through a published report to the effect that a movement was on foot to make Edward M. Shepard the Democratic leader of this state and probably a candidate for the governorship next year.

To Enjoy Christmas at Havana.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—At the request of Governor General Wood of Cuba the itinerary of the north Atlantic squadron has been changed so as to have the squadron at Havana during the Christmas holidays, from Dec. 17 to 26. By that time General Wood will have returned to Havana, and he wishes to extend special courtesies to the officers and men of the fleet during the holiday season.

Smallpox on the Increase.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Eight hundred thousand persons have been vaccinated in this city within three months, according to a report made yesterday by the city physician to the board of health. One thousand houses are now quarantined because of smallpox. 113 new cases were reported last week, and the proportion is increasing.

University Remembered.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—At a regular meeting of the trustees of the University of Pennsylvania Provost Harrison announced that donations aggregating $34,000 had been made to the university during the past few days.

Snow Delays Trains.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 4.—A heavy snowstorm raged here nearly all day yesterday. Trains are delayed, and traffic is generally blocked.

THE STOWAWAY REVIVING.

Man Who Crossed Ocean In a Box Able to Talk.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Johann Beck, the stowaway who nearly died in the hold of the Palatia, where he remained sixteen days locked up in a packing box in order that he might get to the "land of his hopes," is in a fair way to recovery.

Late yesterday Beck was able to talk. The doctors would not allow him to tell all his story, but enough was learned from him and other sources to show that Beck was a house painter and that he had come across the card of an uptown hotel, the proprietors of which have German names. Though a stranger to them, he wrote that he could get no work in Germany and was coming to America with his goods and hoped the hotel men could find him something to do. Then he fitted up a packing case, paid freight charges on it and engaged a carter to take it to the Hamburg pier at a certain time. He then returned to his lodgings and boxed himself up after he had provisioned himself with a dozen cans of condensed milk, a box of prunes, three dozen cakes of chocolate, coffee in bottles and some bread. The carter called and got the box, not knowing of its living contents, and shipped it.

Beck declares he was in the box until the ship reached the Hoboken pier, a period of about fifteen days, when he found he was almost dead from hunger, cold and terror. Last night he was reported to be still exceedingly weak, but the physicians hope to pull him through. A wealthy resident of New Jersey has interested himself in the case and promised to give him work should he recover.

Grout Stops Paving Contracts.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Edward M. Grout, comptroller elect of New York city, has been instrumental in obtaining from Supreme Court Justice Marean in Brooklyn an injunction directed against Commissioner of Highways James P. Keating restraining that official from any further letting of asphalt contracts on the ground that a combination is being favored in the matter of contract awards. James Matthews, a Brooklyn business man and taxpayer, is plaintiff in the action. This move holds up in the neighborhood of $3,000,000 worth of asphalt contracts and practically leaves Keating powerless in the premises till the end of his tenure, Dec. 31. The injunction specifically provides against the opening or the acceptance of or the letting of any contracts for asphalt paving or repairing in the city of New York which does not provide for free and open competition.

New York Editor Dead.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Arthur Griscom, editor of The Smart Set, is dead of typhoid fever in this city. He was born in Payson, Ill., thirty-three years ago, was the son of the Rev. William Griscom of the Christian church and was educated at Woodland college, Independence, Mo., from which he was graduated in 1886. In 1895 Mr. Griscom married Miss Julia Stone Woods, daughter of Dr. W. T. Woods, president of the Bank of Commerce of Kansas City, who survives him.

High Assessment on Whisky.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 4.—The state board of valuation and assessment has passed finally in the matter of assessing Kentucky whisky, fixing a value of $10 per barrel for the purpose of taxation. This is an increase of $2 per barrel over last year and $3 over the assessment of 1897. The distillers protested strongly against the increase and say that it will result in limiting the production. The $10 assessment affects all whisky stored in the state on Sept. 15 last.

Voting Machine All Right.

BUFFALO, Dec. 4.—The voting machine which was used in the First district of the Eleventh ward and which because of alleged defects in it was responsible for a contest between the Republican and Democratic candidates for supervisor was opened and examined in the courthouse. The machine was found to work satisfactory.

To Wed Man She Never Saw.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Clara Fleschner landed in New York from Saxony on her way to Sigourney, Ia., to marry Edward Schuman, whom she has never seen. Schuman is a widower and wrote to his brother in the old country to find him a bride. His brother selected Clara.

Blizzard In Pennsylvania.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Dec. 4.—A blizzard set in yesterday afternoon, and in a short time eight inches of snow had fallen. In the mountain passes snow drifted from three to five feet, greatly interfering with railroad traffic.

Armour Estate Nearly Four Millions

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 4.—The appraisers of the estate of the late Kirkland B. Armour have filed a report, fixing its value at $3,995,520.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

In November sixty-nine British vessels were wrecked, with a loss of 140 lives.

A rebel fort in the Philippines was destroyed with heavy loss to the insurgents.

Charles Brown, sentenced to die for murder, tried to break jail at Mount Holly, N. J.

The breaker of the Green Ridge Coal company, near Scranton, Pa., was burned; loss, $110,000.

Lawrence Larsen, who was injured in a football game at Harlem oval on Saturday, died in New York city.

A rival steel trust to be formed by Sir Christopher Furness, with a $10,000,000 plant, in Canada was reported.

SOME HOPE FOR CHINA.

Edicts of Dowager Empress Seem to Indicate Reform Sentiments.

PEKING, Dec. 4.—Chinese officials say that the appointment of a new heir apparent to the throne will be delayed until the emperor, Kwangsu, can discuss the question with leading men.

The imperial edict deposing the former heir apparent, Puchun, son of Prince Tuan, the author of the Boxer troubles, is generally considered as the strongest proof yet given of the sincerity of the dowager empress' leaning toward reform. Considered with previous edicts, this last one appears to corroborate the belief among Chinese officials that the dowager empress sees the error of her antiforeign policy of recent years.

Yuan Shi Kai, the new viceroy of Chili, has arrived at Peking. The chief purpose of his visit is to consult with the ministers of the foreign powers regarding the present situation.

Prince Ching has not seen Paul Lessar, the Russian minister to China, since the former returned to Peking. Conversing with representatives of two of the foreign powers, Prince Ching said China would oppose Russian control of Manchuria if any of the powers would support her in so doing.

SMUGGLING BY MAIL.

A Clever Scheme Discovered For Getting Furs From Canada.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The postmaster general has instructed the postmasters at Alburg and East Alburg, Vt., to note all packages mailed at their offices and suspected of being liable to customs duties and to furnish the addresses on such packages to the customs officers at the Canadian line for the use of the customs officers nearest to the respective places of address. This action is designed to stop as far as possible a recently discovered unique scheme of smuggling fur goods across the border.

Furriers in Montreal, it is claimed, have been shipping goods to persons living close to the boundary line, and these have put the goods in carriages and driven across into Vermont, where they have mailed the packages. The treasury department wants the postoffices to hold up all such packages, but the postoffice department has deemed this impracticable. Customs officials in a city where a package is addressed will, however, be advised in time to inspect the suspected articles before delivery.

Cotton Takes a Jump.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Trading in the local cotton exchange yesterday was convulsed by the publication at noon of the government's estimate of a short cotton crop for the year. The figures were 9,674,000 bales, or nearly 2,000,000 bales less than the trade generally expected. Cotton jumped $2 a bale in as many minutes amid scenes of excitement rarely seen. Brokers fought with each other to cover short contracts, and the pit became a pandemonium for several minutes after the report was received. For three hours thereafter the volume of business transacted was enormous.

Free of Duty Now.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—It is stated at the war department that the decisions of the United States supreme court in the insular cases do not call for any change in the existing tariff arrangements in the Philippines, and it is not even deemed necessary to issue instructions to the civil governor of the islands on the subject as a consequence of the decisions. The secretary of the treasury has issued to collectors of customs in the United States a telegraphic order directing them to admit free of duty goods imported from the Philippine Islands.

A Hereford Won the Prize.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—A Hereford is the grand champion of all breeds in the fat cattle division of the international live stock exposition this year. Chief interest for breeders centered in the winner of the grand championship for steer or spayed heifer of the show. There were three competing breeds, Hereford, Shorthorn and Angus, but in the final judging the Shorthorns were eliminated. The winning animal is Wood's Principal, a pure bred yearling shown by George P. Henry of Goodenow, Ill. This animal weighed 1,645 pounds.

Alleged Abductor Held.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Dec. 4.—James Wilcox, who is charged with the abduction of Miss Nellie Gropsey, the young girl whose mysterious disappearance from her home about two weeks ago has created a sensation in eastern North Carolina, has been held in $1,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury after a preliminary hearing before the mayor. The courtroom was crowded during the hearing. Only a few witnesses were examined, among them being the father and sister of the missing girl.

Mail Robber Caught.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Dec. 4.—Elmer Pecore, a half breed, has been placed in the federal jail here, charged with having rifled the mail between the small towns near the Indian Territory border. The officers suspected Pecore and laid a trap for him by placing a red necktie and a pair of beaded gloves in one of the mail sacks. They apprehended him later wearing these articles at a dance.

Heavy Snow In Far West.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 4.—Specials from Kansas indicate that a heavy snow has fallen throughout the state. The storm was general from here to the Rocky mountains and extending south to Indian Territory. Moisture has been badly needed for wheat and small grains.

COLOMBIA PEACEFUL

Government Triumph Seems Nearly Complete.

PEACE COMMISSIONERS SENT OUT.

American Marines Still Conduct Trains Across the Isthmus, but Guard Has Been Withdrawn From Railway Offices.

COLON, Dec. 4.—According to news just received here, the interior of the country is almost entirely quiet. Only a few scattered and insignificant insurgent bands are here and there waging guerrilla warfare. This causes the government no anxiety.

The triumph of the Colombian Conservative government on the isthmus will doubtless incalculably strengthen the government's hands. A peace commission composed of Florencio Arosemena, representing prominent Liberals of Panama; Manuel Amador, representing the Colombian government, and General de la Rosa, secretary to the insurgent general Domingo Diaz, who will act as guide, has already started for the interior to obtain an interview with Generals Diaz and Lugo and to induce them to give up the struggle and return to Panama. Senor Amador is empowered to grant reasonable terms to General Diaz in the name of the government. The peace commissioners were expected to return to Panama yesterday. It is already rumored, however, that Generals Diaz and Lugo are about to surrender.

Pananome, in the department of Panama, and the port of Tumaco, in the department of Cauca, are now the only points under Liberal control. Considering the present strength of the government on the isthmus owing to the re-enforcements landed here by the Colombian gunboat General Pinzon and the facility with which this ship can bring in additional forces from Barranquilla and other coast points and owing to the comparative quiet in the interior, it is not unreasonable to conclude that the government will soon be victorious at Pananome and Tumaco. There is a possibility of further bloodshed at these places, but General Alban's recent successes seem to make certain their capture.

The best element of the Liberal party in Panama say they would prefer the present Conservative government to a Liberal government if the latter is brought about by the Liberal general Porras, for, they assert, Porras fights not for true Liberalism, but for purely selfish ends.

The guard of American marines which has been stationed in front of the offices of the railroad company here has been withdrawn. A small detail of marines still accompanies the passenger trains across the isthmus. Both ends of the isthmus are quiet and orderly.

Among the prominent persons killed on the government side during the recent engagements on the isthmus were Colonel Manuel Pachon, Captain Damian Espinosa, Lieutenant Julio Ramos, Major Molinares and Everardo Paredes. Captain Ferro and Lieutenant Chevalier Ramos were gravely wounded. General Francisco Castro, Lieutenant Colonel Cobos and Major Huertas were slightly wounded.

The total number of killed and wounded on both sides is estimated at about 400.

Heavy Snow In Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 4.—The heaviest snowstorm for so early in the winter season for years excepting the famous November gale of 1898 covered New England last night. It came out of the northeast with the wind fully forty miles an hour. While Maine has had sleighing for a fortnight and the fields of New Hampshire have been white for some time, the storm is interesting to people in this part of Massachusetts because an old fashioned New England winter almost had been forgotten. The indications are for two feet of snow.

Another Attempt to Release Carter.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Argument was heard yesterday in the United States supreme court in the habeas corpus case of Captain O. M. Carter, brought here on appeal from the decision of the circuit court for the district of Kansas, where Carter's petition was denied. He was represented by Messrs. Frank P. Blair and Horace G. Stone and the government by the solicitor general and General Clous. This is the second effort made in the supreme court to secure Captain Carter's release on habeas corpus.

Strongbox Was Well Filled.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—After many delays, caused by litigation, the safe deposit box of Alfred Hallenbach, a dead gambling house proprietor, was opened late yesterday. There were found in it $150,000 in cash and many diamonds and other gems. The money and jewels are claimed by the gambler's widow and also by Owen G. Parr, a former employee.

Court of Claims Out of Work.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The court of claims has begun a new term and handed down about 200 decisions, many of which had been worked up by the judges during vacation. This brings the work of the court up to date and leaves practically nothing which has been submitted undecided.

Indian Citizens Still Wards.

SOUTH McALLISTER, I. T., Dec. 4.—Judge Sanborn of the federal court has decided that after Indians became citizens they are still wards of the government and that after Indian Territory shall be allotted and the Indians are voters it still will be a crime to sell them whisky.

THE INEVITABLE RESULT.

The decision of the Common Council to compell the local trolley company to give good service under penalty of the revocation of its franchise has met with popular approval. Everyone, who has had anything to do with the trolley cars of late, is greatly pleased that the councilmen should act in the matter. The situation called for immediate action as was pointed out at the time by The Daily Press.

The possibilities, which the case now developes, are unique in municipal affairs. Few cities have been so safeguarded in granting their franchises that it is possible for them to revoke these privileges. There is a section in the local trolley ordinance, however, which gives this city the right if the company fails to comply with certain requirements. It was the substance of this section which was called to the attention of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, which has succeeded the Plainfield Street Railway in control of the local lines.

There is very little doubt that the company will comply with the directions of the Common Council. This franchise is entirely too valuable a thing to lose for the failure to expend the comparatively small amount needed to properly equip the local line. The company could afford to spend many thousands of dollars in Plainfield and still be the gainer in the end. There exists, however, the possibility that the franchise might be revoked.

If such a thing should come to pass, it would be a happening unequalled in the history of trolley railroads in New Jersey. What might then come to pass, it is impossble to say but there can be no doubt that the city's interests would not suffer. There is such a great value to the local franchise that a company would not be wanting to take up the work.

Such a state of affairs is not going to come about. The company, as soon as it realizes that the city officials are really in earnest, will provide the city with good cars and run them properly. It can be done. All that remains now is for the city officials to maintain a determined attitude in the matter and Col. Hine and the other men at the head of the company will see to it that Plainfield gets the best trolley service. And what a relief it will be.

As far as Plainfield is concerned, the progress of Mormonism and polygamy has existed only in name. No evidence of them has appeared in this neighborhood. It cannot be expected, therefore, that the interest in the subject will be as intense as it is in those States where the dangers of that movement are in evidence. There is, however, no doubt as to the standing of the community on that question and all will be glad to lend a hand in opposing it. A mass meeting, with that object in view, is to be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, tomorrow evening. It will undoubtedly be well attended. The truths which will be brought out at the meeting may be the means of awakening many Plainfielders to the dangers which are threatening.

In looking after te health of a community, there is, after all, nothing of such vital importance as the water and milk supply. Many an epidemic of contagious disease has made its entry through those factors. Everyone, who has the welfare of the city at heart, is agreed as to that. The only question is concerning the method. The Plainfield Board of Health is now taking active measures to safeguard the local supply of water and milk so that there can be on possible chance for disease from those quarters.

There have been many words of a complimentary nature said regarding The Daily Press since its appearance in its new "dress" of type. We are thankful for these kind words and appreciate them. We hope that we may continue so that the praise may be honestly continued.

The Daily Press is not the agent for the manufacturers of water meters. Neither do we expect a bonus when they are installed. But we do believe that the best interests of both the people and the company demand that such meters be installed here without delay.

It looks as if it would require another fatality to impress upon the minds of the officials of the New Jersey Central Railroad the need of changing the color of that fence which separates the tracks at the North Avenue station.

There is no stronger drawing card with Plainfield audiences than the musical clubs of college boys. Last evening's concert at the Caisno by the Princeton University clubs bore strong evidence of that fact.

So far this season has been marked by the unusual number of unique entertainments which have been given here by various organizations.

Somerville is rejoicing over the improvements which the New Jersey Central Railroad has nearly completed at that town.

COMMITTEES NAMED.

To Have Charge of Senior Class Entertainment at High School.

The senior class of the Plainfield High School, at a meeting Monday, elected committees for the entertainment to be given in the Franklin School, Tuesday evening, December 10. The committees named are as follows: Miss Lulu Fuller and L. W. Bridgeman; decorations, the Misses Alma Dyer, Jean Dunham and Bertha Mitchell and Roy Hallock; candy, the Misses Louise Peterson, Emma Larue, Mildred Ulrich, Cora Harris and Charlotte Johnson.

TEACHERS TO MEET.

State High School Teachers Association Will Meet at Newark.

The winter meeting of the New Jersey High School Teachers' Association will be held in Newark, Friday and Saturday. Principal Ira W. Travell, of the Plainfield High School, is treasurer of this association.

At the morning session on Saturday, Superintendent Albert B. Meredith, of the Nutley, N. J., schools, will open the discussion on the topic: "Athletic and Social Organizations." The Plainfield schools will be well represented at the meetings.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed. Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

Rush Season Over.

Friday evening Collector F. H. Smith closed the "rush" season in his department of the city government. He reports the collections for the past month to be $150,000.

—Dress rehearsal, "Queen Esther," tonight. See ad in another column.

—The offering at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday will be for the synodical home missions.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Store Open Evenings.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

David Stelle, an aged man, died yesterday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Robert Hayes, of New Market road. He was the last member of the old Stelle family and was born nearly seventy-five years ago in Piscataway township where he spent the early years of his life. Death was due to a complication of diseases. He leaves several children.

Mrs. E. B. Wade, of Dunellen avenue, had the misfortune to sprain her ankle badly Monday evening. She was returning from a neighbor's, and in crossing the street slipped on the curbstone and sustained the injury. She is much improved now.

The Young Stars and the Dunellen Juniors played an interesting game of football on the Lincoln avenue grounds Monday afternoon. The Stars were in the heavier aggregation and won by a score of 15 to 0.

Mrs. Daniel Tynan, of Cincinnati, and Miss Annie Logan, of Elizabeth, have returned after a visit with their brother, John Logan, of Lincoln avenue.

The electric lights were out for a short time last evening, owing to the breaking of the lamp in front of W. H. Cole's coal office.

One of a bay team of horses, owned by George Huff, was taken sick Monday night and became so bad that it had to be killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Merrill have returned after a several days' visit with their son, Asa Merrill, of Newark.

A company of magicians and entertainers will exhibit this evening in Apgar's Hall, and expect a large audience.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Ella Dunham.

After prayer-meeting this evening the trustees of the Methodist church will hold a business meeting.

The regular weekly prayer-meetings will be held this afternoon, at 8 o'clock, in both churches.

A number from here attended the concert by the Princeson Glee Club in Plainfield last night.

The Board of Education met last night in the hall and transacted routine business.

A cottage prayer-meeting will be held this evening at the home of C. A. Lake.

A new telegraph pole has been erected near the railroad round house.

A lester is advertised at the post-office for Charles Dodd.

Mrs. Todd, of Elizabeth, spent Sunday with W. Mattox.

The Checker Club met last evening with W. H. Coles.

NEW MARKET.

The pupils of the public school will hold an entertainment this evening in the South Plainfield Hall. An extended programme will be presented add the pupils expect to clear a good sum of money which will be used for the advancement of the High School department of the New Market school. The trip to South Plainfield will be made by stage.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Caskey are expected home from their wedding trip December 9 when Mrs. Caskey will resume her position as teacher in the public school. She will teach till the end of the school year.

Friendship dancing class held its regular weekly dance in Friendship Hall last evening.

Harry Lawson, of Plainfield, has returned home from a visit with friends in town.

Friendship Circle is holding a meeting this afternoon with Mrs. William Giles.

Mrs. Josiah Maitland has nearly recovered from a severe illness.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The practice of having a special officer at the Park avenue trolley crossing Saturday nights, has been abandoned for the present. The practice had a good effect, and did much to lessen the lawlessness which the residents have had to bear with in the past.

Miss Addie Johnstone, who was quite seriously injured by a fall at Drew Seminary, where she has been taking a course of study, is recovering slowly, and will probably be able to return to Drew during the latter part of the month.

The condition of Mrs. Charlotte Ross, of Park avenue, who has been seriously ill for several weeks is considered critical and grave hopes are entertained of her recovery.

The Christmas committee of the Methodist church Sunday-school has selected Tuesday evening, December 24, as the evening for the annual Christmas entertainment.

The members of the Young Peoples Literary Society, of the Methodist church, will meet for reading and study in the class room of the church tonight.

The storm of yesterday was a disappointment to the lovers of skating, as it spoiled for the present what little ice there was.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company will hold its regular monthly meeting in the company's room, this evening.

Walter Holborn, who has been visiting at the home of Henry Marsh, has returned to his home in Orange.

The Township Committee will meet in the Township Rooms, Friday night at 8 o'clock.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The pupils of the New Market school, assisted by pupils from the South Plainfield school, will give an entertainment in Washington Hall, this evening, for the benefit of the High School department of the Piscataway Township schools. The entertainment was given before Thanksgiving at New Market and was a marked success. Harry Cathers, township supervisor, has labored hard for the success of the affair, which will be given under his direction. The programme includes recitations by Frank Coriell, William Piddington, Miss May Gage, Miss Marjorie Soper, A. McDonough, Albert Nelson. In addition there will be concert recitations, popular songs, a spelling match and a cake walk.

Because of the inclement weather the regular monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society, of the Baptist church, was postponed until next Tuesday.

James Bream, of Perth Amboy, is confined to the house by a severe attack of typhoid fever. Mr. Bream is a former resident of South Plainfield.

Superintendent Cathers, of the Piscataway Township schools, visited the local school today.

Lloyd Harris has been confined to the house by illness. Appendicitis was at first feared.

Miss Gussie Clawson has returned home after a visit with relatives in Bound Brook.

McDonough Brothers are erecting a new ice house near Clinton avenue.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

C. M. Fine, of West Front street, is improving from a recent illness.

Isaac P. Runyon, of Somerset street, is confined to his home with a severe attack of grip.

Miss Edna Bowers, of Basking Ridge, is visiting friends in the borough for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leland, of New York, are visiting Mr. Leland's parents on West Second street.

Harry Hann, of Somerset place, who has been quite ill with peritonitis, is reported to be much worse.

Mrs. S. J. Unger, of Summit avenue, has returned from a week's visit with relatives in New York.

Miss Haviland, of New York, formerly of Rockview avenue, is visiting Miss Whiton, of Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Flannery, of New York, have been visiting relatives in this city for a short time.

Edward Leland, of West Second street, who has been seriously ill, shows little signs of improvement.

Mrs. John S. Wikoff, of Richmond street, who has been seriously ill for some time past, seems to be improving slowly.

Walter Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, has returned home from Roosevelt Hospital, New York, where he underwent an operation.

Mrs. R. Leichtentritt, of New York, is spending a few days with her sister-in-law, Mrs. M. Leichtentritt, of Central avenue.

SUIT OVER CARVED LEGS.

Defendent Wouldn't Pay, But the Court Said Otherwise.

An interesting contract case was tried before Justice Huff, yesterday afternoon, when Peter Anderson, a wood carver, brought suit against Charles Holland, of Seventh street and Spooner avenue, to recover pay for the making of several sets of carved chair legs for the latter's house.

Each leg was to have a lion's head at the top, but no time was specified for the completion of the work. One set was finished within two weeks, and the others were delivered later. Not soon enough, however, for the defendant, and he refused to pay the bill, $15.

In the judgment of Justice Huff he thought the plaintiff should recover his money inasmuch as no time was set for the completion of the work. He accordingly gave the plaintiff judgment in full. Francis J. Blatz represented the plaintiff, and S. S. Swackhamer the defendant.

BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT.

City High School Athletic Association Begins to Make Plans.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield High School was held yesterday morning. Reports were read from the tennis committee and from the manager of the football team by Hervey K. Doane. It was decided to raise funds for the association by holding an entertainment in the near future. Those appointed as a committee to make plans for the affair are Miss Dorothy Waldo, Miss Moore, Hervey K. Doane, Herald Nomer and Harold Davis. Another meeting will be held in a short time for the purpose of appointing a manager of the baseball team.

ALL ARE INVITED.

To Semi-Annual Meeting of the City Union of King's Daughters.

At the semi-annual meeting of the City Union of King's Daughters, to be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, tomorrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Mrs. I. C. Davis, of the Central Council, of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons, will make an address. All members and friends of the King's Daughters are cordially invited to attend.

At this meeting the pledges from the various circles in the City Union will be received. All members are asked to bring a glass of jelly for the city nurse's closet.

ANOTHER SUIT.

George Frazee Has Brought One Against Trolley Company.

George Frazee, of this city, has commenced suit against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company for $1,000 for the trolley collision on East Second street, near Johnson avenue, last summer. Frazee was thrown from the car, and he alleges that his back was so severely stained he was unable to work for days. The suit will be tried at the January term of the Union County court.

HIGHLY COMMENDATORY.

What is Said About the Work of Miss Mae Colt.

Very flattering and highly commendatory are the reports of the work of Miss Mae Colt, who will be heard as reader and elocutionist at the recital of Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis, soprano, and Miss Saidee Mae Howell, pianist, at the Casino Monday night. Miss Colt has been a student of elocution for three years and has attained a skill and finish in her art that bodes well for success in obtaining public favor. Added to a charming personality she has great talent and a beautiful voice of great power, at the same time melodious. Her selections are given with excellent judgment and interpretation, winning well-deserved encores. Hobart Smock, the eminent tenor, will also assist at this recital.

WILL PRACTICE HERE.

Dr. Charles C. Davis is Doing Preliminary Work in Philadelphia.

Dr. Charles C. Davis, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Davis, of Park avenue, who was graduated last year from the dental department of the University of Pennsylvania, is now practicing dentistry in Philadelphia. Next month he will go to New York and take a post-graduate course of one month. A little later he will open an office in this city for the practice of dentistry.

Course in Normal Work.

The regular business meeting of the Primary and Junior Teachers' Union was held Monday afternoon, when it was decided to take up a course of study in normal work. Arrangements will be made to commence the course the first of January and it will continue through the year. It was also decided that in the future the meetings shall be held at 3:45 o'clock, Monday afternoon, instead of 4 o'clock.

Lost Several Teeth.

Howard Willett, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Willett, of Craig place, fell out of a chair a few days ago and knocked out three of his teeth by coming in contact wih another chair. The little fellow's mouth is exceedingly sore, but, considering his loss, he gets along remarkably well with eating.

Art Exhibit and Sale.

The public is cordially invited to attend an art exhibit and sale on Friday afternoon and evening, from 3 to 10 o'clock, which has been arranged by Mrs. Robert A. Meeker, assisted by Mrs. Frank R. Wynkoop. The affair will be held at the home of Mrs. Meeker, 671 West Front street.

Filed With Chancery Clerk.

In the partition proceedings instituted by Edward Nelson against Matthias Gaddis and others, the report compiled by John H. VanWinkle, as special mastery to take testimony, has been completed and will be filed in the office of the Clerk of Chancery before Tuesday.

Hotel Rosell Cafe.

A. B. Rosell, the purchaser of the Imperial Cafe, at 125 and 127 North avenue, assumed charge of the business yesterday morning. The name of the establishment has been changed to the Hotel Rosell Cafe. Mr. Rosell proposes to continue in the wholesale cigar business.

Held For Grand Jury.

Edward Handvill, of Martinsville, has been held in $500 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury of Somerset county on a charge of assault and battery preferred against him by Clifford Schorb, of Somerset street.

Too Rainy.

Owing to the severe storm of yesterday the regular meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion was not held at the W. C. T. U. rooms, the children being unable to attend.

Report on Encampment.

Antietam Command, Union Veterans' Union, meets this evening in G. A. R. Hall. The encampment committee will submit its report at this meeting.

A Savage Bluejay.

A sportsman camping in one of the lakes of Sullivan county offered to bet $10 to $1 that nobody in his party could guess how he had received an injury to a finger which he held bleeding before the spectators. No one guessed and the man went on to explain that while standing by the lake he had seen a bluejay flying over so close above his head that he instinctively threw up his hand to stop it. The bird neither stopped nor swerved, but instead dashed straight for the hand, striking it with such force that it sent the blood spurting as though the man had been struck by a knife. This sort of action is in line with the general conduct of the jay. It is one of the most aggressive birds on the continent, robbing the nests of other birds and sometimes even killing young squirrels. The chief good thing that can be said of it is that it often robs the nest of the English sparrow.—N. Y. Times.

Johnny on the Goat.

The goat is an animal that frequently moves in low society. The goat does not go to Heaven. My Sunday school teacher says so. A young goat is called a kid, and when you call a boy a kid you are just the same as saying he is a bad boy which is wrong, for there are good boys, although I do not know very many. A goat is not a sociable animal. He is far happier when he is strolling about in solitude and whisking his tail than when he is pulling a human being in a cart. A great many wrong stories have been told about the things a goat eats. It is not true that he eats tomato cans and iron hoops. The goat loves grass, but he will eat egg shells, pieces of oilcloth, pine shavings and bundles of brown paper if he cannot get anything else. It is just as wicked to lie about a goat as to lie about any other creature. You can smell a goat a mile away when the wind blows. —Johnny.—Chicago Tribune.

With Apologies to the Shad.

A Washington newspaper correspondent relates that with the coming of spring the usual fever of that season asserted itself, and he took the opportunity of running into Virginia for a fishing trip. Becoming interested in a discussion of the merits of the various fish in the Virginia streams, he turned at length to the old negro boatman and said:

"Uncle, don't you think yellow perch is altogether the best fish in the river?"

"Yes, sah," replied the old man, "yaller perch am de bes' fish heah, always 'scusin' de white shad."—Youth's Companion.

Sewing Birds.

Most curious are the sewing or tailor birds of India—little yellow things not much larger than one's thumb. To escape falling a prey to snakes and monkeys the tailor bird picks up a dead leaf and flies up into a tree, and with a fiber for a thread and its bill for a needle, sews the leaf to a green one hanging from the tree; the sides are sewed up, an opening to the nest thus formed being left at the top. That a nest is swinging in the tree no snake or monkey or even man would suspect.—London Science Siftings.

Pigs in the Cannibal Islands.

In the New Hebrides human life has been made safe by the introduction of pigs into the island. The cannibals are said to prefer roast pork to roast man, and as the porcine tribe increases among the natives they may give up their feasts of human flesh altogether, excepting when something unusual happens, such as entertaining a king of some other cannibal island or on state occasions of rare ceremony.—N. Y. Sun.

Onions on a Tombstone.

A peculiar tombstone rests over a grave in a cemetery near Evansville, Wis. A corner of the marble slab is adorned with the sculptured resemblance of a bunch of young onions, and it hangs over the edge of the stone as if carelessly placed there. This is in accordance with the wish of the lady buried there, who was very fond of onions.

Always Outdone.

An Atchison man had five ribs broken in a fall, but even then he didn't get ahead of his neighbor, who once had six ribs broken, and his head crushed in the bargain. Ever notice how hard it is to get ahead of the neighbors? We bet you neve. succeeded in doing it.—Atchison Globe.

Proceedings of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

[OFFICIAL]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, November 7, 1901, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll-call showed all members present—17.

The minutes of the previous meeting were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS, PETITIONS, ETC.

From the County Road Inspector, his annual report as follows, viz.:

Westfield, N. J., Nov. 3, 1901.

To the Honorable, the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.

Gentlemen—The undersigned would respectfully report to your honorable body that during the year 1901 the work of repairs on county roads is as follows:

On the Chatham Road—3,525 feet of road has been repaired with 1½-inch stone; 500 feet top-dressed with fine stone; 7,050 feet of gutters cleaned.

On Morris Avenue—10,537 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 8,500 feet road top-dressed with fine stone; 34,272 feet of gutters cleaned.

On the Seven Bridge road—3,900 feet repaired with 1½-inch stone, 7,800 feet of gutters cleaned.

On Mountain Avenue—8,945 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 700 feet top-dressed with fine stone; 17,890 feet of gutters cleaned.

On South Avenue—3,692 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 7,384 feet of gutters cleaned.

On North Avenue—8,137 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 1,300 feet top-dressed with fine stone; 26,122 feet of gutters cleaned.

On Central Avenue—973 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 2,970 feet top-dressed with fine stone; 11,206 feet of gutters cleaned.

On St. George's Avenue—2,200 feet top-dressed with fine stone; 5,065 feet of gutters cleaned.

On Orchard Street in Elizabeth—2,707 feet of road repaired with 2½-inch stone; 2,707 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone.

Also on the new road from New Providence to Berkeley Heights; 950 feet of drain pipe has been laid making a total of: 8 miles 176 feet of 1½-inch work; 3 miles 330 feet of top-dressing; 22 miles 629 feet of gutters cleaned; 2,707 feet of 2½-inch work; 950 feet of drain pipe laid.

The total cost of this work is $16,268.86.

Very respectfully submitted,
James W. Fink,
Inspector.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell received and placed on file.

The following certificate from the County Road Inspector to Wm. H. Weldon, was presented and read:

Westfield, N. J., Nov. 1, 1901.

To the Honorable, the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—This is to certify that the ten per cent on the regular contract county road repair work for the year 1900, amounts to $1,245.76. The same is now due and payable to William H. Weldon, the contractor.

(Signed) James W. Fink,
Inspector.

No objections being offered the same was received and placed on file.

From Alfred Atkins, Wm. P. Bonnell, Edward P. Cooley and thirty-one others, residents on Westfield Avenue, stating that they had been put to great discomfort, annoyance and expense for several years, because of the failure of the Elizabeth and Westfield Trolley Company to fulfill its contract to build and operate a trolley line on said avenue. At the present time at short intervals unsightly and dangerous piles of ties have been placed along said avenue, and as it was believed that this Board had the power to compel said Trolley Company to build its road, this Board was petitioned to take such action as would give speedy relief.

Freeholder Farrell moved that the communication be received and referred to the County Attorney, which after some discussion was so ordered without dissent.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the Committee to Settle with the County Collector:

October 30, 1901.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—Your Committee to Settle with the County Collector respectfully report that they have examined his books showing his receipts and disbursements together with his vouchers, bonds and coupons paid and bank books, and we find the same agree and are correct in every particular.

His Total Receipts From the Beginning of the Present Year to date are	$ 195,145.45
Total Disbursements	168,634.83
Balance in Bank	$ 26,511.02

(Signed) Henry Krouse,
Jacob Brucklacher,
Benjamin King,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell received and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS

By Freeholder Brucklacher:

Whereas, At the last meeting of this Board it was resolved to proceed with the building of two bridges in the City of Elizabeth: One over the Elizabeth River at Crane Street, and one over the Elizabeth River at Irving Place or Prince Street, both of said bridges to be iron bridges.

And Whereas, This Board has no legal right to build said bridges except in conformity with the respective grades of said streets, and that to build said bridges in conformity with the present grades of said streets would not answer the requirements or necessities for the carrying off of surplus water in time of freshet or flood; and necessity requires said bridges to be elevated above present street grades.

Therefore be it Resolved, That before proceeding with the building of said bridges, the City Council of the City of Elizabeth, be requested to change the present grades of said streets, by raising the same sufficiently to meet the requirements, and also to enter into an agreement with the County of Union agreeing to indemnify this Board and said county against all damages, loss and expense occasioned by reason of said change of grade.

And be it Further Resolved, That the clerk of this Board forward a copy of this preamble and resolution to the Mayor and Council of the City of Elizabeth.

On motion of Freeholder Miller, the foregoing preamble and resolution were adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder King:

Resolved, That when this Board adjourns it be to meet on Thursday, November 21, at 2:30 p. m.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

R·I·P·A·N·S
A practical journalist, long a member of the staff of the Washington evening Star, resigned his position to go to Guatemala. Before he left Washington he had been a firm believer in the medicinal qualities of Ripans Tabules, and took a lot of them with him to Guatemala, where he earned the friendship of the captain of the steamer, which sails from San Francisco and stops at ports in Central America, by making known to him the marvelous virtues of R-I-P-A-N-S, the medical wonder of the century. He often dilates upon the captain's enthusiasm about the Tabules and asserts that the people of the tropics suffer terribly from indigestion, and that the Tabules are now known most favorably throughout Central America. Ripans Tabules quiet the nerves, compose the mind, allay irritation and promote repose. One gives relief.
WANTED—A man of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R·I·P·A·N·S on the package and accept no substitute. R·I·P·A·N·S, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

NEGLECTED MEN AND BOYS

Women, Are Responsible For the Barbarians of Civilization.

"Here, you abominable old chap! In the name of the inventor of forks and of common decency, what do you mean by eating like that? You are in the beautiful electric lighted dining room of a hotel of a great city. Handsomely dressed, well bred ladies and gentlemen are eating their dinner all around you, and eating nicely, too, but there you sit, a mud splotch upon a fairy canvas, the wild boar of the woods not so offensive in the act of devouring his food as you are.

"You are well dressed, considering You even have an expensive diamond ring on your finger. Yet there you sit, shamelessly shoving back into your big mouth cauliflower upon the end of your knife. It does not stick upon the knife very well, so you actually take the fingers of your left hand and pile the cauliflower upon the knife and steady it there while you lift the thing to your mouth. Oh, you animal! What was the broad pronged, handsome silver fork beside your plate made for? For ornament, was it? But no! Perhaps you think it was made to pick your teeth with. We shall see.

"Spectacle to gods and men you are—you, a well to do American citizen, on your travels. An Eskimo savage squatting upon the ground, tearing raw fish and putting it into his mouth with his fingers, looks no whit worse than you. Beside you sits your wife, who eats in a respectable way, but she does not seem to mind in the least that you are making such an unholy show of yourself."

It is probably now too late for this man's wife to admonish him successfully as to his manner of eating or the niceties of common politeness. Old men are apparently past learning anything. But suppose his wife had taken him young, while he had more regard for her feelings. Could she not have shaped his manners over so that at least he would not have been a rank offense to every refined, well bred person?

But the masculine sex has to be caught young in order to refine it, and here is where women are lamentably remiss and sharply to blame. Mothers, big sisters, schoolmistresses, with all the intensity of my soul I appeal to you, for the good name of the American nation, train boys to habitually observe the usages of common, decent society to convey food to their mouths with their forks, not their knives; not to chew toothpicks in a car or in company and not to pick their teeth at all before folk. Not to use a toothpick publicly was one of the first rules laid down for the observance of his own sons by that perfect master of the small courtesies of life, erratic though he chose to be in some respects, George Francis Train. For the love of humanity make boys use a stiff scrubbing brush and soap and water upon their hands and not go about the world with the microbes of forty different diseases under their black finger nails. Train them, I say, O you women in authority over untamed young masculine creatures, so that when they in turn come upon the active stage of life we shall not have, as we have today, American congressmen, lawyers and doctors high in professional life who have never yet learned the use of a pocket handkerchief. Fact!

Train them to brush their teeth every night and not to go to bed with the decaying remains of the day's food under their gums. Train them—O ye gods, that I must say it!—educate them, by severe measures, if necessary, to grow to manhood without contracting that most unpleasant practice a people ever indulged in, but which is the disgusting mark of the American male the world over—the unspeakable expectorating habit. The knife swallowing habit, the unbrushed tooth, the expectorating and toothpick chewing habits respectively ought to be fit grounds for divorce in every state in the Union. The United States is a land in which it seems easier to get dollars than to get good manners and good breeding.

Girl Messengers.

A telegraph company in an eastern city is making the experiment of employing messenger girls instead of boys because the boys loiter on the way and complain besides that the work is too hard.

The Trouble on the Torolito.

BY FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright, 1898, by Francis Lynde.)

We both filled in the interesting blanks in the parable, and when Kilgore had disappeared in the direction of the corral, I said, jestingly:

"There's an idea for you. If legal means, fail, you can mobilize your cowboy army and drive them out by main strength and awkwardness."

Macpherson laughed good-naturedly. "If you were half as vindictive as you talk, you'd be a holy terror. But I'm not going to fight. At first, I thought I should—with the Winchesters, if it came to that—but they've been figuring around so long that I've had a chance to think it over—and to change my mind."

I have pathetically acute memory for details, and it occurred to me just then that he had spoken of the school-mistress as a peacemaker.

"Has Miss Sanborn forbidden it?" I asked, with malice aforethought.

He was singularly embarrassed, for a man who had made me more or less his fidus Achates since our college days in the stuffy dormitory.

"You are taking a good deal more for granted—about Miss Sanborn—than the facts warrant," he protested. "Of course, she is interested on the side of peace, in a general way; but—"

"But you would have me believe that she has no personal interest in the matter. I haven't the pleasure of her acquaintance, but if that be the case, I'll venture to say that she is not a very discerning young woman."

Now when you would sweat out the secrets, sentimental or otherwise, of any son of Adam, there is no sudorific like a little abuse well rubbed in. Macpherson's reply told me what I wanted to know, and more.

"Say; you mustn't talk that way about her, old man. I can't listen to it, you know. She is all that's good and pure and sweet; and I'm—that is to say, I—"

It would have been needlessly cruel to let him go on stumbling about in the limited vocabulary of the lover at bay. So I said:

"Don't stultify yourself, my dear boy; bring her to me that I may bless you both before I go hence and be no more."

"Confound it all! you will go on taking too much for granted!" he broke in, missing the predetermined pathos in the last phrase. "Can't you understand? She is 'Miss Sanborn' to me yet, and I'm 'Mr. Macpherson' to her. That's the plain truth of it."

"All in good time, Angus, my boy. I can understand that there are milestones, even in Lover's Lane. And I can also understand that if Miss Sanborn is on the side of submission I can't incite you to rebellion. Is that the fact?"

"If you will put it that way. I shan't fight, at any rate."

There the matter came to the ground of its own weight, and I took up the field-glass to train it upon another miniature whirlwind of dust coming across the valley.

"That's Dan Connolly," said Macpherson, when the dust-cloud parted in the midst.

"How can you tell, at this distance?"

"By the way he rides. He was a trooper in her majesty's Heavy Dragoons before he migrated and became a cow-puncher, and he jockeys in his stirrups to this good day. Hello!—what's that?"

It sounded like the fall of plank upon plank, but I was enough of a sportsman to recognize the crack of a heavy rifle. Thereupon ensued a quick-moving and stirring tableau. The horse of the approaching rangeider made a demi-volt in air, coming down broadside in its tracks. I looked to see the ex-trooper flung headlong, but the glass showed him to me flat on the ground behind the living breastwork withers of the bronco. A thousand yards away, at the black gash in the Gringo, a small cavalcade was defiling into the park, and out of it a horseman rode, waving his gun in the air as he came. Macpherson stepped back into the house, coming out again quickly with his Winchester.

"By God," he said, between his teeth, "if they're going to begin by taking pot-shots at us— Now what the devil is that fellow trying to do? Hasn't he got sense enough to know that Connolly's only waiting till he gets in range?"

The oncoming horseman had slung his rifle, and was waving something white. The man in the breastwork let him come up until he was within easy killing distance, and then judging by the way in which the truce-bearer dragged his horse to its haunches, the bronco's garrison had called a halt. There was a brief colloquy of some sort—not peaceful, if the field-glass were to be trusted, and gestures mean anything—and at the end of it the man with the white handkerchief galloped back to his company and led it by a wide detour around the intrenched one. Five minutes later, Connolly ambled up and dropped from his horse at the corral bars.

"What was the row, Dan?" Macpherson called.

"Nothin' worth the name of ut, sorr. It was on'y Misther Engineer Wykamp, av the Glenlivat Land Coomp'ny—bad 'cess to 'm—poppin' his gun over the head av me to ask about the thrail. He was sweatin' heejus, an' for wan cint I'd 've put him out av his mis'ry. I was that near to doin' ut annyhow."

Macpherson's smile was the grimmest. "It's God's mercy Connolly didn't kill him," he said. "I've known him to do a worse thing on slighter provocation than that."

The little episode was to me like the sight of his first battle is like to be to the soldier, and my bones became as water. Moreover, the spirit of prophecy came upon me and I was fain to give it speech as one who had advised a thought too rashly.

"If that's the beginning of it, Angus, the middle part and the ending will be of violence. I don't know but the school-ma'am is right, after all. What I had in mind was a legal fight."

"You mean that I'd better be prospecting for the new range?"

"After you've driven the money bargain, yes. There'll be bloodshed if you don't."

He laid the rifle across his knees and the far-away look came back into the brown eyes of him.

"I don't know," he said, slowly. "Somehow, I don't feel as sure about what I ought to do as I did a few minutes ago. Are we a lot of outlaws to be called down like escaping convicts?"

I tried to turn it off in a laugh. "It's doubtless all one to the engineer. He is probably from the far east, with fictional notions of western customs. I shouldn't wonder if he thought that was the accepted method of calling a man's attention out here. Where are you going?" Macpherson had risen to take his saddle from its peg under the wide eaves.

"I believe I'll ride up the valley a piece and see what has become of Milt. He isn't quite as hasty as Dan Connolly, but I wouldn't answer for him if that fellow tries to bully him. Shall I put you to bed before I go?"

I suffered him; and a little later, through a chink in the ranch house wall, saw him mount and ride. It must have been hours later when he returned. The men were snoring peacefully, and the moon was pouring a flood of white radiance through the square window openings and the never-closed door of the ranch house. I heard Macpherson stumble in and fling himself into his bunk, which was opposite mine. When I turned over to speak to him, I had a glimpse of his face in the moonlight, and it brought me to my elbow with a sharp ejaculation of concern.

"For heaven's sake, Angus, what's the matter wth you? You're bleeding—you're hurt!"

He rolled over quickly and hid his face after the manner of a petulant child, and I heard something which sounded like a mumbled curse.

"Never mind me; I'm all right. The bronco stumbled. You go to sleep."

FINES FOR FLIRTING.

They Are Imposed in Various Cities of the United States.

Course of True Love Is Made Rough in Many Localities, Whose Laws Have Evidently Been Made by Misshibrepes.

The course of true love is made rough for sweethearts in many towns in the United States by the interference of the law.

At Scranton, Pa., lovers are apparently regarded with suspicion. The shaded streets of the aristocratic section of the town known as Green Ridge are favorite resorts of courting couples. The residents, however, do not take kindly to the presence of lovers there, and the other day five couples were caught and haled before the court. What is more, they were actually fined $3 each.

Atlantic City has also adopted repressive measures. The policeman who patrols the beat each evening was last summer furnished with a baton which by touching a button could be converted into a brilliant incandescent lamp. With the rays of this light beating into every nook and every corner the officer carefully searched all the pavilions along the shore for couples who might be spooning there.

Trenton, N. J., is another rough place for the cooing lovers. Not long ago the residents of West State street called on the police to take action against strollers, and now any man or woman found billing and cooing in that section is taken into custody.

Lovers will do well to steer clear of Suffolk, Va., another town which presumes to regulate courtship, for seven young men, who were all members of prominent local families, were recently prosecuted there for flirting with some of the college girls. Five of the latter were summoned, much to their humiliation, as witnesses against the desperately hardened criminals, who were reported to have obtained a withdrawal of the warrants against them by paying court costs and apologizing to the lady principal of the college.

At first thought it would seem that cemeteries would be anything but suitable resorts for sweethearts, but in Germantown, Pa., the Northwood cemetery became so popular as a rendezvous that the directors found it necessary to interfere. Hence the notice "Flirting Is Prohibited," which adorns the entrance.

Courtship in Russia sometimes involves couples in very serious consequences quite in accord with the tyrannical rule which there unfortunately prevails. In that benighted country, as well as in some parts of the United States, it is a crime for lovers to kiss in public.

A few years ago, says the New York World, two young men and two young women were arrested in Odessa for this terrible offense. It was committed in a restaurant, where the culprits had been dining together. Several other persons were present at the fatal moment and witnessed the deed.

Having heard the evidence, the judge declared that the prisoners had been guilty of "shameless conduct in a public place." He therefore condemned them to imprisonment for several days, whereon they promptly appealed to a superior court against his decision.

Their counsel argued that kissing could not be considered "shameless conduct," inasmuch as it was generally regarded as the most legitimate and natural method of showing affection. The appeal was, however, dismissed.

Served His Master Well.

A real hero died recently at the South Barbara mission, in southern California, at the age of 63. During the yellow fever plague of 1878 Father Aloysius Wievex, with 21 other Franciscan priests, went to Memphis, and there ministered to the sufferers, white and black alike. Father Wiesex was the only one of the 22 who survived, and because of his service in the fever-stricken city was known as the "Hero of Memphis," although the title distressed rather than pleased him.

Was a Remarkable Man.

A remarkable man died recently in England, at the age of 58. We refer to Evelyn Abbott, the Greek historian, of Balliol college, Oxford. Soon after graduating the lower half of his body was paralyzed, and from that time he was forced to deliver his lectures and do his work all his life while lying flat on his back.

SPORTING NEWS

FOOTBALL.

No game was played by the Hope Association Football team last Saturday, and it is not likely that one will take place until the P. A. F. C. schedule is rearranged. At present it is in anything but respectable shape as many out-of-town teams have withdrawn their dates. These will be notified and the new team hopes to be in shape to meet them within a very short period.

Captain James Smith, of the Hope Association team, is examing applicants for the positions on the organization. There is some excellent material in the association, as was shown by the baseball team last season, and once the eleven is fully organized it will make a formidable opponent for any of the association teams in this vicinity. The complete personnel of of the team will be made known in a few days.

ROD AND GUN.

John Adelman, Philip Voorhees and Edward Sebring have returned from a hunting trip with plenty of game.

Dr. J. H. Cooley, of the borough, left Monday for Virginia, where he will spend the next ten days hunting game.

Harry Brown, of Putnam avenue returned from a hunting trip Monday with a large number of quail, which he bagged.

George Voehl and son, George Voehl, Jr., of West Front street, left Monday for a hunting trip to Sullivan county, New York. They will be gone a fortnight.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The bowling season is now in full swing at the Crescent Clubhouse and the alleys are crowded nightly. Some excellent scores are being made by the older players, and it is probable that Manager McLaughlin will start a tourney in the near future.

GOLF.

The golf season closed Saturday at the Westfield Golf Club, with a handicap tournament, with prizes for the best net and gross scores. E. S. Hale made the best net score, 71, and E. E. Giles the best gross, 92.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

Miss Cruikshank a-Debutante.

Miss Leila Moore Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue, will be introduced to New York society Tuesday, December 10 by Mrs. William Lewis Moore, Mrs. Simon Ayres Cruikshank and and Mrs. Nathaniel Denim Lancaster, who will receive from 4 till 7 o'clock at No. 301 West Seventy-second street. The party will also receive on second and third Tuesdays in January.

SCHOOL BOARD WAS WARNED

BOROUGH BOARD OF HEALTH BROUGHT UP THE SUBJECT.

Understood That There Was Objection to Vaccination in Borough School Board.

Action was taken, last evening, at the meeting of the Borough Board of Health to bring to the attention of the Board of Education the necessity of compelling vaccination to prevent small pox. Under the law of 1887, the health authorites can only request the educational authorities to take this step and this was accordingly done.

The board asked that every teacher and pupil, who has not been vaccinated within two years, attend to the matter at once. It had come to the knowledge of the board that one member of the Board of Education strongly opposes vaccination and that for this reason nothing has been done. The idea is that a note of warning be sounded to the latter body so that if this contagious disease spreads, the health authorities can not be held responsible for neglect of duty.

It was also decided to have William Waldron, of Chatham street, released from the Somerville jail as soon as the quarantine is removed from his home. Mr. Waldron was arrested for passing in and out of his home while it was quarantined.

Dr. Honeyman was appointed a delegate to the State Sanitary Association's meeting which will be held at Lakewood Friday and Saturday.

NEW QUARTERS.

City Health Board Will Occupy Rooms in Smalley Building.

The regular meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon. Outside of the payment of bills but little business of importance was transacted.

The matter of securing bids for installing a heating apparatus in the isolation hospital was discussed but no formal action was taken. The appointment of L. R. Thurlow as health inspector was confirmed.

New offices in the Smalley building have been engaged by the board and the present quarters in the Marsh building will be vacated early in the new year.

Resurfacing Elm Place.

A force of Street Commissioner Gavett's men began work yesterday cutting Elm place to grade, preparatory to resurfacing it. The heavy work will be done at once. and in the spring a top coat will be laid. The street committee finds that this method is a great saving and gives excellent results.

VICTORY FOR HOPE CHAPEL

DEFEATED VISITING BOWLING TEAM FROM NEW BRUNSWICK.

After the Battle of the Alleys Was Over, Supper and Speeches Followed.

Victory perched on the banners of the Hope chapel Y. M. A. bowling team, last evening, when it met and defeated the "Academy" team, of New Brunswick. The game was the second of a series which is to be played and each contingent now has one to its credit, the New Brunswickers winning out two weeks ago.

Last night's game was very close for the first half and for a time it looked as if the visitors would go home triumphant. In the last few frames they became rattled by the cheers of the Y. M. A. rooters and dropped well in the rear, the local team winning out by 66 pins.

Following the game the young women friends of the bowlers invited all to partake of an excellent supper. Victors and vanquished forgot differences while doing justice to the excellent viands prepared. Incidentally there were speeches made by Rev. L. R. Howard, who was a guest of honor, Captain Alex Muir, of the Brunswick team, Captain George Firstbrook, of the home team, City Judge William N. Runyon, George Cose, of New Brunswick, Thomas McNabb Muir and Archibald Baldwin Hacquer, of Plainfield. A return game will be played at New Brunswick in two weeks.

The young women who cared for the refreshment part of the evening were the Misses Mabel Firstbrook, Marion Porter, Mary Duvier, Fanny Cose, Belle Slorah and Laura Hangliter and Mrs. Adam Angerbaner. Adam Angerbauer prepared the viands which the waitresses served.

The individual scores were as follows:

Y. M. A.		Stevens.
G. Firstbrook	144	Cose	154
W. Foster	152	W. Hangliter	129
M. Sweeney	111	J. Slorah	81

WANTS OPINION.

Concerning the Proposed Use of Individual Communion Cups.

At a regular church meeting of the First Baptist church, held July 24, of this year, a resolution was adopted requesting the pastor to appoint a committee to ascertain the wish of the membership in regard to a prosposed change from present custom to the use of individual cups at the communion services.

Sunday morning at the church service slips of paper were distributed among the communicants giving all an opportunity to signify their desire in the matter. These will be returned to the pastor of any member of the committee for consideration.

The committee consists of E. L. Bonny, George F. Brown, George H. Batchelor, H. E. Needham and O. B. Leonard.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

At the Anti-Polygamy Mass-Meeting Tomorrow Evening.

There will be a chorus of thirty-five or forty voices at the anti-polygamy amendment meeting at the Crescent Avenue church, tomorrow evening.

The selections rendered by the chorus will be, "How Lovely are the Messengers," from St. Paul, and "He, Watching over Israel," from Elijah.

There will also be a trio, "Lift Thine Eyes" (Elijah), by Mrs. Frank T. Clawson, Mrs. Asa Collier and Miss Julia Jermain Ketcham. Miss Jessie Utter will preside at the organ.

MISSIONS AT THE NORTH POLE.

Missionary Meeting of Endeavorers of the Crescent Avenue Church.

A Christian Endeavor missionary meeting will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Friday evening, at 8 o'clock. The subject will be, "Missions at the North Pole." Papers will be read on "The Old and New Metlahkatla" by Miss Sarah Brown, and "Hans Egede," by Fred G. Smith. W. D. Murray will conduct an "Objection Box." A cordial invitation is extended to the members of the congregation to attend.

Saw Views of the Exposition.

Fifty people braved the storm last evening to attend the illustrated lecture on the Pan-American Exposition given in the Park Avenue Baptist church under the auspices of the Sunday-school. George E. Hall, superintendent, gave the lecture and the views were among the finest ever seen. Mr. Hall's explanatory remarks were greatly enjoyed.

Sewing School Opened.

The sewing school at Warren chapel has opened again for the winter. All children who wish to know how to sew will be welcomed and are requested to enter now. The school meets every Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the chapel on Chatham street.

ADDITIONS AT THE LIBRARY

VALUABLE VOLUMES PURCHASED BY THE BABCOCK FUND.

Art Committee Told of Collection Received and Repairs Now Needed.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Library directors was held last evening at the Pubic Library. There were present M. W. Tyler, John B. Dumont, J. Evarts Tracy, Wm. H. Larrabee, Alexander Gilbert and Wm. M. Stillman.

The library committee reported that the following valuable sets had been purchased from the Babcock fund: Transactions of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and Transactions of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

The art committee reported that the collection of butterflies, presented by Alexander Gilbert, had been classified and arranged by an expert. This committee also reported the Art Gallery to be in need of repairs. The repairs were ordered done, and payment for the same to be made from the special fund.

The matter of purchase of printed catalogue cards was referred to the library committee with power. The bills of the general library were ordered paid from the library fund, and those of the Babcock from the Babcock fund.

After the reading of the librarian's report, the board adjourned.

Boys' Bible Class.

A week day Bible class composed of members of the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. was organized yesterday afternoon. The following Bible class committee was appointed: Francis K. Anderson, chairman; Harold Robins, secretary; and Edmund Templin, treasurer. Thirty-one boys were present at the Bible class session.

DAILY PRESS LEAGUE OPENS THIS EVENING

Games Will be Rolled on the Park Club and Westfield Club Alleys.

CRANFORD COMES HERE.

PROBABLE COMPOSITION OF PARK CLUB'S TEAM TONIGHT.

All the Clubs Expect to Try New Material This Season—Excellent Chances for Park Club This Year.

This evening will see the opening matches in The Daily Press Bowling League. A series of three will be rolled on the alleys of the Park Club, of this city, between the Park Club's team and the five from the Cranford Casino. The other series will be at Westfield when the Roselle Casino team will be the guest of the Westfield Club for three games.

For two consecutive seasons has the Roselle Casino finished first in the league. Both years, the Park Club has started in good form but has fallen down toward the close of the season. It has finished third both times. There is every prospect, however, that this year may see a change.

The Park Club has been developing a number of new bowlers during the last two years as most of the veteran players have withdrawn from active participation in the game. Of the old team, Laurens H. Van Buren is probably the only one who will bowl and he is not likely to be on the team regularly. F. O. Ball will probably roll in this evening's games and may remain with the team part of the season. He is a strong bowler when in condition and has been one of the club's strongest men in the past.

William R. Faber, captain of the Park Club team, was with the team last season. He is now rolling a steady, consistent game and may be counted upon for a good score. Last season, he was inclined to be erratic although he rolled some very high scores in the league. Allan B. Laing, chairman of the bowling committee, is out of practice at present but he may be expected to round into championship form before the season is over.

The five men, who will probably meet Cranford this evening are William R. Faber, the captain, F. O. Ball, William A. Townsend, Sidney Smith, a new comer on the Park alleys but an experienced bowler, and Langdon Howard. Howard is one of the younger men who has been rolling a phenominal game in practice. This will be his debut in a league game. Arthur Peck has also developed into a clever player and will roll in some future game.

Cranford has always been handicapped by the lack of young men. Its most remarkable bowler, Mr. Sharp who, on two occasions, made 298, is still with the team and will probably roll tonight. Barry, last season's captain, is absent from town and will not be with the team. Some new material will probably be tried.

Westfield and Roselle also report that a number of the old heroes of the alleys are to retire in favor of the younger element and allow someone else to carry off the honors. If either team shows any disposition to fall in the rear, the veterans may be expected back again. There is, however, an excellent show for the Park Club to make a strong beginning at least.

Injured by Horse.

With a severely sprained back, Louis Goldstein, of Watchung avenue, is confined to his bed as a result of having been wedged against the stable at his father's home, by a horse, which he was leading from a stall.

Appealed the Decision.

Not satisfied with the result of the recent debate on the immigration question, the Plainfield Literary Society will again argue the subject at an early date. On this occasion the public will be invited to attend.

Jury Trial.

The Plainfield Literary Society, at its next meeting, December 14, will hold a jury trial. Members of the organization will argue the case and the jury will be drawn from the number of invited guests.

Sold Milk Route.

Frederick Boice, of New Market, has sold his milk route in this city, to William Waldron, of Grant avenue.

Died From Lock Jaw.

A valuable horse belonging to L. C. Meeker, of South Plainfield, died from lock jaw Saturday.

OPENING OF BETHEL'S BAZAAR

THE CANTATA "CINDERELLA" WAS THE CHIEF FEATURE.

Then There Were Booths and a Refreshment Department—The Committees.

With a well presented cantata entitled "Cinderella" as the principal feature, the three night fair of the Circle of Earnest Workers began at Bethel chapel last evening. The attendance was very large and the programme was greatly enjoyed.

Those who took part in the cantata were Charles VanHorne, William Robinson, Frank Wright, Edwin James, Frank Selby, Oliver Marcellus, William Smith, Emory Gillette, Robert Cline and Alphus Miller. Incidentally Robert Toney sang a solo, Alfred White and Charles VanHorne rendered a piano duett and Alphus Miller gave a recitation.

The numerous booths, which are in evidence about the prettily decorated main room, and their committees are as folows: Variety, Mrs. Abraham Brown, Miss Josephine Walley and Miss Charlotte Dorsey; refreshment, Miss Laura Were and Miss Annie Broadvex; ice cream, Mrs. Mary Walley and Miss Bettie Dixson; fancy, Mrs. Moses Carey and Miss Lulu Marcellus; Russian tea, Miss Ephemia Dorsey, Miss Adelaide Ford and Miss Mabelle Hoffman; china, Mrs. George VanBlake, Mrs. Alonzo Hill and Mrs. Josephine Kelso; necktie, William Gillette.

The committee in charge announces a change of programme for this and tomorrow evening which will include a number of novelties.

DANCING IS CONDEMNED

REV. E. E. JACKSON WRITES CONCERNING THAT SUBJECT.

Strongly Endorses Sermon of Rev. Mr. McMurray Concerning Popular Amusements.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Permit me space in your valuable paper to congratulate Rev. John Mc Murray on his remarks in a sermon delivered by him Sunday evening on the relations of the Church and popular pastimes, and especially so much of the discourse as refers to dancing. I have been quite anxious to hear from the city pastors on this great and damning evil, against which I have stood as firm as a Gibraltar for the last four years.

There is no evil so prevalent, which has as great an influence to lead humanity to the den of immorality and shame than dancing. Many people justify the practice because the Bible mentions dancing and does not condemn it, but it should be remembered that dancing in those days was an expression of praise to God, and was vastly different from the exercise in vogue today. We might draw the same conclusion from the word "curse." Christ cursed the fig tree and God cursed the ground for man's sake. Then Christians have the right to curse, as we use the word, have they?

Three questions will I ask the Christian community: First—When one dances what effect has his conduct upon the world? Second—Does it influence a person to accept Christ, his Saviour? Third—Does any one know of a single soul having been brought to Christ during a public or private dance? Fourth—Does the dance of today symbolize worship?

Dancing carries many to premature graves; the fashionable dress, which is too thin and scantily cut to sleep in, in even tropical climes, is worn in the cold night air to and from the dancing hall. The child of vanity will scarcely allow wrappings to touch her body for fear of disarranging her toilet.

The good person when attempting to lead a Christian life will never regard a dancing master as a model.

When the sinner in the dying hour wishes religious comfort he will never send for a "dancing" church member.

God bless Rev. Mr. McMurray; may he live long to protest against this and other forms of evil.

E. E. Jackson.

The officers of the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school are planning for the Christmas entertainment to be held during the holidays.

CANTATA "ESTHER" WAS SUCCESS AT REHEARSAL

Public Performance Will be Given at Y. M. C. A. Hall Tonight.

MUSIC WAS EFFECTIVE.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST.

Large Audience Witnessed Dress Rehearsal of the Cantata and Was Well Pleased With its Rendition.

The dress rehearsal of the cantata "Esther, the Beautiful Queen," was given last evening, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. It was with feelings of pride and satisfaction that those in charge, were able to pronounce the affair a success.

After weeks of earnest effort on the part of the sixty people who are included in the cast, the cantata was given with much credit. The beautiful music was rendered effectively. The solo work throughout was commendable and the chorus was even and showed excellent training.

Garrett T. Dunham, the manager and conductor of the orchestra, directed the rendition of the cantata satisfactorily and brought out its strong points. Those who have planned to hear the cantata this evening, when it will be given for the public generally, are sure to enjoy it. All things being considered it is one of the best musical productions given in some time and success is assured to those who have taken the matter in charge.

It is for the benefit of the Church of the Heavenly Rest and this church will surely reap a handsome profit if the cordial support promised is given.

NEARLY COMPLETED.

Improvements to City Sewage Beds Will be Finished in Time.

Gleason & Kiely, the contractors in charge of the alterations at the disposal beds, have hurried the work to such an extent during the past few weeks that it will undoubtedly be completed by December 15, the time allowed by the corporation counsel.

Only a little more concrete remains to be completed and the last loads of filling material are being carted. A few of the prelimipary tests were made last week and everything was found to be in satisfactory order.

Many Rare Birds.

Don't fail to see the rare collection of birds in Dobbins' cigar store, on North, near Park avenue. They are of a class that are seldom seen outside of a great museum. The clerk will point out the valuable specimens.

Contest in Elocution.

A medal contest in elocution will be held under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Thursday evening, December 12. The affair will be in charge of Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey.

REMEMBERED HER.

A Woman, Who Died at Berkeley Heights, Willed Cash to Woman Who Cared for Her.

Mrs. Menegar, an aged woman, died at Berkeley Heights, Saturday evening, after a long illness, the interment being made at New Providence, Tuesday afternoon.

She left considerable property out of which $2,000 was willed to Mrs. Bier, of Berkeley Heights, who had taken care of her in her last days. The only relative she was known to have and who is now her heir, is a nephew whose present whereabouts are unknown.

Mrs. Menegar lived alone. One day last winter she slipped and fell, breaking her thigh. She was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital and, after two months, she was able to return home but in a feeble condition. Mrs. Bier then offered to care of her and, in return for her kindness, Mrs. Menegar at once made a will bequeathing her the $2,000.

CROWDS AT FIREMEN'S FAIR

COMIC SKETCH FORMED FEATURE OF THE PROGRAMME.

Lunch Counter and Booths Did a Rushing Business—To-Night's Programme.

Not one person in the large crowd which attended the West End Hose Company's fair, at Saengerbund Hall, last evening, appeared to have any regrets for being present at the eveing's entertainment. A first-class comic sketch kept the audience in continual uproar while it lasted and when it was over the dancing attracted no inconsiderable number. Those who did not desire to participate in this amusement found plenty to occupy the time.

The lunch counter was well patronized and the various lines of goods displayed at the several booths rapidly disappeared for the customers were numerous. As for the contests it is needless to say that the races for prizes are growing more exciting each succeeding evening, and they are keeping the ambitious ones hustling. Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra furnished the music and this feature added much to the evening's enjoyment.

Emil G. Sokol and James D. Nerrie, both of this city, were the characters in the sketch "Learning to Be a Doctor." Messrs. Sokol and Nerrie are clever artists in their line and on this occasion they appeared at their best.

The attendance was the largest of any thus far this week, though it is believed that it will be eclipsed this evening when J. Sullivan and young Dempsey, of New York, will reproduce the McGovern-Young Corbett fight in feather-weight fashion.

Prizes in the bowling contests were won as follows: John Wirth, chickens; Frank White, groceries; John Lloyd, a cushion; Emil Sokol, chickens; Mrs. Matthias Menzenbach, a lamp, and Mrs. John Lloyd, a cushion. This evening a big turkey will be offered as a prize.

FIGHTING WILL.

Nieces Contested in Court the Will of Late Mary Duffrey.

An appeal from the probate of the will of Mary Duffy was tried before Judge Vail, at Elizabeth, yesterday. The law not permitting the executor, William G. DeMeza, to appear as counsel, W. R. Codington represented the interests of the estate, while William W. Stillman was counsel for the nieces, who are contesting the probate.

Walter Hetfield, Jr., and Mrs. Martin Keiderling, of West Second street, were called by the defense, and Dr. Marcus L. Clawson testified on behalf of those attempting to break the will on the ground that the testatrix was unable to execute the instrument. Judge Vail reserved his decision.

Next Special Sermon.

Rev. John MacMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, will give the second of his series of sermons dealing with topics of the day, next Sunday evening. The subject will be "Twentieth Century Christianity; Marriage and Divorce."

Lectured on Redmanship.

William Newcorn gave an interesting lecture on the principles of Redmanship before the members of the Elizabeth tribes a few days ago.

Reform Hall Programme.

An interesting programme of music and recitations will be given at Reform Hall tomorrow evening.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY TO J. W. ANTHONY

Stricken Down at His Home on Sandford Avenue During the Night.

FROM HEART TROUBLE.

HAS RESIDED IN PLAINFIELD FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

Heart Disease Caused His Death—Leaves Two Sons, One of Whom is E. E. Anthony, of This City—Funeral Sunday.

J. W. Anthony, of 25 Sandford avenue, died suddenly at midnight last night. For some time past he had been affected with heart trouble, and his physician believes that the recent cold weather had something to do with his sudden death.

During the night he suffered from a severe coughing spell. At midnight he called his sister, Mrs. Abram Remsen, with whom he lived. She and her husband hastened to the hall, where Mr. Anthony stood. He was suffering severe pains about the heart. He was assisted to his room and expired soon after returning to bed.

Mr. Anthony was born in the vicinity of Tarrytown, N. Y., where he lived for many years. He was seventy-two years of age. He came to Plainfield twenty-six years ago for the benefit of his wife's health, but she died soon afterward. Prior to coming to Plainfield, Mr. Anthony lived in Brooklyn.

For a number of years he was employed by the Horace Waters Piano Company. During the past three years he held the position of bookkeeper for McDonough Bros., coal and ice dealers. Aside from his heart trouble he enjoyed excellent health. He was a member and faithful attendant at the First Presbyterian church.

Mr. Anthony is survived by two sons, E. E. Anthony, of 444 West Front street, W. R. Anthony, of Newark, a sister, Mrs. Abrem Remsen, of Sandford avenue, and a brother, Theodore Anthony, of Fishkill Village, N. Y.

The funeral services will probably be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence, 25 Sandford avenue. Interment will take place in Cypress Hills cemetery, Brooklyn.

FIRST PUBLIC APPEARANCE.

Monday Evening's Recital Marks Debut of Talented Young Women.

The debut and recital of Miss Bertha Van Nuise Willis, soprano, and Miss Saidee Mae Howell, pianist, at the Casino, Monday, has caused quite a furore among the music loving people of this city. It promises to be an event of much importance in a social and musical light.

Both young women have been close students in their respective followings and have attained a degree of efficiency said to be more than remarkable. They are well known here and have the sincere hearty wishes of their many friends who undoubtedly will flock in numbers to greet them on their enter to public life.

They will be assisted by Miss Mae Colt, reader, from New Haven, and Hobart Smock, tenor soloist of All Angel's church, New York.

WORK IN FRANCE.

Local Members of McAll Auxiliary Hear Something of It.

A regular meeting of the McAll Auxiliary was held yesterday at the Public Library with a good attendance of members. Considerable interest was manifested in the reading of several letters from friends of the Auxiliary. These proved to be very encouraging to the members in their work.

There is strong evidence of the absolute need of the teaching of the truth as found in Christ and it is along this line that the members are endeavoring to put forth their best effort. The members are meeting with some opposition in carrying on their work in France, but this does not discourage them, but rather proves an incentive to greater effort.

A Goodly Profit.

The sum of $125 has been realized as profit as a result of the burlesque on the Pan-American Exposition held this week at the First Baptist church.

Informal Luncheon.

Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, of Myrtle avenue, gave a luncheon Tuesday to a limited number of friends. The affair was an informal one.

SHE TALKED ABOUT KIPLING

LECTURE BY MISS ANTONIETTE CARROLL, FORMER PLAINFIELDER.

Delivered at Residence of Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung Avenue, Yesterday.

That Kipling has not lost his hold on one community at least was demonstrated by the size of an enthusiastic audience, which crowded the parlors of the residence of Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon, to listen to Miss Antoniette Carroll talk on the poetic works of this famous Englishman. The lecturer is a former resident of this city and many of her Plainfield friends grasped this opportunity to renew their acquaintanceship with this young woman, who is rapidly forging to the front as a speaker on literary topics.

After a short sketch of the career of the man, himself, Miss Carroll took occasion to contrast his style with that of other poets of note and drew attention to the majestic rhythm of his lines. In order to bring out clearly the peculiar qualities of his works, the speaker recited some of his more celebrated poems, the "Recessional" and "The Absent Minded Beggar" as well as his ballads coming in for a share of attention in this respect.

The intensely natural qualities of his entire works and the military spirit of many of them were dwelt upon. In closing Miss Carroll recited "The Future," which she prefaced with the explanation that although not so well known still it is the one typical poem of Rudyard Kipling.

JUNIORS GAVE PROGRAMME

EXERCISE GIVEN AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH LAST EVENING.

Missionary Service, Entitled "Ye Are the Light of The World"—Those Who Took Part.

A missionary exercise, entitled "Ye Are The Light of The World," was given by the Junior Endeavor Society of the Congregational church, last evening, in the presence of a large congregation. All the members of the society participated in the affair and with few exceptions they appeared in costume. Assisting the juniors were a number of the young women of the church.

The affair opened with a processional, in which the members carried flags of various nations. Miss Annie Winant rendered a prayer in verse and there was a chorus response. Following came a Bible drill, in which the young people enacted parts of the Scripture. Then the Joyous Bells were sung in chorus, to which was a hoop bell accompaniment, the bells being neatly attached to the hoops. In this part were the Misses Steiner, Olive Hedden, Ruth Day, Miriam VanHorn, Leila Duy and Annie Winant. A triangle accompaniment added greatly to the pleasure of this selection

A dialogue formed the most attractive part of the programme. The characters in it were America, Miss Carrie Fuller; Christian, Miss Emily Winant; four American Girls, the Misses Laura Baker, Miriam Van Horn, Leila Duy and Ruth Day; three Japanese Girls, the Misses Enid Fonda, Edith Bentley and Mira Emmons; three Chinese, the Misses Maud Emmons, Ethel VanZant and Marion Winant; Mexico representative, Miss Flora Pope; North American Indian, Miss Gene Millar; Child Widow of India, Miss Ethel Noe; Orphan Indian, Miss Nettie Steiner.

The Misses Noe and Steiner took part in a duet, and Miss Agnes La Boyteaux rendered a solo. Miss Waterbury acted as accompanist during the performance.

REDWOOD CAMP.

Is Growing Rapidly and Will Initiate Five Saturday.

Redwood Camp, No. 10,262, Modern Woodmen of America, which was organized last Friday, will meet Saturday evening in Red Men's hall for the purpose of initiating five candidates. The camp is already growing fast and bids fair to be a flourishing organization within a very short time. Regular meeting nights have been arranged for the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month.

Epworth League Meeting.

A business meeting of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. church will be held tomorrow evening. There is some business of importance which will occupy the attention of the members.

FIRST CASINO DANCE TAKES PLACE TONIGHT

Will Mark the Real Opening of the Local Social Season.

THE FIRST OF A SERIES.

TAKES THE PLACE OF REGULAR ASSEMBLIES THIS YEAR.

Long Subscription List of Plainfielders Prominent in Society Circles—Next Dance Will Be "Bal Masque."

While it has been practically decided that the Assemblies will not be held by Plainfield's smart set this winter, there is every evidence that there will be a number of social functions during the season which will keep the young people on the go. The active season really begins this evening when the first of the Casino dances will be held. These dances are really a substitute for the Assemblies and are patronized by practically the same people as were at the head of the other dances last season. The fact that several of the prominent local families are in mourning made it advisable to make this change.

This evening's dance is the first of a series of subscription affairs which are to be given at the Casino this winter. The second, which will be a "bal masque" is booked for New Year's eve. Others will follow on February 10 and March 31, Easter Monday night.

The committee in charge consists of Elliot T. Barrows, Fred W. Yates, Lewis G. Timpson and Lewis E. Waring. Last season, Mr. Waring was at the head of the Assemblies while Mr. Timpson and Mr. Yates figured in the direction of the series of subscription dances given by the young married set. Mr. Barrows was prominent in the management of the Hillside Club and the Casino, last season.

In addition to the local society folk, there will be a number of out-of-town guests at this evening's dance. Preparations of an elaborate nature have been made and the dance promises to be a very successful one. The list of subscribers includes many of those prominent in local society circles and is quite a lengthy one.

PLOT OF COMEDY.

Frame Work About Which "The Brixton Burglary" is Drawn.

"The Brixton Burglary," the latest English farce comedy presented in New York at the Herald Square Theatre, and which will be performed at the Casino Saturday matinee and night, January 14, is jovial in character.

The complications hinge upon the escapades of a couple of married men whose wives were away from home, and those of a man servant and a maid, who go out on a lark, the one in a suit of his master's clothing, and the other upon her master's wheel. The man servant falls into the hands of a burglar, who is followed by the police, and the burglar compels the servant to change suits with him, which eventually lands him in jail and a note transferred to his pocket involves his master in suspicion of the robbery. Breeziness is lent by "The Bounding Sisters of the Air" whom the gay husbands meet unexpectedly.

REFORM CLUB OFFICERS.

Elected at Annual Meeting of That Club Recently Held.

The annual meeting of the Reform Club was held this week when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John Goodwin; vice-president, David Bush; secretary, E. P. T. Smith; financial secretary, Charles Stevens; treasurer, J. W. A. Bauersachs. The treasurer reported that there is a balance of $100 on hand. The club is in a prosperous condition both financially and otherwise.

Overtime Discontinued.

Overtime at the Potter Press Works, which has been in force for many months, was discontinued Friday night. The cause is assigned to other reasons than slackness of orders and, in all probability, it will be resumed in a short space of time.

LITERARY.

The Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine is especially notable for charming fiction and novel and effective art features. The old-fashioned Christmas story does not prevail, but in its place has come the story of bright and cheerful social phases, delicate sentiment, wit and humor. The best work of the best writers is used in these special numbers rather than Christmas tales written to order. In this number appear such authors as Thomas Nelson Page, F. Hopkinson Smith, William Henry Bishop and Arthur Smith. Artistically this Christmas number contains many effective features. Maxfield Parrish, who has a place of his own among artists as a designer in color, furnishes the beautiful Christmas cover and in addition the frontispiece (printed in color) and other illustrations in black and white to accompany one of the stories. Castaigne, whose work is always full of vigor and imagination, illustrates a romantic episode in the career of Cleopatra—accompanying a poem by Benjamin Paul Blood, author of "The Lion of the Nile." These are printed in color and are probably the most effective illustrations in that method which have appeared in this magazine. Another elaborate color-scheme is a reproduction of the beauiiful pictures of childhood by Jessie Wilcox Smith accompanying a fanciful story by William Henry Bishop, the hero of which is an up-to-date boy who believes in the efficacy of a Fairy Wand and is not disappointed.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed. Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

ASTHMA CURE FREE.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. F. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.
AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

February 5, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington street.

MISSING MISS FOUND?

Detention of Nellie Cropsey Doubted by Family.

PARTIALLY IDENTIFIED BY A FRIEND

The North Carolina Mystery Seems to Present a Difficult Problem For the Officials Who Are Making the Search.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Dec. 5.—The news from Wilson, N. C., of the detention there of a woman partially identified as Miss Nellie Cropsey has created little interest here among the girl's family or officials of the town. It is believed here that this same woman and her companion were examined at Speed, N. C., by an agent of Chief of Police Dawson several days ago and found not to be Miss Cropsey, though resembling her.

An expert diver spent the day searching the bottom of the river above the pier near the Cropsey house in the hope of finding the body, but discovered nothing. No clue of value has yet been found, and the strange case is practically in the same position it was the day after the girl disappeared.

At 8:45 last night Chief of Police Dawson received a telegram from the chief of police of Wilson, N. C., giving a description of the Durham woman. It does not at all answer to Nell Cropsey's description.

The report from Wilson is to the effect that on Monday a couple giving the names of Mr. and Mrs. Mackay Durham stopped at Ward's boarding house there. Monday evening Durham was found drunk and disorderly on the streets and locked up, remaining in the town guardhouse throughout the night. Tuesday, when Durham was sober, he was released from custody, and he, with his supposed wife, left in a buggy for Nashville, N. C.

At this juncture the town authorities suspected the couple to be Miss Nellie Cropsey and Mr. Durham of Elizabeth City, both of whom disappeared from that city on Wednesday night, Nov. 21. They were pursued by two policemen on each road leading out of Wilson to Turkey Creek, about fifteen miles north of here, where they were arrested by Policemen Felton and Bryant and brought back to town yesterday.

Miss Tyer, who was a playmate of Miss Nellie Cropsey for four years and who is now at school here, was called on to identify Miss Cropsey. She testified that for "four years she has not seen her, but the girl in custody resembles Nellie very much; that when she knew her her hair was lengthy; that her features were identically the same." She will be held in custody until parties arrive from Elizabeth City. The alleged Miss Cropsey says she has been married only a few days. She seems to be deeply distressed. She appears to be about seventeen years of age and is good looking. She has an intelligent face, speaks very clearly and while being questioned by Mayor Herring said many things contradictory to Durham's statements.

Battleships at Charleston.

CHARLESTON, Dec. 5.—The battleships Alabama, Captain Brownson, and Massachusetts, Captain Manney, were welcomed by Mayor Smyth and a party of representative citizens as soon as they arrived off Charleston bar yesterday morning. In the evening the officers of the two warships attended a banquet as guests of the city, and tonight a naval ball will be given in their honor. On Friday the officers will visit the site of the naval station and be entertained by the Charleston Country club near by. On Saturday the seamen will be given a barbecue at Chicora park.

The Bonine Case.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The defense in the case of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine, on trial for the killing of James Seymour Ayres, Jr., on the night of May 14 last, introduced testimony of several Washington physicians, including the jail physicians, regarding bruises and abrasions on Mrs. Bonine's person and also the state of her health at the time of the tragedy. Dr. H. D. Fry said that he had found twelve such bruises.

Heavy Snow In Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 5.—Kansas is receiving a heavy snowstorm which covers the entire eastern half of the state. Lawrence, Osage City, Reading, Emporia and Strong City are included in the storm district, which extends as far west as Hutchinson. If the snow proves as heavy as expected, it will be of great benefit, giving a much needed supply of moisture.

Kubelik In Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—A decided ovation was given last evening to Jan Kubelik, the famous violinist, on the occasion of his first appearance in this city in Symphony hall. Every number on his programme was enthusiastically received, and at the close of his last number the applause was so great that he gave two extra selections in response to it.

Standard Oil Not Debarred.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 5.—The supreme court has accepted the report of the referees in the suit of the state against the Standard Oil company. The court thereby dismisses the suit, declaring that there is insufficient evidence against the company to debar it from the state on the grounds that it is a trust.

Porto Rico's Coffee Export.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 5.—During the month of November 3,708,766 pounds of coffee were exported from Porto Rico, the majority of which went to Europe.

SHIP AND CREW LOST

Twenty-eight Men Perish on Pacific Coast.

GALE RAGED DURING ENTIRE NIGHT.

British Steamer Nelson, With Shifted Cargo of Lumber, Turned Turtle and Sank at Columbia River's Mouth.

ASTORIA, Or., Dec. 5.—The bar tug Tatoosh, which has just returned to port, reports that the British ship Nelson, Captain Ferriam, turned turtle and went to the bottom with her entire crew. The Nelson left Astoria on Nov. 25. Monday night she was back at the river's mouth and Tuesday was reported to have shifted her cargo. She had a bad list to starboard and could go on only one tack. The tug Tatoosh went out and picked up the Nelson, passing a hawser. The tug started offshore with the ship owing to the gale. It was the intention of Captain Bailey of the Tatoosh to remain with the ship during the night. The gale that raged all night was too severe for the vessel to withstand, and she broke from the tug and then turned turtle, sinking at once.

In the darkness it was impossible for the tug to render assistance to the members of the crew, and all perished.

The Nelson carried a crew of twenty-eight men all told. She was an old wooden vessel.

Captain George W. Woods, the bar pilot, was to have been placed aboard the ship, but the weather was too rough to permit it. Captain Woods states that the Nelson went over between 10 and 11 o'clock at night during the height of the gale.

The Nelson carried a cargo of lumber and was consigned to Cape Town, South Africa, by Taylor, Young & Co. of this city.

Mexican Silver Depreciates.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 5.—The rapid rise in exchange as shown by the gold premium is the theme of discussion in financial and business circles. Some bankers regard the depression in silver as temporary and hope for a speedy reaction. Others less sanguine point to the fact that for eighteen years there has been, on the whole, a constant downward tendency, and the expression of the belief that eventually Mexico will have to come to a gold basis is common. New York exchange stands at 1.32 premium, and this seriously affects importers, and several heavy orders about to be sent to the United States have been held back pending a more settled state of the exchange.

The Hancock Arrives.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—The transport Hancock has arrived from Manila. In addition to the passengers and soldiers taken on at Manila the Hancock brought those transferred from the Warren, which in turn had taken them from the Sheridan at Nagasaki. Both the Sheridan and Warren met with accidents, and when the Hancock started from Kobe she ran on a sand bar, but escaped with slight injuries. Among the Hancock's passengers were Congressmen Weeks and De Armond. The Hancock brought 900 soldiers, including casuals, sick and discharged.

Considering Cuba.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—General Leonard Wood, military governor of Cuba, accompanied by his secretary and Mr. Gonzales Quesada, was at the capitol yesterday conferring with senators in the interest of Cuban reciprocity. General Wood told senators that some measure of reciprocity on Cuban sugar and tobacco, particularly the former, is essential to giving the island that degree of stability and prosperity which was contemplated when the United States dispossessed Spanish rule.

A Big Light and Power Plant.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 5.—Contracts have been nearly completed for the installation of a giant electric light and power plant in the new shops of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company at Readville, Mass. The plant will not only illuminate the plant, but will also manipulate all the shop machinery.

Dead In a Snowdrift.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Dec. 5.—George Nelson was found dead in a snowdrift near Monticello by two schoolboys who were playing in the drift. Nelson is supposed to have frozen to death after being benumbed by Tuesday's storm. He was thirty years old and was for a number of years connected with the Mun House, near Wurtsboro.

Contest In Maryland For Comptroller

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—Formal notice has been sent to Joshua W. Hering, Democratic state comptroller, who was returned as re-elected in the recent election by a plurality of 121 votes, that his right to the position will be contested by Herman S. Platt, the Republican candidate. The contest will be made before the legislature.

Jenkins Denies Charges.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Dec. 5.—Former Governor William Jenkins, who was removed from office by President Roosevelt, has made public a statement denying the insane asylum charges filed against him and declaring that Mr. Roosevelt misquoted him.

A New Year's Ball.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 5.—The federal government will tender the delegates of the pan-American conference a magnificent ball on the last night of the year at the national palace. The ball will mark an epoch in the social history of this city.

WILHELMINA'S TROUBLES.

The Story of Her Husband's Harsh Treatment.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The matrimonial quarrel between Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Henry, her husband, excites great interest here.

The history of the affair as gathered from the various continental newspapers charges Prince Henry with misconduct and neglect and repeats rumors of his deep drinking and heavy gaming debts, which Queen Wilhelmina declined to pay. Another point of disagreement between the pair was the prince's unconcealed antipathy to Holland and his ungovernable passion for hunting, which resulted in his long absences in Germany. It is said that the queen mother then interfered and vexed her son-in-law with his misbehavior but without effect, and finally the matter developed into an estrangement between mother and daughter.

In regard to the quarrel at the dinner at Het Loo and the resultant duels another rumor represents Major Van Tets as having received a violent kick in the stomach, which caused him severe internal injuries, and it is supposed the fear that his death might lead to revelations is the real reason for something of the truth being permitted to leak out after the matter was officially denied. The latest news, however, says that Major Tets is progressing favorably, and it is said that the queen mother has been able to effect something like a reconciliation between the queen and her husband.

Prince Henry has a record of several duels in his student days. He has always been exceedingly unpopular in Holland, where since 1879 there have been fears of annexation schemes on the part of Germany, and on this account the friends of Prince Henry declare he never has had fair play.

Hill to Leave Great Northern.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The statement is made on good authority that J. J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway and prime mover in the formation of the Northern Securities company, would soon retire from the presidency of the road. On this same authority it is declared that Mr. Hill will be succeeded by his son, J. N. Hill, now an active official of the Great Northern road and an experienced railroad man for his years. Mr. Hill, Sr., will probably remain in the directorate. Mr. Hill's retirement will probably be followed by his removal from St. Paul to this city as a place of residence.

The Colombia Situation.

COLON, Colombia, Dec. 5.—The British cruiser Tribune, which sailed from here Sunday with the British consul on board, has returned to Colon from Bocas del Toro, bringing news that the latter town is in the hands of the government and that its inhabitants are gayly celebrating the recapture of Colon. Bocas del Toro is a banana town, where American, British and other foreign interests are supreme, especially the first mentioned. The Austro-Hungarian cruiser Szigetvar has arrived here. No news has been received here from Buenaventura or from Agua Dulce at the time this dispatch was filed.

Convicted of Murder.

DOVER, Me., Dec. 5.—A verdict of murder in the first degree was returned yesterday against Henry Lambert, a young French Canadian guide and woodsman. The crime for which Lambert was convicted was a triple murder, the victims being J. Wesley Allen, a prominent farmer and member of the board of selectmen of the town of Shirley; his wife, Mary S., and their daughter, Carrie L., aged sixteen. The murders were committed on Sunday evening, May 12, and the murderer set fire to the farm buildings in an effort to cover up the crime.

Calve Gives Up Engagement.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Calve has given up the struggle with acute bronchitis and will sing no more until Dec. 25, when she will appear in New York. She has so notified Manager Grau. In eastern cities where Calve was to have sung Sibyl Sanderson in "Romeo and Juliet" will be substituted. Calve left today for St. Augustine, Fla. She goes to Florida that she may be within reach of a New York throat specialist. The receipts for the thirty performances given here exceeded $200,000.

To Free Ireland.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—One hundred and fifty Irishmen and Irish Americans gathered at the Hoffman House last evening and formed a new organization for aiding in every possible way the attainment of the freedom of Ireland and to support the Irish national cause. John E. Redmond, M. P., was the leading spirit. M. Redding of Baltimore was made president. A committee of seven was appointed to draw up plans and resolutions.

Missouri Strikers Riot.

RICH HILL, Mo., Dec. 5.—Two small riots here in which striking miners and deputy sheriffs were the participants resulted in the serious wounding of four men. Sheriff Joe T. Smith of Butler, Mo., was seriously injured by a shot from a sling in the hands of one of the strikers. Walter Valentine, a deputy sheriff, shot two miners and was himself shot.

LABOR FEDERATIONISTS MEET.

Big Convention Opened at Scranton, Pa.—Some of the Questions Up.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 5.—The big convention of the American Federation of Labor opened here today in St. Thomas College hall.

The Pacific coast delegation, headed by John T. Morgan of Portland, is fighting for the re-enactment of the Chinese exclusion law with amendments to make its provisions apply to all Mongolians and its operation unlimited as to years.

Delegates from the shipbuilding trades are making a vigorous campaign for a demand from the federation that the government build its own ships and not let out the contracts to private parties, who pay less wages and exact more labor than does the government.

Almost every delegate is taking an active interest in the trades autonomy matter, and of all the subjects billed for discussion it promises to provoke the most talking. The miners and stationary engineers and firemen are at war over the jurisdiction of the engineers and firemen at collieries, the brewery workers and teamsters are in conflict over the drivers of brewery wagons, the woodworkers and carpenters propose to thrash out their long standing feud about the jurisdiction over men employed in carpenter shops, and the typos and machinists are disputing over linotype machinists, and so on.

The color line will also be the subject of what gives promise of being an animated discussion.

LIVE STOCK SHOW.

An Unprecedented Attendance at the Chicago Stockyards.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The fifth day of the International Live Stock exposition attracted the greatest crowd ever assembled at the Chicago stockyards, the pavilions, pens and yards being crowded to their utmost capacity. High officials of several western states and Canadian provinces were among the spectators, including Governor Shaw of Iowa, Governor Savage of Nebraska, Governor Van Sant of Minnesota, Governor Durbin of Indiana, Governor Dockery of Missouri, Governor Toole of Montana, Governor Wells of Utah, Senor Carcenvos of Mexico, Senor Alberto Scerantes of the Argentine Republic and Hon. J. L. Dryden, Canadian minister of agriculture.

An interesting incident of the day was the selling at auction of the fat Hereford steer Wood's Principal, to which the championship of the show was awarded. A local packing firm started the bidding at 25 cents a pound. Fifty cents a pound was the limit, and A. G. Swenson of New York was the purchaser.

Michigan Central to Reorganize.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 5.—In accordance with the act passed by the legislature of 1900 revoking the special charter of the Michigan Central railroad and giving that corporation until Dec. 31, 1901, to reorganize under the general railroad law of the state the stockholders of the road met here and took the necessary steps toward reorganization. This means a rate of fare of 2 cents per mile on the main line of the road, the general law providing that roads of the earning capacity of the Michigan Central cannot charge over 2 cents per mile.

Ship's Crew Frozen.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 5.—With seven members of the crew frozen and requiring attention the British brig Bristol, from Windsor, N. S., lies off Pennfield reef, this city. The vessel sent signals of distress during the storm, but they were not seen here until morning, when the steamer Josephine saw them and went to its assistance. The vessel is commanded by Captain B. E. Sanford.

Rockefeller's Offer to Bryn Mawr.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Bryn Mawr college, for the higher education of young women, has been offered a gift by John D. Rockefeller, who agrees to contribute $250,000 for certain specified improvements provided that on or before commencement day in June, next year, the further sum of $250,000 shall be raised to complete the projected work.

To Reorganize China's Navy.

PEKING, Dec. 5.—Native papers say that Yuan Shi Kai, the governor of Pechili, proposes to reorganize the Peiyang naval forces under British and American instructors and that he will consolidate the military forces of Chili into an army corps numbering 100,000 men under foreign instructors. The court starts for Peking Dec. 14.

Student Riots at Warsaw.

WARSAW, Dec. 5.—A body of students made a hostile demonstration before the German consulate here. They tore down and destroyed the German escutcheon over the door and stoned the windows of the consulate. They dispersed on the arrival of the chief of police. The consulate is now under police protection.

Many "Good Smokes" Coming.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 5.—The Red D line steamer Caracas has sailed from here for New York carrying 1,664,763 cigars, 563,000 cigarettes and 287 bales of leaf tobacco. The Venezuelan general Monagas is a passenger on the Caracas.

Vanderbilt Must Pay.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—William K. Vanderbilt has been condemned in a French court to pay 1,000 francs damages as a result of a collision between his automobile and a dogcart at D'Eauville last year.

TO CHECK ANARCHY.

Important Bills on the Subject Before the Senate.

EXCLUSION AND DEPORTATION URGED

Senators Burrows, Vest and McComas Introduce Sweeping Measures—Isthmian Canal Report Is Transmitted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Practically the entire time of the senate yesterday was devoted to the introduction of bills and resolutions. Two of these measures, relating to the suppression of anarchy and the dealing with anarchists, were allowed to lie on the table so that their authors, Mr. McComas of Maryland and Mr. Vest of Missouri, may bring them to the early attention of the senate. The isthmian canal report was transmitted to the senate by the president, and several bills providing for the construction of the waterway, one of them by Mr. Morgan of Alabama, who has led the movement for the canal in the past, were presented.

Senator Burrows has introduced a bill "to provide for the exclusion and deportation of alien anarchists." The first section of the bill is as follows: "That no alien anarchists shall hereafter be permitted to land at any port of the United States or be admitted into the United States, but this prohibition shall not be so construed as to apply to political refugees or political offenders other than such anarchists."

The second section directs the special board of inquiry authorized by the immigration laws to make diligent investigation concerning the antecedents of any alien seeking admission into the United States who is suspected of being an anarchist, authorizing the board to even go to the extent of examining the person of suspected aliens for marks indicative of membership in anarchistic societies.

Section 3 provides for the return of persons to their native countries who have secured admission to the United States contrary to law and who have afterward been found to be anarchists.

The fourth section provides that when any alien is convicted of crime in any United States court and it shall appear from the evidence that he is an anarchist the presiding judge shall direct a further hearing, and if the judge is satisfied that the convicted alien is an anarchist he may direct that, in addition to other punishment adjudged, the convicted alien, after undergoing such punishment, shall be deported.

Provision is made for the appointment of twelve immigration agents at a salary of $2,500 each to make investigations in foreign countries concerning intended immigrants. The sixth and last section of the bill provides that "the fact that an alien has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States shall constitute no bar to proceedings against him under this act."

THE ISTHMIAN CANAL.

Report of Commission Sent to Congress—Nicaragua Route Favored.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The report of the isthmian canal commission as sent to congress favors the Nicaragua route and makes an estimate of $189,864,082 as the total cost of the construction of the canal through Nicaragua. The estimated cost of the Panama route is $144,233,358; but, the report says, it would cost $109,141,000 to obtain the Panama concession. The commission value the work done at $40,000,000.

The report says the Panama route is feasible as a sea level canal, while the Nicaragua route must be by locks, but Lake Nicaragua will furnish an inexhaustible supply of water for the canal. The Nicaragua route has no natural harbors at either end, but satisfactory harbors may be constructed. Harbors already exist at each end of the Panama route, but considerable work must be done at the entrance of the harbor on the Atlantic side.

With adequate force and plant the commission estimates that the Nicaragua canal can be completed in six years, exclusive of two years for preparation. Ten years is estimated to complete the Panama canal.

The total length of the Nicaragua canal is 183.66 miles and the Panama route 49.09 miles.

The estimated cost of operating and maintaining the Nicaragua canal annually is $1,350,000 greater than that of the Panama canal.

The estimated time for a deep draft vessel to pass through the Panama canal is twelve hours and through Nicaragua canal thirty-three hours.

The report concludes as follows:

"After considering all the facts developed by the investigations made by the commission the actual situation as it now stands, and having in view the terms offered by the new Panama Canal company, this commission is of opinion that the most practicable and feasible route for an isthmian canal, to be under the control, management and ownership of the United States, is that known as the Nicaragua route."

Judge Dropped Dead.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 5.—Judge Charles H. Toll, who was elected attorney general of the state of Colorado in 1880, serving one term, fell dead of apoplexy in his office here. He was born at Baldwinsville, N. Y., in 1850. His wife is a sister of former United States Senator Wolcott.

Must Not Drink Vino.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Brigadier General Bell has issued an order to the soldiers in northern Luzon forbidding them under pain of severe punishment by court martial to drink the native "vino," a spirit which has been found to produce insanity and incite to crime.

THE VACCINATION QUESTION.

While the Boards of Health all over the country are almost unanimous in their opinion in favor of compulsory vaccination for children, there are a few dissenters. Occasionally one hears of a man prominent in public affairs who does not believe in that course of action. It is reported that one member of the North Plainfield Board of Education has taken that stand. While the dread disease has not yet gained an entry to Greater Plainfield, its close proximity makes it likely to appear here at any time. The subject is, therefore, of very present interest to the people of both city and borough.

A timely editorial appeared in last evening's New York Sun on this same subject, referring particularly to an analagous situation in the city of Philadelphia, and the increase in the number of small pox cases during the winter months. It is as follows:

"During November 304 cases of smallpox were reported in Philadelphia, and the Board of Health, with a compulsory law behind it, is compelling all children attending public and private schools to get vaccinated.

The Philadelphia physicians are discussing the reasons why the disease flourishes in winter, and they contain some good advice for everybody. Dr. Benjamin Lee, secretary of the State Board of Health, says smallpox spreads in winter, because intense cold preserves the virus, and because people unwisely keep their houses so tigthly shut up that the air becomes vitiated.

" 'Next to heat,' he says, 'fresh air is the deadliest enemy of smallpox virus. When fuel is not abundant, the house must be kept closed, in order that the inmates may be warm, and, as a result, the wholesome elements are replaced by poisonous exhalations. The effect is two-fold—the general condition of the health is impaired and the germs thrive in the poisoned atmosphere.'

"In Philadelphia the poor are generally escaping the disease and it is finding lodgment among the well-to-do. The explanation seems to be that as soon as smallpox threatened the poor were compelled to get vaccinated, whereas the rich in their commodious homes believed that they would be immune. There could be no greater mistake than this, for smallpox, contrary to a pretty general impression, is not a filth disease.

" 'It thrives no more in filth than in cleanliness,' says Dr. Lee, 'and vaccination is the only effectual barrier to its spread.' "

The city of Camden is trying to disabuse the public mind of the unpleasant reports which were circulated concerning its cases of lockjaw which followed vaccination. It has been proved that the virus was not the cause of the subsequent trouble. The reports were far-reaching, however, and it will take Camden a long time to spread its contradictions as fully as the story has gone forth. Every newspaper in the State and many outside of it has received considerable literature on the subject prepared by the Camden Board of Health.

It may be well to state for the benefit of the public at large that the employment of Leon R. Thurlow, of Brookline, Mass., as health officer by the Plainfield Board of Health, does not interfere in the slightest with the standing of William Addis, the present health inspector of the the city board. Mr. Addis will continue his duties as usual. The work of the new health officer will be of a different character than that heretofore performed by the regular health inspector.

According to the Philadelphia Record, an observing writer notes that the self-made man of today starts with little means, but with a purpose to make a large success. Usually he makes some mistakes which depress him for a time, but he renews his experiments, and in most cases he learns that mercantile success depends on the sale of more goods, which means interesting more people through publicity. In other words, he depends on newspaper advertising.

The loss which the Plainfield Water Supply Company suffers every cold spell cannot be estimated. It is the custom of many of its patrons to turn on the water slightly when retiring and allowing it to run all night so that the water in the pipes will not freeze. It prevents trouble with frozen pipes but a great deal of water is thereby wasted. When the water meters are installed, the people will have to pay for that privilege.

An attempt is being made in Somerville to close up the lunch wagon Sundays. In Plainfield, the lunch wagon has practically the same status as any of the lunch rooms and is accorded the same privileges. When the lunch wagon was first brought to this city, it did not appear on the streets Sunday nights but lately it does business seven nights a week.

North Plainfield has heard a great deal about municipal ownership during the last year. A free and open discussion of the subject is certainly desirable. It would, however, be interesting to occasionally hear something besides mere "progress" from the committee which was appointed to investigate the subject.

It is not surprising that the people of Fanwood are weary at having so many burglaries in that vicinity. While none of them have been of a really serious nature, yet it is decidedly unpleasant to feel that your home is liable to be entered at any time. There ought to be some way to stop this practice.

There are some very valuable volumes at the Plainfield Public Library. Those citizens, who have heretofore failed to take advantage of the privileges which that institution offers, may find some things of decided interest there if they will only take the time to visit the place.

It was timely advice which Rev. C. E. Herring gave to the members of his congregation when he besought them to be on time to funerals. Particular care should be observed if for no other reason than out of respect to the memory of the departed one.

While Plainfielders may remember the fence between the tracks at the North Avenue station, there are many strangers who come here and do not know of its existence. It should therefore be made as easy to see as possible.

Present happenings tend toward the belief that the winter is a cold one.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Grand Foreman V. W. Nash, of the Ancient Order United Workmen, has just received a manual from the Grand Recorder of this State. It gives the relative merits of the various lodges from an insurance standpoint, and shows that the Ancient Workmen is one of the safest. The State lodge expects to soon take up the classified assessment plan, whereby the younger members will assist in paying the assessments of those who have been in the lodge for a great many years.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. We are going out of the retail business in Plainfield by January 1, and must turn this new stock of Men's, Boys' and Children's Suits, Pants, Overcoats and a full line of Furnishing Goods into ready cash by that time, and in order to accomplish this we will, commencing with Saturday, Nov. 30, sell goods at unheard of Prices

Prices will be no object. Everything must go Regardless of Cost. Owing to lack of space and lack of time, and wishing to get our stock in shape, we are unable to quote any prices.

Store for Rent and Fixtures For Sale—Parties wanting to succeed us in the retail business here can buy stock and fixtures RIGHT, as we have built up a nice trade in this city. Remember we are selling out and all goods must go. We will not stop at cost, as we expect to lose money. A regular dealer will not lose on his goods and won't. Car fare paid to all out-of-town buyers.

DUNELLEN.

A large chicken house in the rear of Chas. Dunham's house on Walnut street caught fire Tuesday evening from having hot ashes thrown on some wood. The flames were discovered and the fire alarm sounded, but the fire was under such headway when the engine arrived that nothing could be done and the building burned to the ground. A number of chickens were consumed in the flames. Thirty members of the fire company responded to the alarm, the largest number that has been out for some time.

At the Board of Education meeting Tuesday night an informal discussion of the action of the Plainfield board in relation to the payment of tuition of children living outside of the school limits was held, but no definite decision was reached. The teachers in the schools are each granted one day during the year to spend in visiting out-of-town schools.

W. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., has received an invitation from Pioneer Council, of Bound Brook, to attend services Sunday evening in the Presbyterian church at that place. The members will assemble Sunday evening at Apgar's Hall in time to catch the 6:45 trolley.

The magicians played to a large house in Apgar's Hall last night. They performed numbers of astonishing tricks which greatly pleased the audience, especially a large number of children who were present. The performance will be repeated again tonight.

Mrs. Anna Cooper, a well-known elocutionist, is to start a class in elocution and physical training here if a sufficient number of pupils can be secured. She already has classes in Westfield, Plainfield and Bound Brook.

The funeral services of the late Suydam Sutphen will be held tomorrow morning at 10:15 o'clock from his late residence on Sutphen place. Rev. N. J. Sproul will officiate and interment will be at Somerville.

Frank Mohan and family have moved to Bayonne, where Mr. Mohan now occupies the position of section foreman on the Central Railroad.

A horse, belonging to Lisbon Pierson, slipped on an icy place on Front street yesterday and fell. No damage was done to wagon or harness.

The remainder of the stone needed to complete the work on the sewer beds has arrived and will be carted today.

Mrs. Charles Frentz, New York, is visiting for a short while at the home of friends in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The entertainment given by the pupils of the New Market and South Plainfield schools in Washington Hall, last evening, was well attended and well received. The affair was gotten up by Harry Cathers, supervisor of the township schools, assisted by the teachers, for the benefit of the High school department of the Piscataway Township schools. The programme was long and varied. After an opening chorus, "Hello Central" by the school, Frank Coriell rendered a humorous recitation, "My Sister's Best Fellow." Then followed in quick succession, well interspersed throughout the programme: Dialogues, "Clothes Don't Make the Man," "Aunt Betsy's Beaux," "Evils of Gossip," "The New Scholar," "Go'in Somewhere," "Hospitality," "Grandma Show's Visit," "The Spelling Match;" recitations, "The Patter of the Shingle," "Sockery Setting a Hen," "Christmas Eve at the North Pole," songs, "The Adder by the River," "Old Winter is Here," "Little Black Me," knitting Song Miss Minnie Naylor rendered a violin solo, A. Nelson, of New Market, sang "In the House of Too Much Trouble," Miss Mae Gage recited "President McKinley," Andrew McDonough recited "Liza and the Broom" while the "Trials of School" were told by A. Nelson. The last number was a cake walk which received great applause.

The two local blacksmith shops experienced a great rush of business yesterday and today on account of the icy condition of the streets and roads.

DONATIONS TO HARVEST HOME

GIFTS THAT WERE SENT TO MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL.

Full List of Contributions Given at Time of the Annual Harvest Home.

The Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenbery Hospital desires to thank the many friends, and particularly the pupils of the public and private schools, who so generously remembered the hospital and its needs at the time of the Harvest Festival.

The following is a list of the articles donated: 2 barrels and 12 baskets of apples, 8 barrels potatoes, 1 barrel sweet potatoes, 1 barrel turnips, 2 barrels pumpkins, ½ barrel cabbage, 1 basket carrots, 1 basket onions, 8 bunches celery, 5 barrels and 6 bags of flour, 8 pounds buckwheat flour, 1 barrel sugar, 672 cans of vegetables, 36 cans of soups, 55 cans of fruit, 3 cans of salmon, 1 can of tongue, 20 cans of condensed milk, 4 boxes sardines, 12 boxes honey, 456 preserves and jellies in glass, 3 preserves ginger, 106 packages crackers, 12 packages shreaded wheat biscuits, 365 packages cereals, 21 packages corn starch, 1 package imperial granum, 2 packages sago, 20 packages farina, 16 packages tapioca, 1 package barley, 16 packages gelatine, 2 packages washing powder, 1 package flaked fish, 3 maccaroni, 2 bottles extract of beef, 2 bottles olive oil, 12 bottles olives, 22 bottles pickles, 1 bottle Worcestershire sauce, 1 bottle Chili sauce, 13 catsup sauce, 10 bottles extracts, ½ small keg pickled cucumbers, 36 boxes of cocoa, 15 boxes of chocolate, 100 pounds prunes, 132 oranges, 54 lemons, 8 baskets of grapes, 1 basket of pears, 9 pounds of chocolate, 40 bananas, 2 large baskets mixed fruit, 10 pounds tea, 7 pounds coffee, 6 boxes and 15 cakes soap, 1 box and 6 pounds starch, 1 baby rubber plant, $45.78 in money.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The request of the men in the fire department for an increase of pay and substitution of yearly salary for per diem wages is entirely reasonable. Other city employes receive pay by year and lose nothing by holidays or sickness, while the fireman, whose duties are dangerous and often exhausting, is paid like a day laborer and gets nothing for days when he may be incapacitated for work. Even if he works 365 days, the Philadelphia fireman gets only $1,000 a year, while New York pays a salary of $1,400.

The service rendered by firemen is worth more than that of any other city servants except policemen, and they should be well paid for the risk they incur. Councils will not be censured by any good citizen for granting the request of the men in the fire department and giving them liberal annual salaries.—Philadelphia North American.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY

Between the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, complainant, and John A. Doty and Minnie his wife, and William G. Chittick, Junior, defendants.

Fieri Facias, for sale of mortgaged premises, returnable February term, nineteen hundred and two.

By virtue of a writ of execution issued out of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, in the above entitled cause, on the twenty-ninth day of October, nineteen hundred and one, directed to me, Addison H. Hazletine, one of the Masters of said Court, I shall offer and expose at public sale to the highest bidder on Wednesday, the eighth day of January, nineteen hundred and two, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, all those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, situate in the Town of Plainfield, Union county, and in Piscataway township, Middlesex county and State of New Jersey, which, together are bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point where the centre line of the New Brooklyn Road intersects with the centre line of Pemberton avenue, distant seven hundred and twelve feet northerly and at right angles to Pemberton avenue from a Brown stone monument on the division line of Union and Middlesex counties in said New Brooklyn Road and running thence easterly through the centre of Pemberton avenue twelve hundred and forty-nine feet to the centre of Central and Pemberton avenues; thence southerly through the centre of Central avenue six hundred and forty-two feet to the southwest corner of land conveyed by Field Brothers to one Deklyn; thence southeasterly (old course, south seventy-two degrees and ten minutes east) along Deklyn's land sixteen hundred and forty-five feet more or less to a point thirty-eight feet southerly of the north line of Isaac street, and four hundred and sixty-three feet easterly from the east line of Lake avenue; thence southwesterly to the centre of Cedar Brook at a point ten feet north of the north line of Laura street and one hundred and eighty-seven feet east of the east line of Lake avenue; thence southeasterly and southwesterly along the centre of Cedar Brook aforesaid to a point three hundred and twenty-seven feet southerly from the south line of Rahway avenue and thirty feet easterly from the east line of Lake avenue; thence northwesterly five hundred and fifteen feet more or less in a straight line to a point sixty-five feet southerly from the south line of Rahway avenue, and two hundred and sixty-six feet easterly from the east line of Lane avenue; thence westerly to the east line of Lane avenue at a point fifty-three feet southerly from the south line of Rahway avenue; thence westerly through the centre of the County or Rahway Road twelve hundred and eighty-eight feet more or less; to a point four hundred and seventeen feet at right angles from the west line of Central avenue, and thirty-four feet southerly from the north line of Rahway avenue; thence south two degrees and twenty-eight minutes east (old course) six hundred and forty-three feet, six inches; thence north eighty-two degrees and forty-one minutes west (old course) nine hundred and twenty-one feet and five inches to the centre of the New Brooklyn Road aforesaid; thence west of north through the centre of said New Brooklyn Road eight hundred and eight feet more or less till the same intersects the west line of Brooklyn avenue; thence easterly and parallel with Laura street forty feet to the centre of Brooklyn avenue; thence northerly through the centre line of Brooklyn avenue eight hundred and seventy-five feet to a point in John street opposite the brown stone monument on division line of Union and Middlesex counties aforesaid, and distant northerly thirty-eight feet from the south line of John street; thence easterly through John street and parallel therewith twenty-seven feet and six inches to the centre line of the New Brooklyn Road aforesaid (and distant westerly twenty feet from the brown stone monument); thence northeasterly through the centre of the New Brooklyn Road aforesaid seven hundred and fourteen feet, more or less, to the point or place of beginning. Containing one hundred and eleven acres and thirty-three hundredths of an acre.

Excepting, however, out of the above described tract all that tract, situate in the Township of Piscataway, in the County of Middlesex and State of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a joint in the centre line of old Brooklyn avenue, as originally laid out, and opened in Foote's line; thence along said Foote's line in a magnetic course of the year eighteen hundred and eighty, of south eighty-one degrees and forty-three minutes east nine hundred and eighteen and six hundredths feet to a point in Sherwin's line; thence along said Sherwin's line north one degree, thirty-five minutes west two hundred and eighty-three and forty-three one hundredths feet to a point in the centre line of Marsh street; thence along the centre of said Marsh street parallel with Rahway avenue at a distance of three hundred and sixty feet at right angles as shown on a map entitled "A map of five hundred and seven cottage lots, being over fourteen hundred city lots; the property of Isaac M. and John K. Field, N. Y., May, 1869, by R. Graves, City Surveyor," in a course of north eighty-four degrees and thirty-five minutes west nine hundred and fourteen and nineteen hundredths feet to a point in the first mentioned centre line of old Brooklyn avenue; thence along said centre line of old Brooklyn avenue south two degrees and twelve minutes east two hundred and thirty-eight feet and forty one-hundredths to the point and place of beginning. Containing five acres and four hundred and twenty-two thousandths of an acre of land.

Also excepting certain portions which on a map entitled "Map of the Field property, situate in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, April, 1895; F. A. Dunham, C. E., and Surveyor, Plainfield, N. J.," are known and designated as lots numbered 269 to 280, both inclusive and taken together are bounded on the north by Marion street; on the east by Central avenue; on the south by Firth street, and on the west by lots numbered 256 and 268; also excepting lots numbered two hundred and eighty-one to 292, both inclusive, and which on said map are bounded as follows: On the north by Marion street, on the west by Central avenue, on the south by Firth street, and on the east by lots numbered 293 and 307, as laid down on said map. Also lots known on said map as numbers 153 to 160, both inclusive, and numbers 173 to 180, both inclusive, and which are bounded on the north by Beatrice street, on the east by Central avenue, on the south by lots numbered 181 and 188 to 172, both inclusive, and on the west by lots numbered 152 and 172. Being a part of the same premises conveyed by the said The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, to the said John A. Doty, by deed bearing date the fifth day of October, in the year nineteen hundred.

And also excepting therefrom certain portions of said premises which have been regularly released by the said The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, by two deeds of release, the first of which was dated the twenty-second day of January, 1901, and covers the following described premises: First, that plot of ground lying on the northerly corner of said mortgaged premises, bounded northerly by Pemberton avenue, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by Beatrice street and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered one to forty-two, both inclusive on said map. Second, all the northerly half of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Beatrice street, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by the centre line of the block, and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered ninety-one to ninety-six, both inclusive, one hundred and three to one hundred and twelve, both inclusive, and one hundred and twenty-five to one hundred and thirty, both inclusive, on said map. Third, all that portion of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Beatrice street, southerly by the centre line of the block, and westerly by Field avenue, and consisting of lots numbered one hundred and thirty-seven to one hundred and forty-two, both inclusive, and one hundred and forty-nine to one hundred and fifty-two, both inclusive on said map.

Fourth. All that easterly half of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Firth street, easterly by Central avenue, southerly by Clifford street, and westerly by the centre line of the block, and consisting of lots numbered four hundred and twenty-nine to four hundred and thirty-four, both inclusive, and four hundred and forty-one to four hundred and fifty-eight, both inclusive on said map.

Fifth. All that plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Clifford street, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered five hundred and eighty-five to six hundred and thirty-two both inclusive on said map. Sixth, all that plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Rahway avenue, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by Marsh street, and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered seven hundred and ninety-six to eight hundred and forty-three, both inclusive, on said map. Seventh, all that westerly portion of a plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Clifford street, easterly by lots six hundred and forty-five and six hundred and fifty-seven on said map, southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Field avenue, and consisting of lots numbered six hundred and thirty-three to six hundred and forty-four, both inclusive on said map. Eighth. All that plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Clifford street, easterly by Lane avenue, southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Central avenue, and consisting of lots numbered six hundred and eighty-one to seven hundred and thirty-two, both inclusive on said map. Ninth. All that westerly portion of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Clifford street, easterly by lots numbered seven hundred and forty-eight and seven hundred and sixty, on said map; southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Lane avenue, and consisting of lots numbered seven hundred and thirty-three to seven hundred and forty-seven, both inclusive, and seven hundred and fifty-seven to seven hundred and fifty-nine, both inclusive on said map.

And the second of which releases was dated the twelfth day of March, nineteen hundred and one, by which the following described premises were released. Being lots numbered six hundred and forty-five to six hundred and eighty, inclusive, on said map; being thirty-six lots which, taken together, are bounded and described as follows: Beginning in the southerly line of Clifford street at a point distant one hundred and fifty feet easterly from the easterly line of Field avenue; thence running southerly parallel with the line of Field avenue three hundred feet to the northerly line of Rahway avenue; thence easterly along line of Rahway avenue four hundred and fifty feet to the westerly line of Central avenue; thence northerly along said line of Central avenue three hundred feet to the said line of Clifford street; thence westerly along said line of Clifford street, four hundred and fifty feet to the point or place of beginning. Also lots numbered four hundred and fifty-nine to five hundred and ten, inclusive on said map. Being one entire block of fifty-one lots; bounded, northerly by Firth street, easterly by Lane avenue, southerly by Clifford street, westerly by Central avenue.

The lands above described are to be sold in two parcels, the first parcel consisting of the premises above described, after excepting out the land above excepted, and also excepting therefrom the following parcel situated in the Township of Piscataway in the County of Middlesex, and more particularly described as follows: Beginning at a point in the southerly side of Marion street, distant in an easterly direction one hundred and fifty feet from the southeast corner of Marion street and Central avenue; thence running in a southerly direction and parallel with Central avenue three hundred feet to the northerly line of Firth street; thence easterly along the northerly line of Firth street three hundred feet; thence northerly and parallel with Central avenue one hundred and fifty feet to the centre line of the block; thence westerly along said centre line and parallel with Firth street one hundred and seventy-five feet to a corner; thence northerly and parallel with Central avenue one hundred and fifty feet to the southerly line of Marion street; thence westerly along the southerly line of Marion street one hundred and twenty-five feet to the point or place of beginning. Being lots numbers two hundred and ninety-three to two hundred and ninety-seven, both inclusive, and three hundred and seven to three hundred and eighteen, both inclusive on the map above referred to. And the second parcel to be sold is the tract of land last above excepted. Together with all and singular the rights, liberties, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining.

TO PASS AN OPINION upon some coal it is only necessary to see and smell the smoke. Phew! Black, sooty, suffocating!

OUR COAL can't be judged that way. There is practically no smoke, no smell, no dirt. Being almost pure carbon it burns up clean. It gives the greatest amount of heat of any coal obtainable.

Can't be excelled for quality.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
Park Avenue and Railroad.

I suffered greatly from liver and kidney complaint. I had frightful pains in my back and would have to sit down nearly all the time. Rheumatism had every bone in my body aching and paining me. I could not sleep, and in the morning when I came to work I was as sick and disheartened as any one could be. I had doctored for years with one of the most eminent physicians in Brooklyn. He prescribed medicine after medicine, taking my money each time, of course. One day while walking along the street I picked up a booklet, and not having the time just then to read it I put it in my pocket. It was full of testimonials to the efficacy of Ripans Tabules. As I read testimonial after testimonial, I came across several that fitted my case. Damn it, I said, I am going to try some of these things. They are just what I need. That night I bought a box, 5-cent size, and began their use. That was about ten months ago.

I gradually improved and now, at forty-seven, after having lived a pretty hard life, I am in the very best of health.

My liver and kidneys are in good shape and never trouble me at all. I credit the Tabules for my improvement. They fixed me up all right when I thought there was no relief for me.

The other day I met my old doctor. He had told me on my last visit if I did not take good care of myself I would be dead within a year. He greeted me with "Halloo, are you not dead yet?"

"No," I said. "I'll live to eat the chicken that scratches over your grave."

I have never seen him since.

Our driver—there he is now—takes them continually since I recommended them. He used to suffer terribly with rheumatism. He came in here one day with crutches. I don't know how he stood it. His condition was something awful. These Tabules have cured him. His whole family takes them, he tells me. They think the world of them.

A printing ink salesman who comes in here also takes them for toning up the system and keeping his stomach in good working order. He says nothing can equal them.

Why, my little boy and girl, that's them playing on that wagon there, take them. They were troubled with worms, both of them. The little girl was in a very bad way. Her face was sharp and pinched looking. Wanted to sit around the house and never go out. Always felt tired. Both of them ate too much candy, and you know that's just the thing to help the worms. Well, I started giving them Tabules. I broke one Tabule into a powder form and dissolved it in water. I gave each of them that dose three times a day. The result you can see for yourself. The worms are all gone now, and the children are as healthy as I would wish them to be. They want to be out of doors all the time now, especially the little girl. I can't keep her in. Eat; why, bless you, I can't give them enough. It was only last night I said to mother, we shall have to hustle around now to get enough together to feed those children.

WANTED—A case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R·I·P·A·N·S on the package and accept no substitute. R·I·P·A·N·S, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, for warded, to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

The New Woman

By ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER

"What can women do in politics?" was at least partly answered in the elections in New York city. The Woman's Municipal league was all on one side politically, if it was a question of politics, this time in the great town. The league was opposed to the party in power for what the members considered good and sufficient reason. They believed it was demoralizing municipal government, so they resolved to work against it with the limited facilities they had. The first thing, of course, was to raise money to help the men whose side they were on whip out the ins. When it comes to raising money, that part is always relegated to women by even the oldest fogies, those who would die before they would let a woman vote or be ordained as a minister. But these fogies patted the ladies on the back and said, "Bless ye, girls, go on and raise money for us." The league got together $20,000. A bishop contributed $50, while Mrs. Arthur Dodge, in behalf of the Woman's Antisuffrage society—antisuffrage, notice—gave them $100. Pretty soon those antisuffrage ladies will be taking so much part in politics that they will no longer know "where they are at." The league women had a pamphlet printed called "Facts For Fathers and Mothers." They employed twenty-five large wagons and a number of messenger boys to distribute these "facts" through New York and Brooklyn. They had them translated into German for the Germans. They visited the wives and mothers of voters and urged their cause. They worked as disinterestedly as nobody but a woman can do for months. When at last victory crowned their banner, they turned over the money they had left to the men's campaign committee to help pay its expenses. But if those devoted ladies had had each her good ballot to deposit as well how much more effectively they could have worked!

"Men has more self control than women." I heard a clubwoman say boldly and not ashamed. They has, has they? It is also to be hoped that in general they "has" a better knowledge of English grammar than this clubwoman had.

In a street car the other day I saw a working girl holding upon her lap a large parcel and intently studying a book of etiquette. It was open at "Weddings," and she conned it o'er and o'er. Why not? If anybody should know how to have the correct usage at her own marriage, it is the girl who has earned her wedding dress. But at the same time the girl's teeth were uncared for and offensive looking, dandruff and a long, hideous hair lay loose upon her coat collar, and her bare hands were not clean. Her book of etiquette told not one word concerning these first essential points that mark the true lady. Where is the book of manners that will tell girls how to keep themselves spotlessly clean and sweet and tidy? Let us have it.

Rev. Estelle Elizabeth Padgham has been chosen pastor of the Unitarian church of Perry, Ia. She had pluck enough to take her own head for things and study for the ministry against the will of her parents. This alone proves her a young woman of forceful character, and it is not surprising to read that in a sermon preached not long since at Des Moines she "electrified her audience with her eloquence."

Here is something from the other side of the house in reference to property laws for women: A rich man died, leaving several hundred thousand dollars to his married daughter in her own right. His funeral pageant was decorated with $155 worth of flowers to show how sorry the daughter was. In due time the florist presented his bill, which the daughter refused to pay. He sued, and she still refused to pay, taking the ground that flowers at her father's funeral were a necessity, and therefore not she, but her husband, was responsible for the bill.

I have seen the notice of a book giving over 500 ways to make money, and not one of them is newspaper writing.

A legal decision has been rendered which apparently will tend to discourage matrimony in Illinois. It is that a wife is responsible for her husband's debts. Under it a woman lately had to pay her husband's tailor bill of $100. Girls, look a little out before you marry and live in Illinois!

A girl lately lost her mind over writing a novel. This is not surprising. It is surprising, however, that more people do not lose their minds reading the novels girls write.

Speaking of the case of the kidnaped Miss Stone, The Woman's Journal says: "Bishop Vincent, Dr. Buckley and other conservative gentlemen of all denominations utter fervent appeals to women to go as missionaries to remote and dangerous parts of the earth, but when it is proposed to let a woman go five minutes' walk from her domicile to cast a ballot these gentlemen object on the ground that 'a woman's place is at home.'" Hear, hear!

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY

Between the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, complainant, and John A. Doty and Minnie his wife, and William G. Chittick, Junior, defendants.

Fieri Facias, for sale of mortgaged premises, returnable February term, nineteen hundred and two.

By virtue of a writ of execution issued out of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, in the above entitled cause, on the twenty-ninth day of October, nineteen hundred and one, directed to me, Addison H. Hazletine, one of the Masters of said Court, I shall offer and expose at public sale to the highest bidder on Wednesday, the eighth day of January, nineteen hundred and two, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, all those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, situate in the Town of Plainfield, Union county, and in Piscataway township, Middlesex county and State of New Jersey, which, together are bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point where the centre line of the New Brooklyn Road intersects with the centre line of Pemberton avenue, distant seven hundred and twelve feet northerly and at right angles to Pemberton avenue from a Brown stone monument on the division line of Union and Middlesex counties in said New Brooklyn Road and running thence easterly through the centre of Pemberton avenue twelve hundred and forty-nine feet to the centre of Central and Pemberton avenues; thence southerly through the centre of Central avenue six hundred and forty-two feet to the southwest corner of land conveyed by Field Brothers to one Deklyn; thence southeasterly (old course, south seventy-two degrees and ten minutes east) along Deklyn's land sixteen hundred and forty-five feet more or less to a point thirty-eight feet southerly of the north line of Isaac street, and four hundred and sixty-three feet easterly from the east line of Lake avenue; thence southwesterly to the centre of Cedar Brook at a point ten feet north of the north line of Laura street and one hundred and eighty-seven feet east of the east line of Lake avenue; thence southeasterly and southwesterly along the centre of Cedar Brook aforesaid to a point three hundred and twenty-seven feet southerly from the south line of Rahway avenue and thirty feet easterly from the east line of Lake avenue; thence northwesterly five hundred and fifteen feet more or less in a straight line to a point sixty-five feet southerly from the south line of Rahway avenue, and two hundred and sixty-six feet easterly from the east line of Lane avenue; thence westerly to the east line of Lane avenue at a point fifty-three feet southerly from the south line of Rahway avenue; thence westerly through the centre of the County or Rahway Road twelve hundred and eighty-eight feet more or less, to a point four hundred and seventeen feet at right angles from the west line of Central avenue, and thirty-four feet southerly from the north line of Rahway avenue; thence south two degrees and twenty-eight minutes east (old course) six hundred and forty-three feet, six inches; thence north eighty-two degrees and forty-one minutes west (old course) nine hundred and twenty-one feet and five inches to the centre of the New Brooklyn Road aforesaid; thence west of north through the centre of said New Brooklyn Road eight hundred and eight feet more or less till the same intersects the west line of Brooklyn avenue; thence easterly and parallel with Laura street forty feet to the centre of Brooklyn avenue; thence northerly through the centre line of Brooklyn avenue eight hundred and seventy-five feet to a point in John street opposite the brown stone monument on division line of Union and Middlesex counties aforesaid, and distant northerly thirty-eight feet from the south line of John street; thence easterly through John street and parallel therewith twenty-seven feet and six inches to the centre line of the New Brooklyn Road aforesaid (and distant westerly twenty feet from the brown stone monument); thence northeasterly through the centre of the New Brooklyn Road aforesaid seven hundred and fourteen feet, more or less, to the point or place of beginning. Containing one hundred and eleven acres and thirty-three hundredths of an acre.

Excepting, however, out of the above described tract all that tract, situate in the Township of Piscataway, in the County of Middlesex and State of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point in the centre line of old Brooklyn avenue, as originally laid out, and opened in Foote's line; thence along said Foote's line in a magnetic course of the year eighteen hundred and eighty, of south eighty-one degrees and forty-three minutes east nine hundred and eighteen and six hundredths feet to a point in Sherwin's line; thence along said Sherwin's line north one degree, thirty-five minutes west two hundred and eighty-three and forty-three one hundredths feet to a point in the centre line of Marsh street; thence along the centre of said Marsh street parallel with Rahway avenue at a distance of three hundred and sixty feet at right angles as shown on a map entitled "A map of five hundred and seven cottage lots, being over fourteen hundred city lots, the property of Isaac M. and John K. Field, N. Y., May, 1869, by R. Graves, City Surveyor," in a course of north eighty-four degrees and thirty-five minutes west nine hundred and fourteen and nineteen hundredths feet to a point in the first mentioned centre line of old Brooklyn avenue; thence along said centre line of old Brooklyn avenue south two degrees and twelve minutes east two hundred and thirty-eight feet and forty one-hundredths to the point and place of beginning. Containing five acres and four hundred and twenty-two thousandths of an acre of land.

Also excepting certain portions which on a map entitled "Map of the Field property, situate in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, April, 1895; F. A. Dunham, C. E. and Surveyor, Plainfield, N. J.," are known and designated as lots numbered 269 to 280, both inclusive and taken together are bounded on the north by Marion street; on the east by Central avenue; on the south by Firth street, and on the west by lots numbered 256 and 268; also excepting lots numbered two hundred and eighty-one to 292, both inclusive, and which on said map are bounded as follows: On the north by Marion street, on the west by Central avenue, on the south by Firth street, and on the east by lots numbered 293 and 307, as laid down on said map. Also lots known on said map as numbers 153 to 160, both inclusive, and numbers 173 to 180, both inclusive, and which are bounded on the north by Beatrice street, on the east by Central avenue, on the south by lots numbered 181 and 165 to 172, both inclusive, and on the west by lots numbered 152 and 172. Also lots numbered from 43 to 90, both inclusive, on said map; bounded on the north by Pemberton avenue, on the east by Central avenue, on the south by Beatrice street, and on the west by Field avenue. Also lots numbered from 363 to 410, both inclusive on said map; bounded on the north by Firth street and on the east by Field avenue, on the south by Clifford street, and on the west by Plainfield avenue. Also lots numbered 411 to 428, both inclusive, and lots numbered from 435 to 440, both inclusive on said map, and bounded as follows: On the north by Firth street, on the south by Clifford street, on the west by Field avenue, and on the east by lots numbered 441 and 429, as shown on said map. Also lots numbered from 97 to 102, both inclusive; lots numbered 113 to 121, both inclusive, and lots numbered 131 to 136, both inclusive, as shown on said map, and which taken together are bounded and described as follows: On the east by Field avenue, on the south by Marion street, on the west by Plainfield avenue, and on the north by the centre line of the block bounded by Beatrice and Marion streets, Field and Plainfield avenues, as shown on said map.

Being a part of the same premises conveyed by the said The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, to the said John A. Doty, by deed bearing date the fifth day of October, in the year nineteen hundred.

And also excepting therefrom certain portions of said premises which have been recently released by the said The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, by two deeds of release, the first of which was dated the twenty-second day of January, 1901, and released the following described premises: First, all that plot of ground lying on the northwesterly corner of said mortgaged premises, bounded northerly by Pemberton avenue, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by Beatrice street and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered one to forty-two, both inclusive on said map. Second, all the northerly half of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Beatrice street, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by the centre line of the block, and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered ninety-one to ninety-six, both inclusive, one hundred and three to one hundred and twelve, both inclusive, and one hundred and twenty-five to one hundred and thirty, both inclusive, on said map. Third, all that portion of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Beatrice street, southerly by the centre line of the block, and westerly by Field avenue, and consisting of lots numbered one hundred and thirty-seven to one hundred and forty-two, both inclusive, and one hundred and forty-nine to one hundred and fifty-two; both inclusive on said map.

Fourth. All that easterly half of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Firth street, easterly by Central avenue, southerly by Clifford street, and westerly by the centre line of the block, and consisting of lots numbered four hundred and twenty-nine to four hundred and thirty-four, both inclusive, and four hundred and forty-one to four hundred and fifty-eight, both inclusive on said map.

Fifth. All that plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Clifford street, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered five hundred and eighty-five to six hundred and thirty-two both inclusive on said map. Sixth, all that plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Rahway avenue, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by Marsh street, and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered seven hundred and ninety-six to eight hundred and forty-three, both inclusive, on said map. Seventh, all that westerly portion of a plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Clifford street, easterly by lots six hundred and forty-five and six hundred and fifty-seven on said map, southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Field avenue, and consisting of lots numbered six hundred and thirty-three to six hundred and forty-four, both inclusive on said map. Eighth. All that plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Clifford street, easterly by Lane avenue, southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Central avenue, and consisting of lots numbered six hundred and eighty-one to seven hundred and thirty-two, both inclusive on said map. Ninth. All that westerly portion of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Clifford street, easterly by lots numbered seven hundred and forty-eight and seven hundred and sixty, on said map; southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Lane avenue, and consisting of lots numbered seven hundred and thirty-three to seven hundred and forty-seven, both inclusive, and seven hundred and fifty-seven to seven hundred and fifty-nine, both inclusive on said map.

And the second of which releases was dated the twelfth day of March, nineteen hundred and one, by which the following described premises were released. Being lots numbered six hundred and forty-five to six hundred and eighty, inclusive, on said map; being thirty-six lots which, taken together, are bounded and described as follows: Beginning in the southerly line of Clifford street at a point distant one hundred and fifty feet easterly from the easterly line of Field avenue; thence running southerly parallel with the line of Field avenue three hundred feet to the northerly line of Rahway avenue; thence easterly along line of Rahway avenue four hundred and fifty feet to the westerly line of Central avenue; thence northerly along said line of Central avenue three hundred feet to the said line of Clifford street; thence westerly along said line of Clifford street, four hundred and fifty feet to the point or place of beginning. Also lots numbered four hundred and fifty-nine to five hundred and ten, inclusive on said map. Being one entire block of fifty-one lots; bounded, northerly by Firth street, easterly by Lane avenue, southerly by Clifford street, westerly by Central avenue.

The lands above described are to be sold in two parcels, the first parcel consisting of the premises above described, after excepting out the land above excepted, and also excepting therefrom the following parcel situated in the Township of Piscataway in the County of Middlesex, and more particularly described as follows: Beginning at a point in the southerly side of Marion street, distant in an easterly direction one hundred and fifty feet from the southeast corner of Marion street and Central avenue; thence running in a southerly direction and parallel with Central avenue three hundred feet to the northerly line of Firth street; thence easterly along the northerly line of Firth street three hundred feet; thence northerly and parallel with Central avenue one hundred and fifty feet to the centre line of the block; thence westerly along said centre line and parallel with Firth street one hundred and seventy-five feet to a corner; thence northerly and parallel with Central avenue one hundred and fifty feet to the southerly line of Marion street; thence westerly along the southerly line of Marion street one hundred and twenty-five feet to the point or place of beginning. Being lots numbers two hundred and ninety-three to two hundred and ninety-seven, both inclusive, and three hundred and seven to three hundred and eighteen, both inclusive on the map above referred to. And the second parcel to be sold is the tract of land last above excepted. Together with all and singular the rights, liberties, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

I suffered greatly from liver and kidney complaint. I had frightful pains in my back and would have to sit down nearly all the time. Rheumatism had every bone in my body aching and paining me. I could not sleep, and in the morning when I came to work I was as sick and disheartened as any one could be. I had doctored for years with one of the most eminent physicians in Brooklyn. He prescribed medicine after medicine, taking my money each time, of course. One day while walking along the street I picked up a booklet, and not having the time just then to read it I put it in my pocket. It was full of testimonials to the efficacy of Ripans Tabules. As I read testimonial after testimonial, I came across several that fitted my case. Damn it, I said, I am going to try some of these things. They are just what I need. That night I bought a box, 5-cent size, and began their use. That was about ten months ago.

I gradually improved and now, at forty-seven, after having lived a pretty hard life, I am in the very best of health.

My liver and kidneys are in good shape and never trouble me at all. I credit the Tabules for my improvement. They fixed me up all right when I thought there was no relief for me.

The other day I met my old doctor. He had told me on my last visit if I did not take good care of myself I would be dead within a year. He greeted me with "Halloo, are you not dead yet?"

"No," I said. "I'll live to eat the chicken that scratches over your grave."

I have never seen him since.

Our driver—there he is now—takes them continually since I recommended them. He used to suffer terribly with rheumatism. He came in here one day with crutches. I don't know how he stood it. His condition was something awful. These Tabules have cured him. His whole family takes them, he tells me. They think the world of them.

A printing ink salesman who comes in here also takes them for toning up the system and keeping his stomach in good working order. He says nothing can equal them.

Why, my little boy and girl, that's them playing on that wagon there, take them. They were troubled with worms, both of them. The little girl was in a very bad way. Her face was sharp and pinched looking. Wanted to sit around the house and never go out. Always felt tired. Both of them ate too much candy, and you know that's just the thing to help the worms. Well, I started giving them Tabules. I broke one Tabule into a powder form and dissolved it in water. I gave each of them that dose three times a day. The result you can see for yourself. The worms are all gone now, and the children are as healthy as I would wish them to be. They want to be out of doors all the time now, especially the little girl. I can't keep her in. Eat; why, bless you, I can't give them enough. It was only last night I said to mother, we shall have to hustle around now to get enough together to feed those children.

WANTED:—A case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R·I·P·A·N·S on the package and accept no substitute. The New Woman

"What can women do in politics?" was at least partly answered in the elections in New York city. The Woman's Municipal league was all on one side politically, if it was a question of politics, this time in the great town. The league was opposed to the party in power for what the members considered good and sufficient reason. They believed it was demoralizing municipal government, so they resolved to work against it with the limited facilities they had. The first thing, of course, was to raise money to help the men whose side they were on whip out the ins. When it comes to raising money, that part is always relegated to women by even the oldest fogies, those who would die before they would let a woman vote or be ordained as a minister. But these fogies patted the ladies on the back and said, "Bless ye, girls, go on and raise money for us." The league got together $20,000. A bishop contributed $50, while Mrs. Arthur Dodge, in behalf of the Woman's Antisuffrage society—antisuffrage, notice—gave them $100. Pretty soon those antisuffrage ladies will be taking so much part in politics that they will no longer know "where they are at." The league women had a pamphlet printed called "Facts For Fathers and Mothers." They employed twenty-five large wagons and a number of messenger boys to distribute these "facts" through New York and Brooklyn. They had them translated into German for the Germans. They visited the wives and mothers of voters and urged their cause. They worked as disinterestedly as nobody but a woman can do for months. When at last victory crowned their banner, they turned over the money they had left to the men's campaign committee to help pay its expenses. But if those devoted ladies had had each her good ballot to deposit as well how much more effectively they could have worked!

"Men has more self control than women," I heard a clubwoman say boldly and not ashamed. They has, has they? It is also to be hoped that in general they "has" a better knowledge of English grammar than this clubwoman had.

In a street car the other day I saw a working girl holding upon her lap a large parcel and intently studying a book of etiquette. It was open at "Weddings," and she conned it o'er and o'er. Why not? If anybody should know how to have the correct usage at her own marriage, it is the girl who has earned her wedding dress. But at the same time the girl's teeth were uncared for and offensive looking, dandruff and a long, hideous hair lay loose upon her coat collar, and her bare hands were not clean. Her book of etiquette told not one word concerning these first essential points that mark the true lady. Where is the book of manners that will tell girls how to keep themselves spotlessly clean and sweet and tidy? Let us have it.

Rev. Estelle Elizabeth Padgham has been chosen pastor of the Unitarian church of Perry, Ia. She had pluck enough to take her own head for things and study for the ministry against the will of her parents. This alone proves her a young woman of forceful character, and it is not surprising to read that in a sermon preached not long since at Des Moines she "electrified her audience with her eloquence."

Here is something from the other side of the house in reference to property laws for women: A rich man died, leaving several hundred thousand dollars to his married daughter in her own right. His funeral pageant was decorated with $155 worth of flowers to show how sorry the daughter was. In due time the florist presented his bill, which the daughter refused to pay. He sued, and she still refused to pay, taking the ground that flowers at her father's funeral were a necessity, and therefore not she, but her husband, was responsible for the bill.

I have seen the notice of a book giving over 500 ways to make money, and not one of them is newspaper writing.

A legal decision has been rendered which apparently will tend to discourage matrimony in Illinois. It is that a wife is responsible for her husband's debts. Under it a woman lately had to pay her husband's tailor bill of $100. Girls, look a little out before you marry and live in Illinois!

A girl lately lost her mind over writing a novel. This is not surprising. It is surprising, however, that more people do not lose their minds reading the novels girls write.

Speaking of the case of the kidnaped Miss Stone, The Woman's Journal says: "Bishop Vincent, Dr. Buckley and other conservative gentlemen of all denominations utter fervent appeals to women to go as missionaries to remote and dangerous parts of the earth, but when it is proposed to let a woman go five minutes' walk from her domicile to cast a ballot these gentlemen object on the ground that 'a woman's place is at home.'" Hear, hear!

CHAPTER III.

A WORD AND A BLOW.

When I awoke on the morning following the day of episodes it was late, and the bunk-room was deserted by all save the master. Macpherson was smoking peacefully and reading the papers brought up from Fort Cowan by Kilgore, and his greeting was cheerfully obliterative of the overnight attack of ill-humor.

"The dregs of the morning to you; I thought you were going to sleep the clock around. How do you feel this morning?"

"I feel as if I could punish a square meal. What time is it?"

"Nine o'clock, and worse. Oh, Andy!—is the water boiling?"

"Yep," came the answer from the cook-house in the rear.

"Put the eggs in, and be ready to die if they come out hard." And then to me: "You like 'em underdone, don't you?"

"Yes. When did you put eggs on the menu?"

"Last night. Milt had you in mind, and he brought them down from the settlement in his hat."

A mist not of the atmosphere blurred the homely interior of the bunk-room for me. Self-control is but a crater-crust in a well man, and the hot lava of illness thins it to the fracturing point.

"If I were a sick child you fellows couldn't be more lovingkind to me."

"Oh, you be——". The affectionate malison stuck in his throat, and he made a hollow pretense of relighting his pipe—which had not gone out. When the air was fairly blue with tobacco-smoke, he said: "I'm going down to the fort to-day. Want anything?"

"Yes; I want to know how the bronco came to stumble—last night."

He got up and began to tramp, with his hands behind him and his head in a dense cloud of the pipe's making.

"I had hoped you'd forget that," he said, after a turn or two.

"Is it anything I ought not to know?"

"Not on my account; but you've troubles enough of you own."

"A friend's share of yours won't make mine any heavier."

"I'm not so sure of that."

"You may be. Besides, it's only the details that are lacking; you had a row with the engineer."

"How do you know?"

"I'm only guessing at it. How did it happen?"

"It happened because it's written in the book of fate that one of us is to efface the other, I think. It began to grind itself into me yesterday, when that fellow rode out to parley with Dan Connolly. If I believed in transmigration, I should say that we had worried through some past avatar as red-dog and wolf."

"But the bronco-stumble?" said I.

"I'm coming to that. When I saddled El Gato last night, I had it in mind to go and wrestle it out with Selter for not keeping faith with me. A mile this side of the settlement I met Milt, and when he told me that Wykamp was at Selter's, I killed time to give him a chance to get away. What I had to say to Selter wouldn't brook witnesses."

"I can imagine."

"When I reached the schoolhouse, Miss Sanborn was locking up, and I—I—"

"You stopped to talk it over with her. Go on."

"She boards at the Selters', you know, and it struck me all at once that I didn't want her to meet that fellow Wykamp. I don't know why, and I didn't stop to reason it out. I made her sit down on the step of the schoolhouse, and we talked for an hour or more, I should say. When I thought I had given Wykamp time to vanish, I drew the line. The moon was up and it was getting chilly, and I can't make Winif—Miss Sanborn believe that thin sleeves and pneumonia are cause and effect at this altitude."

"Confound your digressions! Will you never come to the point?"

"All in good time. We were half way to Selter's when I heard the engineer coming. He pulled his horse down to a walk when he saw us, and I gave him plenty of room. I saw him bend to stare at us as he passed, and before I knew what was happening he was blocking the way with a sneer on his face and her name on his tongue. She clung to me and tried to hide her face; and he—he laughed."

Macpherson was living it over again in the retelling, and his handsome face was a study in righteous wrath. I could easily imagine that the engineer would never know how nearly he had laughed his life away.

"Yes, he laughed, and said: 'I told you the world wasn't going to be big enough for you to hide in. Won't you introduce me to your—friend?' She began to cry at that, and I lost my head, of course, and struck him. He came back at me—with the butt of his whip, I think—calling me a name that made her out to be—God help me, Jack! I can't go over it all again in cold blood!"

"Don't try; I can finish it. You killed him, and you're going to Fort Cowan to give yourself up. Is there a lawyer this side of Denver with brains enough to defend you?"

He shook his head. "No, I didn't. I meant to, but she got between us. She was half crazy with grief and fright, as she had a right to be, but out of her passionate incoherence I managed to pick this: that Wykamp's life was not mine to take—that I, of all men in the world, must spare and play not, even if the blood of a kinsman should cry out for vengeance."

Just at this point in Macpherson's narrative, Andrew the Mild came in with my breakfast. When he went away, I said: "Was that all?"

"About all. I don't think Wykamp heard much of what she was trying to say. He'd had a look down the bullet of a forty-five, and had lost his nerve. He made out to climb his horse after a frantic plunge or two, and rode away; and then I took Winifred home."

"Did she say anything to clear it up?"

"Not a word. And I didn't have the heart to ask questions, as you may imagine. She was too deep in misery to talk; and you'll understand from what I've told you that she has not yet given me the right to be inquisitive."

"There are some things in this world that need to be taken for granted. But what is your theory?"

"I haven't any."

"I have—or rather, it's a horrible suspicion."

He stopped and put his hand on my shoulder, and I wondered if he had read my thought.

"Keep it to yourself, Jack," he said, with his chin a-quiver; "I've about all I can stand, just now. If you knew her you wouldn't say 'suspicion.' Are you safe to leave for a day or two?"

"Of course I am. And you'd better be off if you expect to reach Cowan by daylight."

"I'm gone. Take care of yourself and just play the outfit's yours. The boys will nurse you to the queen's taste, if you'll let them. Good-bye."

CHAPTER IV.

RECONNOITERINGS.

I wore out the first day of Macpherson's absence sitting in the shade of the ranch house, and moving only as the sun compelled. There was healing in the thin, crisp air, and I went to bed at nightfall to sleep as I had not slept for months. On the second day I ate like a famished wolf, and the siren hope began to croon the song so familiar to the ears of the consumptive. Once more I made the slow circuit of the ranch house, hitching my chair in opposition to the sun; and the foothills across the valley beckoned me. In the heel of the afternoon, Andy came out to peel the potatoes for supper, and I inquired the distance to the beckoning hills.

IT IS SERIOUS.

Some Plainfield People Fail to Realize the Seriousness.

The constant aching of a bad back,
The weariness, the tired feelings,
The pains and ache of kidney ills,
Are serious—if neglected,

A Plainfield citizen shows you how to avoid them.

Mr. F. D. Smith, of 686 West Front street, contractor for painting, etc., says: "There was a distressing pain across the small of my back which clung to me all the time. When I got seated at times if I moved a sharp pain struck me in the back and loins and almost made me exclaim. Any change in the weather, or if I caught the least cold always aggravated the trouble and caused me to suffer severely. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by one of my employes who had been cured of a long standing case of kidney complaint by their use. I commenced the treatment, derived benefit from it immediately and before I had finished the first box I was cured."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

and let me put it in shape for another season's service. Don't wait till you want to use it before you get it repaired, because just about that time my shop will be so full of work that it will be sticking out of the windows, and you won't want to wait. Prices? Well, they'll be just what they ought to be for the kind of work I do, and you'll be satisfied. Bicycles cleaned and stored from now to March 1, 1902, for $2.50. I have 100 golf sticks which I will close out at a bargain.

ONLY THE BEST

paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. Paint is the main defense. Put your faith in something that will not fail you. A reliable article at a top price is cheaper than something else sold way down.

KEEP OFF THE EARTH

During the cold and wet weather as much as possible—that is, keep as much shoe leather between the soles of your feet and Mother Earth as you can conveniently carry. It's wisest in the beginning and cheaper in the end to provide yourself with shoes having good solid soles—cold-proof and water-proof, if possible.

We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.

Well built, with broad, heavy soles and with stout uppers.

They're a very paradise of rest for weary feet, and a paradise of economy for weary purses.

KILLED BY SCHOOLMATE.

Eight-year-old Boy Stabbed to Death In a Quarrel at Newport, Ky.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 5.—The shocking scene of a schoolboy eight years of age stabbed to death by a schoolmate, aged eleven, was witnessed on the streets of Newport, Ky., yesterday at noon. Joseph Creelman, the victim, had had a quarrel in the schoolroom with Eddie Armines, and when on their way home the quarrel was renewed. A third boy, taking the part of Creelman, threw a piece of brick which struck Armines on the hand. At that moment Creelman ran up to him and was stabbed. He soon fell, and in fifteen minutes he was dead.

The Armines boy walked rapidly away, carrying the pocket knife in his hand. He went to the fire engine house, where his uncle is captain, and threw the knife into an outhouse, but said nothing about the murder until the news of the lad's death. His uncle then promptly surrendered him to the police, to whom the boy told his story of the crime.

"Creelman missed his reading lesson and was sent to the foot of the class. The teacher made him sit at the blackboard, and I laughed at him. When school was out he cursed me. I started for the engine house, and Plummer threw a brick at me, and Creelman ran up and grabbed me by the arms. I did not think the brick was thrown at me until it hit me on the hand. Then I stuck the knife out easy and heard his coat rip."

Both boys belong to excellent families.

Off for the Philippines.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Dec. 5.—The Third battalion of the Twenty-seventh infantry left Plattsburg barracks last evening at 6 o'clock en route for the Philippine Islands to replace one of the regiments which is being sent back to the United States. The battalion left by a special train of two baggage cars and twelve coaches and goes direct to New York, where embarkation will be made on the transport Crook, going to the east by the Mediterranean route. When the men reach the transport, a sufficient number of recruits from Fort Slocum will be sent to fill each company to its maximum strength of 104 men.

Had Been at It Twenty Years.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Bank Examiner Graham has been busy examining deposit certificates presented to the First National bank by holders for verification. There are 400 interest bearing certificates outstanding, and it will be several days before all can be brought in and verified and the actual defalcation in that line fully ascertained. Next will be examined the depositors' book subject to sight checks. In the latter line no discrepancies are yet apparent. Fitcham's peculations are now known to have extended back twenty years.

A Bank Tax Decision.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The internal revenue commissioner has rendered a decision in which he holds that bankers must return for taxation capital, surplus, undivided profits and borrowed money used in the business of banking. The commissioner holds that capital is taxable whether invested, as in the case of the United States bonds or the bank building or circulating, as in the case of money, including money borrowed; also surplus, including undivided profits.

Going to the Holy Land.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—At the head of a party of about fifty of his followers, Rev. F. W. Sanford of the "Holy Ghost and Us" band, with headquarters at Shiloh, Me., sailed from here on the steamer New England, bound for England and thence to Palestine. On their arrival in England the travelers will do evangelistic work for some time before proceeding to the Holy Land.

Revising Methodist Hymnal.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 5.—The committee appointed by the last general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church to revise the hymnal now in use in the church has begun its labor here. The committee's task is to select 400 of the 1,200 hymns now in use, to be preserved in the new hymnal, and to choose 200 additional new hymns, making a new hymnal of 600 hymns.

A Movement For Good Roads.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Dec. 5.—The county board of supervisors has adopted a resolution providing for the improvement of the main highways connecting this village and Saratoga Springs and the latter village and Schuylerville, under the supervision of State Engineer Bond, pursuant to the good roads law of 1898.

GOLF.

The golf committee from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has decided that during the winter months eight temporary greens adjacent to the clubhouse will be kept open for play. Until December 31, the caddy-house will be kept open for the accommodation of members and the caddymaster will be in attendance daily. Members who may wish to remove clubs, etc., can get key from him.

BASKET BALL.

It is expected that the basket ball teams of the Plainfield High School and Leal's School will meet in a series of games before the season is over. The High School boys have had more experience, but the Leal School boys are practicing regularly and hope to be able to make a good showing when the teams meet.

The exponents of basket ball in Fanwood are considering the advisability of renewing the game in that place this winter. If a proper place to play can be secured, there seems no doubt that a team will be organized in a short time. Negotiations are now under way to secure the Fanwood clubhouse for the winter.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

Captured an Opossum.

John Bolsterli, a clerk at the grocery of J. A. Smith & Bro., captured an opossum Tuesday evening at the firm's barn on Central avenue. The sleepy fellow is on exhibition at the grocery store. The clerks at the store propose to cook the animal tonight and have a feast.

The funeral services will be held at the latter's home, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Washington was twenty-six years of age and leaves four young children. The interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery.

May Be Plainfield Burglar.

Chief Kiely recived word from the police at Princeton, this morning, to the effect that they had in custody a negro believed to be one of the men who robbed the Clinton Avenue and Netherwood stations of the New Jersey Central a few weeks ago. The Chief left for Princeton at once with the intention of identifying the prisoner.

Died From Exposure.

Dora Neilsen, the aged woman who was pronounced insane by doctors, died at her home on Jackson strees yesterday morning. Her death was due to exposure brought on by her wanderings about in cold weather, unprotected. The body is being held at Runyon's undertaking parlors until funeral arrangements can be made.

Nominations Made.

He Couldn't Do It.

Pat Murphy had been out of work for some time, and was a few weeks in arrears with his payments to his landlady. Finding no other employment, Pat determined to enlist, consoling himself with the thought that the life of a soldier would not be worse than being in lodgings.

All went well till Pat was in the ranks for drill, when the sergeant came up and called out: "Here Murphy, throw out your chest."

"Sorry, sir, I can't," replied Pat.

"Can't! Why?"

"Because my landlady has it, sir."

Child Training in Germany.

In the German cities it is most refreshing to find scattered through each park many good-sized beds of clean sand. These beds are confined by a wooden border to prevent the sand being scattered or washed away by rains. No matter how small the park, or in what quarter of the city it is situated, one is sure to find at least four or five of these small spots of delight for the children, and from early morn until sometimes far into the twilight you will never find one of these little inclosures entirely deserted.—Harper's Bazar.

When Kingship Falls.

The most wretched man on earth is said to be a monarch—Norodom, king of Cambodia. He has a gorgeous palace, furnished according to the most expensive ideas, but he adheres to the customs of his ancestors, and sleeps on an ancient carpet in a kind of shed that has not been cleaned since creation. He is a miserable victim to hypochondria, and all day long he heaves long sighs of utter wretchedness. This monarch is a short, fat person with one eye.—Chicago Record-Herald.

SKELETON IN TOMB.

Reveals Secret of a Haunted South Carolina Churchyard.

Ghost of Goose Creek Church Was Not Altogether an Imaginary Specter—Gruesome Tale of Premature Burial.

According to a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, there has been cleared away by the opening of a tomb in the burying ground of Goose Creek church, near Charleston, S. C., a mystery that has haunted the place for a dozen years. Inside the door, several feet from the open coffin, was found the skeleton of a young woman, showing that she had died in agony after burial alive.

St. James' church at Goose Creek is the best preserved of all the colonial churches in the Carolinas, and is still used as a place of Episcopal worship. The burying ground beside it is in view through the half-stained windows, and those who sit at service frequently glance at it and shiver. The tradition they recall is a vague one, but it is nevertheless awful. Out of the mass of it these facts are gleaned.

Many years ago a funeral procession, an unusual thing in that wilderness, wound up to the Goose Creek churchyard, bringing the body of a beautiful young woman, daughter of one of the wealthiest old families of Charleston. It was placed in the tomb with simple ceremonies, and the mourners passed out between the tall gates and away between the moss-covered trees. In the burying ground the mocking birds sang recklessly. The fresh air of the woods blew through the grating of the tomb.

Toward evening two negroes were passing the cemetery when a faint cry came from the drooping cedars at the door of the vault. It rose weak and low at first, then higher and higher, until it broke into a shrill, agonizing cry that gave way to the sound of the scampering footsteps of the fleeing negroes. At dawn when other negroes went slowly by the church, the same cry was heard, and stray dogs took up the echo and yelled weirdly. By noon the story had spread through the negro settlements that a new ghost had appeared at the church. Other negro men and women heard the cry and ran. Two nights later, when a small party moved cautiously toward the church and waited silently by the wood, there came the faint, dying cry from some soul in distress. It was clearly the voice of a woman, but the negroes waited not to seek the cause or offer help. They believed in their hearts that it was a spirit from the beyond which beckoned them, and many of them died, years later, believing tha Goose Creek had its ghosts.

Twelve years later the vault was opened and the men who pulled back the doors staggered at the sight within. The body which had been put there in the quiet of the autumn afternoon had moved. With its face against the door a gaunt skeleton stood, and toppled to the earth when the opening of the vault swung back. The mystery at first was not explained, but when friends made an investigation they found that the cries had been heard by the negroes, and the story of the ghost was made clear. There was undoubted evidence that the woman had been put in the vault before life was extinct, and there is no one living who can picture her horror or suffering when she regained consciousness and found herself locked in the vault of iron and stone.

Alaskan Dogs Do Not Bark.

Alaskan dogs are called malamutes, and are a cross between a dog and a wolf. About two months after birth they are trained to draw little wagons, and soon become very useful. They do not bark, but utter a melancholy howl. They have long hair, and can sleep in the open air with the thermometer 60 degrees below zero. Their usual food is fish and seal blubber. They are fed once a day, usually at night.

Many Are After His Dollars.

The cousins of Menzo Shaul, of Herkimer, N. Y., are coming into existence with the fecundity of rabbits all over the country. He died recently, leaving $21,000 to be divided among his third cousins, meaning, as he expressed it, "the children of those persons related to me as cousins." There are already 370 persons, from various parts of the United States, who have sent in their claims to the estate.

WM. SWEENEY WAS ARRESTED

Chief Kiely Found Him at Trenton and Brought Him Home.

A HEARING TOMORROW.

Erstwhile Law Student Still Maintains a Confident Mein—Could Not Get Bail—He Is Still Confined in the City Jail.

More notoriety was added to the career of William Sweeney, erst-while law student, when he was arrested in the Trenton House, at Trenton, yesterday afternoon by Chief Kiely on a warrant sworn out by Arthur A. Stryker charging him with embezzlement.

He was seated in the office reading a newspaper and seemingly totally oblivious of the fact that the entire Plainfield police force was constantly on the watch for him. The warrant was made on a State charge. There were no preliminaries to be gone through with, so he was brought to this city at once and locked up.

He appeared with his counsel, Robert M. Clark, before Justice Moffett, this morning. On the complaint being read, in which it was specified that on four occasions Sweeney had collected rent from Mr. Stryker's tenants and kept the money, Mr. Clark asked for an immediate dismissal on the ground that four charges were made when there should be but one. W. R. Codington, for Mr. Stryker, opposed the motion and was sustained.

The defendant then pleaded not guilty and demanded an immediate examination but this was also opposed by Stryker's counsel. A material witness, he said, was a New York business man and could not be reached until tonight. After considerable argument on the part of Counsellor Clark, 10 o'clock tomorrow morning was agreed upon as the time to hold the hearing.

Mr. Clark asked to have the prisoner released in his custody but this was denied and bail was fixed at $300. The amount had not been procured at noon.

When found by Chief Kiely yesterday, Sweeney took his arrest cooly and submitted to having the handcuffs placed upon his wrists without any comment. He said that since he left Plainfield a week ago, he had been in Trenton and Philadelphia and made no attempt at concealment.

He still retains his customary nonchalant air. This morning, although showing the effects of his night in the cell, he conferred constantly with his counsel at every stage of the brief examination. On one occasion during an argument he ejaculated "Well, what are you going to prove when you do have the hearing?" The court vouchsafed no answer.

COLLIDED ON ICE.

First Accident Among Skaters on Tier's Lake.

The first accident to ice skaters in this vicinity happened yesterday afternoon. Fortunately the injuries are not very serious. Alfred Egan, of Sandford avenue, and Hervey K. Doane, of West Fifth street, while engaged in a game of hockey, on Tier's lake, collided and both were thrown heavily on the ice. Egan struck on the back of his head and lay unconscious for some time, while Doane received a badly bruised nose.

Leona Moffett is Dead.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Leona Moffett which occurred yesterday morning at his home in Ogdensburg, this State. He was a brother of the late Mrs. I. A. Connett, of East Fifth street, and formerly resided in this city. No particulars have been received in regard to the funeral arrangements.

Anniversary of Iona.

The anniversary of Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, will be celebrated December 21, and arrangements are being made for a good time. The Council met Wednesday evening and received a report from the committee having in charge the last entertainment, and it was very satisfactory.

Next Illustrated Lecture.

The next illustrated lecture in the supplementary course of the Y. M. C. A. will be given by Ernest R. Ackerman Tuesday evening, December 10.

PLEADED GUILTY.

VanShank's Sentence Held Until After Trial of His Pal.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, Dec. 6—Charles Van Shank, alias "Long Island Blackey", one of the three men who participated in the Demko assault and robbery at Plainfield, last September, has pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and assaulting the Levine family at Junction. Sentence has not been passed upon him as he will evidently be wanted by the authorities of Monroe county, Pa., to appear as a witness against his pal, Charles Grether, who killed a constable.

WANT BOYS AT SCHOOL

SOMERSET COUNTY GRAPPLING WITH TRUANCY QUESTION.

County Boards of Education Held Conference on the Subject Recently.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 6—The County Boards of Education of Somerset are grappling with the truancy question. They are determined to make the wily youngsters peg away at school every day and for this reason they recently held a joint meeting in the Court House here to talk over the best way to carry out the law regarding the matter. County Superintendent of Schools J. A. Mets presided. After a lengthy speech by Mr. Mets on how to enforce the truancy laws there was a general discussion among the members, a number of whom offered various suggestions.

A resolution was finally passed that the teachers be required to send notice to parents of the absence of pupils; that such notice should contain an abstract of those sections of the school law relating to truancy, and the penalty that the law inflicts on parents.

It is believed by all members that this method will be very effective, and that hereafter there will be less "hooky" played by the school children, especially the boys.

TO DISPOSE OF BURDEN.

Class of 1903, of City High School, Will Spend its Riches.

A meeting of the class of 1903 of the Plainfield High School was held Wednesday morning, and a committee was appointed to arrange for the proper disposal of $50, which is a burden to the class treasurer. In all probability the committee will recommend the purchase of some work of art to adorn the chapel of the school. The committee includes the Misses Helen Lee and Lucy Coriell, and A. D. Beers, Hervey K. Doane and Archibald Brakeley.

PROMINENT MAN.

Something About Cornelius Sutphen, Who Died at Dunellen.

Somerville, Dec. 6—Cornelius Suydam Sutphen, aged eighty years, who died at Dunellen, as told in The Daily Press, was a native of Bedminster, this county. He was a son of the late Gen. Arthur VanPelt Sutphen and was born in the same room that ex-Judge Arthur P. Sutphen, of this city, was.

The deceased was a member of the Board of Chosen Freeholders from Bedminster Township in 1866 and 1867 and was at that time one of the most prominent men in that section. A son, John Marshall Sutphen, of Jersey City, survives him.

Speaker From Paterson.

Frank B. Hoagland, of Paterson, who has sometimes led the famous young people's meetings at Ocean Grove, will address the big men's meeting at Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Hoagland, who is a favorite speaker in Plainfield, conducted a series of week-night meetings for men soon after the local association entered its new building.

Double Frame Dwelling.

John Wyman & Son, of West Fourth street, have received a permit from Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the erection of a double frame dwelling at 404 East Front street. William Pangborn will do the mason work. As soon as the houses are completed Mr. Wyman and his son will occupy them.

Of Special Interest.

A meeting of special interest will be held tomorrow evening in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church under the auspices of the Endeavor Society. The public is invited.

Election at Columbia.

There will be an election of officers at the meeting of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, Ancient Order United Workmen this evening. A full attendance of the members is requested.

CITY KING'S DAUGHTERS HELD UNION MEETING

Semi-Annual Meeting of City Union Held Yesterday Afternoon.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS.

ADDRESS MADE BY MISS I. C. DAVIS, OF CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Miss Anderson Engaged as City Nurse—Various Circles Made Pledges For Her Support—Reports Summed Up.

The semi-annual meeting of the City Union, King's Daughters, was held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday afternoon. Miss Lillian A. Force, as president of the Union, presided. After the opening of the meeting, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, offered an earnest prayer.

Miss Katheryn Glen, as recording secretary, read the report of Miss Lillian A. Force, who was recording secretary prior to her election as president. The report covered a period up to that time. This was followed with the report of the treasurer, Miss Edith Little. This showed a balance on hand at the spring meeting of $403.68. There was collected at the meeting $3.10. The total receipts were $842.87 and the disbursements $733.67, leaving a balance of $109.20. There is also a balance in the emergency fund of $15.75.

Miss Emily Tracy, as chairman of the nurse committee, reported that Miss DeLany, formerly the city nurse, had decided to remain in Canada, and that Miss Gertrude Anderson had been engaged permanently to fill that position. She reviewed the excellent work accomplished by the city nurse and the relief brought to the many she has attended. She also referred to the jelly given for the nurse's closet, and of the garments given by the Needlework Guild, and asked for a continuance of the support and co-operation on the part of all. Supplimenting this report, Miss Gertrude Anderson, the city nurse, gave a brief report. This showed that since July 1, she made 711 calls on the sick. There were five deaths. Miss Anderson reported that last summer 115 children and forty-seven mothers visited the baby camp on the mountain. The death of one baby was reported.

Miss Blanche Randolph, as chairman of the camp committee, told that the camp last year opened June 20, and closed October 9. Expressions of thanks were extended to William Lunger, carpenter; Mrs. George Wharton Edwards for furnishing milk, the Hygeia Ice Company for ice furnished, John Keely for transportation furnished and to the press for assistance given. Miss Randolph praised Miss Anderson highly for her very efficient work.

At this time the pledges from the various Circles were received for the support of the city nurse. It requires $600 for this work and the sum of $425 was received in pledges as follows: Advance Circle, $50; Benevolent Circle, $100; Charity Circle, $100; Cheerful Workers, $50; Daughters of the Cross, $75; Whatsoever Circle, of Trinity Reformed church, $30; Brightside Circle, $15; Opportunity Circle, of the Mount Olive Baptist church, $5. There were no reports from the Whatsoever Circle, of the Park Avenue Baptist church and the Golden Rule Circle. They will probably report later.

In some cases the pledges were increased. This was true of the Whatsoever Circle, of Trinity Reformed church, which pledged $5 more and the Brightside Circle also increased its pledge $5. Last year the pledges amounted to $455, and an effort will be made to equal if not increase that sum.

Mrs. I. C. Davis, the speaker of the afternoon, is a member of the Central Council, of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons, and has just returned from an extended trip through the south, California and Canada.

Regarding the idea that many are afraid of too much organization, Mrs. Davis said that order is the first law. There may be too much red tape, but she believed in thorough organization. Mrs. Davis pressed her claim for a State secretary, and she believed that such a person would be found in Plainfield.

After briefly sketching a part of her trip, Mrs. Davis entered into an interesting talk concerning the workings

SOCIAL SEASON OPENS WITH CASINO DANCE

Smart Set Gathered at the Casino for the First Formal Function.

HELD LAST EVENING.

NO PAINS WERE SPARED TO MAKE IT ATTRACTIVE.

First of the Casino Dances Proved a Decided Success—Was Well Patronized by Local Society Folk—List of Subscribers.

Plainfield's smart set opened the season of winter festivities last evening, with the first of the Casino dances. On occasions such as this in which the society folk of this city figure, certain brilliancy is always attached to the event and this feature was conspicuous at this affair.

The committee, having in charge the arrangements for the dance, included Lewis G. Timpson, Frederick W. Yates, Elliot T. Barrows and Lewis E. Waring, and as might be expected no pains were spared to make the affair particularly attractive. As far as decorations were concerned it could not be said that there was a profusion, but at the same time what there was lent an inviting appearance to the ball room.

At the height of the festivities there were nearly 100 on the floor and the excellent music furnished by Pound's New York onrchestra tempted all to join in the merry affair. The patronesses for the evening included Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mrs. Frederick W. Yates, Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring. At midnight supper was served, Steward Ivany, being the caterer.

BOUGHT BY GUESS.

Clipping Social Given by Epworth Leaguers of Grace M. E. Church.

A clipping social was given under the auspices of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. church, last evening, for the purpose of raising money to be contributed by the association towards the liquidation of the church debt. There was a large crowd present and a jolly time was had.

After all the mysterious packages, which were hung on a string, were cut, games of the parlor sort helped to make the remainder of the evening pleasant. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Annie Most was chairman of the committee of arrangements and her assistants were Mrs. A. E. Winkler, Mrs. C. W. Hardin, Mrs. G. W. Gardner, Mrs. Dyckman Winckler, Miss Hoagland, Miss Mary Steiner, Miss Clara VanFleet, Miss Huff and Miss Belle Lunger.

VETERANS ELECT.

Officers Chosen for Antietam Command, Union Veteran's Union.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected at the meeting of Antietam Command, Union Veterans' Union Wednesday. Those selected are: Colonel., John R. Naylor; lieutenant colonel, James B. Clarkson; major, John W. Wagner; chaplain, John A. Goodwin; quartermaster, Thomas B. Titsworth.

Edward A. Townley, Frederick Wenzel and Wililam Alpaugh were chosen trustees. The officers of the day, officer of the guard and adjutant as well as the committees will be named by the colonel-elect.

A report from the encampment committee was approved and the committee was discharged after a resolution of thanks was conveyed to it as well as to the citizens in general. The installation of officers will take place in connection with the installation of the officers of the Women's Union Veterans' Relief Union sometime in January.

FOR SUBSCRIBERS ONLY.

No Single Tickets Will be Sold to "Musical Evenings."

Ward Stephens wishes to state that owing to the large number of applications made by non-subscribers for single tickets for his first "Musical Evening" to be held at the residence of Mrs. David M. Moore, of Central avenue, that single tickets will be sold only to subscribers who are of course privileged to dispose of them to their friends. A few subscriptions may still be obtained by applying to Mr. Stephens.

Getting Ready for Christmas.

The Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue church is already planning for the annual Christmas celebration.

WAS SO SUCCESSFUL WILL BE REPEATED

Public Rendition of "Esther the Beautiful Queen" Last Evening.

WAS AT Y. M. C. A. HALL.

AN INTERESTING STORY WAS WELL TOLD IN SONG.

Excellent Work by Soloists and Chorus—Will be Repeated at Y. M. C. A. Hall This Evening—Those Taking Part.

A more flattering reception of the rendition of the cantata, "Esther the Beautiful Queen," as given in the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening, could hardly have been given. The hall was crowded. The cantata was given under the auspices of the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

The story, as told in song relates the sad incidents in the life of Mordecai and his people, the Jews, the their final triumph. The beautiful music was effectively rendered in solo and chorus.

Too much praise cannot be given the principals as well as the members of the chorus. All showed the earnest effort put forth and frequent was the applause given in appreciation. Garrett T. Dunham, as manager and director, is entitled to unstinted praise for his work. With the assistance of an efficient orchestra, the beautiful music was rendered perfectly.

The cantata was in five acts and the stage settings were handsome and well arranged under the direction of R. A. Osmun. The handsome costumes used added greatly to the success attained.

Much more could be said in detail concerning the producion, but space will not permit. Suffice it to say, that it was so successful that it has been decided to repeat it again this evening for the benefit of those who could not get in the hall last evening, as well as all others.

Below will be found the cast of characters:

Many Wonder Why.

It is a source of wonderment to a great many people why a stone walk is not laid on Madison avenue between the Stillman building and the bridge. The present walk will not be any better during the coming months when the weather is sure to be disagreeable underfoot as well as overhead.

In Real Estate Business.

Freeholder William A. Westphal, of West Fourth street, is now engaged in the real estate business.

—Cantata, cantata, cantata, "Esther, the Beautiful Queen," tonight.

A LITTLE JOURNEY.

Borough High School Took Up Career of Beethoven.

A "Little Journey" was taken at the chapel exercises of the North Plainfield High School yeterday morning. Beethoven was the subject and the affair proved to be delightfully entertaining.

Hanford Miller read a short essay on the life of the great master and Miss Ursula Krewson told the story of the composition of the Moonlight Sonata. As a fitting finale Miss Alberta Waterbury played that famous selection, which was thoroughly appreciated.

CROWDS AT FIREMEN'S FAIR

LAST EVENING WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL OF ALL.

Five-Round Bout Was Feature of the Evening's Programme—Winners in Contests.

Surpassing any previous evening both in attendance and entertainment the fair of the West End Hose Company last evening, was a huge success. All evening long the dancing floor was crowded, though all took time to patronize the various booths where fancy and useful articles were purchased.

Madame Bartlett repeated the performance of Tuesday evening, the programme of which consisted of "A Japanese Tea Party" and songs. She rendered several selections, a laughing song producing the most applause.

Howard Thatcher and James Allen boxed five rounds. Frank Keller acted as timekeeper and Frank Perry as referee. The decision was awarded to Thatcher, who seemed to have the best of the argument all through the contest.

A thirty-two pound turkey was won by John Wirth in the bowling contests. Other winners were Wm. Townley, Wm. Barry, Herman Klinsman, Frank Keller, and Emil Sokol. The Warren Engine Company and firemen from nearby towns were there in full uniform, the event being firemen's night.

This evening Sokol and Nerrie will give some comic sketches and there will be special bowling contests for women. Monday evening a souvenir will be presented to each visitor at the fair.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR.

Will be Given by Congregation of Mt. Olive Baptist Church.

The officers, trustees and members of the Mount Olive Baptist church, will tender a banquet to their pastor, Rev. E. E. Jackson, Thursday evening, December 12.

An entertaining programme has been prepared which will include singing by the B. Y. P. U. and a debate in which four of the city's best orators will take part. The subject will be "Which has been, and is the greatest benefit to this nation, the pen or the plough?" Charles Shelton and Joseph Mitchell will defend the pen and Rev. David Blow and James Whiting, will talk for the plough.

After the exercises a five course supper will be served in the vestry of the church.

Dragged by Trolley Car.

While Mr. and Mrs. John L. Force, formerly of this city, but now of Westfield, were returning home from Garwood by the trolley, Sunday night, the car started before Mr. Force got aboard. He was dragged a considerable distance and his face was badly scraped and bruised. Dr. J. T. Fritts, the company's doctor, has been attending him. It is not known at present whether a suit for damages will follow.

Fire in Chimney.

A still alarm of fire was received at headquarters last evening at 6:30 o'clock from the home of Charles F. Abbott, Stelle and Central avenues. There was a chimney fire at the house. No. 2 hose wagon was despatched at once and with the use of one extinguisher the fire was quickly put out.

Change in Drill.

Owing to the fact that there was no session of the Plainfield High School today, the batallion drilled at noon yesterday. The drill was held in Washington Hall on account of the inclemency of the weather.

Big Contract.

Woodhull & Martin have secured the contract for beds, bedding, furniture, and crockery to be used in fitting up the cottage for the Reinhart wedding.

—The Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the First Baptist church this evening will be led by F. H. Martin, of West Front street.

THINK ALLEN WAS BURGLAR

Colored Man Captured in Princeton Believed to be Plainfield's Burglar.

HE USED TO WORK HERE.

One Ring He is Alleged to Have Sold Was Identified as One Stolen From Charles Potter's Residence—Other Robberies, Too.

After a brief talk with Thomas Allen, a young colored man, in the State prison at Trenton, yesterday, Chief Kiely declared that without a doubt he is the burglar who robbed numerous Plainfield residences last winter and only a few weeks ago broke open the Clinton Avenue and Netherwood ticket offices of the New Jersey Central.

The fellow was caught in the act of robbing a house at Princeton a few nights ago and taken to Trenton, where the officials recognized him from a description sent out by the police of this city. Chief Kiely was informed of the arrest and, going to Trenton, confirmed the belief that the prisoner was Allen.

Suspicion was first directed toward Allen for the Plainfield robberies, through a number of mutilated gold rings which he is alleged to have sold to Jeweler S. VanFleet and which it is thought were stolen from the residence of Mrs. Charles Potter, of West Seventh street. He was questioned at the time but was released for want of evidence.

He disappeared from the city but afterward circumstances warranted the police furnishing other cities with his description. It was one of these which led to his being recognized at Trenton. As Chief Kiely has the first claim, Allen will be brought to this city this afternoon the proper papers having been prepared.

The man is very well known about town while his wife has always lived here. He was employed at one time by J. E. Stewart, of West Seventh street. The police say they have evidence which will convict him of having committed several local house robberies.

WARM WELCOME.

Will No Doubt be Given by the Plainfield Public.

In the opinion of competent judges of matters musical, the recital of Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis, soprano, and Miss Saidee Mae Howell, pianist, at the Casino Monday night, will be one of the most artistic and successful debuts of this season. This will be their first public appearance. It is fully and confidently expected that the prediction of the critics who have been favored by late hearing of their endeavors, will be fully sustained by the many admirers in this city.

The reading and the elocutionary efforts of Miss Mae Colt, of New Haven, and the singing of Hobart Smock, the noted tenor, of New York, will no doubt be welcome features to what promises to be a fine entertainment.

MRS. BREEM DEAD.

Passed Away Last Evening After a Lingering Illness.

Mrs. Margaret Breem, wife of Frederick Breem, of the Plainfield fire department, died at her home on Richmond street, last evening, after a lingering illness. A little daughter, Maide Breem, is the only child left surviving. She was a daughter of Mrs. Wm. Dagnall and a sister of Mrs. William Townley, Mrs. U. G. Force, Miss Doyle and John and Lawrence Doyle.

The funeral will be held from the house Monday morning at 8 o'clock and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock.

Overcome by Gas.

John A. Layton, of East Fifth street, engineer at the Cranford water tanks, was overcome by fumes from a gasoline engine at the plant yesterday morning. Physicians worked over him for several hours and in the afternoon he was brought home. Dr. Davis is attending him and his recovery is assured.

Dr. Sarah D. Keeney, of West Fourth street, who has been ill with pneumonia, is now getting well and will be able to go out within the next ten days.

THE FARMER ORATOR AND HIS RESIDENCE

Something About the Quaint Old Manor Where He Lives.

IS OF COLONIAL TYPE.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE MAN HIMSELF.

His Hobbies are Politics and Farming—His Unique Monuments to Bimetallism—House Was First Built in 1625.

Plainfield contains an exceptional number of men, distinguished in various walks of life. Bankers, brokers, lawyers and merchants, who are well known in New York where their business interests are, go to make up this number. There is one man who in a sense does not belong to this class inasmuch as he is not known for his business ability nor as one of the commutting residents. He is widely known throughout the State and is conspicuous in affairs pertaining to farming and politics. This is James E. Martine, the Farmer Orator.

The sage of Democracy lives on the famous Cedar Brook farm, where stands a manor house of antiquity. As far back as 1696 the original structure was built by Sir Henry Gordon, an Englishman. At that time the estate was very large, covering over 1,000 acres. Later the land passed to a country gentleman named Webster, who tore down the house and erected a colonial dwelling, which is the home of the Farmer Orator today. Mr. Martine's father, Daniel Martine, purchased the place in 1856. He was engaged in mercantile pursuits, being a contractor of some note and also the proprietor of a stage line in New York.

The homestead is a typical colonial house, having the large open fire places, low ceilings, small windows and big doors. Mr. Martine boasts that there never has been nor never will be a single improvement made on the treasured old building, except as is absolutely necessary for comfort. The furniture throughout is thoroughly in keeping with the house.

"This desk is 200 years old; this bookcase 150; this picture 300 and this candlestick 250 years old." explains the owner as he shows one about the place. In many striking respects, Mr. Martine is of the old school and he loves the ancient landmarks, although his progressive spirit in many ways stands out in bold relief.

Leading up to what is now the front door, in times long past the kitchen entrance, is a long driveway, on either side of which stand large elm trees completely shading the path, for a distance of 180 feet. At the entrance on Watchung avenue are two handsome stone gate posts, "monuments to Bimetallism" he calls them. Beneath one is buried a gold dollar and resting beneath the other is a silver dollar. There is also buried there a glass jar containing a portrait of William Jennings Bryan, his personal friend; a copy of the Democratic National platform of 1896 and a free silver speech of Martine as well as a short sketch of the issues of the campaign of 1896 and a copy of The Daily Press.

Mr. Martine has two hobbies—farming and Democracy. He boasts of both and although in his espousal of the cause of bimetallism he has few followers in this section yet everyone is outspoken in his admiration for sincerety and steadfastness which Mr. Martine dispays in his advocacy of the principle.

"My closest social friends are my worst political enemies" is the trite way the Farmer Orator puts it. It's true, for while he is is held in high esteem yet four times has he been defeated for political office, once for the Legislature, once for State senator, once for congressman and once for mayor. It was in December, 1896, that he ran for mayor and was beaten by only 200 votes, although in the presidential election, which had been held a month previously, the Republican majority in Plainfield was 1875 votes.

His political ardor has not been dampened by defeat and he declares that he will take the stump for Democracy as long as he lives. As an orator he has made a great record. When but eighteen years of age, at the solicitation of the then Governor Theordore F. Randolph, later United States senator, Mr. Martine mounted the rostrum and has been spell binding in every municipal, state and National campaign since. In this time he has spoken in New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Kansas, Missouri, and Nebraska as well as in every hamlet of New Jersey. Personally and politically he and Mr. Bryan are warm friends and each has been the other's guest at his own home.

In all municipal matters he has taken a hearty interest always desirious of helping his city's interests. He laid out Prospect, Carlton, Kensington and Martine avenues as well as part of Park avenue, over what was then part of his own farm, and is now a residential portion of the city. He has given away much land, including the ground on which stands the Park Avenue Baptist church.

At the recent Democratic State convention Mr. Martine was nominated as a candidate for governor, but the fight hinged on a question of political supremacy and he was slighted. "If the Democrats don't hurry up and nominate Jim for Congress, we will" said a distinguished Republican of the State in a speech at a recent dinner. The remark serves to illustrate the good will which his political enemies bear for the man. His popularity is his greatest treasure.

LITERARY.

No one will ask for better holiday reading than that which the Christmas number of McClure's Magazine will furnish. At this cheerful time of the year fiction is especially seasonable, and it needs but a glance at the title-page of the number to show that it provides this not only in a right Christmas-like abundance, but also in range of style and variety of subject to satisfy every taste and stimulate every interset. There are, in fact, no less than seven separate short stories, most of them by writers already well known to readers of McClure's, and all of them certain to stick in the memory and provoke a desire for more from the same source. The illustrations of the number are remarkably fine. The stories will be illustrated with pictures that illustrate not only in the sense of a bare literal visualization of episode, but in that finer adjustment of style which catches and reproduces the very motive and spirit of the story.

Of Benefit to You.

D. S. Mitchell, Fulford, Md.: "During a long illness I was troubled with bed sores, was advised to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and did so with wonderful results. I was perfectly cured. It is the best salve on the market." Sure cure for piles, sores, burns. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

THE TRICAL.

Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, next week, the world's greatest mathematician, Mons. Jacques Inaudi, the mental marvel, heads the bill. This man appeared before the Board of Education of Philadelphia for a test of his powers, and succeeded in amazing every professor and teacher of mathematics and every student of psychology in that city. Other attractions on the bill are Colibri's Midgets, five in number; Four Lukens Bros., wonderful acrobats; Living Art Studies; Melville and Stetson, comediennes and vocalists; Ed Latell, musical comedian; Eleanor Page Spencer, child pianist; Two Andalusians, duettists; Chalk Saunders, crayon artist; the Hewitts, revolving globe specialits, and many others. Continuous performance from noon to 11 p. m.

Nixon & Zimmerman's production of "The Messenger Boy" will remain but four more weeks at Daly's Theatre, New York. This production has repeated in New York the great hit it made in London, where it was first presented at the Gaity Theatre. The company, headed by James T. Powers, is one of the most talented ever seen in musical comedy in the metropolis. This organization and the general merit of the performance has given "The Messenger Boy" a great vogue in New York.

PERSONALS.

Miss Lizzie Taynor, of Steiner place, is ill with pneumonia.

George L. Apgar, of East Front street, is detained from work by illness.

Mrs. George McGinnis, of Somerset street, is confined to her home by illness.

H. R. Reiter, of Princeton, has returned from a visit to friends in this city.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed. Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

ASTHMA CURE FREE.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. F. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.,
Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.
AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.
February 5, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington street.

PEACE PAPERS SIGNED.

General Alban Receives Surrender of Liberal Leader Diaz.

COLON, Dec. 6.—General Alban wearing his uniform and accompanied by a bodyguard of soldiers, left Panama Wednesday morning to receive the surrender of the Liberal general Domingo Diaz. The two generals met at Gorgona Station, on the railroad, and returned to Empire Station, where peace papers were signed.

General Diaz, with about eighty followers and accompanied by General Alban, reached Panama at 6 o'clock in the evening. General Alban conducted the Liberal leader, who still wore the liberal emblem, a red ribbon, around his hat, to a carriage and drove with him to his family house in Panama.

All persons here unite in agreeing that Alban is not only a brave general, but a true gentleman as well.

That part of the Conservative forces under General Alban which was dispatched to Agua Dulce have not yet returned. It is surmised this expedition is in pursuit of the Liberal general Victoriano Lorenzo, but there is absolutely no information as to whether these two forces have become engaged.

All trains are running across the isthmus without escorts of American marines. Both ends of the isthmus are quiet.

Starch Works Burned.

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 6.—Fire was discovered early last night in the plant of the National Starch Manufacturing company, in the southeast part of the city. The city fire department was summoned, but a lack of water prevented it from accomplishing much beyond keeping the fire from spreading to adjoining property. The fire burned for several hours, and the plant was entirely destroyed, excepting the grain elevator and the engine house. The loss on the building and contents is estimated at $200,000. The amount of insurance is unknown, as such records are kept in New York. Several hundred employees, who were about to quit work for the day, escaped in safety. The plant belonged to the starch manufacturing trust, which has its headquarters in New York city.

A Monument to Fulton.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—A monument to the memory of Robert Fulton erected in Trinity churchyard by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, now in session here, was unveiled yesterday. The unveiling was preceded by formal exercises and religious ceremony. Rear Admiral Melville, U. S. N., and Dr. Robert H. Thurston of Cornell university eulogized the great engineer, and the clergy of Trinity, with the choir vested, conducted a dedicatory service. Rev. Dr. Robert Fulton Crary, a grandson of Fulton, also delivered an address, and Rev. Morgan Dix invoked the benediction. The monument stands close by the age marked vault where Fulton's body was entombed nearly a century ago.

President Clark Goes to Washington

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—For the purpose of holding an interview with Secretary of State Hay Rev. Dr. Clark, president of the World's Christian Endeavor union, has gone to Washington. He will meet Secretary Hay in connection with the Gillett-Lodge bill before both houses of congress prohibiting the sale of liquors, opium and firearms and ammunition by citizens of this nation to the inhabitants of the south Pacific islands. President Clark also has an engagement with President Roosevelt, the subject of their conference to be the campaign for Christian citizenship and civic righteousness which is to be aggressively waged by the Christian Endeavor association.

ANARCHY DISCUSSED

McComas of Maryland Favors Drastic Measures.

THE VIEWS OF SENATOR HOAR.

Would Transport All Who Favor Assassination and Abolition of Government to Some Desolate Spot Set Apart For Them.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Senator McComas (Md.) made an extended and carefully prepared speech in the senate yesterday, with anarchy for his theme, and was followed by some brief remarks by Mr. Hoar (Mass.) on the difficulties in the way of dealing with anarchist assassins. Mr. McComas' remarks showed careful examination of the legal authorities. He maintained that congress had full power under the constitution to enact a federal law punishing with death any person killing a president or assaulting the president with intent to kill or aiding, inciting or procuring such an act. He favored rigid provisions in the immigration laws for the deportation of alien anarchists. Much of the speech was devoted to an explanation of the dangerous doctrines of anarchy and the extent to which these doctrines had been propagated within recent years.

Senator Hoar's remarks were interesting as coming from the venerable chairman of the judiciary committee, which will have much to do with the framing of any legislation on this subject. He said the difficulty was that assassins of kings and rulers always gloried in their crimes and were in no wise deterred by the fear of punishment. For this reason he thought it was almost useless to multiply punishments. The most effective remedy, he suggested, would be to have the civilized nations of the world agree upon some desolate spot on the earth's surface to which all anarchists who upheld assassination or the overthrow of government should be transported. In such a community the anarchist could carry out his theories of living without a government, and the world would be rid of his presence.

The senate passed a bill extending the life of the industrial commission until Feb. 15 next to complete the work it now has in hand. The committee which will consider an appropriate tribute to the late President McKinley was announced.

Senator Penrose introduced in the senate a bill for the regulation of immigration, prepared by himself and the commissioner general of immigration, which looks to a general revision of the laws upon this question. The measure provides for a duty of $3 per head on all persons coming into the United States from foreign countries except those who are citizens of this country or of Canada or Mexico, the fund thus raised to be applied to the payment of the expenses incident to the regulation of immigration. The bill excludes all idiots, paupers and persons liable to become a public charge and those afflicted with loathsome or contagious diseases. It prohibits assistance in the matter of passage and provides heavy penalties for the importation of women for immoral purposes. Steamship companies are prohibited under heavy penalty from advertising for foreign business.

The senate received from the president the treaties renewing the reciprocity treaties and in executive session referred them to the committee on foreign relations. The principal renewals are with Great Britain and cover the British West Indies. The extradition treaty with the Argentine Republic and the trademark treaty with Guatemala also were received by the senate and were referred without debate.

Miss Toppan's Case.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., Dec. 6.—Without waiting for the usual proceedings of a formal hearing before the district court, at which the defense usually has an opportunity to be heard, the Barnstable county grand jury today will be asked to act upon the case of Miss Jane Toppan, who is incarcerated in Barnstable jail charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary E. Gibbs of Cataumet, Mass. The calling of the grand jury is therefore an extraordinary occurrence and has created considerable comment in this vicinity.

This Was Not Miss Cropsey.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 6.—A special from Wilson, N. C., says that the man and woman detained here by the police under the belief that they were Miss Nellie Cropsey and companion have been discharged from custody on information from Elizabeth City, N. C., that the woman held could not be the missing girl. The principal difference in the description of Miss Cropsey and the woman detained was the arrangement of teeth.

Snow in Mississippi.

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss., Dec. 6.—About two inches of snow has fallen here. It is the first of the season and unusually early. Also at Okolona, Miss., the first snow of the season fell, coming down heavily for several hours, followed by sleet and rain.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Fourteen Chinamen arrested near Rouse Point were brought here and committed by Commissioner Gray to jail for trial for unlawfully entering this country. Two boys, eight years old, are among them.

NEW CANAL TREATY

Text of Revised Hay-Pauncefote Convention.

WATERWAY NEVER TO BE BLOCKED

Our Government Authorized to Construct Work Directly at Its Own Cost, and It Is to Be Open to All Nations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The full text of the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty, providing for the construction of a canal across the isthmus of Panama, which was sent to the senate, is as follows:

Article 1.—The high contracting parties agree that the present treaty shall supersede the aforementioned convention of the 19th of April, 1850.

Article 2.—It is agreed that the canal may be constructed under the auspices of the government of the United States either directly at its own cost or by gift or loan of money to individuals or corporations or through subscription to or purchase of stock or shares and that, subject to the provisions of the present treaty, the said government shall have and enjoy all the rights incident to such construction as well as the exclusive right of providing for the regulation and management of the canal.

Article 3.—The United States adopts as the basis of the neutralization of such ship canal substantially as embodied in the convention of Constantinople, signed the 28th of October, 1888, for the free navigation of the Suez canal—that is to say:

First.—The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation or its citizens or subjects in respect of the rules on terms of entire equality, conditions or charges of traffic or otherwise. Such conditions and charges of traffic shall be just and equitable.

Second.—The canal shall never be blockaded, nor shall any right of war be exercised nor any act of hostility be committed within it. The United States, however, shall be at liberty to maintain such military police as may be necessary to protect it against lawlessness and disorder.

Third.—Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not revictual nor take any stores in the canal except so far as may be strictly necessary, and the transit of such vessels through the canal shall be effected with the least possible delay in accordance with the regulations in force and with only such intermission as may result from the necessities of the service. Prizes shall be in all respects subject to the same rules as vessels of war of the belligerents.

Fourth.—No belligerent shall embark or disembark troops, munitions of war or warlike materials used in the canal except in case of accidental hindrance of the transit, and in such case the transit shall be resumed with all possible dispatch.

Fifth.—The provisions of this article shall apply to waters adjacent to the canal within three marine miles of either end. Vessels of war of a belligerent nation shall not remain in such waters longer than twenty-four hours at any one time except in case of distress, and in such case shall depart as soon as possible, but a vessel of war of one belligerent shall not depart within twenty-four hours from the departure of a vessel of war of the other belligerent.

Sixth.—The plant, establishments, buildings and all works necessary to the construction, maintenance and operation of the canal shall be deemed to be parts thereof for the purposes of this treaty, and in time of war, as in time of peace, shall enjoy complete immunity from attack or injury by belligerents and from acts calculated to impair their usefulness as part of the canal.

Article 4.—It is agreed that no change of territory, sovereignty or of international relations of the country or countries traversed by the before mentioned canal shall affect the general principle of neutralization of the obligation of the high contracting parties under the present treaty.

Article 5.—The present treaty shall be ratified by the president of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the senate thereof and by his Britannic majesty, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington or at London at the earliest possible time within six months from the date hereof.

To Found a Norwegian Colony.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 6.—A tract of 1,000 acres near Rowlands, Pa., has been purchased by a score of Norwegian families who purpose forming a colony and to develop lumbering and quarry interests. Forty acres are to be allotted to each family and the remaining acreage devoted to the formation of a trust fund for the benefit of the unsuccessful families of the colony.

Fatal Railway Collision.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 6.—Three persons were killed and forty injured in a headon collision between two passenger trains on the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railroad near Malvern last night. The three passengers killed and most of those injured were passengers in the negro coaches.

One Hundred and Forty Drowned.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—A dispatch to The Daily Express from Bombay says that during the celebration of the feast day of St. Francis Xavier Dec. 3 at the Portuguese city of Goa, on the west coast of India, the sinking of a launch resulted in drowning 140 devotees fifty yards from the shore.

"HUNGER DUTIES" DENOUNCED.

Herr Bebel Stirs the Reichstag In Speech on Tariff.

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—The most insignificant looking man in the reichstag, Herr Bebel, broke its didactic monotony yesterday and lifted the tariff debate to emotional levels. Herr Bebel spoke to the breathless galleries. He often provoked his opponents, but sometimes he even enthralled them.

The wagon maker is diminutive in body and has a large head. Pulling at his pointed chin whisker, he took the tribune after the peasant farmer Herr Nissen, and as the representative of 2,800,000 voters he lodged the Socialist protest against the "hunger duties," as he called the tariffs on grain. The man seemed to grow bodily as he warmed up to his work. He spoke, as always, with astonishing ease and rapidity of utterance. His tuneful voice, instead of growing hoarser as the speech was prolonged, on the contrary grew more melodious.

Herr Bebel said there were two nations in the German state, the plunderers and the plundered. "The imperial chancellor, Count von Bulow, spoke for the former. I am speaking for the latter.

"This bill is intended not for the betterment of the farm laborer, but for the betterment of the landlords. If any landlord is not getting on well now it is because of large hunting-parties, gambling, well filled wine cellars, sons in crack cavalry regiments and town houses in Berlin."

At this point of Herr Bebel's speech Graf von Kardorff, one of the greatest land magnates, laughed jeeringly.

"Yes," continued Herr Bebel, "that is the way with you fellows. You lay taxes upon the poor, and when it is proved to you that they are unnecessary you laugh. But the world's history rolls on over you regardlessly."

Later Graf von Arnim, another great Agrarian leader, scornfully interrupted Herr Bebel while the latter was relating an incident of a Prussian schoolgirl who wanted to go to heaven because there was no hunger there. Herr Bebel, inspired by the tempestuous scene which followed, then exclaimed: "This bill foments insurrection. The chancellor aims to overturn social order. We shall do our utmost to send this bill to hades, and we only regret we cannot send its authors and abettors there also."

No Sparring Matches There.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Dec. 6.—District Attorney Hurlbut has ordered the sheriff to promptly arrest ex-Champion John L. Sullivan if he attempts to give a sparring exhibition at any point in this county. Sullivan has engaged, with his old sparring partner, George Bush, to appear at several towns in this vicinity. A large audience gathered at Potsdam last evening, the sheriff, district attorney and his assistant among them, to see one of the exhibitions. Sullivan came to the footlights and made a speech and declared the match off for the present.

Judge's Horse Saved Him.

BRANFORD, Conn., Dec. 6.—Four tramps made a bold attempt to hold up Judge Harry Doolittle of the Branford town court while he was driving to the home of his father in Pine Orchard last night. While driving along a lonely spot on the shore road four men suddenly jumped out from the roadside. One of them grabbed the bridle of the horse, and the others started for Mr. Doolittle. The animal which the judge was driving was a spirited one and became so badly frightened that he tore away from the tramps.

Vice Consul Schilling Ill Treated.

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—Paul R. Schilling, the American vice consul at Zittau, Germany, who was arrested last month by the German authorities in mistake for another man and detained for one day, has addressed a letter to the press in which he sets forth the indignities he suffered at the hands of the Zittau authorities. He says his purse was taken from him by force, that he was confined in a cold cell and that when he was released the authorities in no way expressed regret or apologized for their action.

Sparring Exhibition Stopped.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 6.—The police stepped in and stopped the sparring exhibition between George McFadden of New York and Patsey Sweeney of Manchester, N. H., last evening. The bout was to be held under the auspices of the New Haven Athletic club in the Hyperion. There was much surprise when the police, in the person of Sergeant M. C. Hayes, ordered the exhibition stopped. Six rounds had been fought and without the semblance of brutality.

Bank Will Not Reopen Soon.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Bank Examiner Graham says the examination of the First National bank's books and vouchers cannot be completed to permit the reopening of the bank before Dec. 15 at the earliest. Teller Fitcham's arraignment and examination before Commissioner Davison await the arrival of District Attorney Curtiss from Binghamton.

The McKinley Monument Fund.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—At the regular meeting of the executive committee of the McKinley Memorial Association of the State of New York it was announced that additional subscriptions amounting to $5,000 had been received. This brought the total subscriptions up to $45,495.

Three Children Burned to Death.

TRURO, N. S., Dec. 6.—The house of Robert Campbell at East Folly Mountain, an isolated section, has been burned, and two daughters and a son, all under ten, were incinerated. Mr. Campbell had gone to work.

NEGRO BAND CAUGHT.

Accused of Killing a White Man, They Were Chased by Hounds.

ANDALUSIA, Ala., Dec. 6.—Sheriff Bradshaw has returned here with twenty-two negroes, who are accused of complicity in the killing of J. W. Dorsey, a merchant, and the fatal wounding of Fale Atkinson, city marshal, at Opp Wednesday evening. The negroes were pursued with bloodhounds and captured by the sheriff and his posse.

There is great excitement, and there are fears that the friends of the dead white man will attempt a wholesale lynching. The sheriff landed the negroes safely in jail here and has taken precautions to resist the mob in case one shall be formed.

Cuban Legislature Called.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 6.—Charles Hartzell, secretary of Porto Rico, who is acting as governor during the absence of Mr. Hunt, now on a visit to the United States, has issued a call for the legislature to convene on New Year's day. The city council has passed a resolution providing that a cable dispatch be sent to President Roosevelt thanking him for his kindly interest in the affairs of Porto Rico as set forth in his message to congress, which "causes an affectionate expression of gratitude from the country toward you." The council also tenders an expression of its affection and asks the president's support in behalf of the erection of a naval station here.

Royal Quarrel Denied.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Dutch government and the Dutch court are again strenuously denying the stories of matrimonial quarrels between Queen Wilhelmina and the prince consort, but the scandal has become too public for any hope of hushing it up. According to some reports, a reconciliation between the queen and Prince Henry was effected largely through the influence of Emperor William, and the queen mother, in order to preserve an appearance of concord, even paid the prince consort's debts. The Dutch ministers at foreign courts continue to aver that the couple live in "an ideally happy union" and "are devotedly attached to each other," etc.

Pittsburg Furnaces Closing.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 6.—The closing down of the Clinton furnaces on the south side is one of the more recent effects of the great freight congestion in Pittsburg. Nearly all the principal mills and furnaces in Pittsburg are now idle or running at low ebb. Those that are able to keep in operation are expecting to close down in a few days. Officers of the Bessemer Furnace association state that practically all the valley plants are closed or else are working so lightly that little was being gained. Railroad officials promise that matters will improve after the first of next month.

Secretary Root's Plan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Secretary Root has prepared for submission to congress a bill providing for the voluntary retirement of the veteran officers of the army who have seen service in the three wars, the rebellion, the Indian wars and the Spanish war, with an additional grade. It appears that only about 201 officers will be affected by this legislation, which the president himself will urge in the strongest terms as a measure of simple justice to the veterans and as calculated to improve the efficiency of the military service by placing younger men in command.

Would Stop Boer War.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—At the Auditorium mass meeting Sunday evening, Dec. 8, to be addressed by Bourke Cockran, a delegation will be appointed to visit President Roosevelt to ask the president to use the influence of the United States with the British government toward a just settlement of the war between England and the South African Republic. Congress will be asked to aid the president in seeking to bring about a settlement of the war.

Mayor Jones Resigns.

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 6.—Mayor Samuel M. Jones has resigned from the board of directors of the Toledo Humane society because its president, Hon. James M. Brown, who is also president of the American Humane society, declared that a man who abandons his children should be put to death. The declaration appears in the annual report of the Toledo Humane society.

Iowa Robbers Guilty of Murder.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Dec. 6.—The jury in the case of the Greenville (Ia.) robbers, Louis Brooks and Albert Phillips, at Storm Lake, Ia., returned a verdict finding the men guilty of murder in the first degree and fixing the penalty at death. Two members of the posse were fatally shot by the robbers, and one robber was killed in the fight at Albert City.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Fog has stopped traffic on the Seine at Paris.

The Dresden Savings and Loan bank has made an assignment.

Herbert Marx, who killed two men in Virginia, was exonerated by the girl in the case.

The Dutch government has again announced that it cannot intervene in South Africa.

The main building of the Michigan Alkali company at Wyandotte was burned; loss, $500,000.

General Chaffee has ordered all the ports in Laguna and Batangas provinces closed so as to cut off supplies to the rebels.

Rear Admiral Endicott has asked for over $21,000,000 for the maintenance of the navy yards, stations and improvements.

THE LABOR CONGRESS

Rousing Convention of Federationists at Scranton.

REPORT OF PRESIDENT GOMPERS.

A Gain of 313 Local Unions and of 364,410 Members Shown—Chinese Exclusion Act to Be Urged.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 6.—Two hundred and eighty-five delegates representing more than 1,500,000 workmen responded to the roll call at the opening session of the twenty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which was called to order by President Samuel Gompers in St. Thomas' College hall. The convention is said to be the largest congress of workmen ever held in this country. Organization, settlement of questions involving contested seats and the reading of the annual report of the president, secretary and treasurer took up the entire time of the convention.

During the course of the day there was one surprise sprung on the delegates, and one important decision was also made. The surprise came in the form of an objection to the seating of the United Mine Workers' delegates because of an alleged arrearage in their per capita tax. The objection was overruled by an almost unanimous vote of the delegates. The important question decided related to the contested seat of the delegate from the Central Labor union of Richmond, Va., which body refused to admit negro workmen to its organization. The dispute was adjusted by seating the delegate.

The annual reports of President Gompers, Secretary Frank Morrison and Treasurer John B. Lennon were made public.

Mr. Gompers' report shows a net increase of 313 local unions for the year and a gain of 364,410 members. From national and international unions and the federation direct there were issued 4,056 charters for newly formed unions, and charters surrendered or unions disbanded numbered 1,150. On Oct. 31 last there were affiliated with the federation: National and International unions, 87; city central labor unions, 327; state federations of labor, 29; local trade unions having no national or international, 750, and federal labor unions, 399. There were four strikes of a general character during the year.

Mr. Gompers says he has arranged an active campaign for the re-enactment of the Chinese exclusion act and expresses surprise at the "patience of the Pacific coast citizens in submitting to a state of affairs so horrible and degrading." It arraigns Chinese immigrants as lowering American standards.

Treasurer Lennon's report shows an income of $126,522; expenses, $118,708; total funds at hand, $8,814. Secretary Morrison's report shows the total number of strikes of all kinds reported aggregated 1,056, in which 153,505 members were benefited and 12,707 were not benefited. Their total cost was $548,603.

Indians Meet the "Great Father."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones yesterday introduced to President Roosevelt a delegation of Ute Indians who were anxious to meet the "great father." The president shook hands very cordially with each of the Indians. One of the Indians understood English. On being informed of this fact the president turned to him and said, "Tell your brothers that I had fifty Indians in my regiment during the war with Spain, and they made fine soldiers." The Indians appeared to be very much pleased when this message was conveyed to them.

British Ship Injured.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Another accident to a British torpedo boat destroyer, fortunately without loss of life, has just been added to the long series of such accidents suffered by the British navy during the past few months. The torpedo boat destroyer Wizard, while steaming out from Portsmouth, collided with a passenger steamer. Her bows were stove in, but she managed to regain the harbor. The Wizard was badly damaged.

The President's Guests.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Roosevelt entertained another representative list of public officials at dinner at the White House last night, the guests on this occasion including the following: Secretary Root, Senators Foraker, Morgan, Lodge, Hale, Cockrell, Fairbanks, McEnery, Quarles and Clapp, Representatives Hitt, Henry A. Cooper and William H. Moody and General Leonard Wood.

Use of Lord's Prayer Unconstitutional

ST. PAUL, Dec. 6.—Attorney General Douglass upholds the opinion that under the state constitution the Lord's Prayer cannot be used in the public schools. This ruling is because of section 16, article 1, of the state constitution, which says, "Nor shall any man be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship."

Both Well Dec. 2.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 6.—Spencer Eddy, first secretary of the United States legation at Constantinople, has received a message via Salonika that the American missionary, Miss Stone, and her companion, Mme. Tsilka, were well Dec. 2.

Heavy Snow In Tennessee.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 6.—The first heavy snow of the season fell yesterday. More has fallen already than all last winter.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; slowly rising temperature; light northerly winds, becoming variable.

INTERESTING FIGURES.

Vote for Governor.

1885—Griggs,	R.	162,900
—Mc Gill,	D.	136,000
Total		298,900
Plu.		26,900
1898—Voorhees,	R.	164,051
—Crane,	D.	158,552
Total		322,603
Plu.		5,499
1901—Murphy,	R.	183,814
—Seymour,	D.	166,181
Total		349,995
Plu.		17,133

In the figures is food for interesting reflection. It would seem that while the plurality of Governor Voorhees was less by over 21,000 than that received by Governor Griggs, yet Voorhees received over 1,000 more votes than did Griggs. It will also be observed that the claims of Mr. Seymour's friends that he was several thousand votes stronger than Crane was well founded, for he received more than 8,000 more votes than Crane.

The contention that Franklin Murphy was a weak candidate is disproved when it is observed that he received 21,000 more votes than did Mr. Griggs and 20,000 more than Governor Voorhees. It may also be seen that while the Republican vote increased nearly 20,000 in the three years between 1898 and 1901, the Democratic vote during that period increased only 8,000. If the same ratio is preserved for the next three years, the next Republican candidate for governor will get a plurality of 30,000, assuming that both sides get their vote out as well as was done this year.

It is impossible, after all, to calculate how any election is going, but a comparison of the figures of past years is always an interesting study to those who make any pretense with keeping up to times in State political affairs.

The reply of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company to the Common Council, regarding the failure of the company to comply with the terms of the local franchise, is awaited with much interest by the public of this city. It also means considerable to North Plainfield as the borough will undoubtedly be the gainer by the expected action of the company. A formal reply will be made and it is probable that the company will announce its intention of bettering the service at once.

An equitable arrangement between the Plainfield Water Supply Company and its patrons whereby the charge should be according to the amount of water used and not on the number of taps would be the means of greatly improving the present relations between that corporation and the people of city and borough.

A meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education has been called to act upon the request of the Borough Board of Health that all school children should be vaccinated. Nothing has been said, however, by the members to signify as to whether or not the request will be granted.

The opening matches in The Daily Press Bowling League were fully up to expectations and attracted much attention at the club alleys where they were rolled. There is every prospect that this season will see much interest taken in the progress of the league all along the line.

It is a dangerous thing to play hide and seek with a policeman at night unless the officer happens to be perfectly certain as to the identity of the other man. One Plainfielder had a narrow escape a few nights ago from being a target for a policeman's revolver.

Society held its first formal function of the season last evening. There was a large turnout and everything passed off in a very satisfactory fashion. Even if the Assemblies have been given up, there seems no likelihood that the season will be a dull one.

Congressman Fowler has attracted considerable attention to himself by introducing a bill which will take the tariff question out of politics. Little has been said yet about the probable fate of the bill.

All of the local Sunday-schools are now deep in preparation for Christmas time. These entertainments promise to unusually elaborate this year.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church will hold a meeting of special interest this evening. The subject will be "Missions."

Fifteen Days' Drought.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Dec. 6.—By order of Mayor Flanders all the saloons in this city have been closed. Their licenses were declared invalid by reason of a recent decision of the supreme court in declaring unconstitutional the act of 1892 under which Burlington's excise board was appointed. There will be no intoxicating liquors sold here for fifteen days. At the termination of that period an ordinance of councils creating a new excise board will become operative.

Rioting In Brussels.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 6.—There has been constant rioting during the past week among the students at Louvain, in Brabant. Yesterday these disorders became serious. The students smashed the windows of business establishments and insulted passersby. They were charged and dispersed by the police, and several students were wounded and arrested.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. Safe pills. L. W. Randolph.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local football eleven has no game scheduled for tomorrow. For some reason Manager Douglass has been very unfortunate in the schedule arranged for the season's play. Several games arranged have been cancelled at the last moment when it was too late to arrange to fill the date, while the open date he has been unable to fill in. Only two regular games have been played during the season.

Rev. G. M. Shott will lead the Friday evening prayer meeting in the Baptist church this evening. The subject will be a general study of the Sunday-school lesson for Sunday.

"Duke," the large St. Bernard dog which has been a pet in the family of Township Clerk Edward L. Hand, is dead, after an illness of several days with spinal trouble.

A number from town enjoyed the cantata "Esther" given for the benefit of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Plainfield, last evening.

The members of the Methodist Sunday-school began practice last night for their Christmas entertainment to be held in the church on the 24th.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Terry, of Plainfield, were the guests last night of Mrs. Terry's mother, Mrs. James Buckley.

No session of the public school was held today on account of the teachers Institute meeting held at Elizabeth.

The Township Committee will meet in the town rooms tonight at 8 o'clock.

Miss Teinne Klemser was the guest of Plainfield friends yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A very pretty and quiet wedding was performed at the Baptist parsonage, Wednesday evening, when Miss Estella Conger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conger, was married to Fred L. Greninger, of New Market. The friends of the young couple had been kept in the dark as to the exact time of the wedding but were aware that it would be celebrated sometime this winter. Miss Conger and Mr Greninger arrived at Rev. J. A. Cubberley's home, in company with Mrs. Ella E. Meckling, of New Market, at 8 o'clock. While the binding words were being pronounced, the young couple stood in front of a large bow window, which was banked with ferns, plants and palms. As soon as the knot was tied the young couple left for their new home in New Market. The groom, who is twenty-five years of age, is employed at New Market. The bride is but eighteen years of age and is well known and popular in South Plainfield, having lived here nearly all her life.

Cornelius Teeple died very suddenly at his home yesterday afternoon. He has been suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia since Friday but was not thought to be in a serious condition until yesterday morning, when medical aid was summoned and everything possible done for him. Mr. Teeple was sixty-eight years of age and well known in South Plainfield. In fact he was one of the oldest residents of this place, having lived here all his life. He leaves two brothers, Henry, of this place, and George Teeple, of Hartford, Conn. At the time of his death he was living at the home of his son-in-law, John Teeple. Notice of funeral will be given later.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Iredell, of Rockview avenue, have returned home from an extended visit to New York.

Your Attention!

As the time is again approaching for you to place orders with us for what HUYLER'S CANDIES you may want for your Christmas. We would request that you try and get these orders in to us at once, not later than Dec. 10. By doing this you will give us an opportunity to fill all orders promptly and make deliveries convenient to your desires.

With fresh candies.

of the greatest Spiritual force, the Holy Spirit.

She said that the walls between the churches were down and that only a line now divides them. She deplored the fact that the churches are not all one as Christ prayed they might be.

Mrs. Davis strongly advocated the organization of Children's Circles, and hoped that the movement would soon be started. By so doing the children can be better trained for the work now being done by their elders.

The speaker closed her address with an earnest appeal to the members to be more Christ-like and to strive earnestly for the best things. At the close a vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Davis.

After the meeting closed, there was a social time, during which the members of the Benevolent and Advance Circles served tea and wafers. Mrs. Samuel F. Kimball and Mrs. F. Malley presided at the table. Many remained to greet Mrs. Davis and receive further help and inspiration.

PLAY BY STUDENTS.

Dramatic Schools From New York Will Give Performance at the Casino.

The American Academy of Dramatic Arts and the Empire Theatre Dramatic School will give a performance of Arthur W. Pinero's "The Money Spinner," an original comedy in two acts, at the Casino Thursday, December 19. In addition to this play there will be a presentation of a farce in addition to this play there will be a presentation of a farce in one act, by Pauline Phelps and Marion Shonrt, entitled "A Duet in Two Flats." This play acts as a curtain raiser for "The Money Spinner."

These two plays were successfully given at the Empire Theatre, New York, Charles Frohman, manager, November 12, of which the New York Herald says the following:

"The Money Spinner" was excellently cast throughout. Miss Dorothy Turner, strikingly suggestive of Miss Maude Adams, particularly in the emotional scenes, was a convincing "Mrs. Boycott"; Miss Laura Wall was a pretty and pleasing "Dorinda," and Martin V. Merle capable "Kengussie." This play was staged by Dore Davidson, and 'A Duet in Two Flats,' a bright trifle, was staged by R. O. Jenkins.

PERSONAL.

Bert Pope, of Summit avenue, is away on a hunting trip in Virginia.

Mrs. Horace Huff, of Coddington avenue, has recovered from a severe cold.

Mrs. Boice, of New Brunswick, has been visiting Mrs. B. W. Hand, of West Second street.

Mrs. Fairchild, of Newark, has returned from a visit to her son, George H. Fairchild, of Grandview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brooks, of Myrtle avenue, have been suddenly called to New York on account of the illness of Mrs. Brooks' brother, Harry Shaddell, a former resident of this city. Mr. Shaddell is suffering with typhoid fever.

THE CHARLESTON EXPOSITION.

Reduced Rates via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

During the continuance of the South Carolina Inter-State and West-Indian Exposition, to be held at Charleston, S. C., from December 1 to June 1, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Charleston and return from all points on its line at reduced rates. These tickets will be sold daily from November 30 to May 31, and will be of two descriptions: Season tickets, good to return within eleven days, including date of sale, but not good after June 3, 1902. These tickets will not be good to stop off en route. For rates and further particulars apply to ticket agents.

—Don't miss the cantata of "Esther, the Beautiful Queen," tonight.

—Perseverance Lodge, No, 74, K. of P., will confer the third rank on three candidates this evening.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 8, "The Value of Influence." Text, Matt. v, 13-16.

Salt and light.

The value of salt lies in its pungent purity. If so impure that it has lost its salty taste, it has also lost its power to preserve from putrefaction. It may by mixture with other substances become tasteless or even sweet. Its value is not by this change increased, but lessened. Some people may, as a matter of taste, greatly prefer sugar to salt; that does not make the impure salt more valuable. If it has lost its saltness, it is worthless.

Light to be of any use must be where it can be seen in the darkness. Its value is to help us see things which would otherwise be unseen.

Of what use is religion which is invisible in effect? Goodness of heart and sympathy, which are only shown by sharp words and oppressive, selfish acts, are savorless salt and hidden lamps.

This world has much of wasted goodness. Multitudes abhor villainy and approve virtue when they are represented on the theatrical stage or in the popular romance who never would attempt in any practical effort to lessen the villainy rampant in their own community or make any strenuous attempt after virtue in their own practice if it meant the crushing of some pleasureable vice.

To be effective the salt and light of Christian righteousness must at times be disagreeable. To turn the full rays of the searchlight of truth upon any evildoing must always result in making public a hideousness which will shock many sensibilities. Herein lies much of the unpopularity of reform efforts. Some minds naturally make the shame of a wrong to consist in its exposure to public knowledge rather than in the nature of the thing itself. So they dread the light and blame whoever turns it too fully upon any darkness in which they are particularly implicated.

Hatred is one of the penalties which light must incur from darkness if it dares invade the realm of concealed things.

Have you the courage to be genuine and true where shams are at a premium? Dare you be transparent and open where others wear veils and masks?

Is it possible to be truly salt and light in your sphere? Not many months since a member of the city council in a Pennsylvania city resigned his position because he could not serve the interests of his constituents and be a Christian. Some feel the same in regard to business life; some will feel the same wherever they may be placed. Is it altogether a question of the impossibility of letting the right act out or may it be a lack of stamina, a lack of intensity and power in the salt and light? Did not that city council need a Christian man in it? If he had stayed, could he not have salted that body and brought righteousness into its acts? Who can tell? The putridity of moral evil is close to you. It presses on every side. You must settle the question whether you will be actively, energetically, for righteousness, aggressive and militant, or if you will supinely submit to the evil and leave it to its fate and be yourself cast out as worthless.

It is a grave question which is more disastrous to one's soul—insipid, inactive goodness, hidden light, or active evil and apparent darkness. Like Laodicean lukewarmness, this neutral virtue is worthy only of rejection.

It costs to shine true, but it is always best.

Sorrow.

Sorrow has its ministry, but many find it hard at first to comprehend its meaning or to learn its lessons. Everything about it seems so dark and mysterious that they miss the guiding hand that sends and directs it, but by and by the light casts its rays over their path, and they begin to discern a good and gracious design in the trying dispensation. If while the vision lingered they were inclined to rebel, now they become acquiescent and bless God for His chastisement. The things that seemed adverse are found to be working out good to their souls. Hope and cheer have returned, and they accept the present with resignation and gratitude and read the future with a joyous and radiant anticipation.—Presbyterian.

True Object of Life.

Once realize what the true object is in life—that it is not pleasure, not knowledge, not even fame itself "that last infirmity of noble minds," but that it is the development of character, the rising to a higher, nobler, purer standard, the building up of the perfect man—and then, so long as this is going on, and will, we trust, go on forevermore, death has for us no terror. It is not a shadow, but a light; not an end, but a beginning.—Lewis Carroll.

An Important Part.

To find life full, then, of good opportunity in the little kindnesses, daily unrecorded acts, and to fulfill these in love are an important part of the true blessedness of life that goes far toward writing it on our hearts that "each day is the best day of the year."—Churchman.

Fill Me With Thy Life.

Unto Thy feet, O Saviour divine,
I come with my troubled life!
I am so weak, so weary with all
The constant tumult and strife.

Teach me to smile when the way is rough
And sing when the day grows sad.
Into my heart Thy sunshine put
And make Thy tried one glad.

Fill me so full of Thy own pure life
That each day may be lived for Thee;
Then neither the strife nor the woes of life
Can darken the days for me.

—Gerrit Smith.

R·I·P·A·N·S

ETHEL. The English people are reaching out in every direction to discover methods for prolonging life. They have generally determined that the road to longevity leads through the stomach. This causes fantastic notions in regard to diet, as changeable as the fashion in gowns. Almost every physician of note makes himself responsible for some dietetic formula to accomplish the object in view.

AGNES. In America they have discovered that what is needed to prolong life and banish pain is a Ripans Tabule taken when the first symptom of indisposition manifests itself. One gives relief.

WANTED—A case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R·I·P·A·N·S on the package and accept no substitute. R·I·P·A·N·S, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

WHAT MEN ADMIRE.

Feminine Qualities Which Attract Masculine Hearts the World Over.

What do men admire in women?

In the very first place, I think, a cheerful disposition. A man is afraid to marry a woman who always sees the sad side of things. He wants a comforter, a brave spirit who will stand by him through thick and thin and laugh at the world's troubles. A man who is a good reader of character hesitates to tie himself to a woman who has no sense of humor. Then, a man admires a girl who is popular with her own sex, who has the right sort of women friends and who shines in her own circle. He admires a girl with brains, but he doesn't want them always glittering before him so as to dim his own. In other words, he wants to be brilliant too. One of the greatest qualities he admires in a girl is sympathy, that mysterious power which brings out the best there is in every person. A proud spirit also appeals to him, but one which knows occasionally how to unbend.

The modern man admires bravery, but never mannishness. He appreciates self reliance in a woman, but he loves her more if she occasionally shows her weakness and lets him help her. He admires a stylish and a pretty woman, but not for long unless she has brains. Tact is a quality he values dearly, and a gentle manner, even if only outwardly put on, compels his worship. The girl who never says an unkind word about another woman is the one who has many admirers; also she who has high ideals and who clings to them.

A BRAVE SPIRIT.

In a few words, all notions to the contrary, men really admire what is noble, true, honest and strong, and the woman who unites these qualities is always sure of their deep regard.

FLORENCE HILTON.

DRESSING THE CHILD.

Have Regard For Its Feelings and Comfort.

The recent death of Kate Greenaway brings to my mind the subject of children's dress. No one but those who lived in her day can appreciate the benefit she conferred on tiny suffering humanity. With her clever sketches of small men and women in artistic and suitable costumes she entirely revolutionized children's dress. Before that time little boys and girls of four and five were rigged out in ridiculous and painfully uncomfortable imitations of their elders. The little boys wore long trousers and top heavy hats. The little girls actually had their gowns made in two pieces with tight bodices pinched in at the waist and heavy gathered skirts. It was thanks to Kate Greenaway that one piece frocks and guimpes came into fashion and that all the weight of a child's loosely cut garment was suspended from its shoulders, as it was proper that it should be.

No one but a foolish and unprogressive mother will dress her children uncomfortably nowadays. The woman who makes her little son ridiculous by tricking him out in curls, buckled shoes and a generally "picturesque" costume is way behind the times. Neither does she succeed in her foolish desire to make him look like an embryo nobleman or a small multimillionaire. The children of the rich are the very ones who are most simply dressed. The doctrine of health, of strong limbs and of a bright, happy disposition rules all. You may see these young heirs and heiresses to fortunes running happily around in the park under the care of their nurses. They are dressed in warm, well tailored little coats, in stout shoes and sensible hats which will not blow off with every gust of wind. In summer they wear low socks with flat shoes, and their sturdy little brown legs flash merrily over the ground as they play good, old fashioned, healthy games. The boys, fine, manly little fellows, have their hair cropped short, as a boy should. The girls wear theirs in the plainest of manners. This is happy, healthy childhood; childhood as it is meant to be.

The Trouble on the Torolito.

BY FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright, 1898, by Francis Lynde.)

"Mile and a half, 'r mayve two.

"Is there a horse in the corral that a sick man might ride?"

Andy took time to consider. "I dunno," said he. "There's old Bluenose—he's wind-busted; want to try him?"

"Yes; if you can spare the time to saddle him for me."

In five minutes the bronco was at the door and the kindly desperado heaved me bodily into the saddle.

"Reckon you can stick on?" said he.

"I guess so. Does he buck?"

"They all do, if you give 'em time to study about it. Give him his head and run him a mile 'r so, if you can stan' it. That'll take the funny-business out o' him."

I did it, and being but a sorry horseman, must have presented a spectacle for gods and men in the mad gallop across the valley. So far from showing signs of exhaustion at the mile-end, the bronco locked his jaw on the bit, swerved aside from the slope of the hill which I had counted upon as a speed-reducer, and was half way to the head of the valley before I could get weight enough on the bridle-reins to pull him down. When he realized that I desired to stop, he promptly shot me over his head into a patch of sage-grass and went his way without me. Whereupon followed a series of maneuvers looking to repossession, and at the end of it the sun had gone down on a luckless caballero four miles from camp, too weary to walk, and unable to recapture his mount.

I flung myself down under the lee of a huge bowlder and wondered if the bronco would be considerate enough to send some one after me by going back to the ranch riderless. It seemed doubtful. His final disappearance had been over the hills to the northward. Into the midst of the chance-weighing came the beat of hoofs on the crest above me, and presently I saw the figure of a horseman silhouetted against the sky on the hilltop. It was Kilgore; and while I looked he came down the hill at a jog-trot. Fifty feet from my bowlder the pony stumbled, and horse and man came down together. Kilgore rose cursing, and kicked the bronco to its feet.

"Blame your or'nary hide! Cayn't you lif' them ther' feet o' your'n when you see a dog-hole? Now then, what's the matter with you?"

The horse jerked its head free and limped a few paces up the hill, stopping presently with its muzzle to the ground, pointing as a trained bird-dog might. The range-rider stopped to pull up a freshly driven stake and read the marking thereon.

"'X—16—2'; that's some o' their blame' engineerin' lingo, I reckon. I'd like to git my lariat 'round the neck o' the feller th't's a-stakin' off this yere rise. I'd show him what hit feel like to git th'owed."

He flung the stake afar, and leaving the bronco to its own devices, sought and found the line of the ditch, following it and destroying the engineer's landmarks for a good half-mile. When he returned he found me holding the pony, and went agape accordingly.

"Well, I'll be dad-burned! Where did you fall from, 's what I'd like to know?"

"From the back of a certain ill-conditioned beast named 'Bluenose.' He pitched me off and ran away. I'm too weak to walk; do you suppose you could catch him for me?"

"Catch nothin'! I'll show you a trick worth two o' that. Jest lemme boost you across this yere grasshopper o' mine and we'll ride and tie—you do the ridin' and I'll do the tyin.' Blame' if you hain't got your sand with you to git up out of a sick-bed and make a stagger at ridin' a cow-pony. Easy, now, ol' Sway-back; we're a-runnin' an amb'lance from this on."

Ordinarily, Kilgore was reticence personified, but on the four-mile jaunt to the valley-throat he talked against time, and a very dull listener could have seen the drift of it, which was to bury the stake-pulling episode as deeply as possible. But I would not let him go without his warning.

"I saw you pull a lot of the land company's stakes, Bart," I said, when the ranch lights were in sight. "I'm afraid you'll hear from it."

"What'll they do to me, d'ye reckon?"

"Nothing, I presume, because they won't know who did it. But it'll make trouble for the captain."

Kilgore plodded on in silence for a full minute before he replied: "Reckon so? I'll be dad-burned if they do. I'll go pull up some more in the mornin' and cyar' 'em up yonder to His Jags' camp. Blame' if I don't."

When we reached the ranch house Macpherson had come home and was about to start out in search of me. I took my scolding like a guilty schoolboy.

"You ought to be thumped," he said, when I had been helped down "Haven't you a grain of sense left?"

"Plenty of it; it was the horse that was lacking. I was all right as long as he let me stay on."

"Oh, you were"—with fine sarcasm—"Well, I suppose you're good for a week in blankets to pay for it. Knocked your good appetite silly, didn't it?"

"Come in to supper and I'll show you. I'm good for anything from pate de foie gras to boiled dog."

It was three full days, and I had ennuyed myself into a state of coma, before Macpherson would let me try it again, and when he finally consented we went together, ambling the length of his small kingdom and pausing only when the horses of the settlement came in sight from the brow of a low hill dominating the clustered farmsteads and the engineer's camp at Valley Head. I wanted to go on, but Macpherson shook his head.

"No; you've had enough, and more than enough, for one day. You forget that the nearest undertaker is at the fort."

"I forget nothing. Give me that glass."

When I had focused the field glass he said: "What do you see?"

"I see the promise of a remarkably beautiful sunset."

"Is that all?"

"No; I see a log cabin which I take to be a schoolhouse. The door is open, and there is some one standing on the step—a young woman, I should say—" I dropped the glass and turned upon him quickly enough to surprise the beatific eagerness in his face.

"It's she," he said, rather sheepishly; and then: "Do you really think you could manage another mile or two and make out to get home alive?"

I laughed. His wistfulness was beautiful to behold. "I can do better than that; I can find my way back alone."

"And get thrown again—not much you don't. Besides, I want you to meet her."

"Do you? It's much better as it stands. You can tell me all sorts of affectionate little fictions about her and I shan't be able to contradict them."

"I wish you'd stop devilling me long enough to say yes or no," he growled.

For answer I led the way westward at a double, and ten minutes later we were climbing the schoolhouse knoll. The gallop had been wrought out in silence, but while the horses were breasting the hill, Macpherson said: "Of course, you understand that what I told you about the—about the fracas with Wykamp must be as if it had never happened?"

"My dear boy! Was I born yesterday? But you've seen her since, haven't you?"

"No; I thought she would— I thought perhaps it would be better to let it age a little, you know."

Here was embarrassment made to order, but I found comfort in the reflection that the chapter of accidents, helped out by a little tactful design on my part, would doubtless give me an opportunity to efface myself after the introduction.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 8—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The right use of ability.—Matt. vi, 13-16.

God has not given to all men equal ability. Some are strong, others weak; some are rich, others poor; some are high, others low; some have superior intelligence, others are below the average in intelligence; some morally and spiritually are superiors and others inferiors. This being true, it becomes a very important question to those who are blessed with special abilities, positions or opportunities as to what is the right way to use them. It is an important question, because ability means responsibility. God will demand of every man an account "according to his several abilities." It may be a splendid thing to be two talent or five talent men, but those who have many talents must account for many talents and should study carefully how to use them.

Ability is not to be falsely used. Salt has the ability to preserve and to season; but if salt, by being exposed or falsely united with foreign substances, loses its savor it is good for nothing but to be cast out. It loses its ability to preserve or to season and is worthless. A false use of ability is also ruinous to man. Thousands have been led to ruin by misusing the special abilities that God has given them. The pathway of life is strewn with the wrecks of geniuses—five talent men. They have misused or abused the talents that God has given them, and God has exacted an awful penalty from them. Let none who is blessed with ability follow in their footsteps. The genius is not exempt from the laws of God. His superior ability makes his falseness all the more culpable.

Ability is not to be neglected. A candle has lighting ability. For that reason it is not hidden under a bushel, where its light would do no good, but is placed on a candlestick, that it may give light to all in the house. God condemns the neglect of ability. If He has given ability to any one, it is for a purpose, and to neglect it is as serious as to misuse it. The man with one talent, which he neglected, was condemned and punished. Five talent men are not immune from service. The greater ability possessed the greater the crime of neglecting it. Failure to use given ability is absolutely inexcusable and will certainly lead to condemnation and punishment.

Ability is to be used for the good of mankind and the glory of God. "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." If we properly use the abilities which God has given to us, we will make men see God in our works, for all good works are from God. Thus they will be led to praise God and to consecrate their lives to Him. Thus our abilities will bless our fellows and redound to the glory of God. If God has blessed us with special or even humble abilities, let us use them to honor Him and to lead others to Him.

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. iv, 18; Matt. xxv, 14-30; Mark ix, 50; John xv, 8, 16; I Cor. ix, 19-22; Acts xiii, 44-47; Gal. v, 13; vi, 1, 2; Heb. x, 23-25; I Pet. ii, 12.

God Supplies.

There would be much less complaining in this world if the fact were always borne in mind that God supplies our real, not our imaginary, needs. His supplies are to meet our necessities, not our wishes. Sometimes they are in direct opposition to our desires. Considering their character, their circumstances, their high destiny, God so deals with His people that He could not possibly deal with them more bountifully or more munificently. "No good thing"—that is, no good thing for them—"will He withhold from them." The representations God has given of Himself are exactly adapted to the various circumstances and conditions of His people. He is fullness of supply to the poor, strength to the weak, wisdom and knowledge to the ignorant. Their inability is met by His sufficiency, their guilt by His mercy, their unworthiness by His grace.—Christian Intelligencer.

The Christian.

The Christian, of all men, should be in earnest as to a properly enlightened conscience. He who accepts the revelation of God's will confesses that his conscience is no safe guide until it has been trained and instructed in that word and that his own will is a thing of uncertain and spasmodic energy, willfulness rather than will, until it has been regenerated by the Holy Ghost. He cannot, if he be in earnest at all, be satisfied that he is doing God's will unless he has taken as much pains to know it, understand it, resolve it into rules of action, as he has the calling which he follows for his bodily support or social standing. In a word, he will not only be conscientious, but in a much stricter sense he will be conscientious about his conscience.—Lutheran.

A True Perception.

A true perception of the gospel is the entire forgetfulness of self, utter absence of any pretension and the complete and entire refusal to accept the world's praise or judgment.—General Gordon.

Only One Real Failure.

There is only one real failure in life possible, and that is not to be true to the existing occasion. If rightly used, the best one knows.—Canon Farrar.

Unto the End.

His thoughts are high, His love is wise,
His wounds a cure intend,
And, though He does not always smile,
He loves unto the end.
—Countess of Huntington.

PARK CLUB GETS TWO GAMES

DEFEATED CRANFORD IN THE DAILY PRESS LEAGUE.

Opening of Local Bowling Season With Three Games in the League.

Plenty of enthusiasm marked the opening of The Daily Press Bowling League on the Park Club alleys last evening. The team from the Cranford Casino came down and lost two out of three games to the home team. The one defeat was by eleven pins.

After leading for five frames, the Park Club fell behind in the first game only to come to the fore in a rattling finish which gave victory to the home club by a score of 798 to 730.

F. O. Ball rolled the highest score of the evening, 190.

H. D. Hibbard had to leave and his place was taken by Dr. C. R. Thiers, who rolled for the first time since last February. After the fifth frame, both sides began to warm up. The Parks were rolling in fine form and wound up in record breaking fashion. It was another win for the home team, 815 to 767.

The third game might have been won as well but a hoodoo swept down the local bowlers and they almost forgot what strikes and spares were like. Cranford was not rolling much better. There was a chance to win out at the finish but the Parks could not recover their old pace and went down to defeat by eleven pins in the poorest scores of the evening, 739 to 728.

Morris J. Dumont, of Plainfield, and George D. May, of Cranford, acted as umpires.

The individual scores were:

ROSELLE CASINO WON TWO

DEFEATED WESTFIELD CLUB ON THE LATTER'S ALLEYS.

Opening Series in The Daily Press Bowling League Rolled Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Dec. 6.—In three hotly contested games, last evening, which marked the opening of The Daily Press Bowling League here, the Roselle Casino bowlers managed to capture two from their old rivals of the Westfield Club. Both teams were partially composed of new material.

Neither side did anything remarkable in the first game, Roselle leading up to the ninth frame by varying margins. Then Westfield went to the fore with a rush and won out by 35 pins in a fair finish. The scores were 730 and 695.

The second game saw an improvement. The teams ran along evenly Roselle having a trifle the better of it. The wind-up was exciting but the Roselle bowlers were strong and took the game by 34 pins, 796 to 762.

By far the best contest of the evening developed in the third game. Both sides were rolling well and they kept side by side for frame after frame. Westfield had a chance to win out with a lively finish. Three splits came in the way of the home team and its chances of winning grew dim again. The game was won by just eleven pins, 803 to 792. Hegeman, of Westfield, made the high score of the evening, 201.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

SPORTING NEWS

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The young people of the Park Club expect to have a mixed doubles on Tuesday evening, December 17. The bowling will be followed by the usual dance.

The success of the bowling contests played between the Hope Chapel Y. M. A. team and one from New Brunswick will probably result in a series being arranged to continue all winter. Already two have been played and a third is being arranged to take place next week, but the members are anxious for more, not only for the game but for the sociability connected with them.

WORKING TO DEFEAT POLYGAMY BY STATUTE

Mass-Meeting Held to Present Subject to People of Plainfield.

INTERESTING SPEAKER.

MRS. F. A. BENNETT, OF ENGLEWOOD, MADE AN ADDRESS.

Object of Meeting to Rouse Interest in Anti-Polygamy Movement—Held in Crescent Avenue Church.

Although the movement has been in progress throughout the country for many months, the first public demonstration in this city in behalf of an anti-polygamy amendment to the constitution of the United States took place in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last evening.

A large audience, composed for the greater part of women, heard a stirring address on the subject made by Mrs. Frederick A. Bennett, of Englewood. She is one of the many energetic women in this State who are doing their utmost to have the present Congress take some action in regard to plural marriages as practiced by the Mormons. Since the campaign was first opened she has done much to promote the cause, being well versed in the matter and always ready to speak upon it.

Following Scripture reading by Rev. E. M. Rodman and prayer by Rev. Charles E. Herring, Mrs. Bennett was introduced by Dr. Richards. In commencing her address, Mrs. Bennett said that while there had been cases of polygamy in various places at odd times, it remained for the Mormon church to embrace it as part of its faith. Since then it has been steadily increasing for, contrary to popular belief, the Mormon faith is very strong, the church numbering its membership in the United States at 300,000. There are 1700 missionaries constantly scouring the country in search of converts.

The entire church is under the control of one man and so implicitly do the members obey him that it holds the balance of political power in several western states by means of its wonderful colonization. If it becomes necessary 100 families are sent by him from one State to another to poll a vote for the Mormon side.

Under the existing laws of the United States, Mrs. Bennett said, the Mormon church has the right to believe anything it wishes. This right is exercised in many ways, polygamy being one of its worst forms. The danger this practice clearly outlines resulted as far back as 1862 in a law being passed against it but to no purpose. Others were passed in 1882 and 1887 but it still continues and every boy in the church today is taught he cannot be a true Mormon unless he is a polygamist.

The leaders of the church maintain that it does not approve of plural marriages yet it is doing everything in its power to counteract the present movement to secure an amendment. This week, the Mormon church has its best representatives at Washington, well supplied with money, who are working quietly but effectively. It has politicians on its side and it means a hard fight. The American women have taken the matter in earnest, she said, and will yet succeed in their effort to uphold the sanctity of the American home.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Bennett's remarks, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass asked that the work in behalf of the movement be continued in this city through the efforts of the pastors and the church societies.

The Mountaineers.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will hold a meeting of much interest in the chapel tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will be readings of missionary items on the subject for the month, "The Mountaineers."

Thinking It Over.

"Do you think you will marry that titled gentleman from abroad?"

"I haven't quite decided," answered the American heiress. "I am not sure I can support him in the style to which his ancestors were accustomed."—Washington Star.

ONE ITALIAN BADLY KNIFED

Thrilling Encounter Between Valoral Brothers and the Dantz Gang Yesterday.

THREE WERE ARRESTED

Started Over Labor Troubles—Valorals Attached on Watchung Avenue With Knives and Gun—Gaeton Dantz Taken to Hospital Seriously Hurt.

Ill feeling against the padrone was responsible for a most vicious fight between Gaeton Dantz and his friends and Salvator Valoral, an Italian labor contractor, and his brother, Leonard Valoral, on Watchung avenue yesterday afternoon. The treacherous stilleto, stones and a gun were the weapons used in the combat.

Dantz is in Muhlenberg hospital suffering with several deep gashes. His wounds are not fatal. Leonard Valoral is in the borough lockup, his wounds having been properly dressed at the hospital last night. Tony d'Do and Angelo Michael are also locked up, having been arrested by Marshal Campbell.

Dantz's friends claim that the Valoral brothers attacked him in his house and that the fight was renewed on the streets. It is declared by the Dantz friends that Salvator Valoral did the cutting.

Salvator Valoral, who lives at 52 Warren street, tells a tragic story of the assault. Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while passing along the borough side of Watchung avenue, near the bridge, he and his brother Leonard were confronted by Dantz and Michael.

Dantz hurled epithets at the contractor, who warned him away. Dantz followed it up by drawing a stilleto. Quick as a flash he made a lunge at Valoral, but the latter stepped back and the knife only penetrated his overcoat. Out shot Valoral's strong arm and Dantz was stretched at length on the ground, while the knife fell from his grasp. Angelo Michael handed Dantz another dirk and with it he pounced upon Leonard Valoral inflicting a deep wound in the left side.

When Dantz was felled by Salvator Valoral, some of his friends rushed to his assistance from his home nearby. Tony d'Do stood at the doorway with a double barrelled shotgun and threatened to shoot, while Dantz's wife grabbed a stone and threw it at Salvator Valoral, cutting him on the right thigh.

Leonard Valoral by this time had armed himself with a stone, but weakness from the stab had weakened him and his aim at Dantz proved erratic.

The trouble arose, according to Salvator Valoral, because he refused to hire the Dantz gang, and engaged New York Italians to do his work. This he declares was because, as he says, Dantz has been openingly running a "speak-easy" Sundays at his home on Watchung avenue.

SAYS 'TWAS METTLER.

The Man Who Recently Escaped From Reformatory.

The prisoner who escaped from the Rahway reformatory a few days ago and who was captured after an exciting chase, is now said to have been Harry Mettler, the young man who with Charles Grether and Charles VanShank assaulted and robbed Mrs. Mary Demko, of this city. The reformatory authorities consider him to be a dangerous character and hereafter he will be allowed no privileges and will be closely watched.

May Have New Superintendent.

It is stated on good authority that the first of the new year will see a new superintendent installed on the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway. The present incumbent, James Smith, will complete his one year contract with the company January 1 and indications point to its not being renewed.

Eighteen Patients.

There are eighteen patients at Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment. There are no serious cases, however, and it is confidently believed that all will recover.

Plans For Winter.

The executive committee of the W. C. T. U. held a meeting in the rooms on Madison avenue Thursday afternoon, when plans for the winter were discussed.

WILL CONSIDER REQUEST.

Borough School Board Has the Vaccination Question to Discuss.

The communication from the Borough Board of Health requesting that all teachers and pupils in the North Plainfield schools has been received by President S. St. John McCtchen of the Board of Education. Proper respect for the action of the health authorities, it is announced, will be given by calling a meeting of the school board at an early date.

SALE AT ALL SOULS CHURCH

SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR FOR BENEFIT OF THE ORGAN FUND.

Supper Room and Booths Did a Good Business—Those in Charge of It.

Following the custom of previous years, the women of All Souls' church in Park avenue, have been holding a two-days' sale of Christmas goods, including fancy and useful articles. The sale opened Thursday and was continued yesterday. The patronage surpassed the expectations of the most sanguine. The affair was for the benefit of the organ fund. A feature of both evenings was the programme of music rendered by Stephen Haff, organist, on the new organ recently installed.

Mrs. C. Nickerson was the general chairman of the affair, and presided at the doll booth. Assisting her were Mrs. Edward E. Pray, Miss Wells, Miss Edith Leonard and Miss Powell. Those in charge of the fancy and useful articles included Mrs. C. E. Ryder, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. L. B. Woolston, Miss Reynolds, Miss Elizabeth Angell, Mrs. Joseph O. Osgood, Mrs. Harold C. Durar and Miss Ryder.

There was an attractive art table in charge of Miss Caroline Haviland, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. E. W. Conklin, Miss Conklin, Miss Hall, Mrs. William L. Brown, Miss Brown, Miss Bush and Miss Walker. At the candy table were Mrs. Nicholl, Mrs. Phillip V. R. VanWyck, Miss Nicholl and Misses Osgood. Those who looked after the supper tables included the Mesdames Gates Willard, H. B. Wells, Charles L. Brownell, Haff and J. F. Buckle and the Misses Alice Reed, and Emily Haff. These women were also assisted by Stephen Haff, Edward Cohen, Harry Wells and Alex. Van Oss. Those who served as waitresses were the Misses Clara Buckle, Mary Woolston, Inez Tolles, and Juna Tolles, and Harold Brownell, Arthur Brown, Joseph Osgood, Harold, William and George Durar.

GREAT FEAST.

Several Plainfielders Ate Thanksgiving Dinner in North Carolina.

A letter recently received from J. C. Stanley, of East Arcadia, Bladin county, N. C., to a friend in this city, tell of the enjoyable times experienced by a party of huntsmen, of whom Herbert Johnson, of LaGrande avenue, this city, is one.

The party partook of a Thanksgiving feast in camp along the Cape Fere river, where a company of the leading citizens of that section to the number one hundred and twenty-seven, were seated around the festive board. Mr. Johnson, accompanied by J. P. Council and August Trust, a former resident of Plainfield, went out Monday and by Thursday they had shot seven deer, several wild turkey, hundreds of quail, several squirrels, a few opposums and raccoons. The feast was arranged by Mr. Stanley and the day was spent in real old southern fashion.

There is now being formed a party by Fred Sandford and S. B. Wheeler, who intend spending a few weeks in January with Mr. Stanley and enjoy the hunting that section of the south affords.

Last Meeting of Year.

The Common Council for this year will hold over until January 6, at which time the Council for 1902 assumes control of the city affairs. The present Council will hold an adjourned meeting, December 30, when much of the business for the year will be concluded. The new Council will hold its first meeting Monday evening, January 6.

Vacation for Steward Jones.

Israel Jones, the steward at the Park Club, has been given a vacation on account of ill health. He has gone to his home in Savannah, Ga. During his absence Charles Richardson is filling the position.

Talk by Converted Rabbi.

Rev. Dr. Faust, a converted rabbi, will speak on "Ancient and Modern Rabbinical Customs" in Grace church parish house Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All persons interested are invited.

OYSTER SUPPER.

Given by Sydney E. Frazee in Honor of His Appointment.

Sydney E. Frazee celebrated his appointment to a position in the fire department by giving an oyster supper to his fellows at headquarters, Wednesday evening. The affair was arranged quietly and took place at the headquarters, because of the inability of the men to leave their post. B. Frank Coriell, the chairman of the fire committee in the Common Council, and Chief T. O. Doane were the guests of honor. After the men had appeased their appetites for the bivalves, informal speeches were made and a jolly time enjoyed.

On Account of Fair.

Owing to the fact that a fair is being held in Saengerbund Hall, the regular meeting of the Ladies' Society of the Gesang and Turn Verein was postponed Wednesday evening. The regular meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein scheduled for last evening was postponed for the same reason.

For Steam Roller.

One of the carriage sheds at the city farm, on Rock avenue, has been repaired to accommodate the steam roller while another part will house the municipal water wagon. The steam roller was sent to its winter quarters today and will not be brought out for use until next spring.

WORKING AMONG INDIANS

MRS. E. B. HORTON MADE MISSIONARY ADDRESS.

Told Young Women About the Work at Oklahoma Among the Indians.

The members of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church, at their meeting in the church parlor yesterday afternoon, were enlightened upon the subject of Indian missions in Oklahoma by an entertaining dissertation on the topic, delivered by Mrs. E. B. Horton, of Cranford. Especially gratifying both to the speaker and to the organization was the large representation of members present when Mrs. Horton commenced her remarks.

Having recently returned from the west after having visited Colony, a mission station established on a firm foundation six years ago, and Fort Sill, where another field has been developed since then, she was able to discuss the subject in a manner at once both interesting and instructive.

She is the secretary of the Women's Executive Committee of the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed church in America and hence is in a position to spread the valuable knowledge she has gained among a countless number of mission workers, and in this way serve to renew the energy which has been put in the work in the past.

In introducing the subject she told some facts concerning the land lottery drawing in August, when the reservations of the Kiowa and Comanche tribes were divided among the white settlers after each son of the prairies had been given 160 acres. The method of distributing rations to the Indians, which takes place every fifth day at Colony and every second week at Fort Sill, was outlined and it showed that the Indian is still a dependent creature who must largely look to his pale face brethern for means of subsistence.

Mrs. Horton took pains to make it clear that the charge of indolence is wrongly applied to the Indian. The untaught red man is as a little child, said she, who knows not how to accomplish an end. This is being largely overcome by the corps of farmers employed by the Government to teach the ward of the Nation the various branches of agricultural pursuits. As for the women they do not appear to understand the fundamentals of the art of cooking and for this reason the food is very plain.

One thing that came to her knowledge in the west was that the squaw is more superstitious than the brave and consequently they cling more steadfastly to their heathenish beliefs, making their conversion proportionally slower.

A clear description of the mode of living to which the missionaries must resort and the irksome duties they perform were explained during the course of her remarks. At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. Horton kindly answered such questions was were propounded to her by members of the band and subsequently a vote of thanks was extended for her generous action on this occasion.

STREET COMMISIONER MAY BE APPOINTED

Members of Borough Council Favored Councilman Clark's Suggestion.

NO ACTION WAS TAKEN.

NO IMPORTANT ACTION AT BOROUGH COUNCIL LAST EVENING.

Councilman Swackhamer Was Requested to Report Certain Ordinances—Didn't Fall Back on Municipal Ownership.

Municipal ownership as a topic for serious discussion, contrary to all precedent, was neglected at the regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council, last evening, but some routine business was transacted after the councilmen had spent the usual amount of time in a social way before Mayor Smalley called for order. A matter of importance, which engaged the members' attention, culminated when the clerk was instructed to request Absentee-Councilman Swackhamer, chairman of the laws and ordinances committee, to report the proposed ordinances for a building line and a fire limit ordinance, which are needed.

A suggestion was made by Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., chairman of the street committee, that a regular street commissioner be appointed. He pointed out that although the meagre sum of $50 is appropriated, at present, for this purpose the borough is compelled to pay in the end as much as would meet the salary of a competent official, who, as he stated, would be able to devote his entire time and attention to the public thoroughfares. The idea met with favor but no definite action was taken. Attention was drawn to the fact that the license fee of the local trolley company, commencing March 1, 1902, would be advanced $50, which would bring up the amount to $250 per annum. This will be imposed at the expiration of the present license.

Bids for the proposed six bonds, in the matter of the Somerset street improvement, aggregating $3,000, had been received by Clerk Rowley. One was from a Boston banking firm, which offered to take the issue at four per cent. provided the financial standing of the borough proved to be satisfactory to the prospective customer. Mayor Smalley favored rejecting this offer, because of the condition attached, but Councilman Clark advanced the argument that the firm's communication was such as generally came up in similar transactions, and that it would be business like to entertain the offer, by communicating with the Boston people. Frank Hand, of the borough, wanted to purchase one of the bonds at four per cent., and the Mayor suggested that inasmuch as he was a resident it would be the proper thing to let him have one if it could reasonably be done. The third bid which was received offered 4¾ per cent. for the issue, but no name was announced in connection with this offer. The result of the whole discussion was that the matter was placed in the hands of the finance committee, which in connection with the Mayor and the Clerk, was empowered to act.

A resolution permitting the finance committee to borrow $6,000 for one month was passed. The election of H. Coddington as a member of Warren Engine Company was confirmed. The total amount of the claims for the month amounted to $13,238, and these were ordered to be paid, after the claims of R. A. Meeker and L. Fannce were properly sworn to, as had been suggested by Councilman Clark.

Borough Tax Collector Brown submitted the following report for November which was ordered to be filed: Receipts—Taxes, interest and sidewalks $6,091.38; board of health, $73.81; special school, $2,826.87; rebate on State tax, $24.41; E. S. Hooley, interest, $91; Frank Rowley, clerk, fines, $10; same, sale of dirt, $5; same, license, $5; balance on hand November 1, $12,894.11. Total receipts, $22,026.83; disbursements, $14,545.77; cash on hand, December 1, $7,481.06.

The total amount of expenditures during the month of November, as shown in Councilman Clark's itemized report, which was approved, aggregated $219.78.

HOPE TO SETTLE.

So the Damage Suit Against Dr. Buckley is Continued.

The trial in the damage suit against Dr. Ernest Buckley, of Orange, instituted by Pasquali Perretti, of this city, in the Second District Court, of Newark, has been continued pending a probable settlement. Nelson & Wm. N. Runyon are counsel for the defendant, while Hetfield & Hetfield are counsel of record for the plaintiff.

DAUGHTERS OF THE CROSS

GAVE SALE AT HOME OF MRS. S. ST. J. M'CUTCHEN.

Expected Profit Will Reach $100—Those Assisting at the Different Tables.

An event of more than passing interest was the sale and tea, given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, of Myrtle avenue, under the auspices of the Daughters of the Cross, of North Plainfield. It was a complete success financially as well as socially. This worthy order has never failed to give its share towards the work of the City Union of King's Daughters.

It is confidently expected that $100 will be raised as profit. Of this sum $25 was received at the door from the silver offering. At the cake table $40 was received and a like amount was received a the candy table.

Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mrs. F. H. Ball, Mrs. George T. Rogers and Mrs. Charles A. Reed received the guests. Mrs. George Dupee and Mrs. N. Felter, alternating with Mrs. Walter M. McGee and Mrs. Hugh Knox, presided at the table in the dining room.

At the cake tables, attractively arranged in the conservatory, were Mrs. J. P. Northrop, Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, Mrs. Irene S. Murray. Mrs. John Valiant, Mrs. George Hallock, Mrs. Susan L Clapp, Mrs. DeWitt C. Brokaw and Mrs. A. N. Felter were at the candy table.

HAS THE PROOF.

Chief Kiely Says That There is no Doubt That Allen Was Plainfield's Burglar.

Chief Kiely paid a second visit to Trenton yesterday and obtained proof which he claims establishes the guilt of Thomas Allen in connection with Plainfield robberies.

At Hightstown the Chief secured jewelry in pawnshops stolen from the homes of Craig A. Marsh, D. E. Titsworth and others. The tickets taken from the Clinton Avenue and Netherwood stations were found among his effects. He also learned that Allen had sold watches to local jewellers which had been resold and cannot be recovered.

SALE OF PICTURES.

Held at Residence of Mrs. R. A. Meeker, Yesterday.

An exhibition and sale of oil and water colors, minature, pastel and tapestry paintings from the brush of Mrs. R. A. Meeker and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop, was held yesterday afternoon and evening at the home of the former on West Front street.

The display included paintings in a wide variety of subjects. The tapesties were especially noticeable while a reproduction of Rosa Bonheur's "Horse Fair" occasioned much favorable comment. A display of decorated chinaware also attracted much attention.

Getting Ready For Sale.

A meeting of the sewing circle of the German Reformed church's Ladies' Aid Society was held at the home of Mrs. J. Angerbauer, of East Third street, Thursday afternoon. There was a large attendance of the members and arrangements were made for the sale, which will be held by the organization in January.

Settlement for Fire.

William Newcorn has effected a settlement of the fire loss on the home of Max Michaelson, of Warren street, which was badly damaged by fire several weeks ago. At the time of the fire the firemen from North Plainfield were at the firemen's parade at Elizabeth. The settlement was for $244.65.

Mr. Atterbury's Concert.

The fifth subscription concert under the direction of Albert H. Atterbury will be given in the Casino Thursday evening, December 12. It will commence at 8:15 o'clock.

Household Goods Attacked.

The household goods of Frank Mathieu, of West End Park, have been attached by Constable Weaver on a destraining order issued for a rent bill.

SWEENEY WAS NOT RELEASED

Justice Moffett Held Him for Grand Jury on Charge of Embezzlement.

HEARING THIS MORNING

A. A. Stryker and His Tenant Both Testified—Sweeney Did Not Go on the Stand—Bail Set at $500—He Was Taken to Elizabeth.

At police headquarters this morning, Law Student William Sweeney was held by Justice Moffett for the Grand Jury on a charge of embezzlement preferred by Arthur A. Stryker. Bail was fixed at $500. Unable to secure it he was taken to Elizabeth.

Assistant Prosecutor James English, of Elizabeth, conducted the hearing and produced only two witnesses. They were Srtyker, the complainant, and his tenant, William H. Aspinwall, of West Seventh street, from Sweeney collected rent. Stryker's evidence was that Sweeney had been empowered to collect rent, the amounts to go on a note of $700 held by the First National Bank, against Stryker,. He declared that out of four months rent paid by his tenant but $38 had been paid to the bank.

On cross examination by Sweeney's counsel, Robert M. Clark, Stryker admitted asking the defendant for some of the rent for his own use contrary to his agreement with the bank.

r. Aspinwall exhibited receipts for the rent he had paid Sweeney. Sweeney did not testify. If indicted by the Grand Jury Sweeney will be tried in the court of Sessions in February.

THEIR FIRST APPEARANCE.

Recital Event of Interest in Local Musical Circles.

What promises to be an event of much interest is the recital of Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis, soprano, and Miss Saidee Mae Howell, pianist, at the Casino, Monday night. They will be assisted by Miss Mae Colt, of New Haven, in readings and elocutionary achievements and Hobart Smock, the famous tenor of All Angel's Episcopal church, New York, in choice vocal selections.

Much interest is being displayed by the friends of the young women and the many excellent features of the programme to be presented, will undoubtedly be splendidly rendered. Tickets may be obtained of the patronesses of the affair, of Miss Willis and Miss Howell, or at the Casino in the evening.

Bound to the Philippines.

Mrs. S. B. Pearson, of Watchung avenue, left Plainfield today to join her husband, Lieut. Pearson, who is stationed near Manila. She will go to Washington, thence to SanFrancisco by rail, then by steamer to Manila. She expects to reach her destination about the holiday season.

Obtained a Divorce.

Mrs. Mary Kerr, of Wilson avenue, has obtained a divorce from her husband, John W. Kerr, in the Chemung county, N. Y., court, on the ground of desertion, and has been given the custody of her child, Harry Kerr, and the right to use her maiden name, Miss Mary E. Canfield.

Christmas Box.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinsty Reformed church has sent a Christmas box to a western Sunday-school, each member of which will receive a gift and a box of candy. The band also sent a large box of jelly to Rev. Mr. Roe, at Colony, Oklahoma.

Complainant Didn't Appear.

The complaint of assault and battery preferred against John Neylon by Charles Sauerracker was dismissed this morning by Justice Hand. The complainant failed to appear and Neylon's counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, asked for his client's discharge.

Special Agent.

Lewis R. Bird, of 41 Summit avenue, is special agent of the Aetna Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn. This company is one of the strongest insurance concerns in existence.

A Month for a Tramp.

Lawrence Kenney, a tramp, was sentenced by City Judge Runyon, this morning to thirty days in jail. He was arrested on Watchung avenue, last night, by Roundsman Flynn.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

Thanks for Donations.

Kindly allow me through your paper to thank all the friends whose generous gifts made Thanksgiving Day a delight at the Home. The gifts of the North Plainfield public schools alone made quite a "Harvest Home." M. E. Kimball.

Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is an old friend in a new form. It is prepared for the particular benefit of sufferers from nasal catarrh who are used to an atomizer in spraying the diseased membranes. TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Among Plainfield's lovers of photography is Miss McClure, of Crescent avenue. She has for some time past been interested in the art and she has attained a perfection that has brought her distinction and praise. Numbered among her collection of photos are some of the finest specimens to be found anywhere among amateurs, and her work has been highly complimented by experts.

The Furniture World, a periodical devoted to the interests of furniture dealers, in its December number, has the following deserved commendatory notice of Woodhull & Martin's furniture department: "One of the prettiest furniture departments in Plainfield, N. J., is the department of John B. Vanderhoef, buyer for Woodhull & Martin's department store. It is one of the busiest departments in the whole establishment and Mr. Vanderhoef, who is popular with everybody, keeps his store right up to the mark, and carries a much finer line of goods than general department stores usually carry in the same sized towns."

THEATRICAL.

Grace George, whose first performance of Lottie Blair Parker's "Under Southern Skies" proved her to be possessed of a genuine success, is attracting very large audiences to the Theatre Republic, in New York. Oscar Hammerstein's comfortable up town house has been crowded to the doors nightly. The reason for this unquestionably is to be found in popular endorsement of the newspaper commendation which followed the opening, since the most enthusiastic criticism unsupported could not be responsible for business so extraordinary. As has been said often, "Under Southern Skies" is by the author of, "Way Down East," though the two pieces have few points of similarity. The form is a picture of Louisiana life in 1875, brimful of mirth and melody and motion. Pretty girls celebrating one festive occasion or another, gaily attired young men and plantation negroes occupy the stage from the rise to the fall of the curtain. With this quaint and charmingly typical background, to the convincing story of the play is the more interesting. Lelia Crofton, who is impersonated by Miss George, is in love with Burleigh Mavor, who, in turn, is enamored of her. She is convinced by an unprincipled suitor, Steve Daubeney, that she must espouse him in order to save the reputation of her family. She finally consents to the marriage but at the last moment, in a scene that has been bringing eighteen and twenty curtain calls every evening, she renounces him and returns to the man of her choice.

Of Benefit to You.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Iron and Steel Unchanged — Wool Market Active.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Although nominal quotations of iron and steel are unchanged, figures refer only to future deliveries, and in most cases prices for current shipment command a considerable premium. Since this margin is influenced by local conditions at the various mills and furnaces, besides being further complicated by scarcity of freight cars and strikes, it is almost impossible to arrive at a fairly representative price level. In general, however, the tone is distinctly firmer, with especial scarcity of billets and further importations.

Activity and strength are conspicuous in the markets for domestic wool. Coates Bros.' circular makes the average of a hundred grades 17.51 cents, which is the best price recorded since May. Concessions are not secured by purchasers, but, on the other hand, holders grow more confident.

Cotton goods are in better request, but mills delay new undertakings because of the sudden rise in raw material, and if it is sustained there will probably be a new price list of prints. Coarse colored cottons are selling well, largely for export. Local dry goods jobbers report large mail orders.

Staple products continue advancing, corn making a most sensational gain. Extraordinary high prices for this cereal tempted many traders to sell future contracts in expectation of a sharp reaction, but a further violent rise to the highest price for many years compelled covering at severe losses. This grain is not governed by precedent, the smallest exports for many years failing to produce any effect. Shipments from Atlantic ports for the week reached the lowest point since 1894, amounting to only 278,215 bushels against 6,336,715 last year. Wheat was also sharply advanced to the best price of the season, largely through sympathy with corn, for which it is freely substituted.

Marconi at St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 7.—William Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, arrived here yesterday on the Allan line steamer Sardinian. He is accompanied by two assistants and brings two portable balloons which will be employed in suspending the wires used in making the experiments. Mr. Marconi will probably select the signal hill overlooking St. John's, which is topped with the Cabot Memorial tower and is 600 feet high, as a site for his station instead of Cape Race, as previously reported. Mr. Marconi expects to transmit messages for 400 miles, reaching ships in midocean. He will spend three or four weeks in experimenting here.

The Viceroy of Chili's Errand.

PEKING, Dec. 7.—The principal object of the visit to Peking of Yuan Shi Kai, the new viceroy of Chili, who arrived here Dec. 3, is to induce the foreign powers to relinquish their control of the government of Tientsin. Yuan Shi Kai has assured all the ministers of the foreign powers here that he is personally able and willing to maintain order at Tientsin and in the province. The Russian, American and Japanese ministers are inclined to comply with this suggestion of the viceroy, but the majority of the foreign representatives insist that the powers retain control of Tientsin until the re-establishment of the Chinese court at Peking.

A Successful St. Louis Raid.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—The Southern Telegraph and Money Order company was raided yesterday afternoon by a squad of detectives and police. The rooms of the company were crowded when the squad appeared, and every occupant of the place was taken. In all eight wagon loads of men were taken to the four courts. The raid was made under the order of the police board, the allegation being that the place was a poolroom. Prosecution will follow under "the common nuisance law," the recent prosecution under the Missouri breeders' law having proved a failure in the courts.

Lottery Goods Seized.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—A box containing Mexican lottery goods has been seized at an express office at the South Terminal station. The goods were consigned to the agent of the Mexican Lottery company at Portland, Me., and had been sent from St. Louis. Chief Inspector Evans and two postal inspectors claimed the box. It contained several thousand copies of last month's drawings for distribution to New England investors.

Kansas City Next Year.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—After a spirited contest between the friends of Portland, Or., and Kansas City, Mo., the National Live Stock association closed a successful convention by selecting the latter city as the place for the next convention. This convention will begin the second Tuesday in January, 1903. The vote ended with 821 in favor of Kansas City and 555 for Portland. It was made unanimous.

Crazy Snake Did Not See President.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. — Crazy Snake of the Creek Indian nation in Indian Territory and others of his faction reached here yesterday and called at the White House and the interior department. They failed to see the president. Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones advised them to return home. Crazy Snake and his followers made serious trouble at the agency some months ago.

Zero Weather.

TROY, N. Y., Dec. 7.—The thermometers in this city and vicinity yesterday registered from 10 to 15 degrees below zero. Several cases of suffering from exposure have been reported, but none has resulted fatally.

ISLAND SUBJUGATION

General Chaffee's Report on Philippine Military Affairs.

REASONS FOR PROLONGED FIGHTING

Physical Condition of the Country Treachery of the Natives and Humanity of Our Troops Among the Causes Assigned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The war department has made public the first annual report of Major General Adna R. Chaffee, military governor of the Philippine Islands. General Chaffee sums up the situation in the Philippines from a military point of view by stating that the provinces of Batangas and Laguna, in Luzon, and the islands of Samar, Mindoro, Cebu and Bohol constitute the area now disturbed by any embodied force of insurgents. He says that to the physical character of the country, to the nature of the warfare of the rebels, who are amigo and foe in the self same hour, to the humanity of the troops, which is taken advantage of by the rebels and the inhabitants who sympathize with them, and to the fear of assassination on the part of the friendly disposed if they give information to the American forces is due the prolongation of the guerrilla warfare.

Commenting upon the plan of gradually replacing military with civil administration, General Chaffee says:

"The withdrawal of interference with civil affairs does not contemplate withdrawal of the troops from their stations to any considerable extent. On the contrary, this should not be done hastily, and when undertaken should be gradual and more in the nature of concentration than reduction of force or abandonment of any considerable area of territory." He therefore recommends that there be no further material reduction of troops before January, 1903. The civil governments which are being organized, provincial and municipal, General Chaffee says, are both new and untried, and there is but one certain and reliable method of ascertaining the progress of the Filipinos in self government—namely, observation by the army. On the subject of the military government of the city of Manila General Chaffee says: "In the government of Manila for three years, if the military have done nothing more, it is everywhere apparent that an excellent foundation has been laid and a turbulent and hostile community brought to observe the laws and individually be orderly. This has been done without undue harshness or severity of treatment of the inhabitants."

In anticipation of a partial concentration of the troops in the Philippines next year General Chaffee submits estimates of cost for the construction of quarters and barracks.

General Chaffee devotes a good part of his report to the terrible disaster which befell Company C, Ninth Infantry, at Balangiga, Samar, and which he says was "largely due to overconfidence in assumed pacified conditions and in a people who to a great extent as yet are strangers to and unappreciative of our humane and personal liberty, beliefs and actions."

American soldiers, he says, fail to discriminate between real and assumed friendship on the part of the Filipinos.

A table is submitted showing that since June 10 last, the date of the last table submitted by General MacArthur, up to Sept. 15, 361 Filipino officers and 3,638 men surrendered to the American military, and 26 officers and 494 men were captured.

Canadian Skaters Drowned.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 7.—Miss Bessie Blair, daughter of Hon. A. G. Blair, minister of railways and canals, and Mr. H. A. Harper, assistant editor of The Labor Gazette, were drowned in the Ottawa river last evening. They were at a private skating party and, getting separated a little distance from the others, broke through the ice at a point where the river is swift. Mr. Creelman, a bank clerk, was rescued in an unconscious condition by Mr. Treadgold, another member of the party. Creelman broke through the ice while trying to assist Harper and Miss Blair. Miss Blair's parents are at Clifton Springs, N. Y.

Longshoremen's Trouble Settled.

CLEVLAND, O., Dec. 7.—President Keefe of the Longshoremen's union states that an agreement has been reached between the longshoremen and the dock managers, but that the particulars of the agreement will not be announced until they are ratified. It is stated that the men will receive an advance on several kinds of work, but that otherwise the scale of wages will remain unchanged.

The German Budget.

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—The budget bill was submitted to the reichstag yesterday. The estimates for revenue and expenditure balance at 2,349,742,456 marks. Count von Bulow, the imperial chancellor, is authorized to borrow 182,058,945 marks for the meeting of various items of nonrecurring and extraordinary expenditure.

Lot Provided For Carnegie Library.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Dec. 7.—Hubert P. Bishop, a wealthy resident, announces that he will present the town with a lot valued at $10,000 for a library. Andrew Carnegie had agreed to erect a handsome library providing a suitable site was procured.

Spring Elections Abolished.

MALONE, N. Y., Dec. 7.—The Franklin county board of supervisors has voted to abolish the spring town elections in Franklin county and elect town officers in the fall in connection with the regular state ticket.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Speaker Henderson Announces Three of Importance.

PAYNE HEADS WAYS AND MEANS.

Majority Representation Increased In Each Case—Fleming of Georgia Asks Investigation of Massachusetts Elections.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The house adjourned until Tuesday after Speaker Henderson announced the following committees:

Ways and means—Payne (N. Y.), Dalzell (Pa.), Hopkins (Ills.), Grosvenor (O.), Russell (Conn.), Steele (Ind.), Tawney (Mich.), McCall (Mass.), Long (Kan.), Babcock (Wis.), Metcalf (Cal.), Republicans; Richardson (Tex.), Robertson (La.), Swanson (Va.), McClellan, (N. Y.), Newlands (Nev.), Cooper (Tex.), Democrats.

Appropriations—Cannon (Ill.), Bingham (Pa.), Hemenway (Ind.), Barney (Wis.), Moody (Mass.), Van Voorhis (O.), McCleary (Minn.), Littauer (N. Y.), Browlow (Tenn.), Gardner (Mich.), Burkett (Neb.), Republicans; Livingston (Ga.), McRea (Ark.), Bell (Colo.), Pierce (Tenn.), Benton (Mo.), Taylor (Ala.), Democrats.

Enrolled bills—Wachter (Md.), Ball (Del.), Burk, (Pa.), Currier (N. H.), Republicans; Lloyd (Mo.), Edwards (Mon), Democrats.

In each of the committees announced the majority representation was increased one and the minority represenation reduced to that extent. This policy is to be followed in the appointment of the other committees.

The proposition of Mr. Moody (Mass.) for a congressional investigation of the right of Louisiana members of congress to hold their seats has drawn a rejoinder from Representative Fleming of Georgia, who presented a resolution for the investigation of the right of the Massachusetts members of congress to hold their seats.

Mr. Moody's resolution asserted that a certain class of voters were disfranchised in Louisiana, thus invalidating the election of Louisiana representatives. Mr. Fleming's resolution in part recites: "Whereas the constitution of the state of Massachusetts, in contravention of the provision of the federal constitution, imposes additional qualifications for suffrage by declaring that no person shall have the right to vote who shall not be able to read the constitution in the English language and write his name, therefore when the said select committee shall be appointed it shall be charged with the further duty of inquiring and reporting by bill or otherwise whether the representatives from the state of Massachusetts are entitled to membership in this house and whether the number of representatives from said state should not be reduced."

Exposition's Progress.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 7.—Captain Brownson and the other officers of the warships Alabama and Massachusetts were the guests of the exposition company yesterday. The entire government exhibit which was at Buffalo probably will be sent here. All of the exhibits with the exception of those from the war department, the postoffice department and the Smithsonian institution already have arrived. Commodore Thomas Williamson, retired, has charge of the work of superintending the installation of the naval exhibits. Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson will be stationed here in charge of them.

Another Cropsey Story.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A Post special from Norfolk, Va., quotes Chief of Police M. J. Vellines of that city as saying that he knows Miss Nellie Cropsey to be alive and well, but that in view of the importance of the case he cannot disclose any information regarding her whereabouts at this time. The missing girl, the chief says, came to Norfolk Friday morning, Nov. 22, via the Seaboard Air Line and afterward went beyond Norfolk. When she landed in Norfolk she was unaccompanied by any one.

Large Stores of Tobacco Burned.

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 7.—Fire here totally destroyed the leaf plant of John E. Hughes & Co. and Brown's storage warehouse, with contents. Hughes & Co. occupied two factories belonging to Dibbrell Bros.' leaf plant and Banner filled with leaf tobacco, in hogsheads and loose. The storage warehouse contained 500 hogsheads of leaf belonging to the American Tobacco company. Dibbrell Bros'. leaf plant and Banner warehouse and a dwelling were slightly damaged. Total loss will exceed $130,000.

Cannot Use Defense Fund.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The treasury comptroller, Tracewell, in an opinion rendered, holds that the balance of the fifty million dollar national defense fund cannot be used for any purpose. There now remains about $300,000 of this fund, and the government is anxious to use it for payments on contracts entered into before the end of the last fiscal year. The comptroller holds that no payments can be made except under a new appropriation by congress.

Daily Riots at Prague.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—"Thousands of the starving unemployed are rioting daily at Prague," telegraphs the Vienna correspondent of The Daily Mail, "and strong forces of police are preserving order there."

Favor Immigration Restriction.

MELBOURNE, Dec. 7.—The immigration restriction bill, which excludes from Australia all persons who cannot speak a European language, has passed the commonwealth senate.

SLOW WORK AT CITY OF MEXICO.

United States Delegates Trying to Hasten Pan-American Conference.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 7.—The unsatisfactory progress of the work of the pan-American congress caused the United States delegation to meet President Raigosa to discuss with him in general what means should be taken for expediting business. Various plans were talked over, but nothing definite was done. The suggestions made covered the following points:

To hold five instead of three sessions per week.

To recommend greater punctuality in attendance.

At present, though 10 o'clock is the nominal hour for assembling the conference, it is generally near 11 o'clock before the sessions begin. This tardiness is a great hardship to the United States delegates, for as ex-Senator Davis, chairman of the delegation, insists on every member of the delegation being at the place of meeting on time they lose nearly an hour waiting.

To suppress the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, which usually occupies nearly half an hour.

It is pointed out that as minutes are printed it is easy for any member to call attention to any error which he desires rectified.

Lastly, to introduce a change in the rules so that unimportant amendments or suggestions will not cause reports to be sent back to committees.

Work of the Labor Convention.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 7.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor disposed of considerable routine business yesterday. Two sessions were held. The afternoon was adjourned an hour earlier so that the committees which were announced by President Gompers could organize and take up the work that has been laid out for them. There was a full attendance of delegates, and business was transacted without a hitch or much discussion except in the matter of a contested seat of a St. Louis delegate. This, however, did not amount to much, although the discussion was quite lengthy. The overshadowing feature of the day was the able address of Edward F. McSweeney, deputy commissioner of immigration at the port of New York, on the subject of immigration. He spoke for more than an hour and was generously applauded for the great amount of information that he gave the delegates.

Compelled Sweetheart to Steal.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 7.—Walter Cavanaugh, who forced his sweetheart, Daisy Wheeler, a seventeen-year-old girl, to steal $1,200 in pension money from her widowed mother and flee with him to Chicago, was found guilty in the criminal court here and given a five years' penitentiary sentence. Cavanaugh was convicted on testimony given by the girl, who said that he had furnished the key to the bureau in which Mrs. Wheeler had secreted the money and commanded her to steal it. She objected, she said, and gave way only when he pleaded, "If you love me, you'll do it." In Chicago Cavanaugh was robbed of the money, and later the couple were arrested there. The girl was yesterday given a reform school sentence, but was paroled after the judge had administered a lecture.

Fire In Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Dec. 7.—Fire broke out in the large dry goods store of Langfeld Bros. in this city last evening, and the flames spread so rapidly that the building and large stock were entirely destroyed. The clothing stores of Simon Long's Sons and Weitzenkorn Bros. adjoining were also badly damaged. The total loss will be about $135,000. A spark from a broken electric light wire in one of the show windows of the dry goods store is said to have started the fire.

Swimming Records Broken.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7. — E. Caroll Schaeffer of Reading, Pa., the national swimming champion, last night at the Sportsman's show created new records for twenty and forty yards and lowered the record for sixty and eighty yards. Schaeffer finished first in an eighty yard swimming contest, with Guy Daly of Pittsburg second. Schaeffer's time for the eighty yards was 50 4-5 seconds, lowering the record by three-fifths of a second.

Sixty-five Poisoned at a Wedding.

PRAIRIE DU SAC, Wis., Dec. 7.—Sixty-five persons were poisoned at a wedding feast at the home of John Mulky at West Point, near this place. It is believed there was poison in the coffee. Physicians were summoned from Lodi, and after several hours' work hope was given that all would recover. Some of the coffee has been sent to a chemist to be examined.

Miss Stone's Surrender Rumored.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Sofia says that the surrender at Salonika of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, and her companion, Mme. Tsilka, is impending.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Forty Turkish soldiers were killed in a fight with tribesmen in Arabia.

Open approval of McKinley's assassination was expressed at a Chicago meeting.

A railway station at Frankfort, Germany, was wrecked by a train which jumped the track.

The Peruvian chamber of deputies has sanctioned a gold standard law which had passed the senate.

A temperature of 15 to 33 degrees below zero was reported in various localities in New York and New England.

The navy department was informed that the gunboat Vicksburg, about which anxiety had been felt, is safe in China.

THE LAW'S DELAY.

Franchise Tax Case Must Wait Four Years For Decision.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Although former Judge Robert Earl has just completed the taking of evidence in the franchise tax cases which have been referred to him as referee, it is probable that a final decision in this litigation will not be reached until early in the year 1903. These cases include appeals from assessments placed on the important franchises of railroad, gas, electric light and other classes of corporations operating in New York city, they having joined in a united action to overthrow the law on the grounds of unconstitutionality or to modify their assessments on the contention that their franchises have been overvalued. The attorneys for the state and the corporations will make their closing arguments before Judge Earl in this city on Jan. 3 and 4.

Judge Earl will probably submit a report of his findings to Supreme Court Justice D. Cady Herrick, by whom he was appointed referee early in February. Justice Herrick will pass on the report, and from his decision an appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court will be taken. Arguments will be made before that court at its September term, as it is not likely that it can be reached before that time.

In that event the cases cannot be presented to the court of appeals before December, 1902, or January, 1903; hence fully a year will elapse before the highest court of the state will decide whether the franchise tax act is constitutional or not and if constitutional its scope of application. The law was enacted in 1899, and it will thus be nearly four years from that time before it can be made an effective statute or overthrown on the question of unconstitutionality.

If the law is upheld, the corporations will be called upon to pay the franchise taxes of four years, which in some cases will be an enormous sum.

Engine's Fatal Plunge.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 7.—Yesterday a Canadian Pacific freight train was passing east at a slow rate around a dangerous curve 400 feet above the Frazer river, when Engineer Randall suddenly came upon a rock slide scarcely fifty yards ahead of him. A signal was given to the brakemen, and the engineer reversed, but it was too late. The train was going scarcely five miles an hour, but the heavy train behind piled the engine on the rock, and before the engineer and firemen could jump the engine rolled over and over 300 feet down the bluff to the river. Engineer Randall and Fireman Potruff were crushed to death beneath the engine. Three cars were wrecked, going over the bank after the engine. Traffic was delayed six hours.

Railway Wreck In Oregon.

PORTLAND, Or., Dec. 7.—The eastbound passenger train on the Oregon Railway and Navigation line which left this city at 9 a. m. was wrecked twelve miles east of the Dalles yesterday afternoon. The engine turned completely over, and the mail car left the track. The composite sleeper and diner also left the track, but remained upright. The other cars, including a private car containing Colonel R. C. Clowry, general superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph company, and his party, remained on the track. Engineer Maurice Cavanaugh was badly scalded and perhaps internally injured. Fireman Frank Crase was seriously injured.

Celebrated Vermont Case Ended.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Dec. 7.—One of the famous cases in Vermont has come to an ending in court. James H. Livingston, editor of the Bennington Reformer, independent Democratic in politics, had sued former Governor Carroll S. Page of Hyde Park for editorial and other services in advocacy of Mr. Page as a candidate for nomination as congressman from the Second district in 1900. The trial was begun, but Judge Rowell suddenly terminated it by ordering a verdict for Mr. Page on the ground that the alleged contract was illegal and against public morals.

The Sullivan Combination Disbands.

FOR THREE MURDERS

Nurse Toppan Is Indicted at Barnstable, Mass.

SHE IS COMMITTED WITHOUT BAIL

Woman Charged With Having Given Poison to Patients In Her Care Shows Signs of Distress When Brought Into Court.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., Dec. 7.—The grand jury found three indictments for murder against Miss Jane Toppan. The accused nurse was brought into court at 3:50 p. m. by Sheriff Percival, accompanied by her counsel.

The prisoner showed signs of extreme nervousness and was on the point of collapse going from the jail to the courthouse.

The sight of several of the witnesses who had testified against her caused her great mental distress. She appeared like one dazed and had to be helped into the court.

She was taken to a seat in the prisoners' row and sank into a chair as if she was ready to give up the struggle.

She pleaded not guilty to all three charges in a voice hardly audible.

Jane Toppan is charged with having caused the deaths of Miss Mary D. Gibbs, Mrs. Annie E. Gordon and Mr. A. T. Davis.

She was committed to jail without bail.

The jury assembled in the morning at 9 o'clock, the members coming from nearly all the towns along Cape Cod, and when their names were called it was found that twenty-two of the twenty-three had reported. Chief Justice Mason of the superior court presided, and after a prayer by one of the local clergymen, it being a formal opening of the court, the judge dismissed the jury in the care of the district attorney. The jury immediately filed down stairs to the courtroom in which Miss Toppan was arraigned after her arrest last month. The first witness was Professor E. S. Wood of Harvard university, an expert chemist, who has been one of the government's strongest witnesses in nearly every murder case in the state during the past ten years. It is understood that Professor Wood laid before the jury the result of his chemical analysis of the intestines of Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Gordon and Mr. Davis. According to the indictment Professor Wood found strong traces of morphine and atrophine. His testimony was substantiated by Dr. A. P. Whitney, who assisted him in his examination. Then followed General Whitney, the state officer; Mrs. Beulah Jacobs, who was an inmate of the Davis house at Cataumet, and O. A. Brigham of Lowell, whose wife's mother adopted Miss Toppan.

Molineux Must Stand Second Trial.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Roland B. Molineux's motion to have quashed the indictment under which he stands accused of having murdered Mrs. Kate J. Adams was denied yesterday by Judge Newburger in part 1, general sessions. The judge held that if the judges of the court of appeals had considered the indictment faulty they would have said so and ordered the liberation of the accused. Instead they ordered a new trial of the defendant under the old indictment. The alternate motion of Molineux's attorneys asking for an inspection of the grand jury minutes was denied on the ground that Judge Blanchard had already ruled adversely on this point. Had Molineux's motion prevailed he would have walked out of the Tombs a free man.

The Death List Growing.

MALVERN, Ark., Dec. 7.—Five more deaths have occurred as a result of the headend collision between two passenger trains on the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railroad near here Thursday night. Maggie Stevenson, colored, of Landersville, Ala., died from injuries received in the wreck. Two colored children, names not known, who had been riding on the front end of the baggage car on the fast mail southbound train, were found dead in the wreckage. It is supposed they were sawmill hands. None of the white passengers injured in the collision will die.

An Arkansas Hanging.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 7.—"Bud" Wilson, the convict who killed R. H. Naylor, a guard of the Yell county convict camp last December, was hanged at Danville. Twenty minutes after the trap was sprung the body was lowered into a coffin. Before the lid was placed upon the coffin the body began moving about. Wilson opened his eyes, and his whole frame shivered. He was taken from the coffin by the deputies and carried up the steps to the scaffold for the purpose of hanging him again, but no further signs of life were manifested.

Troops on Guard at Andalusia.

ANDALUSIA, Ala., Dec. 7.—The governor sent troops last night to aid Sheriff Bradshaw in protecting the negro rioters in jail here, and the town is under martial law. The sheriff is fearing an attack at any moment by a mob from Opp and is prepared to protect his prisoners at all hazards. Three negroes, names unknown, were caught and killed by a posse of citizens near Opp yesterday for alleged implication in the riot, and the whole country is in arms against the negroes.

A Football Fatality.

ASHLAND, Pa., Dec. 7.—William Ogara of Shamokin, who had his back broken in a football game on Saturday, is dead in the hospital. He was twenty-one years of age. Edward Kelly, also of Shamokin, who had two ribs broken and was otherwise badly hurt in the same game, is expected to recover.

THE CITY NURSE.

There are a number of very worthy local charities which are supported by the people of Plainfield. It is doubtful, however, if there is any one which accomplishes any more good for the small amount expended that the plan now conducted by the City Union of King's Daughters. It is the support of a city nurse who shall assist in the care of the sick and suffering where there is a lack of means to supply such provision.

When in good health, one is ready and willing to put up with a good many privations. Sound body and rugged constitution can laugh at many troubles. It is when illness comes into the home, that the little comforts and even necessities are sorely missed. It is to provide for just such occasions that the city nurse has been engaged and has carried on her work in this city.

The funds necessary for the support of the city nurse have been contributed by the various Circles of King's Daughters throughout the city and borough. In many ways, they have raised the money for this worthy object. A number of entertainments and sales will be given this winter for this same object. When they take place, the people of Plainfield will do well to remember the wonderful good which the city nurse has already accomplished and how much more she can do if the funds for her support are forthcoming.

Every year when the mercury begins to fall and the ponds are covered with a layer of ice, the need is felt by the young people of Plainfield of some place where they may enjoy good skating. It is unfortunate that there is no nearby body of water where the young people can amuse themselves and not intrefere with the commercial interests of anyone. Even such a small town as Somerville owns a public skating pond large enough to accommodate all who desire to skate there and takes the trouble to illuminate it by night. A small fee is charged there to cover the expense. It would really be an act of public benefaction if someone would supply Plainfield with such a skating pond, and keep it in condition. There are hundreds who would gladly pay the fee if they were assured of a good and orderly place to enjoy that most delightful of winter pleasures.

The large "ads" in the Sunday newspapers have made Monday a busy day in the stores, whereas formerly it was the dullest, comments the Philadelphia Record. In a large store in St. Louis the Monday crowds have been enormously increased by the original announcement in a Sunday newspaper that on that day each manager of a department would be allowed the complete control of his section without being responsible to anybody — to fix prices as well as choose what goods to display.

If the Plainfield police succeed in securing the conviction of Thomas Allen, the young colored man arrested in Princeton, as the man who robbed so many Plainfield homes a twelve-month ago, it will be an achievement well worthy of praise. That series of burglaries caused a decided stir and there was a general demand that the police run the culprit to earth. If that is done, Plainfield householders will have a decidedly stronger feeling of security than heretofore.

For a young man of his age, there is probably no one who has figured so prominently before the public eye in Plainfield than William Sweeney. In his case there seems to have been no doubt that the man made the circumstances. At present, he is passing through an experience of a far more serious nature than any of his previous ones.

For once in its existence, it really looks as of Elizabeth was going to get ahead of Plainfield. The Elizabeth Water Company is preparing to put in water meters. So far, the Plainfield Water Supply Company has not taken any step in that direction. If the people of this city will continue, however, to importune the water company, the desired result will be brought about in time.

The completion of the improvements to the city sewage disposal beds will be watched with interest by every Plainfielder. They have cost the city a good deal of money but, if they prove successful, they will be fully worth the price that was paid. Everyone will be anxious to know just how fully the expectations of the Common Council will be fulfilled.

During the last year, there has been a decided increase in the trade at the local stores. The people of Plainfield have come to recognize that they can obtain what they want from the local merchants without going to New York. The merchants who went to the expense of getting the best now feel well repaid and are preparing to offer an even greater variety during the holiday season now at hand.

An unusally long list of attractions has been arranged at the Park Club this winter. The informal dances given at that club have been remarkably popular with the society people of city and borough and are always well attended. Another one of these dances will be held tonight and the usual large attendance may be expected.

That excellent cut of James E. Martine and his home at Cedar Brook Farm, which was published in yesterday's Daily Press, was loaned by the Newark Sunday News. It appeared in that newspaper two weeks ago. The Daily Press is indebted to its progressive neighbor for the courtesy.

This truancy question is one which is going to have an important influence on the next generation. If the small boys can be made to study and improve their minds, the next generation will undoubtedly be much the gainer.

FIXING BENEFITS.

Commissioners Will Soon Meet to Discuss Somerset St. Damages.

Notices of the resolution passed by the Borough Council regarding the fixing of the time and place for the interested citizens to meet the Commissioners of Assessment in the matter of fixing the benefits have been served on the residents of Somerset street by Borough Clerk Frank Rowley. The commissioners will meet in the Council chamber Wednesday, December 18, when all parties will be heard.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. Safe pills. L. W. Randolph.

Slipped on Ice.

A horse, belonging to Marchant Bros., of Watchung avenue, slipped and fell on the icy streets, Wednesday morning, and broke the shafts of the milk wagon to which it was hitched. The horse escaped injury.

DUNELLEN.

The funeral of the late Suydam Sutphen, who died suddenly Tuesday, took place yesterday morning at 10:15 from his late residence on Sutphen place. The funeral was attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the deceased. Rev. N. J. Sproul preached the sermon. The pall-bearers were Stephen Mullen, Hugh Mullen, A. P. Sutphen, R. A. Staats, Peter Gulick, Arthur Gaston and A. N. Randolph. Interment was made in Somerville. There were a number of beautiful floral offerings.

The Dunellen Crokinole Circle has reorganized for the coming season and the first meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Hamilton next Friday evening. The meeting was to have been held Tuesday, but was postponed. At the meeting the members are supposed to represent various well-known characters of the day, such as Croker, Aguinaldo and Carrie Nation.

Tomorrow will be the first anniversary of the pastorship of Rev. N. J. Sproul over the Presbyterian church and appropriate services will be held at both morning and evening services. The pastor will preach on both occasions.

Special advent services were held in Holy Innocents church last night. These meetings will be held every Friday throughout advent. The subject last night was "Emmanuel."

Miss Anna Cooper, who is to start an elocution class in town, gave several recitations before the Whittier School children yesterday afternoon.

Return tickets for New Brunswick on the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company's line will shortly be placed on sale in the borough.

The children from the Whittier and Lincoln Schools will commence practice next week for the coming Christmas entertainment.

The crushing of stone at Garretson & Gray's stone crusher was resumed yesterday but the roads are too slippery for carting.

A large number from here attended the art exhibition and sale by Mrs. Meeker and Mrs. Wynkoop in Plainfield last evening.

Mrs. W. J. Hamilton and children, of Dunellen avenue, are visiting out of town friends for a few days.

Mrs. William Grieves and son, Howard, of Brooklyn, spent yesterday with Mrs. Edmund Teel.

Mrs. Anna Marlon has been confined to the house for the past few days by a severe attack of malaria.

Edward Craig is suffering with a sore eye, the result of some lime getting in it.

An electric light at the corner of Centre street and New Market road is broken.

Firman Gise has had a new steam boiler installed in the cellar of his home.

Ludlow V. Frazee has finished painting the interior of W. H. Terry's house.

Henry Garretson made a business trip to New Brunswick yesterday.

Mrs. W. J. Hamilton and children are visiting out of town friends.

Mrs. John Herbert spent yesterday in Jersey City visiting her son.

Mrs. Arthur Gaston is entertaining out of town friends.

The checker club met with W. H. Cole last evening.

NEW MARKET.

From present indications it looks as if the ordinance prohibiting skating on ponds where the ice is harvested is not going to be enforced very strictly. No stakes have been set out marking the part of the pond to be cut and a large crowd was on the pond yesterday and skated over all parts.

It is expected that William Bird, who has been ill for a long time at the home of his brother Howard, will be well enough in a short time to go to California, where he hopes to regain his full health.

There was a small keroene oil famine in his place, last night. The supply in all the stores ran out at about the same time and till a new supply could be obtained oil was at a premium.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coskey are expected home this afternoon from their wedding trip. If they do come the members of the brass band will give him a serenade in the evening.

The Father Lights Society, of the Frst Baptist church, is holding a meeting this afternoon.

Mrs. J. W. Dent is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Fredericks, of Catawyssa, Pa.

William Tabb has secured a position with C. E. Kelly & Co.

Miss Cora S. Dayton spent yesterday in New York.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The patent medicine company, which was booked for a two weeks stay at Excelsior Hall, closed their engagement last night, although their two weeks were not up until Monday. The company left this morning for Sterling. A lack of patronage is said to have been the cause of the engagement being cut.

Mrs. George L. Dunn, of Westfield avenue, who cut an artery in her hand a week ago by the accidental breaking of a dish she was wiping, is doing very nicely and is now able to use the injured member a little.

Willie Schenck, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schenck, of Ssanbery avenue, who has been quite ill with tonsilitis, is doing very nicely and will soon be able to go out again.

"The Good Shepherd" will be the subject of Rev. G. M. Shott's sermon at the Baptist church tomorrow morning. In the evening "A Dream Realized" will be the topic.

Miss May Ford, who has been visiting for several weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ford, of Bartle avenue, has returned to her home in New York.

Rev. Mr. Davis, a classmate of Rev. Mr. Beacom at Drew Seminary, will occupy the latter's pulpit in the Methodist church tomorrow.

The Farther Light Society of the Baptist church held its regular monthly meeting in the church parlors yesterday afternoon.

The Township Committee met and transacted regular business in the Town rooms last evening.

Western Football Heroes of the Past Season

The Men at Whose Shrine Followers of the College Game Worship.

EVERY football hero is popular. But each season the gridiron seems to develop some small coterie of athletes who are decidedly popular—so well thought of by admiring undergrads and football enthusiasts that all matters pertaining to the varsity's standing on the gridiron date from the time these men were captains or leading heroes. Notice a Michigan man, and he will draw comparisons with "Count" Villa's great "stonewall eleven." A Chicago man sees the maroon history at its perihelion in the team of Capt. Walter Scott Kennedy. Wisconsin has much to talk about in her victorious year of 1901, but the old timers will persist in referring to "Buck" Richard's team. Northwestern will never forget the time of Van Doozer and Potter, the doe skin clothed backs who ate big holes, figuratively speaking, of course, in the maroon line. Still another following of Wisconsin will attach greatest importance to the time of Pat O'Dea, the Australian kicker; while another set of Chicago 'varsity men of former days will descant by the hour upon the greatness of Herschberger and his wonderful kicking. So in the east, Lewis, Lea, Edwards, Ames, Cochran, Bannard, Haughton, Heffelfinger, Baird, Kelly, etc., are heroes of times that can never be forgotten by the college men.

The season of 1901 stands out in football history for its lack of kicking heroes, its wealth of snappy, agile and wonderful backs and its close competition for many positions on the usual although somewhat useless "All-Western football eleven." Bright and shining stars in the gridiron world are Capt. Arthur H. Curtis, right tackle on the champion cardinal eleven, and ex-Capt. Neil Snow, of the maize and blue. If a vote could be taken among all of the 'varsity squads, it is dollars to old football togs that each of the western champion teams, Michigan and Wisconsin, would have the honor of possessing a strikingly popular athlete. Curtis went into the 'varsity after experience in the high school eleven, which has supplied his alma mater with so many good players, and for three seasons no critic has seriously contested his right to one of the tackle positions on the theoretically best eleven in the west. This season marks the conclusion of Curtis' career as a 'varsity player. He goes out in the proverbial blaze of gridiron glory, every one of his famous colleagues expressing sorrow that he could not remain to once more lead the Badgers to the pinnacle of western baseball fame. A "frat" man who never knew what it was to jeopard the success of his eleven by electing to let a favorite carry the ball at a precarious period in a game, modest to a degree, yet such a good player in both offense and defense that he often has successfully eluded the men of an opposition eleven in advancing the ball and stood the brunt of a combined attack so firmly that all hope of gaining through him has been abandoned—the championship game of 1899 proved to the almost invincible Chicago eleven that Curtis could not be put out of the play—"Art" Curtis is the idol of Madison. Throats may be rasped into rawness shouting for Al Larson, the "Norsky battering ram," for Eddie Cochems, the hurdling half-back, or for Earl Driver, the cool, determined fullback, but when Curtis is mentioned hats come off. It is safe to predict that Curtis' name will be at right tackle in the line up of every experts' all-Western this season. Curtis wears two W's. He is a fine baseball player, as well as a star on the gridiron.

In all Michigan there is not a more popular or beloved athlete than Neil Snow. The man who captained the Wolverine team last year had no difficulty in playing himself on the end position of the All-Western eleven. Despite the disastrous Iowa game at Detroit, when the excellent plays of Dr. Knipe aimed most directly at the great Snow, and which often resulted in boxing him out of the play, Snow came through the season with added honors. This year Coach Yost has elected to play Snow both at end and fullback, and as a consequence the critics are at loss to know whether to assign him to his old end position on an All-Western. These critics quickly speak up that Rogers, the Indian player of Minnesota, undoubedly should have one end position, while Snow, on sentiment, should fight it out with Juneau, of Wisconsin, for the other. Whatever is the disposition of Snow in these theoretical line-ups, made when the snow is deep and the football players have gone home for the holidays, the fact remains that the popularity of Snow at Ann Arbor cannot be impaired. As a student, a musician, a member of the track and field team of the Wolverines, and as a baseball player, this wearer of three M's has all of the praises of his school and of his school's graduates.

"What feature of football for 1901 strikes you as the most important?" I asked a well-known coach and gridiron tactician.

"The absence of a great goal kicker," was his reply. "Neither in the east nor in the west has there been what you might call a first-class drop kicker, a steady and reliable man in place kicking or a really remarkable punter. The reason? Why, all the coaching in the world will not make one of these out of ordinary material. Good goal kickers, like Pat O'Dea and Herschberger or Baird, are born. Experience on 'varsity teams serves to bring out their latent talents.

"One man in high school life of whom I would say he may become another Herschberger, is Capt. Eckersoll, of the Hyde Park eleven. His punting is sure, his drop kick is promising, and his work this fall has been the equal of any candidate on a western 'varsity team.

"This drop kick, for the reason that the goal kickers are so scarce, has been eliminated to a great degree, and the coaches are relying a great deal on trials for goal from placement. The latter is safe as a rule, although primarily it requires a strong line to give the fullback a chance to work the goal from placement.

"Fans will remember that Cochran, at Princeton, abandoned the placement in 1896, principally because he had in Baird such a fine drop kicker. Chicago the next season adopted it, and Coach Stagg found in Gordon Clarke and Herschberger a fine combination to work the play successfully. In addition to this, Chicago had in Herschberger a player who was to be feared every time his team had the ball on the 25-yard line, for he could make goals from field with comparative ease. This year Chicago has experimented with Capt. Sheldon, and Ellsworth in the goal kicking department with little success. The goal that was kicked against Northwestern was of such a lucky scratch order that no one became much excited. Capt. Henry, had he remained with the Maroons, might have changed the scores by his prowess in drop kicking. Northwestern has no Perry this year to essay any goal kicking, and in punting was no better off than other western 'varsities.

"Wisconsin has missed O'Dea a great deal in the kicking department, but the team this season has developed such an irresistible display of united effort that even the mighty Gophers were beaten without much recourse to kicking. Juneau has been tried repeatedly in games for drop kicks, but he will have to improve a lot before he can approach O'Dea's wonderful work. It will be remembered that the latter thought little of making goals from the 45-yard line in practice—Juneau, too, is good in practice—and in the game against Northwestern established a record with a goal from the 57-yard line. Knowlton, whose punting this year has been excellent, except in the vital game at Madison, when Driver's work shone to a better advantage, is a dangerous fullback when place kicks are wanted, but he is not so sure as was Herschberger.

"Last year Griffith was a star kicker for Iowa, although the Hawkeyes had such a formidable eleven that they did not seriously consider that department, but this season Iowa has been without a great star. Purdue has missed Robertson, and has supplied no wonderful player to take his place.

Winter Novelties ..IN.. Dress

The winter gowns are very dainty. Tucks, featherstitchings, laces and even fine embroideries figure largely upon them. The rumor that we were to return to simpler styles has not been realized. Even in street and mourning costumes this tendency to elaborateness makes itself felt. Young widows this season wear charming dresses quite as fanciful as if they were not mourning at all. The illustration shows one of the latest designs of this sort. The gown is made of soft eudora, with a tucked pouched bodice and a clinging skirt having a long train. The waist has a front of crape embellished in a crisscross effect of tiny bias folds of the same crape. The panel which forms the vest extends down the front of the skirt, and a narrower band of it heads the full bias ruffle of tucked eudora which gives such a pretty flare around the feet. A narrow turndown collar and cuffs of hemstitched mull are permitted to relieve the severity of these thoroughly chic widow's weeds.

To leave a rather somber subject, the most graceful little fur jackets are now being shown in the shops. Many of them barely reach to the waist line, and the others have tiny close fitting coattails or else postilion backs, the upper half of the coat being pouched into a jeweled belt. Ermine and sable is a favorite combination in a jacket of this description. The animal boas heretofore so popular are being replaced by stole shaped scarfs similar to those worn by our grandmothers. The new muffs are absolutely without stiffening and present a flat shape. The more dressy are made with a narrow top, widening out gradually. Long boas of black and cinnamon bear are both inexpensive and fashionable. Sable fox is another fur which is within the means of those who have small purses. It is lustrous and very handsome.

Never before have evening cloaks been so elaborate. There is just at present a fancy for all white or all black garments lined with rich brocades, chiffons and laces. Gun metal gray bengaline makes a very chic and useful garment trimmed with incrustations of deep coffee lace and fastening with beautiful jeweled buttons. Perhaps the most practical coat is made of black peau de soie. It can be used for both day and evening wear. I recently saw a garment of this sort on a woman who was going into Delmonico's. It was made with a short empire waist and the triple cape effect so stylish at present. Each cape was edged with Persian embroidery. A fluffy scarf of chiffon appliqued with the embroidery fell from the fastening of her collar almost to her feet. A casual movement revealed the fact that the coat was lined with a flowered Persian brocade, whose warm tones harmonized with the embroidery on the rest of the coat. The newest sleeves for evening garments are either cut flaring or else they are tucked from the shoulder down to the elbow, where they form a puff, which is held into a snugly fitting cuff at the wrist.

The latest thing in separate blouses is the monogram waist. This is made of tucked flannel, with a stitched stock and belt, fastening with a medallion of the goods embroidered with the wearer's monogram in contrasting colors. This monogram also appears chevron fashion on the left sleeve.

The most up to date skirts for street wear are finished with rows of wide and narrow folds simulating tucks.

The prettiest evening gowns of the season are made of black point d'esprit or white net banded with wavy lace insertions. If ruffles are used, they are smart edged with narrow ribbons—velvet ribbon for the black dresses, satin for the white. Crushed belts of black panne are finished in the back with short bows and long sash ends of black chantilly.

The latest hair ornament for evening wear is a double wreath of tiny pink roses. With this is worn a corsage bouquet, also of the same tiny roses, from which depend a score of tiny pink velvet streamers, each knotted around a rosebud. HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

The Trouble on the Torolito.

BY FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright, 1898, by Francis Lynde.)

Knowing Macpherson and his sterling worth, and remembering the proverbial blindness of lovers in general, I was prepared to criticise the school-mistress as the facts might warrant. But when she came to the door to greet us, I went over to the enemy, horse, foot and dragoons. I had pictured her as a young woman of the altitudes, schooled in the innocent little man-entangling arts of the girl-graduate; a woman of the broader world only by courtesy of a high-school diploma; a young person who would be careful to make the distinction in pronouncing "rise" the verb, and "rise" the noun, perhaps, with a cheerful disregard for the weightier solecisms. So ran the preconception, and when she came out to us the revulsion was sharp enough to be painful. More beautiful women than Winifred Sanborn there have been, doubtless, but never another more instantaneously lovable. She was of the chastened Puritan type, with a personality of grace rather than of strength; a young woman with a face and figure which might have been a replica in flesh and blood of the calm-eyed maiden in the pictured idyl of Priscilla and John Alden. Gentleness, and high breeding, and an idealized standard of purity were hers by right of birth, one would say, since the witness of them was written large in every line of the sweet face and in the unashamed gaze of the steadfast eyes. I remembered the unworthy suspicion which Macpherson had refused to let me set in words, and did instant and ample penance for its harboring. Whatever might prove to be the windings of the labyrinth in which she seemed to be involved with Wykamp, this honest-eyed young woman must be held blameless in thought, word and deed.

She made me welcome as Macpherson's friend with a touch of gentle courtesy which carried me swiftly back to a time and place where the strenuous travail-spirit of the egoistic west was not.

"We are not quite strangers, are we, Mr. Halcott?" she said, giving me her hand in unaffected sincerity. "Mr. Macpherson has told me much about you. I hope the Torolito is helping you."

"Thank you; it is, in a way—temporarily, at least. But one would need to be a very exacting invalid not to be helped by the Torolito."

"I'm glad you like it," she rejoined, in an upflash of gentle enthusiasm. "When I was a new-comer I used to lie awake nights listening to the thunder of the river in the upper canyon, and longing to be up and out with the solemn mountains and the stream and the soft darkness. It was the Happy valley of Rasselas over again; but they're going to spoil it for us now."

"The land company, you mean?" said I; and from this the talk went easily to the threatened metamorphosis. At the end of it, I said: "If I were rich enough I should be tempted to try to buy them off. It's a thousand pities to graft a truck-farm upon such a shapely stock of nature's growing."

"Isn't it?" she said.

Macpherson was growing restive. "Don't you want to go inside and lie down on one of the benches, Halcott? It'll rest you for the ride back. You're looking a bit fagged."

I smiled at his clumsy attempt to dispose of me, and glanced at Miss Sanborn. She was evidently bracing herself for something trying but inevitable.

"If I get down I shall never get up again," said I. "Now that we're this near, I'm going to ride on to the end of the valley. Put me on the horse, Angus, and wait for me; I'll pick you up as I come back."

He did it, with palpable gratitude; and so I rode on and left them.

Fifteen minutes later I repassed the schoolhouse; and, not to mar their leave-takings, waved my hand to them and rode on down the valley. Macpherson overtook me in the second half-mile, and the gloom in his face was absolutely portentous. I charged it to my inconsiderate haste, and made instant amends.

"Go along back to her, if you want to; I told you I could find the way home alone."

For five full minutes he did not reply. Then the words came tumultuously.

"That's the heart-breaking pity of it, Jack; I can never go back to her. Do you understand?—never. For heaven's sake, bear with me if you can, old man; I shall go mad if I don't talk about it. She says it's all over between us; that we mustn't meet again; that if I'm obstinate, as I promised to be, she'll go as she came. And she wouldn't tell me why. God in Heaven! what have I done?"

"It's nothing you've done or left undone. Can't you see?—it's Wykamp."

Macpherson consigned the engineer to a place from which the theologians assure us there is no escape.

"That's all right; his Creator may send him there, but you're under bonds not to."

The double quartette of pounding hoofs beat out another mile of silence, and then he broke out again. "Damn it all, man, why don't you say something?"

"I've been trying to think of something worth saying. Let's begin at the beginning. Here is a very riddle of a mystery with only two people who can solve it. One of the two won't talk; ergo, the other must be made to. You were in Fort Cowan the other day. May I inquire what you did?"

"I located a placer prospect on the line of the Glenlivat ditch, and made ready to ask for an injunction if Wykamp runs his survey across it."

"Good! But you also asked questions. Who knows anything about Wykamp?"

"Nobody at the fort; he's from the east."

"Who employs him?"

"The board of directors, I suppose. He's the chief engineer of the company."

"Who are the directors?"

He named the members of the board.

"Lovatt's one of them, you say?"

"Yes."

"That's lucky for us. Can you spare one of the boys to take a letter to town for me?"

"Sure. What are you going to do?"

"I know Lovatt pretty well; he's under obligations to me, in fact. I shall ask him for a letter of introduction to his chief engineer."

"What good will that do?"

"Much, let us hope. Armed with my letter, I shall proceed to quarter my ailing self upon Wykamp for a day, a week, or a month."

"Well?"

"When I get through with him, we shall know more than we do now."

"What if he won't talk?"

"He'll be made to. A few minutes ago you gave him a Dantean blessing, and I told you that you are under bonds to keep the peace. I'm not."

Macpherson lighted his pipe in mid gallop and smoked upon it. At the end of the reflective interval he said: "I can't let you do it."

"Why?" I demanded.

"Because you're a sick man, and my friend. I should never forgive myself."

"Nonsense! If anything will serve to keep me alive beyond the doctor's reprieve of six weeks or so, it's a bit of detective work which will keep me from counting the days. So you see the motive is selfish, after all."

"I see that you're the best friend a poor devil ever had."

"Don't flatter yourself. Two hours ago I should have let you wrestle out of it as best you could."

"But now?"

"But now I have seen her; I'm her champion and none of yours, my dear boy. You're only an incident." And then the undreamed-of truth laughed out in a jest. "You can thank your luck stars that I've one foot safely in the grave. Otherwise you might want to kill two men instead of one."

I think the jest was thrown away upon him. When I looked he was staring steadily ahead, and I caught but a phrase of his rejoinder.

"God be merciful to her and show her the light of His countenance!" He was repeating it softly, as one who rides alone.

CHAPTER V.

ULTIMATUMS TWAIN.

When all is said, sober second thought, so much vaunted and bepraised, is but an ignoble thing. How many a fine project, conceived in impulsive unselfishness and sent rocket-wise on its course starward, has come to earth again a mere smoke-blackened stick in the chill downpour of reflection. How many an emprise which seemed altogether promising and feasible when planned overnight has become a thing preposterous in the cold gray light of the morning.

Some such reflective misgiving assailed me when I came to write the letter to my friend in the Glenlivat company's directorate. Doubtless, the passport into the camp of the enemy would be forthcoming; but once safely within the lines, what could I hope to accomplish? Would Wykamp straightway proceed to unbosom himself to me?—make a confidant of a stranger, an emergency guest foisted upon him by the good-nature of one of his directors? The idea was absurd. And if he should do such an incredible thing, the end would but indifferently justify the means; one could hardly eat his salt and betray him.

The letter was written and Dan Connolly was saddling for the ride to the fort. In a few minutes the undertaking would be afoot and reconsideration impossible. But a shorter respite has saved an army, and my reprieve was already on the way. Connolly shaded his eyes under his hand and interrogated a filmy dust-cloud on the up-valley trail. It was approaching the ranch, and the level rays of the newly arisen sun turned it into a hazy nimbus of gold-dust.

INDIANS IN REVOLT.

Do Not Like an Order Recently Issued at Washington.

Disgusted with the Command to Change Their Habits and Grass Huts and Live in Pretty Frame Houses.

A recent order of the Indian department has created consternation among the reservation Indians of the southwest. The order is to the effect that all Indians shall hereafter live in houses, and cast aside their native places of habitation. If there is anything that the average Indian holds dear, it is his tepee or grass house. It is as sacred to him as his dances, which are also fast passing away. The purposes of putting the Indians in frame houses are two. First, the wish to do away with their habit of crouching about in the hollows and timber during winter time, in their tepees. Again, this kind of structure is not healthful, and hundreds of Indian children die every year of exposure. Again, when the Indians live in tents they are apt to have more than one wife apiece, and indulge in their games and dances, much to the detriment of their moral character.

Most of the Indians, says the New York Tribune, have never lived under anything but huts of their own peculiar construction. Most of the tribes live in tepees in summer, but in winter they have grass houses, sod houses, caves in the hillsides and leaf-covered shacks in the valleys. The Wichita Indians, who live in southern Oklahoma, have the most complete houses of any of the Indian tribes in the United States. It is called a grass house. The Indians first build a framework, dome-shaped. Huge logs are set up in a cone, and these are covered with sod. The squaws then weave the long grass of the plains into a kind of thick matting. This is waterproof, and is laid in strips over the sod. A cone is formed at the top to turn water, and a small entrance is cut in the south side. A rude door is made to cover this. There are small holes near the bottom of the hut for breathing places, and in winter a chimney hole is cut in the top. But there are no windows of any sort. In summer the lower part of the sod house can be removed, leaving a good roof and open sides. In them they spend the warm weather. Storms have full sweep at them, but they do not seem to care for this. In case the wind blows too hard they go into some of the numerous caves that may be found on their reservation.

INDIAN GRASS HOUSE.
(Sketched on the Wichita Reservation Near Anakardo, I. T.)

The Comanches do not live inside of houses of any kind. Their sole protection from the weather is tents made in the shape of the regulation Indian tepee. In these tepees they spend their winters, but in summer live under a leaf arbor. The Kiowas live or have lived much after the same manner. But these Indians are being made to go into the small two roomed wooden houses which the government has built on their allotments. Some of the older Indians are objecting to the change, but they are under strict orders to move or suffer the consequence of having their annuity money cut off in the heart of the winter season.

The Pawnees, Poncas and Cheyennes all live in rough tepees both in summer and winter, although the Poncas have had for several years good houses on their places. But they continue to live in the tepees, exposed to the glare of the summer's sun and the blast of winter's snow, while the ponies are allowed to stand in the houses. There has been some change for the better among the Poncas of late, and a great majority are going back to live in houses.

The Cheyennes and Apaches are almost beyond the reach of civilizing influences. They will have nothing to do with the white people, as a rule, and they scorn the little government houses which have lately been built for them. But the Indian agents will soon issue instructions to confiscate all the Indian tepees of these tribes, burn them and compel the Indians to accept the frame houses as their future home. It has been known to happen among certain tribes that when the old men were placed in houses they sickened and died. They say the atmosphere is too close for their wild nature. It is partly true.

Strange End of a Fight.

Harry Mangum and Jim Robinson, two colored men, disputed over a game of craps in Jackson, Tenn. Mangum drew a pistol and Robinson fled, pursued by the other. After Mangum had fired two shots he fell dead from heart disease. The intended victim is regarded with awe, and it is believed he was saved by a providential miracle.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The greatest of all holiday gifts for your boy or girl, a course in the In't. Cor. Schools of Scranton, Pa., W. L. Holbert, 221 Park avenue.

—Miss Sadie Searing, who was in the employ of Edward White for five years and with Crosby & Hill for three years, resigned her position yesterday. This morning she entered the employ of Woodhull & Martin in a similar capacity.

Death of Mrs. Pasch.

Mrs. Augusta Pasch died at her home on Harrison street last evening after a short illness. The causes of death was pneumonia. The husband, William C. Pasch, and five children survive her. They are Fred Pasch Herman Pasch and William Pasch and Mrs. Hannah Allen and Miss Minnie Pasch. She was in her seventy-sixth year. The funeral will be held from the house Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

DISTINGUISHED CAST.

Which Will Produce "The Brixton Burglary" at Casino.

An advance notice of "The Brixton Burglary," the famous Engilsh farce comedy which will be seen at the Casino, Saturday matinee and night, Dec. 14, would be incomplete without devoting a paragraph by itself to the exceptionally strong company gathered together for its interpretation. It is a long time since local theatre-goers have been privileged to see a company made up of so many stage favorites as this. It would be difficult to say which of the twelve distinguished players "head the list". The personnel includes W. J. Ferguson, Miss Carolyn James, Miss Nellie Butler, Miss Regina McAvoy, Daniel Fingleton, Harry Gibbs, Douglas Flint, Wm. Tilley, Harry Miller, Miss Ann Leonard and others.

PERSONAL.

William Briggs, of New York, while on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Noonan, of Dunellen avenue, was taken seriously ill a few days ago. He has since recovered partially and will soon leave for his home.

The North Polar Sea.

In a recent lecture on his explorations in the Arctic ocean and the results obtained with regard to the ocean currents on the Norwegian coast, in the northern part of the Atlantic ocean, and in the Arctic ocean during his voyage in the Fram and in the Michael Sars in 1900, Fridtjof Nansen declared his belief that the Northern Arctic ocean is not to be regarded as forming part of the ocean system of the world, but as being an independent inland sea, which contains several subordinate currents which are affected by the influence exerted by the two chief currents of the gulf stream and the Arctic ocean. For obtaining reliable data concerning the rate of speed at which the sea currents flow, their temperature and saltness, a most elaborate system of apparatus was made use of, which enabled the ocean currents to be investigated at any depth without sudden changes in the temperature of the water being able to affect the results obtained. In fact, so accurate are these results, that Nansen's theory is attracting widespread attention in scientific circles.—London Globe.

The King's Wild Boars.

The king's wild boars from Windsor have been scattered to the far ends of the earth, and have created a good deal of interest and even excitement in some places. The pair sent out to the South Australian zoo at Adelaide were confined in the "hippo" house, but while the sow took kindly to her new quarters the boar lost no time in resenting his confinement. He appears to have broken his way through bars that were hitherto strong enough to hold hippopotami in check, and then careered madly up and down the Zoological gardens. Keepers and visitors flew up the trees and over the fences, but one man was caught by the maddened animal and knocked about severely before he was rescued. Later on the boar was trapped and safely penned up, but the zoo authorities are plainly nervous about their new acquisition.—London Chronicle.

Gold Galore in Asian Soil.

It is difficult to realize that in Asia "the cradle of mankind," the oldest portion of the earth's surface known to historical research, there should exist beds of gold-bearing sand which have never given up an ounce of their valuable contents, and great reefs of gold-bearing quartz which have never yet been struck by a blow from the miner's pick or shattered by a single pound of giant powder. That such deposits do exist, not only in Siberia, but in Mongolia and Manchuria, is a fact attested by all explorers and engineers who have visited the countries in question and have taken the trouble to investigate, even in the most superficial manner, the conditions which exist there.—London Mail.

Her Opinion of the Sex.

"Did you ever see a man getting a free sample of breakfast food?" asked the department store salesgirl.

"He sneaks up to the counter where they are serving it in those little dishes," she continued, "as if he had just happened along. Then he sort o' stands there, looking at the goods on the shelves as if he wanted to buy something, till the girl, just to get rid of him, asks him if he wouldn't like to try a sample of the new breakfast dish. He seems to be surprised, says he doesn't know, then guesses he will, and when she gives him the dish he calls for a little more sugar, eats the stuff up to the last particle, asks how she sells it and how it's prepared, says he thinks it's very good, and he'll have his wife get some the next time she comes down town. Then he sneaks away without buying any of it, and that's the last the girl ever sees or hears of him. And the girl knows that'll be the way of it all the time she's waiting on him. There's nothing makes me as tired as a man shopping in a department store."

Then the salesgirl jabbed her lead pencil viciously into the lump of hair at the back of her head and turned to wait on a customer.—Chicago Tribune.

Aluminium Nails.

After many unsuccessful experiments and trials, an alloy of aluminium has been made with which nails, staples and tacks can be made to compete with copper. Among other advantages claimed for the new material is that it is not affected by the weather and will not deteriorate, as in laying roofs, lining tanks, etc. As the alloy is noncorrosive and nonpoisonous, the new nails ought to find favor among makers of refrigerators and other articles used for food storage. When the difference in point of number and weight is taken into consideration, it is seen that aluminium nails are about four cents a pound cheaper than copper nails. It is not intended to put them in competition with ordinary steel nails.—Hardware.

ENDEAVOR SOCIETY IS NOW TEN YEARS OLD

Anniversary Was Observed at Seventh-Day Baptist Church Saturday.

ADDRESS BY DR. LEWIS.

ANNUAL REPORTS WERE OF ENCOURAGING NATURE.

Work of Senior, Intermediate and Junior Endeavor Societies Summed Up for Year in the Reports.

The tenth anniversary of the Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was observed Saturday in an appropriate manner. There was an encouraging attendance of members of the society, as well as the church.

There was an address by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who spoke on "The Effect of Unconscious Influence." The speaker related how in countless ways a person exerts an influence, and it is highly essential that that influence be for the best at all times. He urged all to see that their heart is right with God and then to live up to the standard raised by the Maker of the Universe.

Miss Mildred Greene, as recording secretary, presented the reports. There is now an active membership of seventy-two, associate three, honorary thirty-four. During the last year there was received $231.85.

Various sums were disbursed as follows: Missionary and tract societies, $50 each; Sabbath Evangelizing Industrial Association, $15; L. C. Randolph, student campaign work, $10; Westfield fresh air camp, $13.65; Plainfield fresh air work, $5; Local Union of Christian Endeavor, $4; and $67.87 was given toward other worthy objects, including the India famine relief fund. The committee on literature reported the distribution of helpful literature to several mission fields, both at home and abroad.

Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, as superintendent of the intermediate society, which is now one year old, was encouraging. There is a membership of twelve. The sum of $3 was given to the China mission and $2 to the Westfield fresh air camp. This society has also pledge one-half of the contribution to the African mission, sharing the expense with the Junior Endeavor Society.

Mrs. West, superintendent of the Junior Endeavor Society, reported collections for the year to $6.83. This society also has a membership of twelve, and contributes money toward foreign missions. As president of the senior society, Dr. Martha Stillman directed the business of the meeting.

THE ARMY'S CHRISTMAS.

Local Corps of Salvation Army is Preparing for Christmas.

The local Salvation Army corps is making preparations to entertain its younger members Chsistmas Eve with one of the largest Christmas trees they have yet enjoyed. The children are to witness appropriate exercises, after which Santa Claus in person is to present each one with candy and gifts.

Christmas day the corps proposes furnishing 125 dinners to needy persons. Basket dinners will also be sent out to those who from age or infirmity are unable to attend the feast.

INCREASING HIS PLANT.

S. C. Baker is Preparing to Enlarge His Printing Establishment.

The buildings and plot of ground on West Fourth street, near Liberty street, known as the Peter Collins' property, has been purchased by Salmon C. Baker, the West Fifth street stationer. It is the intention of Mr. Baker to remove the small house and barn now encumbering the place and greatly enlarge his printing establishment which is directly in the rear. An entrance-way will be opened from West Fourth street through which all business will be transacted.

Traveled Extensively.

Few people among the residents of Plainfield have had the opportunity to travel as extensively as has the person who has kindly consented to give a descriptive account of his travels at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Tuesday evening, Dec. 10. His lecture will be illustrated with choice views.

Baptized in Church.

Margery S., infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Dufford, of Somerset place, was baptized by Dr. Schenck in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning.

THEY FORMED NEW JERSEY STATE NURSES' ASSOCIATION.

Aims to Secure Legislation for Registration of Graduate Trained Nurses.

An important meeting of graduate trained nurses was held at the City Hospital, 116 Fairmount avenue, Newark, last week, when there was formed the New Jersey State Nurses' Association. The objects of the association is to secure legislation for the proper registration of graduate trained nurses in this State. At present there are three States, New York, Illinois and Virginia that have such organizations and New Jersey will be the fourth.

There were nearly two hundred graduate nurses at the meeting, Plainfield being represented by Miss Young, superintendent of Muhlenbery Hospital, her assistant, Miss Bloxam, formerly of Christ's Hospital, Jersey City, and Miss Margaret Cramer, of Park avenue.

The following officers were chosen at the meeting: President, Miss Fallon; vice-president, Miss Cameron; second vice-president, Miss Brickner; treasurer, Miss Galation; secretary, Miss Farringer. No time was set for the next meeting, that being left to the president.

HAD NO INVITATION.

But Miss Catherine Kelley's Friends Had a Pleasant Evening.

Miss Catherine Kelley, of New street, was tendered an enjoyable surprise party, Thursday evening, by twenty-five of her young friends. The affair was arranged by Miss Alice Day and Miss May Hogan and proved a complete success.

The usual entertaining features passed the hours pleasantly while piano selections by Miss Tessie Hibbits and Otto and George Linke were much enjoyed. Before leaving for home the young people were served with refreshments.

WILL OPEN SOON.

Aluminum Press Company Getting Ready to Resume Business.

The Aluminum Press Company, the works of which closed down some time ago, is rapidly getting matters in shape to resume operations. During the past few weeks many of the old employes have been re-engaged and more are being added to the force every day. The newly patented presses of the company have proved complete successes and once they are placed on the market the works will assume something like their old time activity.

Visited Somerset Council.

After the members of Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., transacted the business of the evening, Friday night, all paid a fraternal visit to Somerset Council, in the Babcock building. A genuine social time was had after which refreshments were served.

Still at Home.

Miss Lillie Sturtevant, of Orchard place, who fell off the front porch at her home two weeks ago and sprained her leg, is still detained at home. She is in a helpless condition, being unable to move. At first it was believed that the leg was broken.

Subscription Dance.

A subscription dance will be given at the Camera Club rooms this evening.

FUNERAL OF J. W. ANTHONY

MANY HONORED MEMORY OF AN OLD CITIZEN YESTERDAY.

Services Held From Home of Sister, Mrs. A. G. Remsen, of Sandford Avenue.

The funeral services of the late John W. Anthony were held yesterday afternoon from the residence of his sister, Mrs. A. G. Remsen, 25 Sandford avenue. There was a large attendance. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

The Scripture selection was read by Mr. Herring, after which he talked briefly. He spoke of the uncertainty of life, and how often God reveals Himself through cloud as well as sunshine. He referred to the Christian life of the departed, to the fact that he had been a deacon and a faithful attendant at the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Herring also gave words of comfort to the bereaved ones. Following the remarks, a fervent prayer was offered by Dr. Schenck.

During the services, Charles L. Lewis sang eeffectively, "It Is Not the Whole of Life to Live, Nor All of Death to Die," and "My Jesus as Thou Wilt." The floral tributes were many and very beautiful, including wreaths of galax leaves, also sago palms, carnations and ferns. At the conclusion of the service, Dr. Schenck pronounced the benediction, after which an opportunity was given those present to view the remains.

This morning the remains were taken to Cypress Hills cemetery, Brooklyn, for interment.

MICE AND MATCHES.

Caused a Small Fire at Home of Wm. Golf, West Third Street, Saturday Afternoon.

The usual combination of mice and matches is ascribed by Chief Doane as the cause of a small fire which broke out at the home of William Goff, of West Third street, near Plainfield avenue, Saturday afternoon. It originated in a small closet filled with wearing apparel. The clothing was consumed and the flames then forced their way throught the ceiling to the roof where they were discovered by a passerby.

An alarm was sent in from box 46. On the arrival of the firemen the blaze was put out in short order. The loss to the building, which is owned by C. H. Rugg, is placed at $25, insured. Goff's loss is also placed at $25 with no insurance.

ITS STRONGEST POINT.

"The Brixton Burglary" is Clean and Unflaggingly Merry.

"The Brixton Burglary," the latest and best of all English farce comedies, will be seen at The Casino, Saturday afternoon and evening. It was first produced in America at the Herald Square Theatre, New York. The play has about every merit that a farcical comedy should have. It is eminently clean. The strongest point about "The Brixton Burglary" and the reason for its success no doubt lies in the fact, that it is constantly and unflaggingly merry, partly because of the extreme cleverness, partly because of the excellence of its characterization, partly because of the genuine wit of its lines. Reserved seat tickets on sale at Armstrong's.

Reception at St. Joseph's.

Rev. Father Dittrich, of Bound Brook, and Rev. Father Miller, the rector, officiated at a reception of the Children of Mary held in St. Joseph's church last evening. There was a large congregation present and the ceremony was an imposing one. Some new members were formally introduced into the society.

Spoke on Porto Rico.

Rev. Dr. Henry K. Carroll, of this city, preached at both morning and evening services in St. James Methodist church, Elizabeth, yesterday. In the evening he spoke on Porto Rico and the Philippines. Having been United States commissioner to Porto Rico he is well-versed in these subjects.

Pleasant Affair.

A pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Jennie DeCamp at her home on Linden avenue Friday evening. Forty young people enjoyed dancing and playing parlor games, as well as singing. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Offer Land at Lincoln Free.

An endeavor is being made by S. D. Drake and the Middlesex Land Company to induce the projectors of the Home for Aged Telegraphers to locate either in Lincoln or Dewey Park. Ten acres of land have been offered free.

HER DEBUT.

Miss Lelia Moore Cruikshank Will be Introduced to New York Society Tomorrow.

The following of interest to Plainfielders appeared in the Mail and Express of Saturday evening:

One of the large receptions of the week will be given on Tuesday by Mrs. Simeon Ayres Cruikshank, Mrs. William Lewis Moore and Mrs. Nathaniel Denin Lancaster, at No. 301 West Seventy-second street, New York, to introduce Miss Lelia Moore Cruikshank, Mrs. Cruikshank's daughter. About 2,000 cards have been sent, and there will be many guests and members of the receiving party from Chicago, Boston, Pittsburg, Albany and other cities. Miss Cruikshank is a graduate of Ogontz, class of 1901. She is of charming personality and accomplished. She will go on the day following to Chicago, to be the guest of the Otis Youngs, who are to entertain in her honor, giving a holiday dance, a luncheon for young women and a theatre party.

SPOKE ON NEGRO PROBLEM

THE SOLUTION AS DRAWN BY A SOUTHERN CLERGYMAN.

Rev. John F. Porter, of Augusta, Ga., Preached at Holy Cross Church.

Rev. John F. Porter rector of St. Mary's Hall, Augusta, Ga., addressed the congregation at the evening service in the Church of the Holy Cross, yesterday, on the subject of the solution of the negro problem.

He is in the north with the sanction of his bishop endeavoring to enlighten the people on the crying needs of the colored race and his talk last evening was a plain, bold picture of the condition of things in the south today. He described the poverty of the people and the necessity of the young receiving some proper education to equip them for life's work.

MONDAY'S GRIST IN COURT

TRIO OF TRAMPS UP FOR "WORKING" BACK DOORS.

One Offender Chose Street For a Bed, and Another Had Too Much to Drink.

Patrolman Meyers was complainant in the city court this morning, against William Childress, of Charleston, S. C., John Carroll and James Cody, of Scranton, who he detected on Belvidere avenue begging at back doors, last night. The men told hard luck stories and were released on promising to leave town.

Patrick McGowan paid $3 for making his bed in the street to sleep off a jag. He was found on Plainfield avenue, Saturday, by Patrolman Higgins.

Charles Drake, of Metuchen, wandered into town during a hunting trip, Saturday. Game had been scarce and he tried to drown his hard luck in the flowing bowl. The local "red eye" was too much for him and he awoke in a cell. Sentence was suspended.

QUIET WEDDING.

Wm. Strachan, Recently From Scotland, Wedded Miss Stranahan.

The marriage of Miss Lizzie Stranahan and William Strachan, of West End, took place Saturday evening. The couple, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson, of West Third street, went to the home of Rev. Dr. Schenck, on West Front street, where the ceremony was performed. The groom is employed in the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, and recently came from Scotland. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Peterson.

Execution Was Stayed.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

REV. JOHN M'MURRAY CONTINUES SPECIAL SERMONS.

Drew Powerful Lesson on Evils of Divorce and Lightness of Marriage Vows.

The second of his series of sermons on subjects dealing with topics of the day was given by Rev. John McMurray before a very large congregation of the Monroe Avenue church, last evening. His discourse dealt with "Twentieth Century Christianity-Marriage and Divorce."

The speaker's text was taken from Matthew xix: 3-9. Mr. McMurray drew a powerful lesson on the evils of divorce and the lightness with which marriage is entered upon today.

Next Sunday Mr. McMurray's subject will be "A White Life for Two," and will deal with the social ostracism suffered by erring women while equally guilty men are allowed to go unscathed.

SAVED THE HALL.

Prompt Action Prevented Serious Conflagration at Saengerbund Hall Saturday.

Through the timely action of Mrs. Frank White, the janitress, Saengerbund Hall was saved from probable destruction Saturday afternoon.

A man inspecting the building threw a lighted cigar on the floor of the basement near a curtain which had been temporarily hung there. In a minute the cloth was in flame and the fire spread to the ceiling. Mrs. White tore the burning curtain from its fastenings and succeeded in subduing the flames.

Another small conflagration occurred at one of the booths Saturday evening, but no damage was done.

WORK OF TEACHERS.

Outlined for Teachers of Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-School.

The regular business meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school was held last Saturday evening at the home of J. M. Hawkins, of La-Grande avenue. Following the transaction of business, Rev. J. W. Richardson read a very interesting paper upon "The Work of the Sunday-school Teacher," after which Christmas carols were rehearsed. A social hour closed the evening's programme.

To Consider Board's Request.

A meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education has been called for Wednesday evening, the object being to consider the communication received from the Borough Board of Health regarding the vaccination of teachers and pupils in the public schools. It is not known what action the board will probably take but it is understood that the opinion of the health authorities will receive full respect.

Helped Her to Celebrate.

FIREMEN'S FAIR ENDS TONIGHT

BIG CROWD AT SAENGERBUND HALL SATURDAY NIGHT.

Number of Contests Were Settled There—More to be Decided This Evening.

Once again, Saturday evening, the Saengerbund Hall was crowded on the occasion of the last night but one of the West End Hose Company's fair. Everyone seemed to have a good time.

The dancing attracted the greater majority, although bowling and the contests of other kinds came in for more or less attention.

In the bowling contests, in which there were eighty-six entries, John Wirth captured the prize, making a score of forty from four rows of pins. He was awarded a handsome lamp. In the regular contests, in which prizes were offered to the persons raising the most money, Herman Klinsman, Jr., won a fine drum; Albert Perry, a bicycle; Miss Lillie Bremmer, a diamond ring, and John Higgins, a pair of rubber boots and a rubber coat.

This evening will witness the close of the fair. Souvenirs will be awarded to every person present. The contests for the gold watch and for the gun will be ended. O'Reilly's orchestra will furnish the music.

HOPE CHAPEL TIED WITH PERTH AMBOY

Association Football Game Played at Perth Amboy, Saturday Afternoon.

THE SCORE WAS 1 TO 1.

M'COMB SCORED THE GOAL FOR PLAINFIELD.

Drove Ball Between Goal Posts Just Before Time Was Called—Perth Amboy Scored Early in Game.

The Hope chapel Y. M. A. association football team journeyed to Perth Amboy, Saturday afternoon, and played a tie game with the association team at that place. The game was very close and exciting throughout and was witnessed by a large crowd of enthusiasts.

Perth Amboy scored first in the first half through a clever play made by Dixon. Within a few minutes from the time limit Hope's crack player, McComb, scored one for Plainfield. There were no other goals made during the game although both sides tried hard to break the tie.

The line-up was as follows:

Perth Amboy.		Y. M. A.
D. Dixon	g	M. Sweeney
Pardy and Stead	b	O'Brien and Anderson
Dolan, Williams, and Pardy	hb	Grieb, Galbraith and Montross

TONIGHT'S RECITAL.

Excellent Programme Will be Given at the Casino.

The recital of Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis, soprano, and Miss Saidee Mae Howell, pianist, takes place at The Casino tonight, and promises to be a brillant affair, socially, artistically and pecuniarily. The young women will have the valuable assistance of Miss Mae Jean Colt, reader and elocutionist of New Haven, Conn., and Hobart Smock, tenor soloist of All Angel's Episcopal church, New York City.

The selections of Mr. Smock will be a special feature of the very interesting programme prepared for the occasion. He is a vocalist who has made great reputation elsewhere and his appearance here is looked forward to with considerable pleasure by those who have before heard him. Tickets for admission, will be on sale at the door of the Casino tonight.

Two More Modern Woodmen.

Red Wood Camp, No. 10262, Modern Woodmen of America, initiated two candidates and received two propositions at its meeting in Red Men's Hall Saturday evening. On the evening of January 16, there will be a public installation of officers, which will be followed by an entertainment and dance.

Unpleasant Experience.

Adrian C. Pickhardt, of the borough, underwent an unpleasant experience while at Washington, D. C., Saturday. He was taken to police headquarters on the charge of being a suspicious character. After being put through a rigid examination, he proved his identity and was released.

Local Pastors Meet.

The Ministers' Association is meeting this afternoon in regular session at the home of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, on West Front street. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass will read a paper on "The Religious Outlook."

Will Speak at Trinity.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

The Pastor's Delicacy.

A woman member of a fashionable church had gone to her pastor with the complaint that she was greatly disturbed by one of her neighbors.

"Do you know," she said, "that the man in the pew behind ours destroys all my devotional feelings when he tries to sing? Couldn't you ask him to change his pew?"

"Well," answered the pastor, reflectively, "I feel a little delicacy on that score, especially as I should have to give a reason. But I'll tell you what I might do—I might ask him to join the choir!"—Montreal Star.

The Great Food Staple.

Rice forms a larger part of human food than the product of any other one plant, being the diet of India, China and the Malayan islands and occupying a place on the tables of 90 per cent. of the inhabitants of the civilized world. One may safely venture the assertion that 800,000,000 people eat rice every day in the year. —N. Y. Press.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

LESSER HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY TOLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

—There will be business of importance at the meeting of Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters, tomorrow evening.

—Warnock, the West Front street confectioner, is making a specialty of charlotte russe and angel cake. None better in the city.

—Purchasers of Christmas gifts will find at Peck's such inducements as will at once convince them that it is beyond a shadow of a doubt the place to buy presents for Christmas, 1901.

Of Benefit to You.

D. S. Mitchell, Fulford, Md.: "During a long illness I was troubled with bed sores, was advised to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and did so with wonderful results. I was perfectly cured. It is the best salve on the market." Sure cure for piles, sores, burns. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

A Mammoth Turtle.

The largest snapping turtle ever known was caught recently in a swamp in southern Texas, and weighed 155 pounds. His length was five feet four inches; length of shell, 30 inches; girth, 62 inches; length of tail, 22 inches; measurement around the head, 27 inches; around the neck, 22 inches; around the tail at the root, 18 inches. What a wonderful turtle this was may very readily be judged from a remark in the Century Dictionary, which says that the snapping turtle is "common in the rivers and streams of North America, and attains large size, being occasionally 20 and even 30 pounds in weight."—Chicago Chronicle.

Wasps Against Bees.

A story of a curious battle between bees and wasps comes from Sempringham, England. A band of wasps entered a beehive in search of honey. The bees not unnaturally defended their property and tried to turn the enemy out. They were, however, badly beaten, and the wasps gained possession. When the beekeeper examined the hive later on he found that nearly all his bees had been killed and that the wasps were enjoying the fruits of their victory.—Indianapolis News.

The Poor in Siberia.

In Siberia the development of the country is being assisted by the labors of the poor, who are employed in the improvement of the roads and in the opening up of new highways. Wells are being dug by necessitous labor, schoolhouses built, and in the workhouses iron working and other trades are taught. Many thousands have thus been saved from starvation and assisted without being pauperized.—N. Y. Press.

Strength in Vegetable Diet.

The strongest animals exist entirely on vegetable food. It is the feorcity of the lion rather than his strength that makes him formidable. An elephant is a match for several lions, and is a vegetarian. The animals with most speed and endurance—the horse, the reindeer, the antelope and others—are also vegetarians.

A Sly Dig.

Ethel—If ten men were to ask you to marry them, what would that be?

Amy—What would it be?

"A tender."

"And if one should ask you, what would that be?"

"I don't know. What?"

"A wonder."—London Tit-Bits.

One Possible Use.

"Do you think, professor," said a musically-ambitious youth, "that I can ever do anything with my voice?"

"Well," was the cautious reply, "it may come in handy to halloa with in case of fire."—London Tit-Bits.

Discrimination.

Mr. Barlow—It's odd how some men can acquire a reputation for wisdom by merely keeping their mouths shut.

Mr. Tiff—Yes, it is. Now, if I were to do that, my wife would scold me for being glum.—Philadelphia North American.

An Aspiring Hen.

Jagwell—What makes that hen in your back yard cackle so loud?

Wigway—Oh, they've just laid a cornerstone across the street, and she's trying to make the neighbors think she did it.—London Tit-Bits.

Ignorance and Lying.

When an ignorant man goes to lying he usually makes a bad mess of it.—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

ASTHMA CURE FREE.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. F. F. WELKS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.
AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

February 5, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington street.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

In the matter of Vincent L. Frazee, Bankrupt, } In Bankruptcy.

By virtue of an order dated October eighth, A D., nineteen hundred and one, notice is hereby given that the undersigned, trustee of the estate of Vincent L. Frazee, a bankrupt, has made a report as such and has been ordered to sell the property which is hereinafter briefly described, and that he will so sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder on the premises, 920 West Front street, in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey, on the SIXTEENTH DAY OF DECEMBER next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, subject to the lien now held by the estate of William H. Moore, deceased, and discharged of the lien now held by the Wilkinson Gaddis Company.

The following is a brief description of the property which will be offered for sale.

All that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a point in the northwesterly side line of West Front street, said point being two hundred feet southwesterly from a stone planted for a monument in said side line, said point also being seven hundred and ninety-nine and thirty-seven hundredths feet southwesterly from the intersection of the northwesterly side line of West Front street with the southwesterly side line of West End avenue; thence northwesterly along line of lot number nine (9) and along the rear line of lots number twenty-six (26) and twenty-five (25) and extending seventy-five feet beyond lot number twenty-five (25), three hundred and fifty feet to a point; thence southwesterly parallel with West Front street sixty feet to a point; thence southeasterly and parallel with the first course herein three hundred and fifty feet to a point in the northwesterly side line of West Front street; thence northeasterly along said side line of West Front street, sixty feet to a point and place of beginning. Including all of lot number eight (8) and parts of lots number seven (7), twenty-six (26) and twenty-five (25), and a small plot of ground seventy-five feet by sixty feet northwesterly and adjacent to lot number twenty-five (25) as shown on "Map of West End Park, City of Plainfield, N. J., property of Moore and Rocap," said map now on file in the Union County Clerk's office. Together with the land in front of the same to the middle of West Front street subject to the easement of the public therein as a public highway. This covenant to run with the land.

The terms of the said sale will be as follows: The sum of ten per cent of the amount bid to be paid, the balance upon confirmation of the sale by the referee, the trustee reserving the right to reject any or all bids. Dated, Plainfield, N. J., the twenty-ninth day of November, A. D., nineteen hundred and one.

A BUSY SUNDAY.

Labor Convention Delegates Make No Pause In Activity.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 9.—Notwithstanding that it was Sunday many of the delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor now in session in this city did not cease their activity yesterday, but gave up the time to the transaction of committee business. A majority of the committees met and organized, and not a few of them took up questions that will engage the attention of the convention during the coming week. The executive council, which is composed of the president, six vice presidents, the secretary and the treasurer of the federation, went into session early and did not adjourn until long after noon. The session was secret, and nothing was given out for publication.

At this time it seems reasonably certain that all the present officers of the federation will be re-elected. There is a movement on foot to increase the number of vice presidents from six to seven or eight, but it is not likely that this will be accomplished.

Among the cities that have entered the campaign for the next place of meeting are Atlanta, Ga.; Buffalo, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, New Orleans and San Francisco. Portland, Or., wants the convention in 1905, the year the exposition is to be held in that city.

THE KING'S CORONATION.

Designs For Robes Selected—A Much Jeweled Crown.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Designs for the coronation robes finally have been decided upon. King Edward will wear a cloth of gold underjacket embroidered with palm branches and the shamrock, rose and thistle. On the king's stole the cross of St. George, the royal crown and the rose, shamrock and thistle will be woven in gold threads. His cape will be a magnificent garment, decorated with silver eagles and fleur-de-lis and the national floral emblem.

Queen Alexandra will wear robes very similar to those of Queen Adelaide, which will be brought to Marlborough House from Brodie castle, where they are kept as heirlooms.

The coronation rites will last four hours. After the sacrament has been administered to the king he will discard the church vestments and put on his state robes.

More than 3,000 precious stones—diamonds, pearls, rubies, sapphires and emeralds—will be included in the king's crown. There will be 1,360 pure white diamonds and 1,270 rose diamonds. The historic ruby which the king of Castile gave to the Black Prince in 1367 and which was subsequently worn by Henry V. in Agincourt is in the center of the crown, placed in the heart of a Maltese cross.

Still Seeking Miss Cropsey.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Dec. 9.—The opinion still prevails here that Nell Cropsey was either abducted or murdered. The Pasquotank river was dragged yesterday more systematically than ever, but without securing a trace of the missing girl. The search for Miss Cropsey will continue without any abatement of energy. Chief of Police Dawson has returned here from Norfolk, whither he went to investigate a report that the girl had been seen in Norfolk and had taken a steamer there for Baltimore. He says a young woman answering somewhat the description of Miss Cropsey did leave Norfolk for Baltimore, but in his opinion she was not Nell Cropsey.

A Mysterious Case.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Dec. 9.—Fred W. Pettigrew, brother of former Senator Pettigrew, lies in a critical condition at his home in South Sioux Falls as the result of a mysterious accident or assault. Mr. Pettigrew left his house in the evening to do an errand. Soon afterward he was found in the road near his home in an unconscious condition. Two men who found him say they heard the sound of a team being driven rapidly away a few minutes before they discovered the prostrate form of their employer. The injured man has been delirious since being found, and it cannot be ascertained whether he was accidentally hurt or was the victim of an assault.

Mrs. Snow's Claim Upheld.

BEAUMONT, Tex., Dec. 9.—Federal Judge Bryant has filed an important opinion in the case of Mrs. Annie E. Snow versus the Higgins Oil and Fuel company et al., involving one-eighteenth life interest in the Veatch survey, on which is situated all of the wells in this field except five or six. The court thinks that the complainant, Mrs. Snow, is entitled to one-eighteenth of the oil marketed after the expenses of marketing have been deducted.

MARX REACHES HOME

An Authentic Account of the Oak Grove Shooting.

A NEW VERSION OF THE TRAGEDY

The Night Attack on the Young New Yorker Was Unprovoked and the Shooting Clearly Done In Self Defense.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Herbert Marx, who on Tuesday night last shot and killed William Taylor and William Heffin and seriously wounded James Q. Stiff at his father's plantation house near Oak Grove, Va., has reached his home, 139 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn. He left Oak Grove immediately after his exoneration by the coroner's jury and reached Washington on Thursday. As to his whereabouts since Thursday nothing was obtainable.

Abel E. Blackmar, 1074 Bergen street, Brooklyn, of the law firm of Baldwin & Blackmar, 31 Nassau street, Manhattan, gave out the following statement of the affair:

"Wednesday morning I received a telegram asking me to come to Virginia at once and stating that Herbert Marx was in trouble. I started at once, accompanied by Herbert's brother Ernest. We reached Fredericksburg on Thursday and found that Herbert had come up the Rappahannock on a steamer. We found him on board the boat and took him to the hotel. After hearing his story of the shooting we decided that it was best for him to go to Washington and call on Representative Jones of his home district and give him a full account of the matter. This he did and placed himself in the care of Mr. Jones.

"Ernest Marx and myself drove to Oak Grove and called upon the commonwealth attorney, Colonel Robert J. Washington, a descendant of the half brother of George Washington. After a conference with Colonel Washington we decided to thoroughly inspect the premises where the shooting occurred. The next day we went over to the place and found several things not before noticed. We found that Taylor evidently had fired two rifle shots through the window. One of these had passed through the window of the back room on the ground floor and the other through the second story.

"When the first shot was fired, Herbert secured his revolver, threw open the door and confronted a man wearing a mask. He called upon the man to speak and say whether the affair was a joke. Receiving no answer, he fired. The man, who afterward proved to be Stiff, fell on the porch. Stiff is said to have stated that he was shot by one of his own party, but Herbert says that he shot him. Heffin fell next, and after his second shot Herbert started across the front yard toward a fence about 250 yards away. After climbing the fence he turned and saw another man, carrying a rifle. Herbert fired, and this man also fell. The third man afterward proved to be Taylor, who apparently had crossed the yard and climbed the fence on a parallel course with Marx. Herbert ran half a mile to Griffith's, the nearest neighbor.

"Securing a lantern, a party hastened back to the scene of the shooting and found that Heffin and Stiff had crawled into the front room, where both lay on the floor unconscious. One mysterious feature of the affair was that the lamp which had been burning in the back room had been removed to the front room.

"Marx secured a horse and hurried away to the home of Dr. Washington, five miles distant, and soon returned with the physician. Taylor's body was not found until an hour later. Upon searching further about the premises a bag of straw, a large bundle of rags and a bottle of kerosene were found, together with a large braided whip. A quarter of a mile down the road two buggies were found, in which were a can of tar, a rope twenty feet long and several rifle cartridges. A man known as Douglas was found in one of the buggies. He ran away and, together with a man known as George Thompson, was caught later. Both declared that they knew nothing of the matter—both had been pressed into the affair upon the assurance that there was to be no shooting. An examination of Taylor's rifle showed that the magazine contained thirteen undischarged cartridges. The ejector of the rifle was down, and a cartridge was found jammed in the breech, preventing further use of the weapon.

"Marx remained that night in the house in the custody of Mr. Griffith, who had been deputized as special constable. Next morning an inquest was held over Taylor's body. Thompson testified that he had understood the party intended to chastise Marx. He had been picked up on the road, and he knew nothing else about the matter. Douglas told a similar story to the jury, on which were two relatives of one of the dead men. Colonel Washington told Marx he could make a statement to the jury if he desired, and Marx did so. A verdict of justifiable shooting was at once returned. Marx was advised to leave the county in the interests of peace. He was taken to Leedstown, on the Rappahannock, and boarded a boat for Fredericksburg, where we met him.

"Marx deeply deplores the publicity given the young lady in the case and who has since stated that he had never offered her an insult."

Chicago's Big Live Stock Show.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—It is estimated 400,000 persons visited the International Live Stock exposition, which has closed here. Pupils of the public schools were given free admission to the grounds, and nearly every school of the city was represented among the thousands of spectators.

ONE YEAR'S COINAGE

Annual Report of Mint Director Roberts.

NEW QUARTERS IN PHILADELPHIA.

United States Produced $79,171,000 of Gold Last Year and Imported $12,866,010 Besides—Large Industrial Consumption.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The report of Mr. George E. Roberts, director of the mint, upon the operations of the mint service during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, has been completed. The coinage of the mints during the fiscal year amounted to 176,999,132 pieces of the value of $134,340,781. Of this $99,065,715 was in gold, $24,298,850 was in silver dollars, $10,966,648 was in fractional silver and $2,009,568 was in minor coin. There also were coined at the Philadelphia mint 225,000 goldpieces of the value of $349,014 for the government of Costa Rica.

The coinage of silver dollars during the year was wholly from the stock of bullion accumulated under the act of July 14, 1890.

Coinage operations were conducted during the year in the mints at Philadelphia, San Francisco and New Orleans. The Philadelphia mint is now in its new quarters, and the old site, including the structure, will be offered for sale to the highest bidder on Dec. 19. An upset price of $2,000,000 has been placed upon it. The original cost of the ground to the government was $35,840. The cost of the new site and structure has been $2,000,000 and the appropriation for equipment $440,000, but a considerable portion of the latter is yet unexpended. No pains have been spared to provide this mint with the best machinery to be had, and it is believed that in methods and equipment it will be when completed a model institution of its kind.

The new mint under construction at Denver has made slow progress during the year, and the supervising architect finds an additional appropriation necessary before the final contract can be let. The appropriation for site and building was $500,000 and for equipment $150,000. The new mints at Philadelphia and Denver, together with the old ones at San Francisco and New Orleans, will afford ample facilities for this country for many years to come.

The original deposits of gold at the mints and assay offices amounted to $153,101,580, an increase of $19,181,561 over the preceding year. Of this $27,906,489 was in foreign coin, $17,600,463 that of Great Britain, nearly all being from Australia, and $5,425,500 that of Japan.

The estimated production of gold in the United States during the calendar year 1900 was of the value of $79,171,000, and notwithstanding the fact that this country led the world in production its imports exceeded its exports by $12,866,010. The production of North America, practically all of which comes to the United States, was $116,051,500.

The world's coinage of gold in the calendar year 1900 was $354,936,497 and of silver $177,011,902.

The industrial consumption of gold in the United States during the calendar year 1900 is estimated at $16,667,500 and of the world approximately $75,000,000.

Scranton Mobs Overpower Police.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 9.—At 10 o'clock last night an attempt was made by three deputies to arrest boys who were stoning cars on South Main avenue manned by nonunion men. A big crowd set upon the officers and in the face of flying bullets overpowered them and beat them severely. Two of them, S. F. Cosgrove and B. T. Reilly, are in the hospital. The third, J. J. Lauders, was able to go home. At 6 o'clock a crowd set upon five deputies who attempted the arrest of stone throwers on Capouse avenue and after taking their prisoners away put them in retreat with a fusillade of stones and bricks. The deputies returned with re-enforcements, but the mob had disappeared.

A Pro-Boer Meeting.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—A programme of protest against British methods in the South African war was carried out before an immense audience in the Auditorium theater here last night. Following an eloquent address by W. Bourke Cockran and earnest speeches by others resolutions for the appointment of a committee to bring the sentiments of the meeting before the president were adopted. Although an admission was charged, the funds being intended to aid the Boers and especially their women and children, standing room was at a premium, and many were unable to gain admittance.

Minister Shot by a Justice.

BROOKSIDE, Ala., Dec. 9.—Rev. J. W. Bradford, Methodist minister at this place, was shot and killed last evening by B. D. Coffman, justice of the peace. Coffman was standing in Bradford's doorway, it is said, and fired two shots, both taking effect in the head. There were no witnesses to the tragedy. Coffman was once a member of Rev. Mr. Bradford's church, but had been expelled, it is said.

Fire in a Sanitarium.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 9.—A dangerous and exciting fire came near resulting in serious loss of life at St. Mary's private sanitarium. For a time there was a panic among the patients. Although no lives were lost, great difficulty was experienced in getting the twenty-seven inmates of the sanitarium out. The property loss will be small.

Weather Probabilities.

Rain; Fresh to brisk southerly winds, becoming westerly.

SIBERIAN EXPLORATION.

The Jesup Expedition Returns With Valuable Collections.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 9.—Vladimir Bogoraz, the leader of the Siberian department of the Jesup north Pacific expedition, who returned to St. Petersburg last month after nearly a year and a half of exploration in northern Siberia, was invited to lecture before the Imperial Geographical society in this city. A large company assembled to hear him, but word came at the last moment that he had been expelled from the city by the police. The cause of this action was said to be an article published by Mr. Bogoraz in a local newspaper.

From other members of the Jesup expedition some information was gained of the work accomplished. This expedition left San Francisco March 17, 1900, for Vladivostok by way of Japan. The aims were to gather material about the origin of the American races and their affinities with Asiatic tribes, to make useful zoological and botanical collections and to add to the general knowledge of the little explored country around the sea of Okhotsk.

In June, 1900, Mr. Bogoraz went to the Anodyr country, and on July 24 Mr. Jackelson and his companion, Mr. Axelrad of Zurich, went to Cujiga. Mr. Bogoraz made a study of the Kamchatkan and Kariaks and then proceeded northward nearly to Bering strait. He sledged about 10,000 versts. His entire collections embrace 12,000 objects, and a comparative grammar of the native languages shows them to belong to the Eskimo group.

Another member of the expedition, Mr. Norman Buxton, directed the zoological and botanical work. He remained most of the time around Anodyr. He shipped sixty-five tons of collections to New York by sea.

Australia's Arbitration Law.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Dec. 9.—By the passage of the industrial arbitration bill through its final stages the government has placed a law upon the statute books the working of which will excite interest throughout the whole world. This bill not only compels reference of all disputes between employers and employees to a competent court, with power to enforce its orders and awards, but makes a strike or a lockout before or pending such reference a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine or imprisonment. The court which will pass upon these disputes is to be presided over by a judge of the supreme court and will have most extensive powers, including the power to declare a standard wage and to direct that, other things being equal, an employer shall give preference to unionist over nonunionist laborers. There is no appeal from the decisions of this court.

Alleged Forger Under Arrest.

MINNEAPOLIS, Wis., Dec. 9.—Acting under telegraphic instructions sent from Washington by Attorney General Knox, United States Marshal Grimshaw arrested Francis S. Mayer, charged with having committed forgery in Japan. The arrest was made upon the Great Northern Overland train as it pulled into the Minneapolis Union station, but Mayer was taken through to St. Paul and is now in jail. Mayer was accompanied by his wife, a Japanese woman, his two children, and a Japanese servant. Mayer protested against being confined in jail over Sunday, but inasmuch as the marshal was acting under instructions from Washington it was impossible to arrange for bail.

Bay State Editor Astray.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—Everett C. Stone of Northampton, Mass., formerly editor of The Herald of that city, but at present editor of The Enterprise of Orange, Mass., has been missing since last Friday, when he left his home for Boston. His family and friends have become anxious as to his whereabouts and are making a great effort to locate him. His business and family relations are declared to have been the very pleasantest, and his protracted absence is believed by his friends to be wholly due to mental troubles brought on by overwork. Mr. Stone is fifty-one years old, 5 feet 10 inches in height and 160 pounds in weight, very dark complexioned and with mixed beard.

The Kearsarge Sails.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The United States first class battleship Kearsarge has left this port to join the north Atlantic squadron. She was fully bunkered, and it is thought that she will proceed direct to Havana, where the other vessels of the squadron are due to arrive on the 17th inst., to remain until the 26th, the programme of the annual winter cruise having been changed at the request of General Wood that the squadron be allowed to remain in the port of Havana for Christmas.

To Prosecute O'Kelly.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The government has decided to prosecute Conor O'Kelly, member of parliament and chairman of the Mayo county council, and several officials of the County Mayo under the crimes act for holding meetings and delivering intimidating speeches in defiance of the orders of the police.

The Queen's Hotel Burned.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The Queen's hotel at Southsea was burned down yesterday. Forty of the guests escaped from the building in their nightclothes. Two chambermaids employed in the hotel were suffocated, and several firemen and others were injured.

Anarchist Meeting Stopped.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 9.—The Cleveland police refused to allow the "Liberty association," which includes in its membership a number of the disciples of Emma Goldman, to hold a meeting in a hall engaged for the purpose.

WORK BEFORE CONGRESS.

The Hay-Pauncefote Treaty Likely to Be Speedily Ratified.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The only measure of importance which the senate has on its calendar for the present week is the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty making provision for the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and opening the way for the unobstructed construction of an isthmian canal by the United States. Acting for the committee on foreign relations, Senator Lodge will ask the senate to go into executive session today for the consideration of the treaty and on each day thereafter until the convention is disposed of.

It can be said that at this time the prospect is very strong that the treaty will be ratified, and it now looks as if this result would be secured after comparatively little delay.

Beyond the consideration of the treaty very little business will be undertaken before the holidays. It is now generally agreed that the question of reciprocity will go over until January probably without so much as being mentioned, and it may be added that from being for a time the subject most likely to attract early attention it has taken a position among the matters which will not be vigorously urged. When reciprocity treaties do come up for consideration, there will be persistent opposition to the agreement with France and to that with Great Britain covering the West Indies. There is not so much feeling over the conventions with the South American republics. The present outlook also is against any immediate action in the senate looking to tariff legislation for the Philippines, and there are some indications that the senate will wait upon the house of representatives in this matter.

The house this week probably will pass a measure to meet the situation created by the Philippine decision of the supreme court last Monday. Up to the present time, however, the Republican members of the ways and means committee have not decided upon the character of the measure which will be reported. A difference of opinion exists as to whether there should be a temporary enactment of the Dingley rates on goods entering the United States from the Philippines or whether a permanent scheme of tariff legislation for the islands should be prepared. It is understood that Mr. Payne, chairman of the committee, and Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania favor the latter course.

Serious Wreck on Georgia Road.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 9.—The Central of Georgia railroad passenger train from Savannah, after crossing the river entering Macon yesterday with about a hundred passengers, jumped a switch on a high embankment. The engine and tender parted from the train. An appalling wreck ensued. The baggage and express cars were thrown over into a culvert and burned. The second class coach was thrown on its side and burned. The first class passenger coach fell over the embankment. The Atlanta sleeper, filled with passengers, caught fire and was destroyed. Two sleepers were saved. The members of the Walter Mains circus were aboard. The only person killed was Julia Boynton, colored, of Columbus, Ga., Twenty were injured. The mail was saved.

Lockjaw Serum Discovered.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 9.—Dr. A. Leteve of the C. L. Magee pathological department of Mercy hospital has discovered what has every indication of being a successful serum treatment for tetanus, or lockjaw. After a year of patient experiment on lower animals the doctor within the last three weeks had the opportunity of testing his theory on human subjects, one a middle aged man, a middle aged woman and a boy ten years of age. According to the physician's statement, when these patients were first given the injections of the serum they were violent, being in spasms and convulsions. The treatment soon brought them around, and within five or six days they were restored to their former health.

Thirty-nine Escape From Jail.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 9.—Thirty-nine prisoners serving sentences for minor crimes escaped from the south side city jail between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday by digging through a sixteen inch brick wall with pocketknives. No guards were in the prison from 12 to 4 o'clock. Several of the prisoners were shackled, but after crawling through the hole they went to a car barn near by and broke off the iron bands with an ax found there. The entire police force of the city, assisted by trusty prisoners, are searching for the escaped men, and five of them have been recaptured.

Seven Convicts Still at Large.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 9.—Clark and Barnes, two of the twenty-six convicts who escaped from the Fort Leavenworth federal prison Nov. 7, have arrived at the prison from Lawton, Okla., in the custody of Deputy Warden Lemon. Clark was one of the leaders of the mutiny, and a reward was offered for his arrest. This capture leaves but seven convicts still at large.

Fire Victim's Body Found.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—A further search of the ruins of King's plaster board mills, burned Thursday at New Brighton, Staten Island, has disclosed the body of one of the men who has been missing since the fire. It was charred almost beyond recognition, but is believed to be that of a colored man named Morrison. It is believed another body is in the ruins.

Troops Start For Manila.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 9.—The battalion of the Twenty-seventh infantry recently ordered to Manila left Atlanta yesterday afternoon for San Francisco. The route is over the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis and Illinois Central via Nashville and St. Louis.

A NEW WASHINGTON

Birthday of Jose Rizal to Be Kept In Filipino Schools.

THE TRAITOR FAGIN IS BEHEADED.

Deserted From American Army and Had Led Insurgents For Two Years—Merchants Refuse to Accept Mexican Silver.

MANILA, Dec. 9.—Superintendent Atkinson of the public schools of the archipelago has written a letter to Pedro Paterno, the Filipino politician, saying instructions have been given to every school throughout the islands to celebrate annually the birthday of Jose Rizal, the Filipino patriot who was executed by the Spaniards. The life and history of Rizal will be recited in the schools on this day. Paterno in a manifesto has asked for contributions from the scholars, their parents and their teachers to be devoted to constructing the proposed monument to Rizal's memory. Paterno concludes his manifesto by saying, "If Rizal, the Filipino Washington, were alive, he would help all Filipino children to gain an education."

Native scouts from Bongabon, province of Nueva Ecija, have killed the American negro David Fagin, a deserter from the Twenty-fourth (colored) infantry, who for more than two years has been leading Filipinos against the American troops. The native scouts decapitated their prisoner. The man's head, however, was recognized as that of Fagin's. They also secured his commission in the insurgent army. Fagin had on one of his fingers the class ring of Lieutenant Frederick W. Altstaetter of the engineers, who was captured by Filipinos supposedly under the command of Fagin himself Oct. 28, 1900.

Fagin has been reported killed upon several occasions. The authorities are satisfied that former statements of his death were erroneous and that he has now been killed.

A military commission has sentenced the Filipino general Isidoro Torres to be hanged after finding him guilty of ordering the assassination of Corporal Fieldner of the Twelfth infantry at Malolos, province of Bulacan, last October. The sentence of the commission has been disapproved by General Chaffee, who finds that the commission had reasonable grounds to doubt whether General Torres personally ordered the assassination of the American soldier.

The United States Philippine commission has passed an act authorizing the insular purchasing agent to draw money in gold for the payment of supplies purchased, as the merchants refuse to sell goods for Mexican silver.

The case of Patterson, the Englishman, private secretary to Sixto Lopez, whom efforts were made to deport from Manila after he had landed there without swearing allegiance to the United States, is still hanging fire before the supreme court.

Patterson's attorneys claim that their client, once having landed, is beyond the jurisdiction of W. Morgan Shuster, collector of customs for the Philippines, who has been trying to effect Patterson's expulsion.

Pneumatic Gun Tested.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 9.—The test of the new pneumatic dynamite gun at Hilton Head, S. C., under the auspices of a board of army officers is believed to have been satisfactory. Major Ira McNutt of the ordnance department was chief officer of the board. The gun is at the entrance to Port Royal harbor, which it commands. It was shown the gun has a range of 6,000 yards. Eight projectiles loaded with explosive gelatin were fired. Six of them exploded upon impact and threw columns of water into the air. Two were fixed with time fuses. If they were exploded it was at such a depth of water that there was not any disturbance discernible. The explosive charges ranged from 50 to 200 pounds of nitrogelatin.

Wireless Weather Telegraphy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The annual report of Professor Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau, says that substantial improvements have been made during the past year in the weather bureau system of wireless telegraphy. Such progress has been made by the government experimenters that, with no interference by private systems, stations can be successfully operated over at least 150 miles of coast line and are now in operation along the Virginia and North Carolina coasts and soon will be instituted between the Farallone islands and the mainland and Tatoosh island and the mainland on the Pacific coast.

Prominent Bay State Man Dead.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 9.—Walter C. Durfee, one of the most prominent of Fall River's citizens, is dead at his home here, aged eighty-nine years. He was collector of internal revenue under President Lincoln for the First Massachusetts district from 1862 to 1866 and treasurer of the Wampanoag mills from 1871 to 1892, when he retired from active business. He served in the Dorr rebellion as lieutenant in the volunteer militia.

A Holdup In Columbus, O.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 9.—As Mr. and Mrs. Philip Merrill were driving in the outskirts of the city they were accosted by three highwaymen, who demanded their money. Mr. Merrill whipped up his horse, and the robbers opened fire. One of the bullets hit Mrs. Merrill in the head, and she is in a critical condition. The robbers escaped.

Unemployed Riot In France.

LYONS, Dec. 9.—There were riots by the unemployed here yesterday. Several gendarmes were injured. The mounted police cleared the streets. Thirty arrests were made.

PLAINFIELD'S PROSPECTS.

This subject of the possible location of the big manufacturing plant of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company in this city is one of immediate interest to every one who has the advancement of Plainfield at heart. If that company determines to give up its factory at Easton, it has been authoritively stated that the officers of the company have narrowed their choice down to three cities of which Plainfield is one.

Over a month ago, The Daily Press explained that it was exceedingly doubtful that the company would ever leave Easton. It was entirely too valuable to that city to allow it to move away without a very powerful effort being made to retain it. The project of the Easton people was then explained. They offered to build two bridges, one for cars and heavy traffic and one for foot-passengers, to connect the present plant of the drill company with available land across the Lehigh river in South Easton. At the latter place there was plenty of land to be had.

At that time The Daily Press stated that the officials of the company were inclined to look with favor on the proposition. They were not particularly anxious to leave Easton but the demands of the company had outgrown the capacity of the plant and it became imperative that the facilities should be increased without delay. If the situation could not be met in Easton, then the company's plant would have to go elsewhere. So the investigation concerning an available site was made and Plainfield was one of the three favored cities.

When the fact became generally known that Plainfield was favorably considered as a proper site, there was a renewed interest in the subject here. According, however, to one of the high officials of the company, the situation is unchanged from what it was over a month ago as was told in The Daily Press at that time.

Summed up, it is briefly this. The Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company is going to enlarge its works. If the present plant at Easton can be enlarged, the company will remain there. Otherwise, a new site for a factory will be selected and Plainfield is one of three cities picked out as the most available. The people of Easton say that they can furnish the requirements with the aid of bridges and available land in South Easton.

The directors favor this plan if it can be found to answer what is required. That is the question to be decided and on it Plainfield's chances depend.

It was from motives of economy that the Borough Council abolished the office of street commissioner sometime ago. Mayor Smalley believed that the work could be accomplished at a lesser cost by contract. The experiment was tried. At the meeting of the Borough Council, Friday evening, Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., chairman of the street committee, recommended that a street commissioner be appointed. He thought that the borough would save money by it. There is no one better qualified to know than Mr. Clark for, as the head of the street committee, he is thoroughly acquainted with that department of the borough work. The other members of the Borough Council appeared to look with favor on the suggestion and it is probable that the appointment will be made with the new year.

Thomas Allen, the young colored man captured in Princeton, will first have to settle with the Monmouth county authorities for his attempt to rob a house there. Then Union county will have a claim on him. Chief Kiely says that he has obtained evidence enough to convict Allen of robbing a number of Plainfield homes. It is a subject for general satisfaction that the man, who the police say is the one who committed so many depredations in this city, is where he cannot trouble the community for some time to come.

The painting of the fence, which separates the tracks at the North Avenue station, is not a great thing. The welfare of the community does not demand that it be done. But it may be the means of saving a human life and is certainly a protection to strangers who visit here. If the railroad officials object to white, then let it be painted some color which will make it easily distinguishable in the dark.

It is nearly time that the officials of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company had something to say in response to the ultimatum of the Common Council. This is just the season of the year when a good trolley service is most needed and much time ought not to be allowed to pass without the required change.

Two of Plainfield's talented young women will make their professional debut in public this evening. Both have been seen and heard in local musical circles but their present step takes them out of that field and into a broader one where they both promise to win their laurels.

Some day the borough is going to be thoroughly startled. It is rumored that the "municipal ownership" committee of the Borough Council is going to present its report. The public should be duly warned of such a happening in advance.

It was an excellent thing for both city and borough when the street signs were placed in position. Hardly a day passes but some stranger compliments the place for its enterprise in putting up signs so thoroughly.

This is the season when many of the local lodges and fraternal orders are selecting their officers for the new year. There are few cities in the State where such organizations have such a healthy growth.

The firemen of North Plainfield appear to be hustlers, every one. The history of their undertakings shows a straight list of successes.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The first anniversary of the pastorship of Rev. N. J. Sproul at the Presbyterian church was celebrated yesterday at the morning service. The pastor reviewed the progress of the church during the past year and pointed out many ways in which the conditions had been bettered. The mortgage, which was formerly held at the church, has been paid off and strenuous efforts are now being made to secure a sufficient sum to pay off the mortgage on the parsonage. A large portion of the sum has already been secured.

A sale of homemade cakes and pies will be held Saturday afternoon in the W. C. T. U. rooms by the members of Mrs. L. W. Schneider's Sunday-school class of the Presbyterian church. The proceeds will be used to pay a share of the class subscription toward the annulment of the church debt.

The Independent Order of Foresters will hold a meeting this evening in Apgar's Hall for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. A number of new members will be initiated and "ride the goat" on this occasion.

The Dunellen Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club will give a reception this evening at the home of Miss Emma Nelson, of Prospect place. A programme will be presented that will outshine anything yet given.

A wagon, belonging to W. N. Apgar while carrying a heavy load of wood, broke down Saturday morning on Front street, Plainfield. Another wagon had to be secured to get the load home.

Holy Innocent's church has extended an invitation to the members of other churches in town to attend the dedication services of their guild room. Bishop Scarborough will be present.

ST. JOSEPH'S NEW HOME

CONSECRATED BY REV. FATHER MILLER YESTERDAY.

Intended as Temperary Abode for Women Regardless of Creed.

In the absence of the bishop of the diocese, Rt. Rev. McFaul, of Trenton, Rev. Father Miller, rector of St Joseph's, consecrated the new home of that parish on Manning avenue, yesterday afternoon. There was a large proportion of the congregation present to witness the ceremony.

The priest passed from room to room reciting the proper prayers and sprinkling Holy water; the ritual used in blessing a building. Each room is named in honor of a saint of the church and will be known in this way in the future.

The home is in charge of the Sisters of Mercy, of which Sister Philimene is the superior in St. Joseph's parish. It is intended as a temporary abode for women regardless of creed and as such will be maintained by the sisters. Recently the structure has been greatly enlarged and improved and it is now open for the reception of women, who desire to temporarily reside there.

Loud Telephones for Ships.

One of the most important instruments on modern vessels is the so-called loud-talking telephone. Experiments have recently been made with it in the German navy, and have proved so satisfactory that instruments are now being shipped on most of the large seagoing ships. The special value of this telephone lies in the fact that a captain standing on the bridge can easily hear any words that may be spoken to him from the interior of the vessel, even though a violent storm may be raging at the time, and can in turn transmit without straining his voice his own orders to officers or men in any part of the vessel. Bad accidents have occurred through a misunderstanding of orders given at a critical moment, due to the fact that words were not distinctly heard, and it is only reasonable to assume that casualties of this kind can be avoided in the future through the use of this loud-talking telephone.—Electricity.

Bells Under Water.

Rev. John M. Bacon, the English balloon expert, insists that lightships should have warning bells under as well as above water, because in a storm sound travels farther under water than through the air, and experiments both in England and America have proved that a bell struck under water can be heard at a long distance in the hold of a ship. Mr. Bacon is exploring the air over London with balloons, and he has made some interesting observations on the best methods of signaling by sound. By applying a parabolic reflector to a speaking trumpet he is able to send the waves of sound in a straight, compact beam, resembling in its directness a ray of light.—Science.

The Manufacture of Bronze Powder.

The shining metallic dust that is used to produce the effect of gilt and bronze in wall-papers, printing, lithography, mirror and picture frames, fresco painting, and so on, has its principal source in the bronze-powder factories at Furth, in Bavaria, where this industry has been highly specialized. The material is "Dutch metal," an alloy of copper and spelter. The larger the percentage of spelter the more yellowish the alloy. Seven principal tints are produced, varying from golden yellow to bright copper red. The alloy is first prepared in the form of leaf metal, which is afterward ground into powder.—Industrial Journal.

Real Troubles, These.

"Doesn't it make you feel like 'thirty cents?'" asked the real estate broker, "when you have submitted a very handsome offer to the man who you think owns a certain piece of property, to have him blandly inform you that he sold it at a better figure three or four years ago?"

"Oh, I don't know," chimed in another broker, "that isn't so bad—certainly no worse than my trick of a few days ago, when I started out full of confidence to buy the holdings of an estate from two of its executors, both of whom are dead."—N. Y. Times.

Profit in Grouse Moors.

One of the most astute proprietors of grouse moors in North Wales cleared off the sheep from his moors some years ago, with the result that the $750 a year he got for the grazing of 7,000 Welsh sheep has been more than doubled in the increase of grouse rental he enjoys from this improvement. To Americans it is a source of astonishment that grouse are found more profitable than sheep by a number of landowners in Scotland and Wales.—Baltimore News.

The Cleptoscope.

An engineer named M. Triulzi has invented a tube with crystal prisms, whereby those in a submarine boat can see what is going on at the surface of the water, says a Rome correspondent. The experiments have been entirely successful, and photography of objects on the water is possible thereby from a vessel beneath. The instrument is called the cleptoscope.—N. Y. Sun.

AN ANGEL OF MERCY.

Rare Devotion Displayed by a Noble White Teacher.

Vaccinated Hundreds of Indians During Recent Smallpox Epidemic — Fumigation of a New Mexican Pueblo.

[Special New Mexico Letter.]

OVER a year ago an epidemic of smallpox visited several Indian pueblos of New Mexico and Arizona. I was at Laguna, N. M., while this dread disease was at its height and saw with great satisfaction the intense devotion shown by the noble white teacher, Mrs. A. M. Sayre, to the pest-stricken people. Her school, necessarily, was closed, and her duties as a teacher perforce ended. Under such circumstances and with a score or more of the men, women and children of the little town afflicted with the dread and loathsome disease she might reasonably have asked for a change of location or a leave of absence. She did neither. With a bravery and heroism equal to that of any of our most applauded war heroes she stuck to her post, and, every day, changing her clothing, went to the homes of the suffering Indians, gave them medicine, attended to their personal wants, prepared such food as they could eat, and did the menial duties of house cleaning and the like. Then, wearied out, as each day closed, she would return to her lonesome little cottage, put off her pest-infected garments, carefully bathe and disinfect herself and fill her evenings in devising other means of benefiting her helpless and ignorant charges.

The world applauds the bravery of a Father Damien who goes to the leper-infected island of the Pacific, but knows nothing of the self-sacrificing woman who exposes herself to the dread smallpox because her Indian charges are so ignorant as not to know how to care for themselves, and are thus helpless when smitten by the disease. Unaided and alone she vaccinated over a hundred and fifty Indians of all ages, and personally cared for the score or more who eventually died.

The disease spread. Zuni was fearfully smitten, and then the Hopi villages were attacked. Here at once it seemed at first as if it would more than decimate the people. Then rapidly others began to succumb, until governmental interference was necessary. The Hopi are not only ignorant, but set in their ways. This is one of the belonging to a colored regiment, woes of ignorance, that it does not know that it does not know. It has done certain things for generations, and not only knows no other way, but does not wish to know. The heroic field matrons who stuck to their posts tried to teach the afflicted Indians that they must not expose others to the contagion, and those who were free from the disease were urged to keep away from all who suffered. But words were useless. The garment of a sick Indian would as readily be put on by a well one as if it were his own, and the rapid spread of the disease could well be imagined.

At last it was determined to make a bold attempt to stamp out the disease at Shungopavi, the town on the middle mesa where it seemed to have the greatest hold. The ordinary employes of the government were unable to do a thing, so the military were called upon. A force of soldiers which was quartered at Fort Wingate, was sent up to the scene, and, under the direction of the reservation physician was instructed to begin and conclude the work of cleaning, fumigating and disinfecting the homes of the Hopi. With the persistent folly of ignorance the Indians refused to allow anything to be done. They barricaded their doors and removed the ladders from the lower story of the houses so that no access could be obtained. Of course, there was no attempt at forcible ejection or armed resistance to the United States government forces, yet the persistent refusal of the Indians to allow the soldiers to enter their houses made it quite a serious question as to what should be done. How was the officer to proceed? He gave command that the doors should be forced, the barricades removed and the inhabitants brought out as gently as could be. And what a sight it was to see those commands carried out. The soldiers were not allowed to defend themselves in any other way than pugilists are, and weapons were to be entirely discarded.

The black lads in blue seemed to take the whole affair as a huge joke. They entered into the spirit of the thing with energy and enthusiasm and determined to give and take in a jolly good-natured way which nothing could overcome. Accordingly they advanced towards the village. I camped the other day on exactly the same spot where they did, and I sat and imagined their march. Though under orders they were allowed considerable freedom, and they were jolly as schoolboys as they advanced on that stony mesa top towards the narrow alleyway that gives entrance from the north to the town. They found a barricade here, and while some proceeded to pull it away, others marched around to the east and gained entrance there. Then what fun they had. The doors were fastened and on the roofs of the terraced houses above some of the Indians stood, gesticulating, screaming, shouting and threatening. A group of soldiers advanced upon one of the doors and tried to force it; and another group decided to scale the wall and thus reach the second-story houses that way. Look at the large picture. Imagine the ladders away and the soldiers making backs for one another to climb up on. Yonder a furious dame met the climbers with a melon or squash tied in a blanket, swinging it to and fro, until at last it came down with a crash upon a young negro's head. It was a case of "the irresistible meeting the immovable." The squash was smashed out of all semblance to anything and the negro laughingly climbed on, threw his arms around the old lady and held her until others of his comrades came and helped to tie her, so that she should do no further harm.

Meanwhile entrance was gained to other houses. The men and women, boys and girls dashed at the soldiers, but were one by one seized and carried outside of the village. The afflicted people were found and all taken to one house, where they were properly provided for, and duly quarantined. Then the ransacking of the houses began. Every piece of wearing apparel that could not properly be fumigated and disinfected was taken out and burned, together with every article likely to spread contagion. Then began the process of sweeping out, disinfecting and whitewashing the houses, and while this was going on now and again a desperate Indian would break loose from his guard and dash madly towards those who were burning his household goods, or desecrating his lares and penates by the unholy washings of the white man. Then perhaps some dare-devil soldier would turn the hose he held upon the wild savage and as the stream hit him full in the face, over he would go, to the accompaniment of the jests and shouts of the soldiers. It was rude and rough fun, there is no doubt, and very wounding to the feelings of the Indians, and yet I doubt if any other way would have been better. To take the matter too seriously might have deeply wounded the sensitive souls of these Indians—for we who know them realize that they are as sensitive as we are, but by doing it in this rough and tumble funny way the end would be attained with far less danger than by too great enthusiasm.

The result has demonstrated the wisdom of the plan. I was at Shungopavi last month and conversed very fully with the governor, whose picture is here given. Instead of being desperately angry with the white men, he met my proffered friendship more than half way and did what I have never had the chief of a Hopi village do before. He sent for the chief priests of the Antelope and Snake fraternities—the two chiefs who control the fascinating rites of the snake dance—and urged them to give me an invitation to be present at their celebration which takes place next year.

Soap is an effective cure for soiled hands, but they will not remain clean unless preserved from work or exposure. So also are Ripans Tabules an absolute cure for dyspepsia and attendant stomach troubles, but the troubles will come back just as long as people eat improper food or eat too much or too fast. Still soap and water will cleanse the hands to-morrow. So also will Ripans Tabules tone up the stomach. In every family where the members are in the habit of eating they require an occasional supply of Ripans Tabules, and for that reason they should be kept on hand, just as soap is, for use whenever wanted.

HEPBURN & CO.
Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—
Yours truly, R. O. RUNYON,

PRACTICAL MENTAL SCIENCE

Hold In Your Mind the Picture of Your Desire.

When an artist makes a painting, when a carpenter makes a house, if he be a successful artist or carpenter, he first forms in his mind an image of his work as completed; then he constructs it accordingly in visible material. Sometimes he finds reason to modify the pattern as the work develops, but it always develops according to an idea which is in his mind.

What do you desire most on this earth? Think carefully. If your heart's wish is one that will bring harm to another, drop it, for it will prove disastrous to yourself. Do not, on the other hand, consider what it is your duty to wish for, but just what you do wish for. You are the person directly interested.

Having decided precisely what you want, whether a sum of money or something else, make a picture of it in your mind and demand that it become yours and claim it steadfastly as yours. If you can, take a certain quiet hour or half hour of the day for seeing the object mentally and claiming it. This is only emphasizing the method the artist and carpenter employ every day. Do you desire a higher place in the world? Demand it emphatically and steadily. See yourself as already occupying that place, surrounded by all the belongings appertaining thereto.

Suppose you want, let us say, a gold watch. Like the artist and the carpenter in their field, make a mental picture of the watch, exactly the kind you want, and demand that it be yours. Carry the picture with you. See that watch in your hand or in your pocket, now here, now there, but always the same watch. If you hold faithfully to the picture, demanding at the same time that the thing come to you, sooner or later it will come to you.

This does not mean that you shall drop your work on the material plane and sit down and make mental pictures without any hustling. Both hustle and keep the picture steadily in your mind.

There is nothing farfetched or spiritualistic or mysterious in this mental picturing with a determined will. We are merely making a plain and simple analysis of the method whereby all things are accomplished. It is the word made flesh, that is all—from everlasting to everlasting the method of creation. The pictures, good or evil, constructive or destructive, that you hold in your mental atmosphere, sometimes even unconsciously, are what materialize as actual events or objects. This is not Christian Science or new thought or faith cure; it is just plain common sense.

MARY SMILEY.

EVERYDAY TASKS.

"Do the Work That's Nearest, Though It's Dull at Whiles."

Quotations somehow come handier than anything else to me this morning, and one that is running in my mind is this: "We build the ladder by which we climb." There, too, is that magnificent two word old Latin saw, Hoc age (Do this). Don't soar in your mind on eagle's wings to find great deeds to do. The great deeds will fall at your feet to be achieved when you are ready to do them; never doubt that.

Our present place is on this earth, to do neatly and well the tasks of this earth. The woman who spends her time in pious contemplation and observances while her house and husband are neglected and her children are dirty little savages is much further from being a saint than the good housewife who must sometimes skip a church meeting to tend a sick child or keep her domestic duties up to the mark.

Even Indian yogis, who are supposed to sit in the dirt and contemplate their interiors, declare explicitly that one who neglects the common duties and obligations he has voluntarily taken on himself cannot gain the knowledge of the gods.

So long as we neglect common tasks because we despise them and long for something we deem worthy of our fine powers, just so long will those plain duties press upon us harder and harder and chain themselves to us till we make ourselves attend to them. You cannot get away from an obvious duty by neglecting it. Fate looks out for that. The tasks immediately under your nose, no matter who or what you are, are the works which, if faithfully done and in the best manner you know, will fit you for something higher. Aspire always to higher things, but meantime do perfectly and cheerfully the everyday tasks. These are the rounds you must build to the ladder by which you climb to yoga or heaven or fame.

SUSAN PEPPER.

The Trouble on the Torolito.

BY FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright, 1898, by Francis Lynde.)

"Wan av thim's the Greaser, an' t'other's the scut av an ingineer," says my Mercury, scowling. "Now fwhat'll thim two be doin' on our riservation betune daybreak an' breakfast, I'd like to know?"

I STOOD MY GROUND WHEN THE PAIR GALLOPED UP.

To be consistent I should have gone indoors and kept out of sight. If I were to serve Macpherson's turn as a spy in the engineer's camp, it said itself that I must not be known as Macpherson's friend. But shame pricked into the lists, sword out and visor down, and I stood my ground when the pair galloped up.

Wykamp drew rein at the doorstone, or, to record the fact, he dragged at the leather and his horse danced an accompaniment. The animal was a fine-blooded bay which—with humane gentling and a snaffle-bit—might have been ridden by a woman; but it had been spurred cruelly in the race down the valley. In the bit of equestrian by-play I had an opportunity to observe the two men. The engineer was a disappointment. Prefigurings of a person described, but otherwise unknown, are inevitable; hence, out of the material gathered from Macpherson's confidences I had fashioned a rather melodramatic villain of the fictional school. No fancy sketch could have been farther from the fact. The engineer was a trim-built, athletic young fellow, as handsome in his way as Macpherson, though quite at the opposite extreme of the gamut of types, carefully groomed from his close-trimmed beard and curling mustaches to the well-fitting tweeds and tan leather leggings; a man of business, clear-cut, concise, aggressive, one would say, emotional only in some flood-tide of passion, and vindictive only when thwarted.

His Mexican henchman could be summed up in terser phrase: Dark-skinned as a Zambo, small and lithe as the savage little tiger-cat of his native chaparrals, with sleepy eyes, pin-points of feral intelligence that saw everything wthout appearing to, ambushed under the drooping brim of his broad sombrero; he was a plain-song assassin of the baser sort, of a type familiar enough in the pioneer period, and seen at its best when found dangling from the cross-arm of a telegraph-pole or the branch of a convenient tree.

When the bay was temporarily subjugated, Wykamp ignored me and turned to Connolly.

"Where is Macpherson?" he demanded.

"Misther Macpherson, av ye plaze," corrected the ex-trooper, mildly.

"Well, Mr. Macpherson, then,"—with a contemptuous fillip to the prefix which was not thrown away upon the Irishman. "Where is he?"

"It's lukin' for the hide an' horns av the foine shteer yez killed an' ate that he is," Connolly retorted, letting fly the first imaginative arrow that came to hand.

Much to my surprise, and much more to that of the ex-trooper, I fancy, the engineer frowned and marked down the random shot.

"It was a mistake," he said; "I'll pay for the steer. But that is another matter. My errand this morning is with your employer, but you can pass it along. You have a man here named Kilgore who should go to jail. Say to Macpherson—Mr. Macpherson—from me that if he discharges Kilgore and sends him out of the valley it will save trouble."

Connolly grinned. "It's a foine, clane-hearted gintleman, yez are, Misther Wykamp, for givin' the blagyard a chance to layvant," he rejoined, with honey on his tongue. "Would yez be afther tellin' us fwhat that profayne divil av a cowdhriver's been up to?—so we c'u'd tell the captain in avic?"

"He's been pulling my location stakes. Don't misunderstand me; I'd give him a taste of the law if there were a court within reach."

"Listen to that, now, would yez!" quoth Connolly. "Pullin' the shtakes av him! An' some av yez caught him red-handed, av coorse?"

"No; he had the nerve to bring a bundle of the stakes into camp and leave them in my tent, with his compliments."

"The impidint offal!" said Dan, laughing decorously behind his hand. "But, Misther Wykamp, dear: he's not the on'y wan."

"What's that you say?"

"I'm sayin' he's not the on'y wan. Sure, it's meself as cooked me bit av a breakfast wid a fagot av thim same shtakes wan day lasht week. It's a kind-hearted man yez are, Misther Wykamp, to be distributin' fuel for the likes av us harrd-workin' min."

What followed confirmed my diagnosis of the engineer's character touching his weakness on the passionate side. He rode with the wrist-thonged riding-whip of the east, and the stiff bit of rawhide cut a quick half-circle above Connolly's head. The Irishman caught the blow on his arm and parried it with the skill of a practiced swordsman. Before I realized what was toward, the ex-trooper's pistol was out and leveled, not at Wykamp, but at the Mexican.

"Ye would, would yez?—ye black-jowled haythin! Down wid that gun!"

A heavy revolver dropped in the dust on the opposite side of the Mexican's horse.

"Now, thin,—Mr. Halcott, dear; your watch, av ye plaze;—now, thin, ye murtherin' Paythans, it's wan full minute's shtart av the 45 I'll give the pair av yez. Vamoose!"

Notwithstanding his apparent unbalancing on the passionate side, Wykamp was no coward. Unarmed as he was, I think he would have tried to ride the Irishman down; but the Mexican set the discreet example and the bay took it as a challenge for a race. As long as they were distinguishable, I could see Wykamp struggling with the big horse; and, being a man of peace, I was glad when Connolly laughed and dropped his weapon into its holster.

"Score wan for the 'X-bar-Z.'" he said. "If the capt'in would but shut wan eye an' luk away wid't t'other, in t'ree days there wouldn't be a shtake in the Torolito or a man to dhrive ut." He picked up the Mexican's revolver and passed it to me, butt foremost. "The arrmamint av the inimy, wid the complimints av Sargint Connolly. Hold ut at arrm's-lingth whin yez toy wid ut; thim forrun tools shpit betune the cylindher an' the barr'l whin they go off. Now, thin, sorr; if you've the letther I'm at your service."

I explained, as well as I could without going into details, that the engineer's visit had canceled the trip to the fort; and Connolly rode afield to report to his employer. Macpherson came in at noon, and we held a council of war over the cold snack served in the bunk-room by Andrew the Mild.

"Honors are easy, so far," said Macpherson, when we had discussed the stake-pulling incident. "While Wykamp was here filing his allegation against Kilgore, I was at his camp, notifying his foreman that an injunction would follow any encroachment on my placer claim."

"It's a declaration of war on both sdes. You're in for it now."

"Yes, and I'll fight it out to the bitter end. I didn't mean to, at first. I had some talk with Lovatt and the others, and they proposed to buy me out at a fair figure and do the square thing all around. That was before they got hold of Selter's water-right, of course. Now they send a fellow in here who is evidently spoiling for a fight; who shoots at my men and kills my stock. They propose to ignore me—to freeze me out of the game without giving me a show for my investment. They may do it in the end, but I'll give them a run for their money."

I laughed. "Let's be frank with each other, Angus. It goes a good bit deeper with you than any struggle to hold the Torolito. You will have to admit that if Wykamp hadn't—"

"But he has," broke in Macpherson, with rising wrath. "He might have had the Torolito and welcome if he had left me that which is worth more to me than all the stock ranges that lie out of doors. But he wouldn't, and now he's got to take the consequences. She won't let me obliterate him, but I'll break him world without end before I'm through with him."

There was a vindictive emphasis in the threat which started the mill-stones of reflection. Could circumstances, and a sharp turn of the purely personal thumb-screws, transform a frank fighter into a vengeful enemy? Macpherson had always been a hearty combatant, but his antagonism was of the kind which seeks an early hand-shaking after the fact.

"Break him in a business way, you mean? How can you do that?"

His smile was inscrutable. "There's more in my placer claim than appears on the surface. Do you know where it is?"

"It's anywhere you see fit to locate it—on the line of the ditch, I suppose."

"That's where you're wrong. I didn't invent it. It is an actual gold-bearing bar, and it lies at the mouth of the upper canyon just above the site of the Glenlivat company's proposed dam."

"So Wykamp will have to go above or below it: is that it?"

Number of Telescopic Meteors.

Every observer notes a considerable number of small meteors while he is engaged in telescopic observation. The field of view of a telescope is a very small fraction of the whole surface of the heavens. A simple proportion based on the number of observed meteors enables an estimate of the number of meteors in the whole sky to be made. This estimate has been made by Dr. See, of the Naval observatory, at Washington, who concludes that about 1,200,000,000 telescopic meteors appear in the whole sky daily. About 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 meteors bright enough to be visible to the naked eye encounter the earth daily, according to the calculations of Prof. Newton. Most of them are consumed in the atmosphere. The increment of the mass of the earth is extremely small.—Science.

Sandow's Start in Life.

When in an amiable mood Sandow tells tales of his early struggle and how he became a famous strong man. Once at the outset of his career, after he had been touring with circuses and sitting as an artist's model, he found himself in low water in Amsterdam. What he wanted to bring himself to the front was advertisement; he had the strength. He suddenly turned his attention to the automatic weight-lifting machines in the town, and resolved to lift them with a vengeance. Chartering a cab, he drove all around Amsterdam, dropping a penny in the slot of each machine, gripping the handle, and—lifted. In every case the spring was smashed and the thing was thrown out of gear.—N. Y. World.

IS FRIEND OF BIRDS.

Millionaire Colorado Miner Allows None Killed on His Mining Property.

Thomas F. Walsh, of Washington, who is owner of the "Camp Bird" mine in Colorado, gives evidence in the naming of this marvelously rich piece of gold-producing property of his tender-heartedness so far as birds and harmless beasts are concerned. Not only has he named his mine after the pests of his early prospecting days, but all along the road leading from the mine to the quartz mill are posted notices which read:

"Notice—Birds and harmless beasts must not be killed on this property. It is cruel, also it is against the law. Any employe of the Camp Bird mine needlessly killing or cruelly treating any bird or animal will be discharged."

"Camp birds" are Mr. Walsh's special favorites. Long before he owned the mine which has made him envied by kings Mr. Walsh found the solitude of the wilderness more endurable because of the presence of these little camp followers. No prospector is long in the mountains before being discovered by these birds and having a retinue of them in his train. They follow when he moves his camp, and sometimes remain a whole season with one miner. They live on the refuse of the camp and soon become so tame that they may be fed from the hand. They are of a most sociable nature and seem to appreciate human companionship. Their chatter, says the Washington Star, which closely resembles that of a magpie, does much to relieve the oppressive solitude of the mountains.

KANSAS TORN APART.

Cracks in the Fields in Some Places Big Enough for Cows to Fall In.

The attention of the Kansas state board of agriculture has been called to occurrences which are mystifying the alfalfa farmers of Jewell and Republic counties. It is reported that great cracks and sink holes are appearing in the alfalfa fields there, says a Topeka correspondent of the New York Sun.

The cracks are sometimes rods in length, from two to six feet in depth, and from one to ten feet wide. They appear only in alfalfa fields, and the farmers have never before seen anything like them.

They do not come gradually, but suddenly. It is becoming dangerous to drive a team across alfalfa fields because the ground may suddenly sink beneath it.

Some section hands were working on a railroad track a few days ago near an alfalfa field on the farm of Edward Randall, not far from Jewell City. They heard a cow low but there was no cow in sight. The sound seemed to come from under the ground.

They made a search and discovered the cow in an alfalfa sink hole, several feet below the surface. The cow was so weak that she could not stand after she had been dug out.

The alfalfa plants have very long roots. One theory is that these roots loosen the ground so that it is washed away by an underflow.

TROUT KILLED GRAYLINGS.

The Fish Commission Failed to Allow for Poetic License and Lost Their Fish.

Sportsmen will rejoice to know that the government fish commission seems to have solved the problem of propagating grayling. There are very few grayling streams in the world, and a few of those are in the United States.

Two of the best are in northern Michigan and the rest in Montana. The grayling inhabits streams similar to those in which trout thrive. They are different from the trout in appearance, more delicate but equally gamy, and take practically the same bait and the same flies. In the Michigan streams trout were planted with the grayling, says the New York Times, for the fish commission believed that if Tennyson's brook could hold the brooks of Michigan could be made to do likewise. But they failed to allow for poetic license, and discovered when too late that the trout destroyed their little rivals. An attempt was made to propagate the disappearing fish, but the attempt failed. Then some one noticed that the grayling of Montana seemed to be of a different variety, and more hardy. The commission tried these and is succeeding admirably in their propagation.

"Here and there a lusty trout, and here and there a grayling,"

Snow Fireplaces.

Sixty degrees below zero is the frightfully cold atmosphere in which Alaskan gold hunters must often work. They make fireplaces of snow in that desolate region. The snow is pressed into blocks like bricks and a fireplace two or three feet square is built with them. When the fire is lighted the snow, of course, melts on the surface; but when the fire is out this freezes so hard that the next fire causes it to become only damp. A snow fireplace used only for cooking purposes will last for an entire winter.

Big Horse.

Comparatively few horses attain to 17 hands, but Kansas boasts of one that measures 20 hands and weighs 2,412 pounds. This big creature is owned by a man named Stout, who lives in Doniphan county.

FOOTBALL.

John Turner and George McComb, two of the members of the former Plainfield Association Football Club, will go to Newark, tomorrow, for the purpose of conferring with association football captains from this section of the State with reference to forming an association league. It is said to be their intention to reorganize the P. A. F. C. team and carry on the game with renewed vigor. The forming of a league will no doubt be the means of making association football more popular in this city.

ROD AND GUN.

Edward Sebring, of Somerset street, left Saturday for Monticello, N. Y., on a hunting trip.

A. I. Smalley, of Somerset street, and Thomas Brantingham, of South Plainfield, have returned from a hunting trip through West Virignia. They brought back a lot of game.

A match shoot for 100 birds and $100 has been arranged to take place at Campbell's Club House Wednesday afternoon, between Scott and Puck, two local cracksmen. The match will be followed by sweepstake shooting. Stages will leave West Second street and Park avenue at 1 o'clock sharp.

FORMER RABBI TALKS.

Rev. Dr. Faust, Now Mission Worker, Told of Hebrew Customs.

Facts of an instructive nature concerning the form, customs and doctrines of the Jewish religion were enunciated in an address made by Rev. Dr. Faust, of New York, for years a distinguished rabbi, now a Christian mission worker, at Grace church parish, yesterday afternoon. His subject was "Ancient and Modern Rabbinical Customs" and he clearly stated many salient points of interest to Christian people.

Many to Congratulate Her.

William C. Woodruff, of East Second street, gave a birthday party Saturday afternoon at the home of his son, Frank E. Woodruff, of Duer street, in honor of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Woodruff, who is eighty-four years of age. All the members of the Woodruff family residing in this vicinity were present to congratulate the guest of honor.

Dinner to Senator-Elect Welsh.

A dinner was given by City Clerk James T. MacMurray at his home, Saturday evening, to a number of friends in honor of his guest, Senator-elect Jacob W. Welsh, of Morris county. Covers were laid for twenty-five. City Judge William N. Runyon acted as toastmaster during the speeches which followed the collation.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

DEDICATED BY DR. WHITNEY

NEW BUILDINGS OF INSTITUTE AT HACKETTSTOWN.

Dedicatory Exercises Took Place Thursday and Friday—Six New Buildings.

The dedication of the Centenary Collegiate Institute took place at Hackettstown, Thursday and Friday.

There was an address by Rev. Dr. H. A. Buttz, president of Drew Seminary, Madison. President Charles W. McCormick delivered his inaugural, while Rev. Dr. E. A. Noble, superintendent of Brooklyn Seney Hospital, made the congratulatory address for the alumni. Rev. Dr. George H. Whitney, of this city, president emeritus, gave the dedicatory address and dedicated the buildings, six in all.

The group of structures constitute what is considered the most attractive and best adapted for the purpose of any co-educational school in the land. The plant is valued at over $260,000. The debt is but $35,000, which it is expected will soon be removed. The school opened two months ago with 150 students. Two hundred can be accommodated.

EFFORTS APPRECIATED.

A. O. H. Gave Members of Fair Committee a Dance.

In order to show its appreciation for the work accomplished in its behalf, Division No. 4, A. O. H., entertained the members of the various committees in charge of its recent fair at the home of Patrick Harrington on West Fourth street, Saturday evening. Music, dancing and refreshments were the feature of the affair. Naylor's orchestra furnished the music for dancing.

Funeral of Mrs. Breem.

The funeral service of Mrs. Margaret Doyle Breem took place from her late residence on Richmond street at 8 o'clock this morning, and was followed by solemn high mass at St. Mary's church, at 9 o'clock. There was a large concourse of friends present at both services. Rev. Father Farley officiated The pall bearers were James Daley, Fred Moon, Robert Eick, John Owens and George Mehl. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

North Plainfield Represented.

Homer J. Wightman, superintendent of the North Plainfield schools, attended the meeting for child study, held in the First Presbyterian church, Newark, Saturday.

Mrs. Bitting, wife of Rev. Dr. Bitting, and Mrs. A. S. Nichols, of New York, have been guests at the home of B. J. Shreve, of Grove street.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

C. E. Gulick, of Lincoln place, is quite ill.

Pedro Riesgo, of New York, is the guest of Harry Brown, of Putnam avenue.

Theodore Anthony, of Fishkill Village, N. Y., attended the funeral services of his brother, John W. Anthony, in this city yesterday, and while here was the guest of his nephew, E. E. Anthony, of 444 West Front street.

Miss M. G. Morse, of Franklin place, returned Saturday afternoon after spending a week as guest of Miss Genevra M. Miner, at Freeport, L. I. Miss Miner returned with her and is spending a few days in Plainfield.

Red Jackets Coming.

Red Jacket Company, No. 4, of Elizabeth, will be the guest of the Warren Engine Company tomorrow evening. The firemen will arrive on the 9 o'clock trolley and will be met at the trolley depot by the Warren boys and the Independent Fife and Drum Corps. A supper will be given in Saengerbund Hall, which will be followed by a dance.

Trouble for Trolley.

A broken axle caused an interruption in the trolley traffic at the Putnam avenue switch, near Woodland avenue, yesterday morning. It was late in the day when the axle was sufficiently repaired to permit the removal of the car.

Funeral of Mrs. Washington.

The funeral of Mrs. Amie Washington was held at the home of her father, W. H. Manning, of West Fourth street, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. W. Mitchell officiated. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Senior Class Entertainment.

The senior class of the Plainfield High School will hold its entertainment in the assembly room of the Franklin building tomorrow evening. Dramatic selections will form the principal part of the programme.

Attended Teachers Meeting.

Miss Mertie Montague, one of the teachers of the North Plainfield public schools, attended the meeting of the New Jersey High School teachers Association, held in the Newark High School building, Saturday.

Joined a Plainfield Choir.

E. Maxwell Honeyman has resigned his place in the choir of St. Ignatius church, New York, to sing first tenor in the male quartette at the First Presbyterian church. He sang there yesterday for the first.

School Board Meeting.

The regular meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education will be held Monday evening, December 16, instead of December 30, on account of the holidays.

An Automatic Bouncer.

A novel invention used in the north of England is a sort of automatic "bouncer" for use in public houses. Punctually at closing time the legend: "Time, please, gentlemen!" appears on a glass face, and then an electric gong starts ringing with such amazing power that it becomes quite impossible for even the most enthusiastic toper to occupy the bar for another instant.—N. Y. Tribune.

An Isolated Berth.

INSTALLATION SERVICES.

Were Continued at Fillmore Baptist Church Yesterday.

Special services at the Fillmore Baptist church, as part of the installation of Rev. J. E. Crudup, were conducted yesterday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon, Rev. N. A. Harris, of Newark, was in charge. Last evening, Rev. J. G. Coleman, of Steelton, Pa., preached an excellent discourse.

The installation will be concluded this evening, the sermon being preached by Rev. Elliott, of Newark. He will be assisted by Rev. Mr. Love, of Montclair. Special museic will be rendered by the Fillmore choir. At the close of the services, a collation will be served

Mr. and Mrs. Linke, of Newark, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac P, Runyon, of Somerset street, yesterday.

Japanese and Their [illegible] Collars.

The increase of stature among the Japanese is very perceptible; and the substitution of tepid and even cold water for the hot baths among many of the people is responsible for an increasing floridity of the complexion. Before the advent of military discipline on European models the Japanese were notable as the smallest-necked race in the world, a firm of London collarmakers with a large trade to Japan asserting that 13 inches was the normal circumference of a full-grown Japanese's throat. In a little over 20 years, owing to more athletic development, the average has risen an inch and a half. To athletic development should also be added greater avoirdupois, inasmuch as a more generous diet and abstention from parboiling is bringing in reward in an accumulation of muscle and tissue.—Chambers' Journal.

Old Names for Guns.

As the use of artillery became more common and the advantages of portability and a greater rapidity of fire were recognized, guns, except among the orientals, became smaller, but of better workmanship and construction. Inventors began to try their hands at all sorts of improvements or attemps at improvements, and in the course of a hundred years or so the number of different pieces of cannon, large and small, muzzle or breech-loading, was simply leverins, bombards, mortars, perriers, serpentines, carthouns, curtalls, passevolants of zebratanas, basilisks, orgues, sakers, minions, mojanes, falcons and falconets, robinets, fowlers, bases, slings, portpieces, murderers, drakes, aspics, double dogs, and lagtors, to say nothing of ribadoquins, flying dragons and partridge mortars.—Gentlemen's Magazine.

Quaint Duties in Isle of Man.

There was a quaint ceremony at Castletown one day lately when the great inquests for the three southern "sheadings" of the Isle of Man were sworn. The duties of these inquests are curious and interesting, since they include the presenting of punishment for all persons who encroach upon the commons and other public easements, of all persons who suffer their pigs to go unringed, and of persons who keep horses and cattle suffering from disease. The inquests have also to see that millers are sworn to deal honestly with the public.—London Mail.

BIG SOCIETY WEDDING TAKES PLACE TOMORROW

Marriage of Miss Katherine Reinhart to J. T. Thayer, at Grace P. E. Church.

IS FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

PREPARATIONS HAVE BEEN MADE ON AN ELABORATE SCALE.

List of Those Who Will Compose the Bridal Party—Distinguished Party of Ushers—Ceremony in the Evening.

Society is eagerly awaiting the Reinhart-Thayer nuptial festivities which take place tomorrow evening. Preparations on a most elaborate scale have been made and there is no doubt but that it will be one of the brilliant functions of recent years.

Miss Katharine Reinhart, the bride, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Reinhart, of Belvidere avenue, and is one of the charming young women in the local smart set. The groom, John Atkinson Thayer, of Charleston, West Virginia, is a lawyer of note in his native State, and has figured prominently in southern society.

A bevy of handsome young women will be the bridemaids. They include Miss Florence Waring, Miss May Waring, Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, of this city; Miss Eleanor Bosher and Miss Helen Christian, of Richmond, Virginia; Miss Carman Ryan, of Williamsport, Pa., and Miss Julia Parmelee, of New Haven, Conn. Mrs. Edward T. VanBuren, of this city, a sister of the bride, will be the matron of honor.

The best man will be Richard Mc Grann, of Lancaster, Pa. Daniel Vaux Buckley, George H. Brook, Ulysses Mercer and Maurice Belknap, of Philadelphia; Joseph Beury, Davis Elkins and W. T. Thayer, of West Va.; Dalton Newcomb and John S. Wise, of New York, and Lieutenant Edwin Gilpin, of Washington, will be the ushers. E. M. VanBuren will act as a page.

Grace Episcopal church, where the nuptial ceremony will take place, has been profusely decorated. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, the rector, will officiate and the full vested choir will sing the wedding marches. Mrs. William A. Freeman will act as organist.

Following the ceremony at the church, a reception will be held at the home of the family on Belvidere avenue. The invited guests include distinguished personages from many points, some from the metropolis, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Lancaster, Williamsport, Charleston, Wheeling, Beury, and others from far distant places, many of them being intimate friends of both the Reinhart and Thayer families.

In anticipation of the happy event, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Reinhart gave a dinner to the bridal party at their home last evening. The color effect of the dining hall was white, roses, carnations and chrysanthemums being largely used.

Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, gave a delightful luncheon to the bridal party at 2 o'clock, this afternoon. George H. Brook, one of the ushers, was the only member of the party absent. He is detained in Philadelphia by his laborious duties as sporting editor of the North American.

The ushers are quartered at the pretty little lodge on Mr. Reinhart's estate. Some of the men are quite well known. John S. Wise is a son of the Governor of Virginia; Davis Elkins's sire is the United States Senator from West Virginia; Lieutenant Gilkin is attached to the regular army; Maurice Belknap is a prominent barrister in Philadelphia, as is also George H. Brooke, who will be recalled as the famous full back on Pennsylvania's eleven and as a football critic. Ulysses Mercer is a relative of the late Judge Mercer, of Bradford county, Pa. Joseph Beury hails from Beury, W. Va., as does also W. T. Thayer, and both are well known in aristocratic circles of that State. Dalton Newcomb is prominent in New York business life.

Church Bazaar.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Lutheran church will hold a bazaar in the church parlor Wednesday and Thursday evenings, December 11 and 12. The doors will also be open in the afternoons of these days.

A Christmas Tree.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will have a Christmas tree Friday evening, Dec. 27.

GREAT PIANIST COMING HERE

JOSEF HOFMANN WILL VISIT WARD STEPHENS.

He Will Play for a Number of Mr. Stephen's Friends Saturday Evening.

Josef Hofmann will visit Plainfield Saturday night and be the guest of Ward Stephens.

In the afternoon, Hofmann will play with the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Carnegie Hall, New York, and with Mr. Stephens will take the 4:40 train to Plainfield. At 8:15 a number of Mr. Stephens' friends will have the pleasure of hearing the great pianist at the residence of Mrs. David Moore, of Central avenue.

It is frequently a matter of curiosity andspeculation as to the amount paid a great artist for a performance. Mr. Hofmann receives for every performance $1,000 and a percentage of the gross receipts of the house. His season's work will net him about $150,000. There will be no programmes printed for Saturday evening's music. Mr. Hofmann will play by request and inspiration.

A NEW PASTOR INSTALLED

AT GERMAN LUTHERAN CHURCH LAST EVENING.

Rev. H. Theodore Duenssing, of Brooklyn, Assumed Charge of That Church.

The installation of Rev. H. Theodore Duenssing, of Brooklyn, as pastor of the German Lutheran church, took place last evening with impressive exercises. There was a large attendance of members, as well as members from the Swedish Lutheran church.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Fred. H. Bosch, pastor of St. John's Evangelical church, Brooklyn. At the conclusion of the sermon, Mr. Bosch installed the pastor, while the trustees, Richard Warneck, Theodore Luerssen and Charles Ficke, stood beside him and obligated themselves with him.

After this part of the service, Rev. Mr. Duenssing spoke a few words to his people and asked them to support him in the effort to preach the Gospel and work for the salvation of souls.

After the service all were invited to the Sunday-school room, where a committee consisting of Mrs. Koch, Mrs. Stengle and Mrs. Harten served coffee and cake.

WARRANT FOR ALLEN.

Chief Kiely Made Formal Complaint Against the Alleged Plainfield Burglar.

Chief Kiely appeared before Justice Nash, this morning, and swore out a warrant for breaking and entering against Thomas Allen, the Plainfield colored man now in the State prison at Trenton awaiting trial for robberies committed in Mercer county.

In his complaint, the chief specifies four local residences and two railroad stations which the man is said to have robbed. The warrant will be served on Allen today but he cannot be brought to Plainfield until he is through with the Mercer county authorities.

A Bold Theft.

A well-known young man about town while passing Endress' meat market Saturday afternoon deliberately lifted from a hook a bunch of quail and made off with it. Several employes saw the theft and gave chase, finally catching the young fellow. He returned the birds and no charge was made against him.

Gone to the Front.

James McCann and Patrick Lyons, two well-known Plainfielders who recently enlisted in the regular army, sailed with their companies Friday for the Philippines. They entered for a term of three years and will probably see active service in that time.

Preparing for New Tenant.

The law offices in the First National Bank building recently vacated by W. K. McClure, have been thoroughly renovated and placed in first-class condition. The new tenant, Francis J. Blatz, will take possession this week.

Juniors Will Celebrate.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., has decided to celebrate Christmas Thursday evening, Dec. 26, when the tree will be lighted.

An Elaborate Festival.

The Sunday-school of the First Baptist church is planning for an elaborate Christmas festival this season.

STRICKEN DOWN WHILE AT POST OF DUTY

Alexander D. Manning Died After Delivering Load of Coal.

FROM HEART TROUBLE.

TAKEN HOME JUST IN TIME TO DIE THERE.

Old and Trusted Employe of Boice, Runyon & Company—Taken Ill While at Work—Died at Once.

Heart trouble caused the sudden death of Alexander D. Manning, of Park avenue, late yesterday afternoon. He was for many years a valued employe of Boice, Runyon & Co., and it was while attending to his duty that the end came.

During the afternoon he had been performing his customary work of delivering coal. On the return from one of these trips he was seized with an attack from the heart. Henry Meyers, another employe, was with him at the time. As he rapidly grew weaker, Meyers supported him and prevented him falling to the ground as the wagon entered the coal yard. Hastily but gently the workmen at the yard removed him to his home, which is but a short distance from the firm's office. Dr. T. S. Davis was quickly summoned and, on arriving, pronounced Mr. Manning dead.

For some years past he has been afflicted with heart trouble and the hard work of carrying bags of coal only served to make him worse.

He had the reputation of being a conscientious, thrifty man and was very industrious. For thirteen years he had been in the employe of Boice, Runyon & Co., and well known and highly respected in the community. He was an exempt fireman and took an active interest in the association. The wife and two brothers survive him. They are William and Jacob Manning, both of this city. He was sixty-one years old.

The funeral services will be held from his late residence, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

SCHOOL DEBATE.

Held at North Plainfield High School This Morning.

In a debate at the North Plainfield High School, this morning, on the subject: Resolved, that capital punishment should be abolished, a decision was made in favor of the affirmative, which was represented by DeWitt Brokaw and Leslie Hallock. Fred Armstrong and Edward Overton presented the side of the negative.

The judges were three teachers, the Misses Mary Bush, Gertrude Snodgrass and Mertie Montague.

MARKED IMPROVEMENT.

Was Noticed at Rehearsal of Men's Choral Club.

The rehearsal of the Men's Choral Club, last night, was marked by a better attendance than ever before. With Howard Case at the piano, Wm. E. MacClymont was able to give his entire attention to the conducting and there was in consequence a more united attack in all of the leads.

The club has welcomed to its membership several strong new voices, and everything points to a successful concert in the near future.

Christmas at Children's Home.

The Board of Managers of the Children's Home is planning for the annual celebration of Christmas-tide at the Home. Last year the event had to be given up on account of illness among the children, but at present it looks as though the event will be fully enjoyed this year.

Endeavor Social.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a social this evening in the lecture room of the church, to which all the members and their friends are invited.

Work of a Woman.

The art calendars bearing photographs of the local churches which many Plainfielders have seen in the local stores of late, are the work of one of the city's fair young women.

Adjourned Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the Common Council will be held Monday evening, Dec. 30, when business for the year will be concluded.

Monthly Business Meeting.

The Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold a regular monthly business meeting tomorrow evening.

MAY CHANGE PLEA.

Local Officials Say Sweeney Intends to Plead Non Vault and Not Wait for Trial.

It is asserted by local officials that William Sweeney, the young man committed to Elizabeth to await the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of embezzlement, intends entering a plea of non vult at once.

By so doing he can appear in the Court of Sessions at tomorrow's sitting and be sentenced immediately.

By adhering to his original plea of not guilty he cannot be tried until February.

The offense Sweeney is charged with is punishable by a maximum penalty of two years in States prison or $500 fine or both. The chances are if convicted he will be sent to the Rahway Reformatory for first term prisoners.

IN BLAZE OF GLORY.

Thus Ended the Firemen's Fair at Saengerbund Hall Last Evening.

A big attendance marked the close of the West End Hose Company's fair in Saengerbund Hall last evening. Dancing and music as well as contests livened matters up.

In the money raising contests Miss Maggie Kiely won a gold watch and Wesley Garthwait was awarded a fine gun. Prize bowling attracted many and the awards were: John Retzel, a turkey; John Wirth, a lap robe; Chas. Meyer, a bottle of wine; and Albert Perry, a bottle of wine. John Lloyd and Jacob Kreutzfell were given prizes for making the lowest scores. Souvenirs were distributed among all the visitors.

MUSICAL CLUB CONCERT.

Excellent Programme by Dunellen Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Dec. 10.—At the home of Miss Emma Nelson, of Prospect avenue, last evening, the Dunellen Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club held the first of three informal receptions which they will give this winter instead of the one regular public reception.

The programme consisted of selections by the club; 'cello solos by Miss Helen Dunham; piano duets by the Misses Irene Day and Emma Nelson; selections by a quartette composed of the Misses Josie Dealaman, Edith Boice, Flora Wilgus and Ada Weatherwax; guitar solos by W. H. Blair and banjo selections by the Misses Boice, Dunham, Nelson and Day and Abner Coriell, accompanied by Miss Josie Dealaman.

The selections by the club were excellent and showed the masterly way it has been drilled. After the musical programme was over refreshments were served and then dancing started and continued until a late hour.

The affair was attended by a large number of friends of the club and they showed their appreciation of the excellent programme by the hearty applause which they gave.

SERIES OF SERMONS.

To be Given by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck at Trinity Church.

Commencing Sunday morning, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will preach the first of three sermons, as follows: December 15.—"The World's Preparation for the Advent of The Messiah;" December 22.—"The Messiah's Advent in the Fulness of Time;" December 29.—"The Three Distinctive Features of Christianity."

To Extend Lincoln Boulevard.

Arrangements have been made to open Lincoln boulevard from East Bound Brook to Dunellen. It will be necessary to build a bridge across Ambrose creek and one at Green brook. This improvement will shorten the wagon road from Plainfield to Bound Brook fully one mile.

Caught Cold in the Eye.

Fred Pasch, of Race street, is suffering with a swollen left eye, caused by a cold setting in after the optic was injured, while Mr. Pasch was doing some carpentry work at St. Joseph's church during the fore part of the week.

I. W. Travell Made President.

Principal Ira W. Travell, of the Plainfield High School, was elected president of the New Jersey High School Teachers' Association at its meeting in Newark, Saturday.

Interesting Sermon.

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, preached an interesting sermon Sunday evening on the theme of being reconciled to God.

A Bad Cut.

Patrick Sullivan, of Giraud avenue, fell a few days ago and cut his head severely. It required a number of stitches to close the opening.

UP IN COURT FOR THE KNIFING AFFRAY

Four of the Italians Found Guilty and Fined for Their Share.

BEFORE RECORDER DOUD

HEARING IN THE CASE WAS HELD LAST EVENING.

Velardo Brothers Arrested Again on State Warrant and Held for Grand Jury—Charge Was Assault.

As a result of the slashing and gashing affray among the Italians on Watchung avenue, Friday afternoon, the borough treasury is $54 richer than it was before the trial, which took place before Recorder Thomas Doud, last evening.

All the participants in the affair, except Gueton Dantz, who is still laid up in the hospital, pleaded not guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct. Antonio d'Do and Angelo Cordelo were represented by William Newcorn. Walter Hetfield appeared for Salvini Velardo and his brother, Leonard Velardo, while William G. DeMeza was counsel for Dantz.

Of course, each one of the defendants endeavored to wash his hands of the affair and blame the others. J. J. Stahl, F. M. Slater, Jr., and Mrs. Snyder were among the witnesses.

The recorder conferred with Mayor Smalley, who sat with him, and subsequently imposed the following penalties: Antonio d'Do and Cordelo, $10 fine and three days in jail each; Velardo brothers, $10 fine and seven days in jail each. Later by d'Do and Cordelo paying $20 each and the Velardo brothers paying $17 each, the prisoners were released.

As soon as the Velardo brothers left the court room they were placed under arrest again by Constable Pangborn on a warrant issued by Justice Mattison on the affidavit of Mrs. Dantz, charged with having assaulted her husband. They were immediately given a hearing before the justice, George D. Totton, of Somerville, representing the State. Bail to await the action of the Grand Jury was fixed at $300 each. C. M. Meeker went on the bonds.

AFTER A MURDERER.

Trenton Detective Found Williams Has Been at Raritan.

Patrolman McCarthy and Detective Clancy, the latter of the Trenton police force, spent all day yesterday in the vicinity of Raritan searching for Franklin Williams, the Trenton murderer, who was reported to Chief Kiely as being in this section of the State. Several persons reported having seen the suspect and one Raritan citizen when shown a picture of Williams positively identified it as a man he had seen near Somerville Sunday. The Trenton detective will continue the search.

Repairing Damage of Fire.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to John Abbott to make repairs to the Tier house on Bank place, which was damaged by fire recently. Mr. Tier proposes to have the present style of roof removed and in its place have a French roof. The work will be started at once.

Rehearsal, Then Dinner.

The members of the Cox-Judson bridal party held a rehearsal last evening in the Presbyterian church, Brooklyn Heights, after which the bride's father gave dinner to the party at the Hamilton Club. The wedding takes place tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clook in Brooklyn.

Medal Contest.

The medal contest to be given at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening by Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., gives promise of being an enjoyable affair. Mrs. L. R. Howard, of Madison avenue, will take a prominent part in the programme.

HEBREW FEAST OF CHANUKA

NOW BEING CELEBRATED BY JEWS IN THIS CITY.

This Evening Marks the Seventh Day—Rabbi Lights Candle Each Evening.

The Feast of Chanuka is being celebrated by the Jews of this city. It lasts eight days. Sunday services marking the fifth day were held in the synagogue Beth Tefila Ishia Yental, Rabbi B. Rosenson officiating. Appropriate hymns and recitations were given, Miss Ida Rosenson rendering a solo and the Misses Rosa Rottberg, Rosa Siegel and Esther Wolf singing a trio.

This evening marks the seventh day of the celebration. Rev. Mr. Rosenson lights a candle in commemoration of the occasion each evening. The feast commemorates the miracle of God in keping the light in the temple of Palestine burning for eight days in the year 2069, when the Greeks had stormed the Hebrews. Ordinarily the light in question would only burn for twenty-four hours but through the providence of God it remained lighted until the Jews regained the Temple.

Prayers are said in the homes of the Jews every evening.

IN SOMERSET COUNTY COURT

BASKING RIDGE'S BAD BOY SENT TO REFORM SCHOOL.

December 20 Set as Time for Hearing in Pearson and Fryer Cases.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 10—John J. Ryan, the Basking Ridge boy, who played various pranks about his home town and nearly burned the Catholic church at Bernardsville, has been sent to the State Home for Boys, at Jamesburg, by Judge Schenck. He will be taken there by the sheriff in a few days.

Judge Schenck, in the Orphans' Court, has fixed Dec. 20 as the date for hearing the exceptions to the accounts in the Oliver Pearson and Wm. Fryer estate.

Wm. J. Pearson and John F. Pearson are executors of the former and Wm. J. Pearson of the latter. All are North Plainfield parties. Wm. A. Coddington, of Plainfield, is counsel for the accountants and F. A. Pope, of this place, represents the exceptants.

Prayer Vs. Medicine.

The Literary Society, of the Calvary Baptist church, will hold another of its debates Wednesday evening. The subject will be "Which is the most essential to long live, prayer or medicine?" It will be argued by James W. Brook and George H. Jones. A cordial invitation is extended all interested to be present.

Will See Old Year Out.

The Endeavor Society of Triniiy Reformed church is planning a meeting for Tuesday evening, December 31. The old year departing and the birth of the new year will be observed. M. Seymour Purdy will have charge of the meeting which will last from 11 to 12 o'clock.

Reduced Recorder's Salary.

At the meeting of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W., last week, the members decided to make the salary of the recorder $25 a year instead of $40, and hereafter all members not paying their dues by the twenty eighth of each month will be dropped from the roll.

Meeting of Primary Union.

At the meeting of the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union, held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A., the lesson, "The Passover," was taught by Miss Shreve. The topic was blackboard work and Mrs. Banke was in charge.

Fell From Second Story.

While attempting to close a shutter at her home a few days ago, Miss Polly Gurran, of West Eighth street, lost her balance and fell from a second story window. She was painfully bruised and has since been confined to the house.

Improving His Home.

Election and Smoker.

Central Lodge, No. 58, Ancient Order United Workmen, will elect officers and hold a smoker Thursday night.

MADE THEIR DEBUT AT CASINO RECITAL

Miss Willis and Miss Howell Gave Their First Recital Last Evening.

AUDIENCE WAS LARGE.

THEY WERE ABLY ASSISTED IN EVENING'S PROGRAMME.

Miss Colt, Reader, and Hobart Smock, Tenor, Added Pleasure to the Affair—All Were Frequently Encored.

Before society's approving eye, the music loving public of Plainfield warmly received the two charming young women who made their professional debut at the Casino, last evening. It was a recital given by the two, Miss Bertha Van Nuise Willis, soprano, and Miss Saidee Mae Howell, pianist. They were particularly fortunate in having to assist them Miss Mae Jean Colt, of New Haven, Conn., and Hobart Smock, of New York.

Of course, everybody was particularly interested in Miss Willis and Miss Howell. They proved themselves fully equal to the occasion, however, and gave a very delightful recital. Miss Willis has a sweet soprano voice which possesses a quality of unusual attractiveness. She sang sweetly and without effort. Her reception was enthusiastic and she was compelled to respond to the applause several times. Her Scotch songs were specially pleasing.

A light but firm touch, combined with excellent technique, made Miss Howell's rendition of her selections very acceptable. The selections were well chosen and displayed her versatile ability. She also accompanied Miss Willis in pleasing fashion. Her "An den Fruhling," by Greig, found even more favor than most of the others.

Miss Colt, reader, made a decided hit. She had a simple, unaffected way with her that was charming. Her first selection, the chamber scene from Hall Caine's "The Christian," was quite an undertaking but she handled it very creditably. She was repeatedly called upon for encores.

Equally pleasing was Hobart Smock, tenor soloist of All Angel's church, New York. His voice was sweet but powerful and he sang with much feeling. Several of his selections were in German. A bright little skit, "She is So Queer," particularly delighted the audience. His accompanist was Charles E. Reynolds.

The fashionable audience, which crowded the hall, was well pleased with the programme and made known the fact with hearty applause. Miss Willis and Miss Howell both received a number of handsome bouquets. The ushers were Ralph Willis, Charles Dupee, Harry L. McGee, Raymond A. McGee and Gifford W. Cooley.

MADE A HIT.

History of "The Brixton Burglary" Since it Came to America.

After a record of some 200 nights at Terry's and the Strand Theatre, London, "The Brixton Burglary," which will be presented at the Casino Saturday afternoon and night, was brought to this country by Manager Shubert of the Herald Square Theatre, New York. It was given its first New York production at Manager Shubert's Broadway playhouse, May 20. That was pretty late in the season to risk a new play. The risk was well warranted, however, for it made an immediate hit and ran along until the extremely hot weather of July called a halt to theatre-going.

It was the concensus of opinions among the newspaper critics of New York that this farce comedy is the best importation of its kind since "Charley's Aunt." It romps along through three acts without a single dull moment.

Tonight's Lecture.

Some of the more inaccessible yet none the less interesting places will be visited at Y. M. C. A. Hall this evening in company with one who is well able to describe the places he has visited. The lecture, entitled "An Odd Way Around a New World," will be illustrated with an excellent series of views.

Praise Meeting.

The Women's Home and Foreign Misisonary Societies of the Crescent avenue church, will hold a praise meeting at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the parlors. Addresses will be made by Mrs. Janvier, of India, and Miss Josephine Petrie, secretary of the Young People's Societies.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants.

These attractive hats at Bonn's on West Front street are winning trade and favorable comment.

Many bargains are offered in men's clothing at the Star Clothing Company's store on West Front street, where the business is being closed out.

Have you noticed the stylish coats and dresses for women at the Paris Cloak Company's store on West Front street? They are attracting much attention.

Andrew Love, Jr., the East Second street liveryman, prides himself on having the finest turnouts in town. His hobby is to have the horses always well groomed.

The Union Furniture Company's store on East Front street presents a beautiful sight this week. It is teeming with handsome goods which the proprietors claim are just the thing for holiday presents.

Druggist Armstrong, of North and Park avenue, has a most complete line of solid ebony goods, such as hair brushes, hand mirrors and the like. Silver and cut glass needful articles like perfume and talcum bottles are also among his Christmas assortment.

The sea food store of Foss & Jeter, on Park avenue, attracts many visitors through its display of curious specimens of the finny tribe. Jerry Foss, the senior partner, himself an old fisherman, has a faculty for getting rare deep sea inhabitants that excite attention.

THEATRICAL.

At Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, next week, Capt. Woodward's troup of trained sea lions heads the bill. Jacques Inaudi, the mental marvel, holds over from last week, so great was his success. Other important attractions are the B. F. Keith spectacular production. There are twenty-five beautiful young women in this production, which is a conceit of melody and motion that is very entertaining. Others on the long bill are Waterbury Bros. & Tenny, musical comedians; Charles Vance, the southern singer, Jame and Fanny Donovan in an Irish comedy sketch; Meers and Orno, European wire act; Harry Howard's ponies; Mr. and Mrs. Swickard, comedy singers; Naomi Ethardo, equilibrist; The Gregsons, singing and dancing act, and many others. Continuous performance from noon to 11 p. m., 50 cents.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

LITERARY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. F. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.
AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

February 5, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington street.

CASHIER STOLE CASH

Los Angeles Bank Loses the Sum of $100,000.

MUCH TRUSTED MAN IS MISSING.

Institution's Credit Not Impaired by the Theft—Search Being Made, and Prosecution Awaits Official If Found.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 10.—H. J. Fleishman, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants' bank of this city, has disappeared with a sum of the bank's money which Vice President H. W. Hellman estimates at $100,000. The shortage has just been discovered. Fleishman has not been seen since 9 o'clock Saturday morning. At that hour he was at his club. He notified the bank people that he was ill Saturday morning and would not be at his desk. Nothing was thought of the matter at the time.

Fleishman has been cashier and assistant cashier of the Farmers and Merchants' bank for many years. He began work for the bank when a boy in 1875. He was under bond with a surety company for $30,000. In addition to this he has real estate and personal property in this city sufficient, in the opinion of Mr. Hellman, to protect the bank from the loss of a dollar.

Fleishman married the daughter of A. J. Harrell, a wealthy cattleman of Visalia, but was divorced some time ago. He was a man of forty-two years of age, medium built and smooth face.

The Farmers and Merchants' bank, of which I. W. Hellman is president and H. W. Hellman is vice president, is the oldest and strongest bank in southern California. Its capital is $500,000, with a surplus of $1,000,000 and deposits of $5,500,000.

H. W. Hellman said of the missing cashier:

"The fact that we have been robbed of $100,000 cuts no figure. The bank will go on as usual and will not be in the least handicapped by the loss of such a sum, which, while large, does not affect the capital of the concern at all. I am greatly grieved and disappointed in the man. He has been in our employ for more than twenty years and of course was looked upon as one of the best men in our service or he would not have held the position so long. I have made up my mind to prosecute him to the end should he be captured. We have wired every section of this country and Mexico, and I have every hope that he will be captured eventually. There will be no compromise."

Construction Train In a Wreck.

PERU, Ind., Dec. 10.—A box car loaded with workmen ahead of an engine of the construction train on the Cincinnati, Richmond and Muncie railroad jumped the track two miles east of this city yesterday afternoon and rolled down a fifteen foot embankment, resulting in the fatal injury to one man, serious injury to two and minor injuries to twenty other occupants of the car. The men fell in a heap in one end of the car, a redhot stove catching Perry Landers of North Judson beneath it and pinning him down until extricated by fellow workmen. He was horribly burned, and slight hopes are entertained for his recovery.

A Claim In Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Mrs. Caroline Blickle of Allegheny, Pa., has written to President Roosevelt asking his assistance in securing what she alleges is due her from a fortune of $100,000 or more left by an uncle, Charles Brenig, who went to Hawaii in 1800 under the name of Simeon Webert. She alleges that the will under which Samuel M. Damon, formerly a member of President Dole's cabinet, is made chief beneficiary was forged.

All Bids Rejected.

HAVANA, Dec. 10.—The municipal council of Cienfuegos has voted to reject all bids made to sewer and pave the city and to build waterworks therefor. This rejection includes the proposition made by Michael J. Dady of Brooklyn to construct a sewer and aqueduct for Cienfuegos at a cost of $2,700,000.

Major Van Tets Not Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Central News retracts its statement from Amsterdam, dated Dec. 8, to the effect that Major Van Tets, who was reported to have been wounded in a duel with Prince Henry of the Netherlands, had died Dec. 5, saying it was a telegraphic error.

WHAT CARNEGIE DID

An Offer of Ten Millions For National University.

TO BE LOCATED AT WASHINGTON

Proposition to Endow an Institution For Higher Education Made to the President—Matter to Be Submitted to Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — The Washington Post this morning says that President Roosevelt has received a letter from Andrew Carnegie in which the latter offers to make a donation of $10,000,000 to the United States. The letter will be referred to congress by the president in a special message.

Mr. Carnegie's gift is for the purpose of establishing in Washington a university for higher education. As far as his idea has been developed it proposes a gift after the manner of the bequest of James Smithson, the Englishman, who gave $1,000,000 for the establishment and maintenance of what is now known as the Smithsonian institution. Smithson desired the institution founded by him to be a factor in "the diffusion of scientific knowledge."

Mr. Carnegie proposes that the university which he is to endow shall be the greatest institution in the world for the development of higher education. He has consulted President Gilman of Johns Hopkins university, President Hadley of Yale, President Eliot of Harvard, ex-President White of Cornell and all the leading educators of the country. They heartily indorse his plans. The proposed university will not interfere in the least with the educational institutions already established, but will supplement them, for, according to the present plans, its doors will be open only to those who desire to take up a postgraduate course. Mr. Carnegie also wants the new university to take the lead in original research, so that the United States can eventually stand side by side with Germany, if not excel that nation, in scientific development.

Mr. Carnegie's plan does not propose a national university in the sense that an appropriation will be asked or needed. The government is simply to be the trustee of the magnificent endowment, just as it administers the fund bequeathed by Smithson.

The amount of money to be given by Mr. Carnegie equals the sum of the present endowment fund of Harvard and is considerably more than the invested fund of Yale. With the Catholic university, the Methodist university and the proposed Carnegie university, Washington will be the educational center of the country.

Funeral of the Drowned Skaters.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 10.—The funeral of Miss Bessie Blair, daughter of Hon. A. G. Blair, minister of railways and canals, and H. A. Harper, who were drowned in the Ottawa river Friday night, took place here yesterday. The Prince of Wales, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain and Lord Strathcona sent telegrams of sympathy and condolence to Mr. and Mrs. Blair. In the evening at a mass meeting of citizens, the mayor presiding, it was decided to erect a monument to the memory of Mr. Harper for his gallant act in giving up his life in an attempt to save Miss Blair.

Austrian Reichsrath Threatened.

VIENNA, Dec. 10.—Dr. von Koeber, the Austrian premier, caused a great sensation here yesterday by his speech in the reichsrath. He practically threatened the suspension of the constitution if the house persisted in its obstruction. He declared that mere dissolution of the house would not meet the requirements of the case and that the existing state of affairs not only justified the government in changing the constitution, but that he called upon the government to save the state.

Buffalo Treasurer Resigns.

BUFFALO, Dec. 10.—City Treasurer Philip Gerst, who was suspended by Mayor Diehl pending an investigation of the books of the city treasurer's office, has resigned. The resignation will have no effect on the proceedings against Gerst on charges of misuse of the city's money. He will be given a hearing before the mayor today.

Great Loss of Life on the Lakes.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The loss of life in navigating the great lakes during the past season was larger than in any previous season since the use of modern vessels. The death list shows a total of 132 persons compared with 110 last year.

Governor Odell Ill.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Governor Odell has been confined to his bed since Saturday evening, when he had a sudden attack of illness. He is under the care of a physician, who says the governor's indisposition is not serious.

Recess For Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The United States supreme court has taken a recess until Jan. 6.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

FEDERATION OF LABOR.

A Proposition to Boycott Machine Made Cigars Defeated.

SCRANTON, Dec. 10.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor was in session only two hours yesterday, adjournment being taken in order to enable the several committees to consider the large number of resolutions still in their hands.

There was a lively discussion on the floor of the convention over the question of boycotting machine made cigars. It is the same question that the Cigar Makers' International union has brought up at previous conventions of the federation, and the union has always been defeated in its fight against the introduction of machinery in the cigar trade. At the present time not a machine made cigar in the United States, it is said, bears the label of the Cigar Makers' International union. The matter came up in the form of a resolution presented by President Gompers, John C. Deernel and Thomas F. Tracey of the Cigar Makers' union and was referred to the committee on labels. It denounced a certain company for making cigars by child labor and machinery and called upon the federation to assist in unionizing the various plants of the company.

It was pointed out to the cigar makers that the best thing to do was to organize the operators of the machines and adopt a wage scale, just as the typographical and other unions have done when machinery was introduced in their trades. The discussion promised to be very lengthy, but the moving of the previous question quickly ended the debate, and the resolution, with the word "machinery" stricken out, was adopted as recommended.

Philippine Tariff Discussed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Secretary Root, accompanied by Colonel Edwards, chief of the insular division of the war department, was with the Republican members of the ways and means committee throughout yesterday afternoon going over the Philippine tariff situation. Mr. Root emphasized the fact that the new tariff of the Philippine commission had gone into effect only a few weeks ago, on Nov. 15, and he favored a continuance by congress of the rates established by the commission. Representative Russell thereupon determined not to further urge the proposition he had put forward earlier in the day for a 15 per cent preference to American goods. The committee took no final action.

Some Probable Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Senator Mason of Illinois, after a brief interview with the president, stated in all probability three of the most important federal officeholders in Chicago would be reappointed. These are William Penn Nixon as collector of customs, John C. Ames as United States marshal and William P. Williams as assistant treasurer of the United States. It is understood that the long and somewhat heated contest over the appointment of pension agent at Topeka, Kan., is almost certain to be closed by the appointment of the incumbent, Mr. Cyrus Leland. It is stated that Henry W. Brendell will be appointed collector of customs at Buffalo.

A Squabble at Tientsin.

TIENTSIN, Dec. 10.—A sentry belonging to an Indian regiment stationed here ran amuck and killed two of his comrades. A company of Punjab infantry was at once turned out to secure him. In the meantime the sentry had been shot by German troops, who then opened fire on the Punjabies. A free fight ensued, as a result of which three German privates were killed and a German officer mortally wounded, while three of the Indian troops were killed and several wounded. The German troops have been confined to their barracks until further orders.

Two Killed In Railway Collision.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Dec. 10.—A headend collision between an extra eastbound freight and No. 54, a freight, two miles north of here, on the Northern Pacific railroad, resulted in the death of two trainmen and the injury of five others. Three engines and thirty-three cars were destroyed.

Fierce Storms In Great Britain.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—There were very severe gales and snowstorms, accompanied by thunder and hail storms, throughout Great Britain yesterday. Much damage is reported as a result. A number of chimneys were blown down, and there have been some fatalities. There are six inches of snow in the north of Scotland.

Endeavorers Select Troy.

TROY, N. Y., Dec. 10.—The state executive committee of the Christian Endeavor society met in this city and decided to hold the next convention in this city Oct. 27, 28 and 29, 1902. The matter of the Sunday liquor question was touched upon and referred to a committee.

The Illinois All Right.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Engineer In Chief Melville has investigated the published reports that the machinery of the battleship Illinois, now in dock at New Orleans, has been found defective, and as a result it is declared that the Illinois' machinery is all right.

WILL APPEAL TO CONGRESS.

Change of Plans by the McKinley Memorial Arch Association.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The William McKinley National Memorial Arch association has determined to change its plan of operation so as to appeal to congress instead of to the public for the erection of the proposed McKinley memorial at Washington.

Secretary Gage offered the following resolutions, which were seconded by Mr. Thomas F. Walsh and adopted:

"Whereas, through a resolution presented to this committee by the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association it is represented that a canvass of the country for subscriptions to the proposed memorial arch in Washington will be prejudicial if not destructive to the erection of a proper monument or memorial over the remains of the late president at Canton; therefore,

"Resolved, That this committee give up its appeal to the country for popular contributions for the memorial arch in Washington and turn its attention and efforts to secure from congress an appropriation from the public treasury sufficient in amount to erect in Washington a memorial which in a fitting manner shall represent the nation's appreciation of the noble character and distinguished public services of William McKinley.

"Resolved, That this committee accept the tender of earnest co-operation from the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association to erect by the means of congressional appropriation the proposed memorial arch in Washington."

The association will be reincorporated, and contributions received by the association for the proposed memorial arch will be returned.

Miss Cropsey Kidnaped?

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Dec. 10.—A member of the committee of five which has charge of the search for Nell Cropsey, whose mysterious disappearance has created a sensation throughout the state, said last night that he expected important developments within forty-eight hours, adding that he believed the girl had been kidnaped and that they would succeed in finding her. A mass meeting was held, at which over 1,000 people were present. Chairman H. T. Greenleaf of the special vigilance committee of five made a speech, saying he believed that, after chasing shadows and rainbows, they had at last brought to light a tangible clew, which they were assured, if followed up, would clear up the mystery. They could go no further without more funds, however, as the previous subscriptions had been exhausted. The meeting resulted in about $200 being raised.

A Decline of Theologues.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 10.—Announcement is made that the Theological seminary catalogue will be issued in two weeks. A striking feature is the falling off in the enrollment over previous years. In 1896 there were nearly 250 students enrolled, and now the number is 133, being twenty-three less than last year's enrollment. Dr. Warfield said the decline in the enrollment of students was noticeable in practically all of the Presbyterian seminaries of the United States.

Settlers Want Indian Reservation.

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 10.—Agitation has been started in northern Idaho for opening the Cœur d'Alene Indian reservation to white settlers. This reservation, which partly surrounds Lake Cœur d'Alene, contains more than 500,000 acres, including much fertile land and valuable forests of white and yellow pine. It is also said to contain rich mineral deposits, but the value cannot be determined while the land is held as a reserve.

General Wood Leaves Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—General Wood, military governor of Cuba, left here last evening for New York, where he will take the first steamer sailing for Havana. One of the objects of his visit to Washington was to advocate liberal commercial legislation with Cuba and another related to the transfer of the reins of government of the island to the Cuban president and his assistants to be elected in the spring.

Frozen Body of Woman Found.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The body of Mrs. Clena Hendrickson, a widow, was found frozen in the meadows near Matawan, N. J. She was seventy years of age. Mrs. Hendrickson had lived with her daughter, Mrs. James T. Gray of Holmdel, but two weeks ago insisted on earning her own living and went to work for a farmer. She left his house a week ago without saying where she was going.

Twenty-one Miners Arraigned.

VINCENNES, Ind., Dec. 10.—Sheriff McCord of Washington has brought twenty-one miners, charged with rioting and arrested in Montgomery and Washington, to this city. They were arraigned for a preliminary hearing. The men came here peaceably, and it is thought they will all plead guilty and place themselves at the mercy of the court.

Roosevelt's Christmas Plans.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Roosevelt has accepted an invitation from General Bradley T. Johnson of Virginia to spend Christmas with him. It is understood that the president will be accompanied by his wife and children and will be absent from Washington for two or three days.

Mrs. Dale Not Guilty.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The coroner's inquiry into the death of Emeline Dale, the child of Elizabeth Howe Dale, was held in Hoboken last night and resulted in a verdict of accidental death from poisoning.

A TILT IN THE SENATE

South Carolina Senators Open Up Old Sores.

TILLMAN DARES M'LAURIN TO RESIGN

Senator Hoar Expresses a Doubt as to the Validity of the Title of Either Gentleman to a Seat.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The senate chamber was the scene of a highly dramatic episode yesterday when Senator Tillman of South Carolina challenged his colleague, Senator McLaurin, to resign with him on the spot in order, to use his own language, that they might be able "to wash their dirty linen at home." Mr. McLaurin did not take up the gage. The incident was the direct sequel of the very bitter controversy which arose between the senators in South Carolina last spring.

Mr. McLaurin arose to a question of personal privilege and proceeded to explain what he charged was a conspiracy to discredit him in his own state for acts and views which did not meet the approval of certain Democratic leaders. He declared that he was being humiliated and, according to public prints, was to be excluded from the Democratic caucus because he had acted upon certain public issues in a way which he considered was for the best interests of the country and the people of his state. He announced himself a believer in the old Democracy and, after denouncing the new Democratic leaders who, he said, had brought destruction upon the party, declared that he could not be driven from his old allegiance into a party with which he did not care to affiliate.

Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic national committee, denied that he had any "ulterior motives" in not inviting Mr. McLaurin to enter the caucus. Mr. Tillman reviewed the whole controversy. Mr. Hoar took occasion to express the opinion that it was very doubtful whether both the South Carolina seats in the senate were not in reality vacant. He contended that when the resignations were offered last spring to the governor they could not be withdrawn thereafter, having become immediately operative. The climax came when Senator Tillman challenged Mr. McLaurin to join with him in preparing their joint resignations and handing them to the presiding officer of the senate. This challenge Mr. McLaurin did not accept, and the episode was brought to an abrupt close by Senator Lodge moving an executive session.

Senator Lodge presented to the senate in executive session the report of the committee on foreign relations recommending favorable action upon the Hay-Pauncefote isthmian canal treaty and gave notice that he would ask the senate to go into executive session for the consideration of the treaty, repeating the request each day until the senate should act upon it.

The report of the committee on judiciary recommending the confirmation of Attorney General Knox was submitted, but went over until today.

Senator Hale introduced a number of bills relating to the navy, among them being bills to enable naval courts martial and naval courts of inquiry to compel the attendance of civilian witnesses, to equalize the pay of officers of the navy with those of corresponding rank in the army and marine corps, to authorize the commandants of naval stations beyond the continental limits of the United States to convene general courts martial for the trial of offenders under their command and to authorize an increase of the enlisted force of the marine corps.

Senator Hoar introduced a bill giving the United States jurisdiction in cases of lynching and making the crime of participation in lynching punishable by death. He also offered a resolution to authorize the president to enter into negotiations with other civilized countries for the purpose of selecting some island or other suitable territory to which might be transported and confined persons instigating or counseling the destruction of all government or those attempting the lives of chief magistrates. The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Canal Route Leased.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 10.—Dr. Fernando Sanchez, Nicaraguan minister of foreign affairs, and William L. Merry, United States minister to Nicaragua, Salvador and Costa Rica, have signed a treaty by which Nicaragua agrees perpetually to lease to the United States a section of Nicaraguan territory six miles wide, which includes the route of the Nicaragua canal.

Chile Buys Warships.

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, Dec. 10.—Chile has just purchased three torpedo boat destroyers and one cruiser. The minister of the Argentine Republic at Chile and the Chilean minister of foreign affairs are still in conference, and it is fully believed they will come to terms in the matter of the dispute between the two countries. Public feeling here is perfectly tranquil.

M'KINLEY MEMORIAL FUND.

The McKinley Memorial Association of New Jersey has been organized as auxiliary to the McKinley National Memorial Association. The purpose is to collect a national fund, a portion of which will be expended in erecting a suitable monument to the beloved President at his former home in Canton, Ohio; the rest to be devoted to the building of a memorial arch in Washington.

If a monument is to be erected to the memory of William McKinley, now is the time to collect the necessary funds. The heart of the whole nation is still tender with grief for the President, who was so sincerely loved and so foully assassinated. The several States have taken up the matter, through their respective governors, United States senators, congressmen and leading citizens, and have apportioned the sums expected to be subscribed by the citizens of each State.

New Jersey is asked to contribute $30,000, a small sum for a commonwealth so large and populous. That Union county will contribute her full share share of this sum there is not the least doubt. Subscriptions in any amount will be received and acknowledged. The executive committee for Union county consists of Gov. Foster M. Voorhees, United States Senator John Kean, Congressman Charles N. Fowler and Chas C. McBride, of Elizabeth; Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of this city, and H. B. Rollinson, of Rahway.

To any of these subscriptions may be sent, and they will be forwarded to General Plume, who is the treasurer of the State Memorial Association. Those who wish to send to The Daily Press office may do so, and the amounts received will be acknowledged.

According to the Philadelphia Record a leading retail clothier in New York tells why "the most successful advertisers the world over pin themselves to the newspaper as being the best method." The chief reasons are that "the newspaper goes into the homes at all times, in all weather, travelers read it, and and so do stay-at-homes; all other kinds of advertising are lost to those who are confined to the house, but these read their newspaper, and their influence is strong. The certainty of its being read by the general public is the great advantage of the newspaper advertisement."

The attraction of the readers of The Daily Press is called to the "Column for the Shoppers" which is found today on page two. This column will be made a daily feature hereafter. It will contain items concerning Plainfield stores and will be found full of interesting facts for every man, woman and children in city and borough.

It looks as if Plainfield was going to have two association football elevens in the field. The Y. M. A., of Hope chapel, has one and the old Plainfield Association Football Club is talking of reviving its team. The game has achieved wonderful popularity since its introduction here a year ago.

Do not let the officials of the Plainfield Water Supply Company make you believe that it will be impossible for them to put in water meters. Look at the example of the Elizabeth Company.

The home conducted by the Sisters of Mercy, of St. Joseph's R. C. church, promises to be a very worthy institution. Women will be cared for there regardless of religious belief.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The ten miles between Trenton and Princeton are run by trolley in twenty minutes, the papers say. The twelve miles between Somerville and New Brunswick require a good sixty minutes.—Somerset Messenger.

WARNS THE PUBLIC.

N. W. Pike Writes Concerning a Local Book Agent.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—
I am constrained by a sense of duty to this community, through your valuable medium, to warn them of a certain book agent plying his craft through a game of confidence, representing himself as a divinity student under the title of "Rev." and by a scheme he calls the "time order" of a presumed respectable Fifth avenue firm of book publishers. The contract is represented to be at the option of the subscriber which is solicited as a personal favor voucher to be canceled at the expiration of a limited time, if so desired. The innocent victim is easily caught by the scheme and the usual confidence in a "divine," and subsequently finds himself bound by an iron-clad contract for $50 worth of books.

The undersigned is a victim of this rascal's deception ostensibly caught granting a favor to a "poor divinity student." N. W. Pike.

WILD RIDE.

Three Children Went Through a Runaway Without Injury.

The horse owned by W. W. Wilson, the West End grocer, attached to the delivery wagon, ran away yesterday afternoon at the corner of West Seventh street and Grant avenue.

Mr. Wilson's sons, Willie and Miles, and Bow Mosher were in the wagon and they were unable to control the runaway horse. All the children could do was to remain in the wagon and await results.

Fortunately the horse ran home into the barn, but Thomas Flynn caught the animal as he was entering it.

FIFTY COUPLES THERE.

Danced Until a Late Hour Under Auspices of Local Social Club.

Red Men's Hall was the scene of an enjoyable dance last evening, given under the auspices of a local social organization composed of young men. Fifty couples were in attendance and glided about the waxen floor until an early hour this morning. Music for the occasion was furnished by Suhr and Stuart.

The committee in charge consisted of Nelson Peterson, George Apgar, Wm. Reynolds, Charles Overbaugh and Irving Mills.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. Safe pills. L. W. Randolph.

Funeral of Mrs. Pasch.

The funeral of Mrs. Augusta Pasch, of Harrison street, took place at the house yesterday afternoon. Rev. C. L. Goodrich spoke in English, while Rev. G. Hauser officiated in German at the services. The pall-bearers were Herman Hanson, Gustave Fiering, Lewis Bimble, Sr., Albert G. Perry and John Rymon. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Lost One Finger.

While working about machinery in the Hibbard-Ely-Rodman factory, Saturday afternoon, Elias Baugborn, of West Fourth street, had his right hand badly crushed. It was temporarily dressed, but at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, it was found necessary to remove one finger. It thought that the remaining members can be saved.

Getting Ready to Sue.

John L. Force, of Westfield, has placed his case against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company in the hands of Walter L. Hetfield, for injuries received at Garwood Sunday evening Dec. 1, when he was thrown from a car.

Prominent Guest.

George T. Reiss, of Hamilton, O., is the guest for a few days at The Plainfield Hotel. Mr. Reiss is a prominent official of the Niles Tool Works at Hamilton and is in Plainfield on business for the company.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Court Dunellen, I. O. F., held its regular monthly meeting last evening, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Court deputy, Wilson Fredericks; court physician, Dr. P. W. Brakeley; chief ranger, Magnus Johnston; vice-chief ranger, Travis Sutphen; recording secretary, Robert Carpenter; financial secretary, William Wyckoff; treasurer, John Peters; orator, Lewis Schneider; organist, Frank Humpston; senior woodward, Herbert Wyckoff; junior woodward, Charles Dunham; senior beadle, Frank Touzeau; junior beadle, Harry Apgar. The Court is now in a very flourishing condition. Last night, three new members were initiated and six applications for membership were received.

The defendant side of the case of Tappen against Staats, in regard to the eligibility of Dunellen to have a freeholder, was heard before Commissioner Voorhees at New Brunswick, yesterday. After a short hearing the case was postponed until next Monday. Borough Clerk O. A. Douglass was summoned to appear with the borough books which were found to be in excellent condition.

A considerable amount of property on Rock avenue, North Plainfield, was sold at a sheriff's sale for W. H. Stites, of this place. The property was bid in by Frederick Hinkle for the amount of judgment.

While attempting to cross the street in front of a rapidly approaching horse, on his tricycle, yesterday, Allan Fredericks, eldest son of Wilson Fredericks, of Dunellen avenue, was thrown to the ground but luckily escaped severe injury. He was badly shaken up and bruised, however.

The roof on the Apgar house on Dunellen avenue has been completed and the house now gives every indication of being a handsome structure.

The Epworth League, of the Methodist church, will hold its regular monthly business meeting after prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

A meeting of the stewards of the Methodist church was held in the church last evening. Matters of finances were discussed.

Paul Reusch is having a new hot water heating apparatus put in his home. P. F. Baldwin, of Newark, is doing the work.

Stone carting has again been started from Garretson & Gray's stone crusher after a delay caused by bad roads.

Isaac Stites made a business trip to Somerville, yesterday. He purchased some property at a sheriff's sale.

George Huff has bought a new horse to replace the one he was obliged to have killed some time ago.

John Herbert, conductor on the Central Railroad, is spending his vacation at home.

Fred Stillger and James McMann have resigned positions on the Central Railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Terry entertained relatives from Westfield yesterday.

Abram Nelson, of Plainfield, visited relatives in town yesterday.

New electric light wires have been put up on Jackson avenue.

W. H. Terry has had the porches on his house painted.

The checker club will meet tonight with W. H. Cole.

A. A. Douglass spent yesterday in New Brunswick.

NEW MARKET.

The many friends of Miss Stella Sofield gave her a surprise party, last evening, in honor of her twenty-first birthday. The affair was arranged by the Christian Endeavor Society and several other societies of which the young woman is a member. They met at her house early in the evening and took her completely by surprise. She soon recovered herself, however, and entertained her guests in a pleasant manner. Games and music helped to make the occasion a pleasant one. Refreshments were served before the guests departed for their homes.

Now that the skating season has come again the need of a trolley line between here and Plainfield or Dunellen is emphasized more than ever, as there is a good deal of traffic every day.

Arrangements have not yet been completed for the social which the Christian Endeavor Society expects to give.

W. B. Smith, the baker, has purchased a new horse for his delivery business.

William Slaw, of Bound Brook, has returned after a visit with friends in town.

There was no skating at all on the pond yesterday.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

An enterprising Plainfield merchant erected a large sign on Mountain avenue along the roadway several days ago. As there is an ordinance forbidding the posting or erecting of advertisements of any kind upon the highway, Judge Clark notified the merchant that unless the sign was removed, proceedings would be brought for the breaking of the ordinance. The sign was moved by permission upon private property so as to be within the law.

The patent medicine show which has been at Excelsior Hall during the past two weeks left Monday morning for Sterling. Charles Ruby had the contract for carrying the company.

Business of importance will be transacted at the semi-monthly meeting of Fanwood Council, R. A., in their rooms this evening. A large turnout of the members is desired.

Charles Elliott, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia for several weeks, has recovered very nicely and is able to go out for a short time each pleasant day.

Summons has been issued in Judge Clark's court in the case of Cullen against Pierson, summons returnable Friday at 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gibbs, of Bayonne, have been visiting at the home of Mr. Gibb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gibbs.

Miss Lulu Hollingsworth led an interesting weekly meeting of the Epworth League in the Methodist church last evening.

William Borkowsky, who has been visiting his uncle, Henry C. Cook, has returned to his home in Brooklyn.

The pupils in the public school have finished their regular quarterly examination.

Rev. G. M. Shott spent Monday with friends in New York.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The first of the Washington Social Club's dances will be held tomorrow evening in Washington Hall. The committee of arrangements is Frank Faulks and Charles Patterson.

Dr. W. Kempton Browning, of Plainfield, has opened a branch office at the home of Justice Weaver. His local office hours are from 11:30 to 12:30.

Thomas H. Brantingham returned home yesterday from Jane Lew, West Virginia, where he has been rusticating for several weeks.

A valuable pet ferret, which T. H. Brantingham secured from the south a year ago, died yesterday.

Miss Georgia Brantingham has accepted a position at Woodhull & Martin's store, Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dingler have returned home after a visit with out of town friends.

The regular weekly prayer meeting of the Baptist church will be held this evening.

A live-bird shoot will be held at Edward Campbell's Hotel, tomorrow afternoon.

Adam Deiter has been entertaining his brother, of Woodbridge.

BOXED HIS EARS.

Conductor Durling Used Summary Measures With Marcus Hoyt, at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 10—Marcus Hoyt, of Plainfield, a son of D. C. Hoyt, of this place, proprietor of the County Hotel, and Walter Durling, a conductor, had a "run in" here last night and there is considerable bad blood because of the trouble, especially on the part of Hoyt.

Durling was off duty. It was while Hoyt was waiting to take a train, it is said, that he spied the conductor walking toward the depot. "You're a lobster," yelled Hoyt, whereupon Durling, who is a big fellow, it is alleged, boxed the featherweight's ears.

Hoyt declares he will have Durling arrested, but it is probable he cannot find anyone who will make out a warrant.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

In Justice Hand's Court.

Summons were issued in Justice Hand's court, yesterday, in the contract cases of Griffen against West; same against Phillips; same against Barker; same against Thiers. All are returnable December 16.

New Pastor to be Called.

There will be a business meeting of the members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church Sunday, when the question of calling a pastor will be considered. As yet there is no particular choice.

What Music Costs in London.

Teachers of music in London must collectively receive a great amount of money in the course of a year. From the return which has just been furnished by the Guildhall School of Music it appears that the professors there received no less than £23,291 ($116,455) during last year, and, as is well known, the charges to students at the Guildhall school are not nearly so high as at some of the other centers of musical instruction in London. There are no fewer than 123 teachers of one kind or another at the Guildhall school. Some of them receive very small amounts, and in no case did the figures run to four figures. Mr. J. Wolff, teacher of the violin, received £791 ($3,955); Mr. E. Bach, professor of the pianoforte, received £732 ($3,660); Mr. Arthur Thompson and Mr. Wallace Wells, for lessons in singing, received £665 ($3,315) and £652 ($3,260) respectively; and Mr. R. Orlando Morgan, for lessons on the pianoforte and in harmoney received £645 ($3,225).—St. James' Budget.

Driving Out a Cork.

At a prominent social club the other night a man won a bet of ten dollars by driving a cork out of a bottle. There were several who wanted to wager large sums that he couldn't do it, but being a guest he declined all but the ten-dollar bet, on the familiar ground of "Gentlemen, I don't want to rob you." It was an ordinary whisky bottle, full up to the neck. He proposed to grip it firmly in the left hand and strike with the palm of his right smartly upon the concave bottom, holding the bottle in a horizontal position. In a reign of deepest silence he smote, and to the surprise of all the cork flew out. Anybody can do it, he says.—N. Y. Press.

Royal Events Next Year.

It is said that 1902 will witness not only a splendid coronation, but also a king's marriage. Alfonso XIII. of Spain is already older than were many of his ancestors when they assumed the cares and responsibilities of matrimony, and the fact that his elder sister (and heiress), the princess of the Austrias, expects to present her husband with a prince or princess in December makes the Spanish people anxious to see their sovereign safely married. The youthful king's choice is limited to Roman Catholic princesses, but the kaiser, who seems to have time for everything, is looking out for a suitable wife for his young "brother."—Detroit Free Press.

What the World Owes Asia.

On the whole, when the continent of continents is fairly viewed in her length and fullness of history as in her breadth and wealth of land, Asia must be held at once the cradle of humanity, the birthplace of nations, the nursery of the world's religions, and all right-thinking men must hope that the debt of the western world to the queenly continent will be paid in full measure, and in peace and good will to the men of ancient lineage, whether their skins be brown or yellow.—N. Y. Sun.

Getting Ready to Carve.

The man who was dining with the family for the first time began the conversation.

"Wasn't that the dinner bell that just rang?" the stranger asked.

"Yes," replied the old friend of the family.

"Then, where's the host going? I just saw him pass down the hall with his overcoat on."

"That wasn't an overcoat; it was a mackintosh. We are going to have roast duck."—Denver Times.

Signs He Didn't Like.

Mr. Bellefield—I'm not superstitious generally, but I have seen some signs lately that I decidedly don't believe in.

Mr. Bloomfield—What were they? Did you see the new moon over your left shoulder or something of that sort?

"No; I went hunting and saw signs warning hunters to keep away."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Learns a New Trick.

When I first went to Hampton I do not recall that I had ever slept in a bed that had two sheets. The sheets quite puzzled me. The first night I slept under both of them, and the second night I slept on top of both; but by watching the other boys I learned differently.—From Booker T. Washington's "Up from Slavery."

Mistake in the Account.

"The prisoner offered this court a bribe of 50 cents to turn him loose," said the indignant crossroads justice.

A RIOT IN SCRANTON

Officers Attempt to Make an Arrest and Fight Follows.

THREE OF THE MOB ARE SHOT.

Sequel to Sunday Night's Attack Upon Detective Cosgrove—Magistrate Declares He Will Use Entire Police Force if Necessary.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 10.—The most serious of the many riots that have taken place here in connection with the street car strike occurred yesterday afternoon on Luzerne street.

Special Officer Frank Schoffield, accompanied by Detective Cosgrove, who had his head cut in Sunday night's riot, went to the scene of the Sunday night riot to apprehend any one the detective might be able to identify as having been among his assailants. They attempted to arrest a man in a saloon, and no sooner was the warrant exposed than a crowd of miners attacked them with drills, clubs and bottles and put them to flight. As they were retreating backward down the sidewalk, protecting themselves with drawn revolvers, some one in the mob fired two shots.

At this the officers and a nonunion motorman who accompanied them began to shoot into the crowd and, after emptying all the chambers of their revolvers, thereby scattering the mob, beat a retreat to Main street. As they fled the mob kept up a steady fire from places of concealment.

Three of the mob were shot, but their wounds are not serious. Daniel McAuliffe received five shots in his left leg. William Dunn was shot in the hip. The name of the third wounded man could not be learned, as he was able to find his way home. The other two are in the hospital. None of the company men were hit.

Special Officer Schoffield, who was serving the warrant, is a striking conductor. He accepted a position as special officer in Magistrate Miller's court to put in time until the strike should be settled.

Magistrate Miller says he will serve the warrant if he has to send the whole police force to back up his officer.

Bay State Municipal Elections.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Eighteen Massachusetts cities, including Boston, will hold elections today, and all but one will choose a chief magistrate. In the case of Medford the present mayor, Hon. Charles S. Baxter, is a holdover, and only a city government will be elected. As usual, there are spirited contests in nearly every city, and in thirteen the present executives are seeking re-election, with more or less opposition, except in Melrose, where Mayor Larrabee is the only candidate. In Boston there are three candidates pitted against Mayor Hart. The Democratic managers in this city claim that General Patrick A. Collins, the party candidate, will be elected mayor by 7,000 plurality, while the Republicans seem confident of re-electing Mayor Hart by about 3,000.

Postoffice Robberies.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 10.—An unusual number of postal peculations have been reported to the postal inspector of this district. William L. Tennyson, a postal clerk, was arrested on a charge of rifling a mail pouch between Fiktown and Rock Creek, Tenn. James O. Stokes was arrested and confessed to robbing the postoffice at Ten Mile Stand, Tenn. The postoffice at Smyrna, Ga., was robbed Sunday night. The safe in the office was blown open and stamps and money order funds taken.

Concentration Camps to Be Improved

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Lord Onslow, parliamentary secretary of the colonial office, speaking at Crewe last night, announced that the concentration camps in South Africa had now been placed under the control of the civil authorities, that no pains or expense would be spared to place them in the healthiest possible condition and that those concentrados wishing to go to the coast would be freely permitted to do so.

A Tacoma Disaster.

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 10.—A fire broke out in the dry kiln of the Tacoma Mill company. An explosion occurred, burying six men in the wreck. William Gallagher, a ladderman, was fatally injured. Lieutenant George Osborne was slightly injured. The dry kiln is a wreck, and 75,000 feet of lumber was destroyed.

IS THIS SO?

Plainfield People Can Decide.

You would not accept the word of an utter stranger as readily as that of a person whom you knew. The following statement is made by a citizen, perhaps a neighbor. Read it:

Mrs. M. A. Hall, of 219 Prescott place, says: "For several years I had a dull aching pain across my back, at times extending to my hips. I was compelled to lie in just one position all night and stooping, lifting or bending forward aggravated the pains. Although I used different remedies that were recommeded to me I obtained little if any relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed in our daily papers and procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It was not long before I felt great relief and I was surprised how quickly the pain in my back disappeared."

For sale by all dealers, price 50c. a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Russian Nobility Arrogance.

The Russian nobles (by which is meant the class we call gentry, for nobles they are not in our sense of the word) are the standing terror of the land, and are practically more dangerous to the state than all the nihilists and all the revolutionary societies together. Their ramifications permeate everything, and their power is the more real because it is not seen and cannot be subjected by the whips of the Cossack. For the most part idle and, contrary to general opinion, very poorly educated, completely ignorant of everything outside Russia and equally ignorant of everything inside it, accustomed to and exacting the most servile homage from the commercial and professional classes, the aristocracy of Russia (pace the use of the world) is probably a greater source of danger to the empire than were the profligate and dissolute peers of France to their country before the revolution. To the Russian aristocracy must be given Panem et Circenses, just as in the Roman forum, in the days of Rome's decay, the clamoring mob demanded bread. Every department of state (and in Russia these departments are multimillion) is besieged by applicants for employment—the hangers-on of the aristocracy—with the result that a horde of useless, incompetent people live on the public revenue.—Fort nightly Review.

"One of my customers had a very distressed feeling after eating, and I advised him to use Ripans. He tried a 5-cent package, and, not being satisfied with the result, purchased a small vial from one of the 50-cent boxes, getting six Tabules in glass for 10 cents instead of ten in a pasteboard carton for 5 cents. When he had used those he said: 'I don't feel right yet. I don't believe Ripans Tabules are any good.' Knowing the formula of Ripans, I was sure they would cure if he would only continue their use, but he did not believe in patent medicines, so I told him to call in next morning and I would have something for him. I emptied two of the 5-cent packages of Ripans into a bottle and sold them to him for 25 cents, and called them digestive tablets, and wrote on the bottle the name of the ingredients of which the tabule was composed. He used them, and reported they were just the proper medicine and had cured him."

WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents per vial) is sent to Messrs. Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York. Ripans Tabules will not satisfy. RIPANS, 25 for 5 cents, may be obtained at any drug store. Some dealers, when asked for a cheap medicine, may say they have something just as good, but this is sold with the intention of deceiving the buyer for the sake of the larger profit attached to it. Ripans Tabules will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, for a dozen or one hundred boxes at the rate of 12 boxes for 60 cents. The Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

EVENING BOAS.

Dainty Affairs Compounded of Tulle, Chiffon and Flowers.

Fancy boas for evening wear are very stylish this year. The handsomest are made of chiffon, accordion plaited and edged with ruchings, also of the chiffon. The ruffle proper extends a little below the waist line, where it is eked out by means of long streamers of lace or chiffon. The ends of these are very elaborately worked with embroideries and applications, and they are often in addition hand painted. More suitable for short women is a style where the ruffle only goes around the shoulders, with long streamers reaching almost to the bottom of the skirt. All sorts of materials are used in the making of these boas, but artificial flowers play an important part in the handsomest of them. Tiny pink rosebuds are scattered through masses of tulle, and bunches of forgetmenots or violets are used in the same way. Nor are small flowers the only ones used. A favorite way of decorating an evening boa is to place on the left side three large white roses, with most natural looking long stems and foliage. One of these roses also appears on the muff.

The muffs are masses of fluffiness. They are made of the same material as the boas, shirred and ruffled in the most wonderful of ways. The linings are of soft, lustrous silk, often veiled with chiffon. A favorite way of trimming a muff of this sort is to fasten to its upper side a bunch of flowers, from which depend a score of the narrowest velvet ribbons, with their ends each knotted around a tiny bud.

A pretty evening boa is the subject of today's sketch. It is made of accordion plaited pale blue chiffon, on the edges of which are sewed tiny white feathers spotted with gold spangles. The long streamers are edged with a fluffy band of this quaint feather trimming. This model could be equally well carried out by substituting tiny rosebuds for the feathers.

The hat shown is a toreador model of white chiffon and black chantilly.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

TRIFLES OF DRESS.

The Latest In Hair Ornaments, Belts and Stocks.

The new hair ornaments are models of good taste. Jeweled butterflies and roses are largely taking the place of the stiff aigrets. Velvet orchids have their petals edged with rhinestones, with a single large stone in the middle. Bows of spangled tulle are worn a little to one side of the coiffure, where they give a charming effect.

Dainty belts are made of alternate rows of satin and velvet ribbon. These ribbons are passed through jeweled slides, and in front they are joined to a curved buckle. It is no longer considered smart to wear a straight buckle. The newest designs all come with a decided point to aid in giving the long waisted effect. Leather is stylish for winter belts, and the latest novelty is black calfskin. This is finished with a plain enameled buckle, and the belt is stitched through its entire length.

Smart stocks are made on the dog collar order, with jeweled slides and art nouveau buckles in front. These art nouveau buckles are all the style. They are in the form of jeweled flowers, leaves and classical maidens' faces.

Today the subject of our sketch is a sailor of the popular rough white felt. The edges are bound with black velvet, and there is a soft twist of black velvet around the crown. Under the brim is fastened a spray of pale blue flowers and their foliage.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Trouble on the Torolito.

BY FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright 1899, by Francis Lynde.)

"Yes; without the choice. He'll have to go above. The lay of the land is such that he can't build below the gap in the 'hog-back,' and if he builds on the site selected by the man who made the preliminary survey last summer, my claim will be at the bottom of his reservoir."

"I see. But he can go above, can't he?"

"It's possible, but it will be expensive. He will have to tunnel a small mountain to get his outlet from the head-gates. And that isn't the worst of it."

"What is the worst of it?"

Macpherson pushed his stool from the table and began to fill his pipe. He was provokingly deliberate, and when the tobacco was fairly alight his explanation was of the vaguest.

"If he hasn't already done so, he'll go farther up the canyon and find his site ready-made and waiting for him. I only hope he'll take it."

CHAPTER VI.

FACILIS DECENSUS AVERNI.

Macpherson left me to my own devices after the snack-luncheon and went his way hillward to look for strays in the northern gulches.

"If you feel like riding a few lines after awhile, have Andy saddle 'Clubfoot' for you. He's forgotten how to 'buck,' and if you can keep him from breaking his leg in a dog-hole he'll bring you back all right," he said, at parting; adding, as a stirrup-word: "But I shouldn't ride too far, if I were you. You're gaining by kangaroo-jumps now, and you mustn't get a set-back."

So much for a well man's advice to an ill one who, having ridden more than was meet the previous day, was minded to stay at home and let the saddle-bruises heal. But in mid-afternoon one of the microscopic incidents which change the courses of rivers, decide the fate of nations, and reverse the plans of mice and men, came between, and the horse with the epithetical name had his amble afield.

The incident was the inability of Andrew the Desperate to maintain his fair share of any conversation. By two o'clock he was answering in monosyllables; by three a direct question elicited no more than a nod or a head-shake; at half-past he was quite dumb—a mute and inglorious camp-cook, fit company for neither gods nor men. At four loquacity surrendered at discretion, the animal with the opprobrious name was put in requisition, and I rode away to be with a silence of Nature's making.

Behold, now, how great a matter a little fire kindleth! If the well-intentioned desperado had possessed a few more phrases to be rehearsed at need, there would have been for his would-be gossip no meditative amble up the valley in the cool of the day; no attack of unreasoning and altogether uncalled-for curiosity; no meteoric descent into the Torolitan Avernus; and no—but let us not anticipate.

Barring the saddle-bruise reminders, and the prickings of the thorn in the flesh of illness—which use and time will finally dull for the least heroic sufferer—the ride up the valley was a pure delight. The afternoon was perfect. The atmosphere was like a draught of fine old wine; the tumbling thunder of the river was sweet music to any traffic-bruised ear of the cities; and the color-scheme of the mighty mountains on either hand was full of soft grays and soothing browns. The completeness of it was soul-satisfying, and it was easy to understand how, upon such a day and with such encompassments, a well man might rejoice in the mere fact of life. Also, it was less difficult to comprehend the reluctance of one Angus the First to abdicate and go into exile at the decree of any syndicate of them all. It was a hopeless lapse into medievalism, one would say, but at the moment I could cheerfully have seen the plans of the land company, with all the prospective benefits to the many which they contemplated, come to naught, to end that this sequestered corner of great nature's domain should not be marred by disfiguring plowshares.

This thought and its entail rang the reflective changes what time the bronco was topping the swell from which the settlement at Valley Head came into view. Curiously enough, the clustered farmsteads and tilled fields of the small colony were far from suggesting that they were the precursors of the tidal wave of agriculture and banality which would presently sweep down the pleasant valley in the wake of the great irrigation canal. The line between wild-flowers and weeds is not sharply drawn. The bull-thistle is a thing of beauty as a single plant, and it is only when it becomes a ruthless invader that we wage war upon it and strive to stamp it out. Macpherson's cattle on the rolling swells, and this small seasoning of humanity at the meeting-point of the mountains, were the artistic accent in great nature's picture. But they sufficed.

At the summit of the swell commanding a view of the mountain-guarded strath of the settlers, I was minded to turn back; but the club-footed one sniffed the cool breeze pouring down from the upper canyon and asked, horsewise, with gentle tuggings and champings, for a free rein. It was given, and we drifted on, past the deserted school-house, across the freshly turned furrows of the land company's canal, and, in due course of leisurely equine stumblings, beyond the last farm-house and so on up to the dam at the canyon gateway.

Here was the battle-field upon which Macpherson had elected to fight for his kingdom. It was well-chosen. Unlike the Six-Mile, whose walls were perpendicular cliffs, the upper canyon was a tortuous gulch with precipitous slopes rising sharply from the water's edge. Below the settlers' dam the wedge-like rift widened and narrowed again, leaving a natural basin between mountain and "hog-back" which would serve admirably as a reservoir for the great irrigation ditch. In this basin the stream had deposited a bar of silt and glistening mica-schist and white quartz pebbles, the age-old washings of its swift rush down the canyon; and this was doubtless the placer-ground upon which Macpherson had filed a claim as discoverer. His outline of the status quo became clearly intelligible. A dam at the final narrowing of the gulch would submerge the bar; and above the basin it would have to be carried to an enormous height in the V-shaped chasm to retain a sufficiently large body of water. I remembered the stereotyped reply of the Mexican vaqueros to the "Gringo" pioneers and the Santa Fe trailers: "Carrajo! poco mesa rio!" and wondered how much farther up the river the engineer of the Glenlivat company would have to go to find Macpherson's "ready-made" site for the dam.

It was at this point in the meditative excursion that the fire of curiosity was lighted, and Macpherson's air of mystery added its armful of fagots. There was no good reason why a sick man who was at best but a transient onlooker should trouble himself about the matter, but curiosity knows not age, sex, or previous conditions of servitude to maladies, incurable or otherwise. Wherefore the onlooker must needs slide tremulously from the saddle, tether the clubfooted beast to a stunted tree growing from a cleft in a near-by bowlder, and make toilful way up the canyon.

Wykamp's alternative came into view beyond the second elbow in the wedge-shaped gorge. It was another scooped-out basin, similar to the one below; and a blazed fir-tree with blue-pencil markings proved that the engineer had already made his preliminary reconnaissance. But the insurmountable obstacle to which Macpherson's mysterious hint pointed was altogether unapparent. Aside from the added expense of tunneling a spur of the mountain for an outlet, the upper basin seemed quite as promising as the lower—more promising, in fact, since less masonry would be required. Was there anything in the topography of the canyon to forbid the construction of the dam at this point? To be sure, the steep slopes were inclined planes of crumbling shale; but the native granite could not be far to seek in excavating. And with the everlasting mountains for his dam-anchorages, the engineer might surely possess his soul in security.

The sharp-pitched acclivity was slippery with an overlaying of broken shale and dry fir-needles. I climbed a little higher to a shallow niche where a projecting rock promised a foothold, and sat down to try to puzzle it out and to gather breath for the return. The chinlipped breeze, with the kiss of the snow-caps lingering in its breath, swept softly down from the bald summit of Jim's mountain; and the minimized thunder of the stream became the sub-bass in a great organ symphony in which the whispering firs played the sibilant treble. From the wider world below, the voice of a woman rose clear and strong in a prolonged double syllable—some farmer's wife or daughter calling her boy—and the familiar cry was a reminder that the day was done. If one would not have a soft-hearted giant and his following out scouring the valley for a stray invalid, one must scramble back and mount and ride.

The deed, or at least the beginning of it, fitted itself to the thought. But in the act of rising, the crumbling foothold gave way, and I shot down the slippery mountain-side into the stream. For a single jubilant instant joy was uppermost. One may well have a shuddering horror of winning out of life by the consumptive's road, and welcome as a messenger of God's mercy an end swift and measurably painless. But the instinct of self-preservation does not take into account a possible lack of things worth living for. The plunge into the icy waters of the Torolito was sharply reactionary, and with the gasping baptism the battle for life was on.

HER GUILT DOUBTED

Public Gives Benefit of Doubt to Miss Jane Toppan.

Charged with Having Caused the Death of a Number of Patients—Her Case One of the Strangest of Our Times.

Is Jane Toppan, trained nurse, of Boston, a wholesale poisoner, or is she simply the innocent victim of circumstances that have conspired to fasten suspicion upon her? Her case is one of the most remarkable, in many respects, of any recently brought to the attention of the public.

Briefly stated, its history is as follows: Last June a Mrs. Davis, wife of Alden P. Davis, of Boston, became dangerously ill, and Miss Toppan was engaged to take charge of her. Mrs. Davis died on July 4, supposedly of heart disease. Then Mrs. Henry Gordon, a daughter of Mrs. Davis, became ill and soon died. Her attending physician also died within a few days, and before he had filed a certificate giving the cause of his patient's death. Then Mr. Davis was taken ill and died, and two days later Mrs. Gibbs, the second daughter, and the last of the family, died.

It is a queer circumstance that suspicion of foul play was not aroused, or at least did not take form, until the entire family had been wiped out. Then the bodies of Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Gibbs were exhumed. As a result of the examination of the remains of the latter by an expert toxicologist, a warrant was issued and Miss Toppan was placed in custody on a charge of murder. Investigation into Miss Toppan's antecedents followed, and it was discovered that seven or eight other cases of sudden death had occurred among persons nursed by her.

Aside from the chain of coincidences which connect Miss Toppan with all these deaths, there is another fact that is worthy of mention. It has transpired that the nurse had borrowed money from Mr. Davis, and that two promissory notes she gave him as an evidence of the debt could not be found among the man's possession's after his death. As the case stands now, these are practically all the facts.

MISS JANE TOPPAN.
(Boston Nurse Accused of Having Poisoned Many Patients.)

It is not established, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, that any of the persons who died suddenly under Miss Toppan's charge were poisoned. Even in the case of Mrs. Gibbs, whose remains were the only ones examined, there is no statement to the effect that traces of poison were found. In fact, the grounds upon which the warrant for the trained nurse's arrest was issued have not been made known.

In every instance the person who died under Miss Toppan's care was attended by a physician, and in every instance, save in the case of Mrs. Gordon, the death was pronounced perfectly natural by the physician's certificate. In the exceptional instance the failure of the doctor to issue a certificate resulted from his death, and Miss Toppan cannot be held accountable for this failure, unless it be assumed that she poisoned the physician as well as his patient.

Evidence may be produced later which will prove that Miss Toppan is responsible for the four deaths in the Davis family, and, if so, then it may reasonably be concluded that she is responsible for other sudden deaths that have occurred in homes where she was employed as a professional nurse. The disappearance of the promissory notes, and the testimony at second-hand that Mrs. Gibbs detected Miss Toppan in the act of rummaging among Mr. Davis' papers after his death, will be of value only when it is determined beyond question that the members of the household were victims of foul play.

Increase of Population.

The increase of population during the past 100 years of people of European origin, according to Sir Robert Giffin, the famous English statistician, has been from 170,000,000 at the beginning of the century to 510,000,000 at its close. The growth of the United States alone has been from a little over 5,000,000 to nearly 80,000,000. The English population of the British empire has increased from about 15,000,000 to 55,000,000. Germany and Russia also show remarkable growth, from 20,000,000 to 55,000,000 in one case and from 40,000,000 to 135,000,000 in the other. France has increased from 25,000,000 to only 40,000,000.

SPORTING NEWS

STRIKES AND SPARES.

It is expected the third game between the Hope chapel Y. M. A. bowling team and the Steven's "Academy" team, of New Brunswick, will be rolled on the latter's alleys Thursday evening. The Plainfield contingent will be accompanied by a number of young women friends.

ROD AND GUN.

Dr. J. H. Cooley, of the borough, is expected home this week from the south, where he has been hunting.

WAS IN PEKIN.

Rev. C. H. Fenn Will Relate Story of the Siege.

The regular mid-week service at the First Presbyterian church, tomorrow evening, will be of unusual interest from the fact that it will be under the auspices of the King's Messengers, a mission band of the church. Rev. Courtney H. Fenn, who is a missionary to China, will be present and relate some of his experiences in the siege of Pekin in which he was an active participant. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present. The meeting will commence at 8 o'clock and will be held in the chapel of the church.

Part of Stolen Goods Found.

A coat found in a yard at Scotch Plains, last evening, and identified later by William Stanbury as one stolen from his home two weeks ago, has proven somewhat of a mystery. When examined by Chief Kiely it was found to be perfectly dry, while matches in a pocket ignited readily. It is thought the coat was placed in the yard but a short time before it was found.

Getting Ready.

THE INSTALLATION CONCLUDED

LAST NIGHT'S SERVICES AT THE FILLMORE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Bev. E. J. Crudup is Now Pastor—Rev. Dr. Yerkes Extended the Hand of Fellowship.

The concluding service for the purpose of installing Rev. E. J. Crudup as pastor of the Fillmore Baptist church, was held last evening. The attendance was exceptionally large.

Those who took part in the service were Rev. E. Elliott, of Newark; Rev. E. Williams, of Elizabeth; Rev. W. A. Harris, of Cranford; Rev. J. C. Coleman, of Steelton, Pa., and Rev. L. B. Twisley, of Somerville. The right hand of fellowship was extended the pastor by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church.

Following the installation a collation was served and special music was rendered by an enlarged choir.

MUST GO TO SCHOOL.

Truancy Law is Going to be Strictly Enforced in the Borough.

Under directions of the North Plainfield Board of Education, Superintendent Wightman of the borough public schools, proposes to have served upon all parents and guardians of children in the borough, extracts from the school law now in force.

It sets forth the law compelling the attendance of chidren between the ages of seven and twelve, except when excused by the board and also the penalties from non-compliance as well as the duties and powers of the truant officer.

Contrary to pubic belief this law is still in force. The borough authorities intend that it shall be rigorously obeyed.

Party for Their Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hurtt, of Somerset street, gave a party at their home last evening in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Grace Hurtt. In addition to playing games and dancing, the evening was made still more enjoyable with piano selections by Miss Nettie Haffner, recitations by Miss Pauline Denton and impersonations by John Carney. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

—There will be initiation at the meeting of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, this evening.

—Miss Crowther, of Bound Brook, and Miss Brantingham, of South Plainfield, have been engaged as saleswomen at Woodhull & Martin's store during the holiday season.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE.

Came Near Destroying the Isolation Hospital on the City Poor Farm.

The smell of smoke awoke Mrs. McManus, wife of the tenant of what is being arranged as an emergency hospital, on Rock avenue, at 2:30 o'clock this morning. It was found that fire had eaten a part of the floor near the centre of the building. William G. Debele, of Somerset street, put the flames out with wet sand.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. A number of workmen were busy there yesterday and may have been the means of starting it. There is no evidence to bear out the theory that it was the work of an incendiary.

ON SCIENTIFIC TOPICS.

Series of Lectures to be Given at Borough High School.

A series of lectures on scientific topics of general interest has been arranged by the North Plainfield Board of Education to be given in the Somerset street school building at intervals during the winter. It will be known as "The People's Lecture Course" and will consist of six talks and a musical festival.

A. E. Kenney, of Watchung avenue, an authority on compressed air, will speak on that subject, Wednesday evening, December 18. The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon operated by A. V. Searing. Admission will be by tickets. These tickets will be distributed free among the parents of the pupils.

Lindley Best to Wed.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Hamilton, of New York, for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, to Lindley Best, science instructor in the Plainfield High School. The wedding ceremony will be performed in the Morningside Presbyterian church, Monday evening, December 23 at 8 o'clock.

Japanese Tea.

A Japanese tea is the title of an unique affair to be given in the parish of the Church of the Holy Cross Thursday afternoon and evening. The entertainment committee of the church guild has arranged the tea and will have fancy work, useful articles, candy, ice cream and cake on sale. All the young women will be clad in Japanese costume.

In Honor of Departure.

Mrs. Henry O'Donnell, of West Second street, has completed arrangements to leave next week for the west where she will spend some time with relatives. In honor of her departure a number of friends tendered her a reception at her home, last evening. Several hours were passed in a social manner.

In Justice Huff's Court.

Justice Huff gave possession of the premises yesterday in the case of Fuchs against Nelson. This morning he gave possession of the premises in the case of Kunzmann against Rittenhouse. The contract case of Sacher against Deady will be tried before Justice Huff next Saturday.

Profit For Church Work.

The fair committee in charge of the recent bazaar and entertainment at Bethel chapel announces that $112 was cleared. The amount will be devoted to church work.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Thrifty Georgian Makes Money by Running a Church.

Is Not a Religious Man Himself, But an Adept at Turning an Honest Penny—Scheme That May Be Worth Investigating.

"I have heard how thrifty the Yankees are," remarked the man who goes about from place to place, to a Detroit Free Press reporter, "but the thriftiest man I ever came across lived considerably south of Mason and Dixon's line. As far south, in fact, as Georgia. He was a farmer in the poor part of that state—though Georgians may say there are no poor parts in their great and glorious state—and unlike most of his neighbors he had a little money ahead. Not a great deal, perhaps, but enough to allow him some swing if anything turned up worth considering. One of the sore needs of the community was a church building, but for years they had not seen their way clear to the erection of one. There were people enough in the neighborhood to have put up a house, but there were denominational differences, and they could not unite, and unless they did no one denomination could raise funds sufficient for the purpose. Thus the case stood for a long, long time, services being held in the woods in summer, and in the cabins in winter.

"Now, it happened that the thrifty man was not a member of any church, so that he could look upon the matter dispassionately, and he did. He made a calculation or two, and finally concluded he would take a business risk and build a church of his own. He got a few assurances from the Methodists and Baptists, but they were not very encouraging. He knew, however, that the human kind is slow to catch on, especially to the unseen and unknown, and he took long chances and went ahead with his proposition.

"He found that he could put up a very good building for the purpose, for

THE THRIFTY MAN'S CHURCH.

$500, which would cover the cost of a stove to keep it warm, and a cupola with a small bell in it. He picked out a favorable site in a grove near the road on his farm, and before Thanksgiving he had his house ready for occupancy. He opened it on that day, with an all-day service, inviting the Crackers for miles around to come and bring their baskets. They weren't much on Thanksgiving, as a rule, but this was a new departure, and they were there in force, regardless of denomination. The Methodist and Baptist preachers delivered sermons in the morning, and there was a union meeting of all denominations after dinner, which was handed around to the people in their seats by the sisters. It was a day of thanks and rejoicing, and everybody went home feeling good and very happy that there was a real churchhouse in their midst.

"Before the next Sunday the thrifty man was visited by the Methodist brethren to know if they could use the building on that day. The thrifty man said they could; price for the day five dollars; they to furnish heat and light. The terms were accepted after some haggling, and the next Sunday was a great one for Cracker Methodism. The next Sunday the Baptists, determined not to be outdone, had the church at the same figures, and there was a big time. Then came the Episcopalians, for a Sunday, and then one or two 'scattering' and it was time again for the Methodists, who were just as game as ever. In the meantime, to show that he meant well, the thrifty man offered the church free for an hour and a half every Sunday morning for the holding of a union Sunday school for the children. This was a boon and pleased the thrifty man mightily. And so it kept up, with services every Sunday by some denomination or other at a price that they could pay, and no church debt, and at the end of the year the owner made a calculation and discovered that his investment had paid 50 per cent., net. When I heard of it last, the church was still paying at that rate, and the thrifty man had got his money back, and was a thousand dollars ahead of the deal."

Free Dinner at a Funeral.

There was a remarkable gathering at the funeral of Dr. J. S. Trexler, at Kutztown, Pa. Before his death he provided that every one attending his funeral should have a free dinner and over 1,000 persons availed themselves of his offer at the two leading hotels, where arrangements had been made to feed the multitude.

BOARD DETERMINED ALL SHALL ATTEND SCHOOL

The Public Seems to Have a Wrong Impression Concerning the Truancy Law.

LAW IS STILL VALID.

BOROUGH AUTHORITIES PREPARE TO TAKE VIGOROUS MEASURES.

Children Can be Arrested Without Warrant and Parents May be Fined or Imprisoned—Campbell is Truant Officer.

A good deal of trouble has devolved upon the borough school authorities by reason of the false impression which the citizens generally have received in regard to the validity of the Stokes' act. The opinion of the Chief Justice, regarding the constitutionality of the section referring to school taxation in cities, has erroneously been taken by many to mean that the law has been declared unconstitutional.

In consequence of this wrong idea of the general mass of the people, Superintendent Wightman, of the borough school, has taken some pains to explain that no decision has as yet been made by the court, and that the opinion of the Chief Justice is but an ex parte expression. He wants it understood further that should the court defeat the sections regarding taxation it will not affect the clauses referring to truancy, and this is an important part of the act. Superintendent Wightman, backed by the Borough Board of Education, is determined to enforce strict compliance with the letter of the law, especially as concerns truancy.

Somerset County Superintendent J. A. Mets, of Somerville, has drawn up a form of notice to be served by the truant officer, who is Chief Marshall Campbell in the borough, upon all parents neglecting to send their children to the schools.

Every parent, according to the law, must see that his child attends the school and the penalty on failure to do so falls on him and not on the child. The Board of Education is the only authorized body to permit the non-attendance. If the action of the parent is persisted in then the board is authorized to arrest the offender and the maximum penalty of the misdemeanor is $25 fine or three months imprisonment.

The truant officer has authority to arrest any child, between the ages of seven and fifteen years who shall be a truant from school. No warrant is required. Copies of the law have been placed in the hands of the parents by authority of Superintendent Wightman and he proposes to enforce provisions of the law at once.

GOVERN THEMSELVES.

Tribunes Elected at Plainfield High School for Self Governmeut.

The following is the list of tribunes, elected under the plan of school government, in the Plainfield High School, for the months of December and January: The Misses Anna Richards, Jessie Burt, Alice Pugh, Ethel Rogers, Jessie Maclay, Maida Hyde, Winifred Haven, Wilhelmina Patton, Bertha Mitchell, Elsie Goddard, Grace Burke and Florence Derby, and Walter Cahoone, Jose Tweedy, Vincent Miner, Blanchard Fosgate, William VanEps, Monroe Long, George Babcock, Archibald Brakeley, Cyril Brown, Kenneth Bulkley, Irwin Leland and Linden W. Bridgeman.

Preparing for Winter.

Taking advantage of the spell of moderate weather, Street Commissioner Gavett placed his men at work yesterday making repairs on various streets to put them in shape for winter. A large number of gutters and culverts were cleaned and the resurfacing of East Fourth street will be concluded today.

Deed Filed at Elizabeth.

The following deed has been filed at the office of the county clerk at Elizabeth: John C. Smith, et al, of North Plainfield, to Elizabeth T. Sullivan, of Plainfield; lot 17, block B, revised map of Elston M. French property, Plainfield, $410.

Preparing Electric Power.

The electric motor to be used in furnishing power for the new organ at All Souls church in Park avenue will be installed in a short time. At present hand-power is used.

Gesang and Turn Verein Election.

Officers for the coming year will be elected at the next meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein, which will be held tomorrow evening.

NOVEL ENDEAVOR SOCIAL AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

After Informal Programme the Guests Were Paired Off and Guessed the Ads.

A novel social was held last evening in Trinity Reformed church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. There was a large attendance.

The Sunday-school room was arranged like a parlor. There was an informal programme consisting of a piano duet by Miss Lillian A. Force and Miss May Randolph, a soprano solo by Miss Justina Smith and recitations by Miss Try Mattox. All of these numbers were thoroughly appreciated.

After the programme the committee distributed numbers among the guests, each one being obliged to find his or her partner. After everyone had found a partner, there was a guessing match. Arranged about the room were well-known advertisements taken from magazines which were to be guessed. Refreshments were served, followed by the playing of parlor games. Thus a very pleasant and profitable time was spent by the young people.

The committee in charge consisted of Miss Nettie Krietling, chairman; Miss Emma Lindsay, Miss Jessie Hockridge, Miss Nettie Young, Miss Bessie Martin, Miss Kate Bodine and Fred Dunavan. Albert Utzinger assisted the committee by making the excellent chocolate served.

LECTURES FOR THE PARENTS

SERIES TO BE GINEN AT BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL THIS WINTER.

The First Will be by A. E. Kenney on "Compressed Air," Dec. 18.

Tickets of admission to the first of the series of the People's Lectures to be given under the auspices of the North Plainfield Board of Education may be obtained from any member of the board, the superintendent and the lecturer. The tickets are absolutely free and no expense whatever falls upon the applicant for a ticket or on the public.

It is intended that only the parents of the pupils shall be admitted to the lectures in the series. This is done to prevent the uncomfortable crowding of the hall.

The first lecture will be given Wednesday evening, December 18, in the Somerset street school building. A. E. Kenney will talk on compressed air and the subject will be stripped of technicalities. It is intended that the talks will be very plain so that there will be no difficulty in following the lecturer.

IT WILL BE GOOD.

Dramatic Students Will Produce Two Plays Here at Early Date.

A high-class dramatic performance will be given by senior students of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and Empire School of Acting, at the Casino, Thursday night, December 19. This performance, consisting of Pinero's play "The Money Spinner," and a farce entitled "A Duet in Two Flats," will be the same as given at Frohman's Empire Theatre, New York, where it was attended by a crowded audience. The Casino stage is splendidly adapted to these kind of plays and the bringing of this superb company of players to this city, speaks well for the enterprise of Manager Maze Edwards.

Reunion Service.

The Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church is planning for a reunion service to be held Friday evening, December 20. It will also be the regular consecration service of the society. The plan is to secure the attendance of all the old members. City Judge William N. Runyon will lead the meeting.

Preparing for Fire.

The Pond Machine Tool Company plant is being generously supplied with a new device for extinguishing fires. It is similar to the one in use in the Babcock building, the heat of a fire releasing a supply of water kept in piping continually. This water is drawn from a reserve supply.

Taking Down Old Buildings.

Gradually, but surely, the old buildings formerly comprising the Rushmore property, corner of Watchung avenue and East Fourth street, are being taken down and carted away. When the work is completed the place will be more attractive.

LITTLE BLAZE CAUSED VERY MUCH TROUBLE

McMahon and His Household Goods Departed Without Stopping to Investigate.

'TWAS A LITTLE BLAZE.

BUT M'MAHON DIDN'T DISCOVER THAT UNTIL AFTERWARDS.

The Sudden Exit Had Proved Disastrous to Much of His Furniture — Mice and Matches Were Probable Cause.

While making an investigation yesterday, to fully establish the cause of the slight fire at the Emergency hospital, Chief Doane and the members of the Board of Health heard an amusing story in regard to it, by Samuel McMahon, the keeper of the building, who did not fully realize the humor of his sketch.

McMahon and his family were wrapped in slumber at 2 o'clock when the former was awakened by choking smoke. He sprang from bed and, without waiting to dress, ran out of the building to the front yard where, by looking back, he could see the reflection of the flames on one of the glasses. It was on an opposite side of the house from his sleeping apartments and with this assurance he returned to his family and proceeded to make a hurried removal.

Beds, chairs, tables and everything in sight were thrown out of the windows to the rain soaked ground. The family then dressed and, taking a few valuables, hurried through the storm to the farm of Charles Debele, a good half mile down the road. Debele and his farm hands were gotten up and with McMahon, started back to the municipal building, expecting every moment to see flames burst from every corner. No such a thing occurred, however, and when the volunteer firemen arrived only the floor of one room was found to be burning. The flames were extinguished in a few moments much to the relief of Mc Mahon who returned enough furniture to the house to finish the night. The remainder was consigned to the woodpile having suffered a general breaking up through its hurried handling.

The damage to the building is placed at $50. Chief Doane believes mice nibbling at matches caused the blaze, as a number of lucifers were found lying about the room.

MEETING WITH SUCCESS.

Such Has Been the Fate of "The Brixton Burglary" on the Road.

"The Brixton Burglary," with the original Herald Square Theatre production and with an excellent cast which includes W. J. Ferguson, and the other members of the original New York cast, will be the attraction at the Casino, Saturday afternoon and night.

This jolly farce comedy is meeting with great success on tour, and seems to be duplicating its New York prosperity where it surprised nearly everyone by playing to capacity business during the heated period of the past summer. It was imported by Manager Shubert after its triumphal run at two English theatres and was put on at his New York theatre with unusual care.

W. J. Ferguson, who probably made the most emphatic hit as "James," the man-servant, is considered the best eccentric comedy impersonator in the country. There is likely to be crowded houses at both matinee and night performances Saturday, for it is seldom Plainfield is favored with such a splendid play.

Surprised Miss Mattox.

A surprise party was given to Miss Try Mattox, of Webster place, Monday night, in honor of the anniversary of her twenty-fifth birthday. A large number of young people were present and the evening was spent in dancing and playing games. At midnight supper was served.

Many Will be Remembered.

The officers and members of the Plainfield Relief Association are busily engaged in preparing for the Christmas festivities, when many poor families will be remembered.

Unique Affair.

The medal contest at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening will be a unique affair. It will be given by Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey for the benefit of the W. C. T. U.

Organist Secured.

Miss Ebel has been secured as the organist at the German Lutheran church on Grove street.

MANY BEQUESTS.

Will of Isabella P. Runyon, of New Market, Has Been Offered for Probate.

The will of Isabella P. Runyon, of New Market, has been offered for probate. It names her nephew, F. Percy Vail of New York, as sole executor.

Among other bequests the following churchs are remembered as follows: Society of Plymouth Brethren, of Plainfield, $1,000; Presbyterian church, of Dunellen, $500; Episcopal church of The Holy Innocents, of Dunellen, $500; First Baptist church, of New Market, $250.

Mrs. Runyon's life and sympathies were largely devoted to church work, both at Dunellen and New Market, where she resided for over twenty years. The last few years of her life were spent in partial retirement at her home in New Market, on account of the loss of her eyesight. Her generous bequests to the churches of different denominations exemplifies her liberal and broad mind religious views and will be a lasting tribute to her memory.

PICTURED OLD WAY AROUND THE WORLD

Interesting Lecture on Travel Given by Ernest R. Ackerman at Y. M. C. A.

SOME HANDSOME VIEWS.

TOLD OF THE PLACES AS HE HAD SEEN THEM.

Second of Supplementary Series of Lectures at Y. M. C. A.—Large Audience Listened to It With Interest.

In company with a capable guide, a very large audience in Y. M. C. A. Hall, last evening, embarked upon a trip which took them around the world by a route hitherto seldom traversed by tourists. It took them through the least visited yet picturesque portions of this and other countries and everyone was delighted with the beautiful spots of nature unfolded. Briefly speaking, Ernest R. Ackerman was the guide and the trip was taken by means of his lecture, "An Odd Way Around an Old World."

The journey was recently completed by Mr. Ackerman and his experience as a traveller enabled him to denote the interesting features which he clearly related last evening. He first took his hearers to Cuba where a stop was made long enough for all to see the beautiful spot in and about Havana after which the journey was resumed to Mexico. A more lengthy stay was made in its quaint old cities and the natives and buidings were closely inspected.

The Yellowstone National Park with its 720,000 acres of marvelous scenic beauty delighted everybody while the pictures of the geysers and canons were among the best on the trip. Hawaii, Japan and China followed in close succession but interest centered in the stops at the isle of Ceylon and India. The views at this stage of the journey were excellent.

The concluding stop was made in Norway at its most northern city but despite its close proximity to the north pole there were many things about it to admire.

The views used to depict the various scenes were all secured by Mr. Ackerman and are among the best he has ever taken. They are remarkably clear and do full justice to the scenes. The stereopticon was managed by John Neagle.

TROUBLE ON THE ICE.

Has Led to a Legal Action Against Thomas Hurley.

Wm. Newcorn has been retained by the parents of John Lindabury, of South Plainfield, to bring suit against Thomas Hurley, also of South Plainfield, before Justice Weaver.

Saturday, Lindabury, who is a boy, claims he was roughly handled by the defendant while both were on the ice on the pond at South Plainfield. It is alleged that Hurley grabbed the boy by the throat and ran him through an ice chute. When the boy's mother remonstrated, it is also alleged that Hurley used indecent language to her.

Cleared $150.

The sum of $150 was cleared at the recent opening musical festival of Saengerbund Hall given by the Gesang and Turn Verein. A report by the committee, of which John Wirth is the chairman, will be made to the organization at its meeting tomorrow evening.

RED JACKETS CAME TO SAY GOOD-BYE

Brought Gifts For Warren Boys and Were Sumptuously Entertained.

WERE GIVEN A BANQUET

CHIEF GIFT FOR WARREN WAS A HUGE STUFFED OWL.

Fine Showing Made by Warren in Meeting the Guests—Banquet at Saengerbund Hall—Mayor Smalley There.

Warren Engine Company, No. 1, of the borough, has a new emblem in the shape of a big stuffed and mounted owl, presented to it by the famous Red Jacket Engine Company, No. 4, of Elizabeth, which was the guest of the North Plainfield company, last evening. The Elizabeth laddies had come to say good bye for their company went out of commission December 1, after making a proud history.

The visitors made a great night of it. They arrived at the Watchung avenue station on a special trolley at 9 o'clock and were met by the Warren boys, escorted by Mayor N. B. Smalley, Chief of Fire Department J. J. Stahl, Chief Marshal Campbell, John H. Carney and the Independent Fife and Drum Corps.

In marching to the station the route was down Somerset to Front street to Park avenue, to North avenue, to Watchung avenue. From Watchung avenue the paraders swung into East Second street, where the Warren laddies executed some manouvers, after a salute, which was returned, the march was continued to Park avenue, to Front street, to Madison avenue, countermarch to Watchung, countermarch to Somerset street, breaking ranks at the engine house. Captain William C. Smith acted as marshal and all along the route people praised his work as drill master. All the firemen were uniformed.

Gathering in the parlor of the house, George Kolbe, foreman of the Elizabeth company, made a neat speech and introduced John P. Arnold, who formerly presented the company's trophy, the stuffed owl, which has been in its possession for over thirty years. The first headlight ever used by the company, owned since its organization, January 24, 1855, was also given to the North Plainfielders.

Raymond Schenck was given a box labelled "silver," because he had expressed a desire to own one of the company's silver buckets. Former Chief David Bodine, acting for Chief Stahl, accepted the gifts on behalf of the company and an adjournment to Saengerbund Hall was made.

In the banquet hall a sour kraut supper was served. After the cigars had been passed around, Chief Stahl, as toastmaster, introduced Mayor Smalley, who welcomed the guests. He was followed by Surrogate Henry N. Spencer, and Recorder Thomas Doud, Foreman Kolbe and William Lawerie, of Elizabeth, spoke and the latter also sang a song that brought down the house. John H. Carney eclipsed the demonstration received by Mr. Lawerie by reciting some of his Dutch stories. Joseph Dury, of Elizabeth recited.

One of the visitors was arrested for stealing a chicken raffled off by Warren boys. He was released by Recorder Doud. Another laddie from the county seat, who was arrested by Marshal Campbell, was "sent to Elizabeth" by the recorder. Music was furnished by Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra. After a jolly time the visitors returned to Elizabeth at 1 o'clock this morning.

The sour kraut supper was prepared by Mrs. Rudolph Spiegel and served by Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl, Mrs. Thomas McGann, Mrs. William Debele, Mrs. G. H. Fairchild, Mrs. J. J. Stahl, Mrs. George Keselring, Mrs. William Bamberger and Mrs. F. G. White.

Petit Jurors Drawn.

The petit jurors for the January term of the Union county court were drawn yesterday. Those names from Plainfield are Abram Angleman, David S. Pope, James Morrison and William R. Mattox. John Traynor and Randolph Drake are named from Fanwood township.

No More Prize Drawings.

At the meeting of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, Ancient Order United Workmen, last week, the members decided that in the future there shall be no prize drawings under the auspices of the lodge.

REINHART - THAYER NUPTIALS

CEREMONY TAKES PLACE AT GRACE P. E. CHURCH THIS EVENING.

Bridal Party Entertained After Rehearsal Last Evening—Guests are Arriving.

The members of Plainfield's exclusive circles are all ago over the brilliant nuptial event which takes place at Grace Episcopal church, this evening. Miss Katharine Reinhart, the bride, is a popular belle in the social realm of this city, and the stately edifice will undoubtedly be crowded by a concourse of fashionbale folk anxious to witness the gladsome ceremony.

John Atkinson Thayer, the groom, with his best man, Richard McGann, of Lancaster, Pa., is stopping at the Reinhart lodge, where the men are having a jolly good time.

As a final social function before the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. VanBuren, of Madison avenue, gave a bouffe supper last evening to the bridal party immediately after a rehearsal at Grace church.

Today the guests began to arrive. The majority of them are stopping with friends in the city and propose to remain over until tomorrow. A few intimate friends have joined the relatives of the two families and are staying at the palatial residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Reinhart, on Belvidere avenue.

The time appointed for the ceremony is 8:30 o'clock and an hour later the bride and groom will receive at the Reinhart home.

UNITED FOR PRAISE SERVICE

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES OF CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH HELD MEETING.

Miss Petrie Talked on Home Missions and Mrs. Janvier on Work in India.

The Women's Home Missionary and the Woman's Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church held a praise service in the chapel of the church, yesterday afternoon. Once a year the two societies hold such a meeting.

An address on home missions was delivered by Miss Josephine Petrie, of the First Presbyterian church, who is now giving her entire time to the work under the direction of the Presbyterian Home Mission Society. Following this address, Mrs. Janvier, of India, gave an interesting talk on her work among the women of India.

At the close of the meeting a thank offering was taken and $100 was received. During the year every woman in the congregation receives two envelopes, one for foreign and the other for home mission work, and she decides to which society her contibution shall go. It was in this way that such a large sum was realized yesterday.

At the conclusion of the meeting a tea and social time was enjoyed, when the women were given an opportunity to meet the speakers and one another. Mrs. Samuel Milliken, as president of the foreign missionary society, and Mrs. I. C. Pierson, as president of the home mission society, were in charge, assisted by other members of the societies.

ARCANUM OFFICERS.

Elected at Meeting of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum.

At the meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, Monday evening, the following officers were elected: Regent, Edward T. VanWinkle; vice-regent, Wheaton S. Lowry; past regent, Dr. W. Kempton Browning; orator, S. O'Keefe; secretary, Elliott Lurr; treasurer, D. W. Littell; guide, R. A. Osmun; warden, A. W. Winckler; sentry, David Devine; representative to Grand Lodge, Dr. W. Kempton Browning. The officers will be installed Monday, Jan. 13.

New Factory Soon.

The Watchung Silk Company expects to commence the work of erecting a new factory in about two weeks. The building will be erected on Washington avenue, near the bridge. It will be a two-story building.

Nearly Completed.

The work on Mrs. Lincoln's costly new home on West Eighth street is nearing completion. Mrs. Lincoln hopes to occupy the home during the winter.

Max O'Rell is Ill.

The friends of Max O'Rell, in this city, will regret to learn that he is very ill with stomach trouble. He is stopping in New York.

—Allan Coddington, of Somerset place, has secured an excellent position in New York.

DRAMATICS BY SENIORS OF CITY HIGH SCHOOL

A Successful Entertainment Given at Franklin School Building Last Evening.

GREAT CROWD PRESENT.

SCENES GIVEN FROM SHAKESPEARE'S AND SHERIDAN'S PRODUCTIONS.

Young People Gave a Very Creditable Performance—Scenes From "Merchant of Venice" and "The Rivals"—A Dance Followed.

Franklin School assembly hall was crowded to the doors, last evening, by an audience composed largely of the parents, relatives and friends of members of the senior class of Plainfield's High School, who had gathered to witness the annual senior class entertainment. They were well repaid for the programme, exceptionally well selected, was far above the average seen at similar events.

Much preparation had been made by the pupils of the coming graduating class and their efforts were rewarded for the assemblage was profuse in its applause and praise. As an introduction, Miss Margaret Abbott recited in a pleasing style "The Race," a tale of a rowing contest.

This formed a happy preliminary to a more serious part, which consisted in the rendition of scenes from "The Merchant of Venice." In this undertaking the pupols representing the various characters acquitted themselves nobly.

In the discussion of the suitors, some really good acting was done by Miss Elsie Goddard, who took the part of "Portia" and by Miss Grace Burke, who represented "Nerissa."

This was also the case in the scene of the meeting of the two Gobbos, father and son, where Clarence LaRue did creditably as "Old Gobbo" while Robert W. Meeker deserved equal praise for his personation of "Young Launcelot Gobbo."

Seven members of the class, the Misses Goddard, Ulrich, Dyer, and Jenkins, and Kenneth Bulkley, Harold Nomer and Clarence LrRue sang "Doan' yo' cry, ma honey."

Scenes from Sheridan's "The Rivals" formed the concluding parts of the programme. The scenes given were the plot to marry Lydia to Captain Jack Absolute; the challenge; a street scene in Bath; and the duel. The last scene was especially well executed.

The caste: "Mrs. Malaprop," Miss Caroline Fuller; "Miss Lydia Languish," Miss Margaret Abbott; "Sir Anthony Absolute," Linden W. Bridgeman; "Captain Jack Absolute," the son, Miss Edna Moore; "Bob Acres," Miss Marguerite Van Deventer; "Sir Lucius O'Trigger," Harold A. Nomer; "Faulkland," Kenneth Bulkley, and "David," the servant, Hollis Cubberley. There is no gainsaying the fact that the young people distinguished themselves in the play. They all did so well that it is not fair to bestow any individual praise.

The interludes were rendered by Erwin Leland. Lindley Best, instructor in science in the High School, acted as stage manager, and members of the junior class acted as ushers.

At the end of the formal programme, dancing was the feature for the remainder of the evening. Candy was sold and a neat little sum was realized in this manner.

The committees in charge of the affair were as follows: Decorating, the Misses Alma Dyer, Jeanie Dunham and Bertha Mitchell, Roy Hallock, Erwin Leland and Russell Bailey; lemonade, the Misses Helen Rafferty, Mabel Jenkins, Cora Harris and Alice Ulrich; candy, the Misess Daisy Brouard, Emma Larew, Louise Peterson, Charlotte Johnson and Mildred Ulrich; music and dancing, Linden Bridgeman and Miss Carolyn Fuller.

Mr. Meredith Spoke.

Superintendent A. B. Meredith, of the Nutley, N. J., public schools, made an address on school athletics before the meeting of the New Jersey High School Teachers' Association, held in Newark, Saturday. Mr. Meredith was formerly an instructor in the Plainfield High School.

Raymond Schenck, of Somerset street, has returned from New York, where he has been in attendance at court in the case against Mrs. Fieroe, of Fairview avenue, charged with larceny in the first degree.

People Believe In It.

It has been cynically said that anything can be sold by advertising now-a-days. This is not so. Many liniments have been advertised but only one — Perry Davis' Painkiller — has stood the test of sixty years' use. To-day its popularity is greater than ever and is based not upon what anybody says but upon what the remedy does. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—A communication of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., will be held tomorrow night.

—Harry Paasch, of Jercey City, has secured a position as butcher at W. W. Wilson's grocery in the West End.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants.

Harry Werner has received a fine line of men's furnishings suitable for holiday gifts. The list includes ties, fancy braces, gloves and umbrellas.

Have you noticed the Christmas shoppers flocking to Crosby & Hill's store? They are attracted by the complete line of goods and right prices.

It is impossible for the lover of art in pictures to pass Swain's store on West Front street, without being attracted. The hand of the artist is displayed with all loveliness.

It requires a special study to be able to suit the populace regarding footwear. J. H. Doane, of West Front street, has solved the problem and he keeps the kind of shoes that fit and feel well.

A visit to Powlison & Jones' furniture emporium never fails to pay. This enterprising firm is constantly adding to its large stock and at present it has many attractions for holiday shoppers.

Ben Fowler, the East Front street confectioner, has introduced many new novelties in Christmas goods this season. His counters are already heaping with them and make an attractive display.

Pictures for holiday presents are just the thing. E. R. Birnbaum, of 40 Dey street, New York, is offering framed and unframed oil paintings, etchings and engravings at wholesale prices. See his ad. in today's Press.

If you have frequent headaches and get no relief from ordinary remedies, have your eyes examined. Our examination is thorough and free of charge. Glasses when necessary, at moderate prices. Stiles & Co. Every Thursday.

Stanley, the North avenue florist, is busily engaged making preparations for the Reinhart-Thayer wedding. The decorations at the house are in his charge. Masses of carnations, roses and chrysanthemums, all in white, are being used.

Doane, the jeweler, is showing handsome designs in jewelry and silverware for Christmas. Opal and other fancy rings are in profusion. You are invited to inspect his stock of carefully selected designs, few duplicates, also kodaks and photo supplies.

A big carload of Ceresota flour has just been received by W. W. Wilson, the West Third street grocer. This enterprising merchant has also laid in a large variety of canned goods, such as corn, string beans, peas, beets, tomatoes and the like, in anticipation of the winter's heavy trade.

THEATRICAL.

There is no more pleasing or moving drama in New York today than "The Unwelcome Mrs. Hatch," in which the celebrated actress, Mrs. Fisk, and one of the strongest supporting companies ever seen in New York are now appearing at the Manhattan Theatre. "The Unwelcome Mrs. Hatch" is "an every day drama" of New York life by Mrs. Burton Harrison, the well-known author, who has transferred to the stage a strong and vital contemporary picture of life the truth of which is evident to every observer of the drama. Many types of character are involved in the story, and the chief part, taken by Mrs. Fiske, is admittedly the most effective in which this great actress has ever been seen. She is supported by such able players as J. E. Dodson, Robert T. Haines, Max Figman, Miss Annie Irish, Miss Annie Ward Tiffany and others, and the play is set with all the artistic detail that marks Mrs. Fiske's productions.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

—Miss Ernestine Smith, of Madison avenue, conducted the meeting at Warren chapel last evening.

—The Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold a regular monthly business meeting this evening.

—The members of Friendship Degree Lodge, Daughters of Rebecca, will meet tomorrow evening. Every member is urged to be present.

—Mrs. Ann Alston and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Martin, of East Sixth street, have removed to their new home on the same thoroughfare.

ASTHMA CURE FREE.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. F. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai-Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.
AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

LABOR FEDERATION DOINGS.

Chinese Exclusion Favored by Scranton Convention.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 11.—The exclusion of Chinamen, Japanese and other Asiatics from American territory, ticket scalping, legislation and advisability of adopting a universal label for union made goods were the principal questions that claimed the attention of the delegates at yesterday's two sessions of the American Federation of Labor.

The resolution advocating the exclusion of the Chinese was adopted by the convention with considerable hurrah, but in the matter of excluding natives of Japan and other Asiatic lands a snag was struck, and this part of the anti-Mongolian agitation was killed so far as the present convention is concerned.

The special committee having charge of the exclusion matter was unanimous in favorably reporting the Chinese section of the resolution, but was divided in regard to the Japanese. The Pacific coast delegates led the discussion on Chinese exclusion, but were divided when it came to excluding other orientals. The burden of the remarks of those opposed to the Japanese resolution was that Chinese immigration was the greater evil of the two and that to insist upon some restriction law to prevent a Japanese invasion may endanger the passage by congress of the Chinese act.

KITCHENER'S REPORT.

Brief Summary of Progress of the South African War.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—In a dispatch from Pretoria Lord Kitchener reports that the result of the week's work is 31 Boers killed, 17 wounded, 352 made prisoners, 35 surrendered and a large quantity of supplies captured.

By advancing the line of blockhouses in the eastern part of the Transvaal Lord Kitchener is now able for the first time to carry out systematic and continuous operations in the vicinity of Ermelo, Bethel and Carolina.

Columns have cleared the southeastern districts of the Orange River Colony and are now operating northward of the Thabanchu line.

The Boers are still in force in the extreme west of Cape Colony. They are there commanded by Maritz, who recently attacked Tontelboschkop. The Boers were driven off, and Maritz was severely wounded.

Additional drafts for the militia, yeomonry and the regulars are already being prepared for transportation to South Africa. The British government has decided to call out for the South African service all reservists who have not completed their twelve years of service.

The federal government of Australia is also considering the sending of further contingents to South Africa.

The British Farmer's Hard Lines.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Robert William Hanbury, president of the board of agriculture, bewailed the misfortunes of the British farmer in a speech before the Farmers' club in London last night. He contrasted the position of the British farmer to that of the farmer in the United States, where, he said, the government assisted agricultural interests, realizing that the greatness of the nation depended upon the material prosperity of the country. Mr. Hanbury said he considered that agriculture in Great Britain had been deliberately sacrificed fifty years ago to build up manufacturing industries.

Aged Virginian Dead.

ROANOKE, Va., Dec. 11.—Ex-Judge Robert Hughes is dead in Washington county, aged eighty-one years. He was for more than twenty-five years United States judge of the eastern district of Virginia and also was one of the strongest newspaper men Virginia has ever produced. With the late John M. Daniel he edited the Richmond Examiner for a number of years. He also edited the president's organ during Buchanan's administration and since the war The State Journal. During his newspaper career Judge Hughes engaged in two duels and was a second in several others.

Monument to T. K. Beecher.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Dec. 11.—A fine monument erected by the citizens of Elmira to the memory of the Rev. Thomas Kennicut Beecher, pastor of the Park church here for forty-six years, was unveiled in Wisner park in the presence of 5,000 people. Rev. W. T. Henry, D. D., presented the monument to the city, and Mayor F. H. Flood accepted it on behalf of the municipality. The monument was designed by Jonathan Scott Hartley of New York. It cost $8,500.

Holland Submarine Sunk.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The Holland submarine boat Fulton, full of water, is at the bottom of Long Island sound. A diver is at work trying to raise her. According to the report of the affair given out by the officials of the company, the sinking of the boat was an accident. No one was aboard of her, and no one was injured.

Spain Wants Ships Returned.

MADRID, Dec. 11.—In the chamber of deputies yesterday the government was asked to negotiate with the United States for the return of those Spanish vessels seized by that country before the declaration of the Spanish-American war. The minister of foreign affairs promised to accede to the demand.

Democrats Sweep Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—General Collins, Democratic candidate for mayor, is elected over Mayor Hart (Rep.) by over 18,000, the largest plurality given for a candidate for mayor in this city for twenty years. The board of aldermen will probably stand three Republicans to ten Democrats.

TREATY AND CANAL.

Senate In Executive Session Over the Former.

BILL INTRODUCED TO BUILD LATTER

Senator Morgan's Measure Favors Immediate Construction—A Bill to Protect the Presidential Succession—House Committees.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The open session of the senate yesterday was devoted to routine business, such as the presentation of petitions, memorials and bills. The senate then went into executive session on motion of Senator Lodge, who has charge of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and adjourned at 1:55 p. m.

Senator Morgan introduced a bill providing for the construction of the Nicaraguan canal. The bill provides an aggregate of $180,000,000, of which $5,000,000 is made immediately available and of which aggregate sum such amounts as are necessary are to be appropriated by congress from time to time. The control of the canal and of the canal belt is vested in a board of eight citizens of the United States in addition to the secretary of war, who is to be president. The members of the board are to be paid a salary of $8,000 a year each, and they are to be chosen regardless of political affiliation.

There is a provision authorizing the establishment of a regiment from the regular army on the canal belt to guard it properly, and courts also are authorized conformable to the powers granted by the governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica. There also is a provision making three divisions of the canal during the construction, and there is to be a chief engineer and two assistants on each division, the chief to receive a salary of $6,000 and the assistants $3,000 each.

Senator Gallinger introduced a bill to protect the president, vice president, persons in the line of succession to the presidency and embassadors and foreign ministers. Before presenting it he explained that the bill was prepared by Hon. Edgar Aldrich, United States district judge of New Hampshire. The bill provides for the punishment by death of any person who shall intentionally kill or who, with intent to kill, shall assault the president of the United States, the vice president, persons in succession to the presidency, embassadors and ministers of foreign countries resident in the United States. The same penalties are prescribed for persons who shall incite others to any of the foregoing deeds.

After a number of nominations had been confirmed Senator Lodge called up the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and made a brief statement regarding that convention. The senate then adjourned in order to give the Democratic caucus committee an opportunity to hold a meeting.

Representative Sibley introduced in the house a bill authorizing the construction of a railroad across Alaska from Cook inlet to Bering strait, a distance of 850 miles, by the Transalaska Railroad company. The bill grants a right of way 100 feet on each side of the track and provides for the cession of each alternate section of land for a distance of ten miles on each side of the track. It is specified that this concession is made "to secure the speedy transportation of the mails, troops, munitions of war and public stores." Troops and government property are to be carried free for a period of ten years, and the postmaster general is to fix the price of carrying the mails.

The company is given ten years within which to complete its road, and the lands granted are to be transferred upon the completion of each twenty miles of road.

The claim is made that the road can be operated in all seasons of the year.

House Committees Announced.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Speaker Henderson at the session of the house yesterday announced the appointment of the committees. Usually the committees are not appointed until after the holiday recess, but Speaker Henderson had the situation well in hand when congress met, and, having completed the lists, he announced them. The early appointment of the committees should facilitate legislation considerably. A general speech on the Philippines was delivered by the venerable ex-Speaker Galusha A. Grow (Pa.). Mr. Burke (S. D.) formally announced the death of Senator Kyle, and as a mark of respect the house immediately adjourned. The adjournment was until Friday.

Football Alone Paid.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—The report of Treasurer Packard of the University of Pennsylvania Athletic association shows the total income from athletics at Pennsylvania during the year ending Sept. 1 to have been $110,201.45. Football was the only paying sport, the profit being $59,012, while track athletics were run at a loss of $2,400, and baseball lost $2,700.

The German Crown Prince's Illness.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Truth, referring again to the reported ill health of the German crown prince, asserts his total collapse, resulting from his arduous military training and a severe course of studies, necessitates his absence on an extended cruise in the Mediterranean on board the German imperial yacht Hohenzollern.

Governor Odell Recovering.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Dec. 11.—Governor Odell, who has for several days been at home suffering from a bilious attack, is slowly recovering. On the advice of his physician he will not leave the house for several days.

A NOTABLE BANQUET

National Issues Discussed by National Leaders.

HANNA ON SHIPPING SUBSIDY BILL

The Senator Says the $200,000,000 Now Paid Annually to Foreign Shipowners Is a Drain No Nation but Ours Could Stand.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—In celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary the Boston Merchants' association met at the Vendome last evening and were entertained by four men of national reputation with spirited addresses, chiefly along political lines. Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith spoke on reciprocity; Hon. Kogaro Takahira, the Japanese minister, upon the subject of "Commercial Relations;" Senator Marcus A. Hanna on the ship subsidy bill and Hon. Henry Watterson of Kentucky on "Kentucky and Massachusetts." These were the principal guests, but at the tables were many men of state prominence and also Hon P. A. Collins, mayor elect of Boston, Congressmen Conry and Naphen and Marion E. Taylor of Louisville, Ky. Simple decorations of a floral character besides the American and Japanese flags lent beauty to the banquet hall, while orchestral music added to the interest.

A reception preceded the banquet, and at both President A. A. Lawrence presided.

During the evening General Collins held an impromptu reception and received many telegrams of congratulation.

Lieutenant Governor John L. Bates, the first speaker, represented Governor Crane. He extended the welcome of Massachusetts to the guests.

Senator Hanna was the last speaker and confined his remarks entirely to the question of ship subsidy and the latest bill for that purpose which has been presented to congress. He referred to the fact that the American nation is today supreme in the agricultural and industrial business of the world, but is at the very lowest in regard to its merchant marine. He referred first to the growth of the merchant marine on the great lakes and said that this had been accomplished, first, by our natural advantages, and, second, by the protection given by the United States government.

The coastwise trade of this country has grown almost as rapidly under the same provisions and the same protection. In 1789 the First congress passed laws allowing the increase of the merchant marine. The capacity of the American vessels in the foreign trade at that time was 123,893 tons. After ten years it had increased to 534,000 tons. In 1821 the American ships carried 88 per cent of the foreign commerce. In 1826 it reached the high water mark and carried 92 5-10 per cent. In 1861 was the highest point we ever reached, when the American ships carried 2,396,894 tons to foreign ports, and then it began to decrease. It decreased 40 per cent from 1861 to 1865. From the highest point in 1861, when we carried 92 per cent, we have decreased until today American ships only carry 8 per cent of the foreign tonnage.

We are building a magnificent navy and shall continue until we are second to no nation. We should also build something for that navy to defend. The amount now paid annually by American merchants into the pockets of foreign shipowners is $200,000,000. No country on the face of the globe could stand that drain but the United States. And why need we stand it? We can see how the subsidy is affecting England and her war with South Africa. Her vessels have been taken for transporting her troops and munitions, while the raw materials from our mines, etc., are lying on our docks awaiting transportation abroad.

Mr. Hanna spoke of the bill introduced into congress last year and declared that the bill that was presented last Monday had been simplified and modified to meet the objections to the former one.

Stamp Robbery Suspect Arrested.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Postoffice inspectors who have been working on the postoffice stamp robbery in Chicago last October think that the arrest of Charles Stokes in this city has solved it. A search of Stokes' apartments at 651 Monroe street, Brooklyn, brought to light $1,261 stamps of denominations from $1 down to 1 cent. Stokes was arrested last night in the general postoffice building on suspicion of being an agent of the gang that tunneled under the Chicago postoffice building and looted the stamp safe, leaving behind them absolutely no trace.

Australia and Canada to Confer.

MELBOURNE, Dec. 11.—The Right Hon. E. Barton, prime minister of Australia, has cabled Sir Wilfred Laurier, the Canadian premier, accepting the suggestion of the latter that representatives of the Dominion of Canada and the commonwealth of Australia meet and confer in London next June upon trade and other matters.

POISON ANTITOXIN.

Startling Revelations Before the St. Louis Inquiry.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 11.—The second session of the tetanus commission, organized to fix the responsibility for thirteen deaths following the use of city antitoxin, was commenced yesterday in Mayor Wells' office. Martin Schmidt, assistant city bacteriologist, offered most startling testimony. He declared that Dr. Amand Ravold, the city bacteriologist, had directed him on Oct. 5 to prepare for distribution the serum secured from the horse Jim, which had been shot the day before because it had tetanus.

"Dr. Ravold told me," said Schmidt, "that the serum could be safely used, as the horse had not been affected with tetanus on Sept. 29, when the drawing was made. I knew," the witness declared, "that the serum was poisonous and unfit for use on human beings, but I felt that I could not question Dr. Ravold's order. So I went ahead and carried out the orders."

The witness repeated his recent assertion before the coroner that the poisoned serum was sent out to physicians without having been first tested on guinea pigs.

"It was difficult to obtain good guinea pigs," said Schmidt. "All the available pigs had been used for tests during the summer and hence were not in a fit condition for antitoxin tests."

"I do not know of any tests of the last drawing of antitoxin being made. If such tests had been made, I would have known it."

Schmidt testified that the serum was kept, unlabeled, in the icebox and that the drawings of different dates were known apart only by the memory of the colored janitor.

A Tragedy In Haverhill, Mass.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 11.—A self confessed murderer, John D. Mutch, is locked up in the local jail, having shot and killed James Oakes, a shoemaker, with a revolver. The tragedy occurred on the street, and Mrs. Mutch, wife of the prisoner, was the only witness. The act is supposed to have been committed in a fit of jealous frenzy caused by Oakes' attentions to Mrs. Hutch. The story of the latter is very vague. She even refused at first to admit that she had been a witness to the crime. The police say that Mutch had heard from many sources of the attentions paid his wife by Oakes and had been taunted with the fact to such a degree that several times he had become temporarily deranged. Last evening he met Oakes and Mrs. Mutch and after an angry talk with the man shot him in the chest. Oakes died on the way to the hospital.

A Tribute to the United States.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 11.—At the conclusion of a careful statement made by John Barrett, a United States delegate, before the committee on an international court of claims in the pan-American conference the committee unanimously adopted a resolution that is possibly the best tribute that has yet been shown the United States in the conference. In the constitution of a board of judges, each republic naming three, from whom one to five would be chosen for each particular trial, according to its importance, it was unanimously agreed in order to prevent an overwhelming Latin membership of such board and to respect the interests and laws of the United States that each American republic should name at least one Anglo-Saxon judge.

Six Sailors Drowned.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Dec. 11.—On Wednesday night the British bark Pinmore, Captain Jameson, owned by Clink Bros. of Greenock, Scotland, bound from Santa Rosalia, Mex co, to Portland in ballast, went into the surf at the mouth of Raft river, north of Grays Harbor. The crew of thirty abandoned the ship and took to the boats, one of which was capsized shortly after leaving the vessel, and six men were drowned. The other boat reached shore safely after being out for thirty-six hours.

Land For a Hospital Granted.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, via Galveston, Tex., Dec. 11.—President Zelaya has issued a decree by which the government of Nicaragua donates about 100,000 square yards of land in one or more lots situated on Ometepe island, in Lake Nicaragua, to the United States for use as a sanitarium for the benefit of laborers on the canal. The United States may appoint a surgeon to select the actual locality of the donated land.

The Girl Thought to Be Dead.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Dec. 11.—The family of Nell Cropsey, who heretofore have clung to the belief that she was alive, are now of opinion that she is dead, but do not state the basis for this change in their opinion. A member of the committee of five in charge of the search for the missing girl said, "We believe we will produce the body of Nell Cropsey within twelve hours."

Morocco Strikers Return to Work.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 11.—The first break in the morocco workers' strike in this city occurred yesterday afternoon, when the strike at the Weber Leather company's factory was settled on terms proposed by the Lynn board of trade. Only union men returned to work in this factory today.

A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

Nine Men Injured and Buildings Wrecked at Sharon, Pa.

SHARON, Pa., Dec. 11.—An explosion that shook the earth for miles around, shattered windows in hundreds of houses at South Sharon, moved adjacent buildings from their foundations and caused the injury of nine men, two perhaps fatally, occurred at the Sharon Steel company's plant yesterday. Out of the nine men injured four were taken to the hospital.

The explosion occurred in the casting department of Pig mill. The metal was being poured from the ladle into the casting machine, when it came in contact with some water, which caused a blast that was felt a great distance. The casting house was completely wrecked. Large strips of heavy corrugated iron beams and other material were hurled hundreds of yards by the explosion. The casting machine and conveyor were damaged almost beyond repair. A part of the conveyor was blown several hundred feet, while not a vestige of the iron roof of the mill remains. Windows in the office of the steel company on Broadway, several hundred yards away from the explosion, were broken, and in Sharon and South Sharon the shock was felt like an earthquake. Secretary Whitla of the steel company stated that he was unable to give an explanation of the cause of the accident.

Sir Christopher's Tribute.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Sir Christopher Furness, the English shipowner and steelmaster, who has just returned from an extended tour of the United States, said in an interview published this morning that during this visit he had been forcibly struck by the great improvement in American railroads. He said that since his last visit to the United States in 1892 there had been wonderful development there. American trade was busy and improving in all directions. British masters must get their backs to the wall in order to meet this serious competition. He said he was disappointed at finding that the younger generation of Canadians was crossing the border into the United States and said he thought Canada deserved better support from the mother country.

A Deadly Florida Duel.

ZOLFO, Fla., Dec. 11.—G. L. Powell and J. S. Overstreet, two prominent naval stores manufacturers, shot and killed each other in a face to face duel here. Overstreet went to Powell's still, nine miles west of here, to see about some hands. The two men had some words, and both drew their revolvers and commenced firing. From what facts are at present obtainable both men emptied their revolvers without doing any damage. Powell then went into the house and came out with a rifle. Both fired together, and each man fell. Overstreet was shot in the forehead and Powell just below the heart. Overstreet was killed instantly, and Powell lived only an hour. Powell was one of the largest operators and owners of turpentine lands in Florida.

Pennsylvania Railway Improvement

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—The Pennsylvania railroad has awarded contracts for improvements involving an expenditure of more than $1,000,000. The contracts included the erection of a four track stone arch bridge over the Raritan river at New Brunswick, N. J., and a new single track tunnel through the crest of the Alleghany mountains at Gallitzen. The bridge will be built on the site of the present iron structure at a considerable elevation above the old bridge. This will enable the company to carry out its project of elevating its tracks through New Brunswick.

Ex-Slave a Slave Dealer.

NEW DECATUR, Ala., Dec. 11.—Ben Milam, colored, an ex-slave, of Lawrence county is under arrest, charged with kidnaping negroes and selling them as slaves to the white manager of a Tennessee river island plantation some miles below Decatur. It is alleged that Milam would induce negroes to accompany him to the island with the promise of securing positions for them on the plantation at good wages and that when they reached there he would sell them in bondage, where they were confined within stockades.

Federation of Catholic Societies.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 11.—The American Federation of Catholic Societies is now permanently established. At the sessions of the first day of its initial convention no opposition to the confederation was manifested. On the contrary, the attendance, unanimity of opinion and enthusiasm of all present in the new organization surpassed all expectations.

A DEGRADED SERVICE

Medical Department of the Army Denounced.

RULED BY GAG LAW AND TYRANNY

Retiring President of the American Medical Association Accuses the Government of Criminal Negligence.

MARION, O., Dec. 11.—Dr. Charles A. L. Reed of Cincinnati, the retiring president of the American Medical association, was given a banquet here by the medical profession of northern Ohio. In the course of his remarks on pending congressional topics viewed from a medical standpoint he said:

"It seems from evidence that has recently come from within the army itself that the medical department has not only been degraded, but that it is practically without authority. This was strikingly, indeed tragically, illustrated during the recent war. A commandant was in charge of a quarter of the entire army. His command was made up of the flower of American manhood and was encamped at a health resort. He, however, in violation of the precedent of the usually cultivated and competent gentlemen of the line, but acting under the permission of existing army regulations, not only set aside recommendations of his sanitary officers, but by personal example incited his men to violate the most fundamental sanitary laws.

"The result was what might have been expected. Of the more than 50,000 men in his command 12,000 were invalided, while nearly a thousand died from preventable causes. If in an active military operation the commandant had ignored the advice of his scouts and had led his command into ambush with similarly disastrous results—12,000 wounded and 1,000 killed—he would have been court martialed and doubtless dismissed from the service. The regulations, however, I am advised, fixed no responsibility for this awful calamity, the enormity of which is only beginning to be understood.

"It is not surprising that efforts have been made to suppress knowledge of it. I am advised that the army investigating committee in the interest of public decency omitted from its public report much testimony on this phase of the conduct of the war. An officer in the service who today agitates this unsavory subject is banished to the Philippines. No wonder the surgeon general cannot fill the sixty or more vacancies now existing in his corps. Self respecting medical men are not offering themselves for a degraded service that is dominated by gag law and tyranny.

"The agitation cannot stop until the responsibility is fixed for the enforcement of a regulation under the present terms of which the bumptiousness of an accidental and incapable commandant may, with impunity to himself, deprive an entire army of the benefactions of science."

Marconi's Wireless Experiments.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 11.—William Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, who is here conducting experiments with his system, has succeeded in floating a balloon 200 feet above the summit of Signal hill, which is 600 feet high and overlooks the harbor of St. John's. This balloon is fastened by a series of stays which render it almost motionless. It holds up the vertical steel wire which is used in the system of wireless telegraphy in communicating with distant ships. The weather is favorable to wireless communication, and Marconi hopes to attain results superior to those given by any previous experiments.

Chicago's Wineroom Ordinance.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Mayor Harrison has signed the wineroom ordinance passed by the city council and immediately ordered Chief O'Neill to send out notices to all saloon keepers that winerooms must be removed under penalty of revocation of the liquor license. Restaurants will be served with a copy of the law as passed and advised to keep within the limits prescribed in the second section forbidding the sale of liquor in private dining rooms to parties numbering less than four members.

West Virginia Town Destroyed.

WAYNE, W. Va., Dec. 11.—This town, the county seat of Wayne county, was almost wiped out by a fire which broke out shortly after midnight and raged until daylight. There was but little insurance, as the town has no department. The fire originated in a livery stable, and a stiff wind that was blowing caused the flames to sweep on, destroying everything in their path for two squares. The inhabitants could do nothing but stand idly by and see their property go up in smoke.

Japan Diet Opened.

YOKOHAMA, Dec. 11.—The emperor of Japan opened the imperial diet at Tokyo yesterday. He expressed his satisfaction with the growing friendships between the empire and the treaty powers and made a congratulatory reference to the Japanese expedition to China. A former member of the diet who returned to the chamber attempted to present a petition of his grievances. He was arrested.

Increased Postal Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The statement of gross postal receipts at the fifty largest postoffices in the United States for November compared with November of last year shows a net increase of $482,018, or over 11 per cent as a whole. All but six of the offices show increased receipts, the largest of the exceptions being a decrease of 25 per cent at Jersey City, N. J.

NEW MANAGEMENT.

It really looks as if the Plainfield public might expect to see an improvement in the local trolley service in a very brief while. Of course, everything cannot be remedied in a day but a disposition on the part of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company to better conditions would be right welcome.

There are two reasons for this belief. The ultimatum of the Common Council is known and its force recognized. Even that might not have the desired effect, however. The most significant thing is that a new president and general manager of the company is to be elected at a meeting of the directors of the company, this evening. David Young has withdrawn from the position of chief executive of the line. His resignataion will be accepted this evening. In his place, Thomas C. Barr will be elected to the office of president and of general manager.

If the common reports are to be trusted, Mr. Barr is to assume the direct supervision of the trolley line between Plainfield and Elizabeth and put it in proper running order and keep it there. If Mr. Barr accomplishes that, he will win the sincere thanks of the people along all the line and in Plainfield in particular.

It is impossible for us to say who is to blame for the present state of things. The fault is somewhere in the company and the company should lose no time in finding out where it is and then remedying it. Mr. Barr is said to be a man well versed in the control and management of trolley systems. He should, therefore, have no trouble in putting the local system where it should be without loss of time.

It may be that the reply to the Common Council's notification has been delayed until the new executive head of the company assumes control and can then reply to the council concerning his plans for the future.

NO NEED FOR FEAR.

There was a rumor current in town yesterday that the fire at the isolation hospital was of incendiary origin. An investigation by Chief T. O. Doane failed to find any reason for the report although the origin of the blaze is still a mystrey. There seems to be a mistaken idea concerning this isolation or emergency hospital which it would be well to correct if possible.

The site for the emergency hospital is an excellent one, far removed from any residences. It is well equipped and can be converted into a first-class hospital at a moment's notice The day of the dreaded "pest house" is gone. The isolation hospital, with all the modern conveniences, has taken its place. No one need, in case of emergency, feel any fear in going to the place which the Plainfield Board of Health has prepared.

"Advertise, no matter how small the newspaper space which you are able to buy," is the advice of the perodical Good Advertising. "Increase the amount as you can, for you can put your profits to no other use which will bring half as good results Start in with the resolve to grow into a big establishment through judicious advertising."

While the winters in this climate do not usually give long continued periods of skating, there is still enough cold weather here every year to make a public pond a possibility. There are few, indeed, who would not gladly contribute toward its support.

Now that the Common Council is beginning to negotiate with the Plainfield Water Supply Company regarding a new contract, it will be well for the councilmen to consider the public demands and compell the company to respond to them.

The old reputation of the New Jersey Central for being on time has been sadly injured of late.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Plainfield is regarded as a pleasant place to live, but just now it lacks one of the attractions of New Brunswick, and that is skating ponds. We have any number of places where it is safe for young people to go and skate. Even some of our streets furnish good sport for youngsters with sleds, and over one hundred saloons sell "skates" to those who find pleasure in that kind of conviviality.—New Brunswick Home News.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Among the new books advertised by Henry Holt & Co., publishers of New York, is one written by Viola A. Conklin, wife of Ewdin W. Conklin, of First place. The book is entitled "American Political History to the Death of Lincoln," and will recall to quite a large circle of Plainfield women the highly interesting lectures given by Mrs. Conklin a few years ago. She makes this prefatory statement of the origin of her work. It was undertaken at the suggestion of "a cultured woman who entered actively into the opportunities of her New York life." She said: "Write a course of lectures upon the political history of the United States, and I promise to form a class of women, all as ill informed as I am and equally anxious to learn." The lectures came in due season, and were presently expanded into the book just published.

COMMANDER BERG.

Chosen as Head of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., at Annual Election Last Night.

At a regular meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., last evening, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: Commander, Dr. J. F. Berg; senior vice-commander, Charles B. Stephens; junior vice-commander, William Hand; quartermaster, J. R. Naylor; surgeon, Israel Compton; chaplain, John A. Goodwin; officer-of-the-day, I. L. McVoy; officer-of-the-guard, A. G. Perry; trustees, W. C. Smith, M. C. Dobbins, William Hand; delegates to Department Encampment, H. C. Smith, Andrew Cox, William Day; alternates, John A. Goodwin, Edward Townley, J. W. Coddington.

There was a large attendance of veterans and the election was a spirited one. It was at first expected that Col. Mason W. Tyler would be elected commander, but he said that he could not give the time to the office. Dr. Berg served in that position last year and gave satisfaction.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. Offering for Sunday-School.

Sunday morning the semi-annual offering for the Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church will be made. Additions are now being made to the library, but the work is delayed because of the lack of funds. It is earnestly hoped that there will be a liberal response so that new volumes may be purchased and the distribution of books resumed.

—The Somerset County Teachers' Institute will be held at Bound Brook Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The members of Fanwood Council, R. A., held a large and interesting meeting in their rooms last evening. Business of importance was transacted and the annual election of officers for the ensuing year was held. The following were elected to pilot Fanwood during the year 1902: Regent, Frank R. Allen; vice regent, Wm. R. Stanbery; guide, Charles Scheelen; chaplain, John Robinson; past regent, T. Rombo Collins; orator, G. Dudley Kyte; secretary, Norman Dunn; collector, James H. Parks; treasurer, John Bornmann; warden, John Cook; sentry, Edward L. Hand; trustee for one year, Wm. B. Noble; representative to Grand Council, Wm. E. Collins. The installation will be held on the second Tuesday evening in January.

Miss Sadie Reger entertained the members of the choir of the Presbyterian church, Westfield, at her home on East Front street, last evening. Several pleasant hours were passed with music, games and social chat. Refreshments were served.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., is arranging for a smoker in its rooms in the near future. The members are anticipating a pleasant visit from delegations from the several councils in the vicinity and an enjoyable evening is assured.

The members of the Literary Society of the Methodist church will hold their weekly meeting in the class rooms of the church this evening. Miss Lulu Hollingsworth will read an interesting paper upon Africa.

The regular monthly meeting of the trustees of the Baptist chuch was held in the church parlor last evening.

The rain, together with the thaw of yesterday, put an end to the skating for a few days at least.

Miss Nettie Reick, who has been quite ill for the past week, is improving very nicely.

Onward Council, L. A. B. A., held a regular meeting in its rooms last evening.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. McDonough, who lives at the corner of Church street and Lehigh avenue, sprained her ankle by falling down a short flight of steps, yesterday.

Mrs. Libbens Ayers will sell at auction, tomorrow, her farming utensils and stock. She expects to leave the farm and move to South Plainfield.

Camp No. 41, P. O. S. of A., has settled in full the claim of Mrs. Libbens Ayers for mortuary benefit on account of the death of her husband.

Unclaimed letters are advertised at the postoffice, addressed to E. J. Tappen, Berrone Bartolomes and Farenella Antonie.

Rumor has it that there will be a double wedding in town during Christmas week.

Repairs are being made by Bethume Dunham to the coal house of the local school.

DEATH OF A YOUNG MAN.

Chas. A. Fickbohm Passed Away at Residence of Mrs. Hoffman.

Charles August Fickbohm died yesterday at the residence of Mrs. Hoffman on Terrill road, where he had made his home for some time past. He had been ill but two weeks with typhoid fever. The young man was twenty-one years old and was but little known in this city.

Funeral services will be held from his late residence, tomorrow afternoon, after which the remains will be taken to Jersey City for interment in Bay View cemetery.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

Warriors' Degree for One.

The warriors' degree will be conferred on one candidate at the meeting of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, Improved Order Red Men, tomorrow evening. Next week Thursday the tribe will give a smoker.

PLEA FOR A SKATING POND

"CROSS ROLL" BELIEVES IT WOULD BE A GREAT SUCCESS.

Says the Old as Well as the Young Enjoy the Outdoor Exercise.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I note with pleasure your comment in Saturday's issue, on the need of a skating resort in the vicinity of Plainfield. Not only do the young want it, but those who are no longer young in years need it. I know of no recreation so prone to make us forget our years, and our cares, as skating in the fresh, clear winter's air.

To the youth it is a joyous pastime, to those in middle life, a magnificant exercise. I might cite such cases as E. B. Cook, of Hoboken; John Engler, of Jersey City; Col. C. E. Fuller, of Boston; Frank Swift, E. H. Beainey, Bill Curtis, of athletic fame, and a host of others who "young in limbs, in judgment old," prove its efficiency as a renewer of youth.

By all means let us have a skating pond. I am sure that in this town are skaters enough to support one, keep it cleaned of snow and obstructions, and well lighted. And before the winter was over, many of our young friends would be enthusiastic over what is to many of us the most joyful of all out of door sports. Cross Roll.

Telephones and Diplomacy.

An interesting subject for speculation is found in the possible effect on the relations of nations, diplomatic as well as commercial, of their unification by the telephone. Long distance lines now connect the capitals of every country of the continent, and while it is not probable that they will be employed to any extent in delicate diplomatic manipulations, the facilities offered for prompt, full and almost informal intercommunication between capitals will certainly make for good understandings by promptly dispelling a good many doubts, uncertainties and misconceptions, are liable to be magnified into "incidents" and to assume even more serious aspects if forced on the attention of a minister suffering from indigestion or bothered with incipient symptoms of gout. The fact that at last reports Turkey had no telephones may explain why, in everything pertaining to the affairs of that country, diplomatic intrigue and mystery still dominate the course of events and lead, as usual, nowhere.—N. Y. Times.

The Harvest Bell.

A quaint but dying custom dating from the middle ages, and which still obtains in a few country parishes, is that of ringing the harvest bell morning and evening. The time varies in different localities. For instance, at Driffield, in Yorkshire, the bell rings at five in the morning, while at Willingham, in Cambridgeshire, it rings at seven; and the times too, vary in the evening. Authorities differ as to the origin of the custom, some antiquaries holding that the morning and evening prayers in the Roman church were held earlier and later in the harvest time, hence the gleaners' bell. Others maintain the use of the bell is that all gleaners may have a fair start, no one being allowed in the fields before or after bell-ringing; in fact, that the custom is similar to the signal given to the collectors of vraick in the Channel islands, a custom sanctioned there by an old Norman law. The ringers were formerly paid by a portion of corn from each crop, but payment is now usually made by money. —London Chronicle.

Women's Pockets.

A police magistrate in New York asserts that "a woman has no more right to go through her husband's pockets than a husband has to go through his wife's pockets."

He must be a bachelor.

The cases are not analogous.

The imposibility of finding a woman's pocket is its sure defense.

You need a map and a search warrant to make a successful raid on its contents.

When found there is likely to be nothing in it but a recipe for making currant jam.

It is ridiculous to talk about husbands going through their wives' pockets.—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

Sadness Explained.

In Liverpool recently a sentimental young lady was on the Cunard steamship quay when she saw a young girl sitting on a trunk in an attitude of utter dejection and despair.

"Poor thing," thought the romantic lady, "she is probably alone and a stranger. Her pale cheeks and great, sad eyes tell of a broken heart and a yearning for sympathy." So she went over to the traveler to win her confidence.

"Crossed in love?" she asked sympathetically.

"No," replied the girl, with a sigh, "crossed in the Servia and an awfully rough passage, too."—London Tit-Bits.

Caused by Hot Weather.

One of the odd results of the hot weather of the past summer was the spouting of bricks into the air in several western towns. In Kansas City, where the thermometer registered 103.3 degrees, the pavements in many parts of the city expanded in places, bulged out and shot bricks upward into the air to the height of nine or ten feet. The oldest inhabitant never before heard of this phenomenon.—Golden Days.

She Rented Rooms to Duelists.

For some months a woman in Vienna has been making a living in a singular manner. Having leased a house in a secluded quarter of the city, she furnished the rooms comfortably, and then announced through confidential agents that any persons who desired to fight duels could do so at their ease in her rooms. Of course she charged for this accommodation, but the amount was not large, and consequently not many days were passed before a fierce combat took place between two students in her most comfortable apartment. During the following week three more duels were fought in her house, and the place became ever so popular, until a few days ago, when the police burst in just as two young men were preparing to fight with sabres. They arrested the woman, who is the wife of a subordinate government official, and a few days later she was sentenced to a long term of imprisonment. She admitted at her trial that more than 200 duels had been fought in her house, and that she had earned a large sum of money in this way. Witnesses also testified that she had been present during all of the duels and had given much assistance to the surgeons in caring for the wounded.—N. Y. Herald.

On the Other Foot.

"My dear sir," he began, as he entered the room across the hall, "I find myself short by about—"

"Sorry, but I'm dead broke," interrupted the other.

"Is it possible? As I was saying, I find—"

"No use; can't help you."

"You mean you have no money to spare?"

"Not a red cent."

"Then let me lend you $25. Here it is."

"But I thought—"

"Yes, I see, but it isn't the case. I was going to say that I found myself short of cats at the house by about half a dozen, and I wanted to see if you had any to spare or could direct me to a cat store. As for money, you can have a hundred if you want it."—Boston Traveler.

Rewards for Chinese Soldiers.

Rewards are seldom given for prowess on the battlefield in China, but when they are the most acceptable of them all, from the private soldier's point of view, is a sack of rice, valued at three taels (about 18 shillings). The commanding officer of each regiment has power to give as many sacks as are deserved, and at the conclusion of every campaign he sends in a formidable bill to the government for rice. No inquiries are made, nor are the names of the recipients asked for, so in nine cases out of ten the officer sells the grain and puts the money into his own pocket, while the deserving soldier, to whom the rice would have meant a great deal, has to go without.—N. Y. Sun.

ON THE STONY INDIAN RESERVATION.

CANADA is making good Indians out of live ones. But the fact must not be lost sight of that the early training of the Canadian Indians was different from that of the Indians of the states. While the red citizens of this country were engaged in repelling the advance of civilization, while they were massacreing the settler and the settler's family as they pushed their way further and further west, the Canadian Indian was trapping the game of the north for the Hudson Bay company, and in this way benefiting mankind.

The reception of the white man was different in those early days, because they came upon a different mission. In this country the coming of the white man to the west meant the gradual diminution of the land over which the Indian was permitted to roam at will, the turning of the sod by the settler meant the extinction of the game that formed the Indians' subsistence. In Canada the white man brought with him congenial employment. He did not represent the advance of the white man's civilization, but brought the white man's need for the Indian to fill, and for the which he was ready to pay. Go where you will in western Canada even at this late day and the H. B. C. flag of the old company is a safeguard against theft by any Indian. To the Indian that flag stood for their employer's, for a government that left them their wild free life and their game. But it represented a government none the less; a government for the Indian by the white man, but a government of such a character that the savage did not rebel against it.

True, Canada has had her Indian troubles. Twice within the last half a century has Indian rebellion stalked broadcast over the Canadian plains, and laid waste advancing settlement. But it was not the government represented by the H. B. C. flag against which the rebellion was aimed, but that which was replacing the H. B. C. The old factors of the Hudson Bay company's posts who served through the stirring days of the Reel rebellions tell many an interesting story of how their long trains of Red river carts over which floated the H. B. C. flag were allowed to pass in safety, while anything claiming the protection of the union jack of England was considered a fair prize by the rebels.

There are nearly one-half of the Indians of Canada still under the jurisdiction of the Hudson Bay company. They are the natives of the far north and include the typical red men of the forest and the Esquimaux far beyond the arctic circle. To these the factor at the Hudson Bay company post at which they dispose of the trophies of the chase for what they consider the luxuries of life is both lawmaker and lawgiver. His authority is unquestioned, and his order meets with instant obedience. The source of his authority is neither known or cared; to him chiefs, medicine men and warriors bow a willing knee.

The tourist from Winnipeg west finds Indians at every station. In Winnipeg they come into the city in the winter time with dog teams and sledges, bringing to the market offered by the fur traders, of whom there are now a number, the skins they have secured during the summer months and taking back with them the powder and shot, blankets, rough clothing and other things for which they exchange their products. During the summer months the really picturesque Indian is unknown to Winnipeg. They reside too far north to make the trip except when the winter's snows offer a method of transportation, but as the tourist travels westward he finds more of them. They meet every train, they are seen at every hand, and it is hard to believe that there are less than 100,000 of them all told in Canada.

In Winnipeg I called upon Hon. David Laird, the Canadian Indian commissioner for the Northwest Territories, to secure some information.

"Where is the best place to see the typical Canadian Indian?" I asked.

"It depends entirely on what you class as typical," he replied. "What we would class as typical western Canada Indians are those in the schools, on the farms and the cattle ranges. They are not the picturesque Indians, however. If you are looking for paint and feathers there is no better place than around Calgary. There you can see the Indian in all his savage finery, but they are typical of a generation ago, not of to-day."

It is true that Canada has successfully educated a large percentage of her Indian population. All over the western provinces and territories are Indian boarding and day schools in which the younger generation of Indians take a great interest, and in which thousands of them are perfecting themselves for lives of civilization and usefulness.

But the old love for the wild life is not entirely dead even among the younger generations. About Calgary may be seen the Crows, the Blackfeet, and a little further west in the foothills of the mountains the Stony tribe. With them the moccasins, the blanket, the buckskin breeches and shirt constitute the wearing apparel; the squaws still perform the drudgery of the camp, her lord is still a hunter, and to a small extent a cattle ranger. The teepee is the common home, and they are seen by hundreds from Medicine Hat to the Rocky mountains. Paint and feathers are a prominent feature of their make-up, as in days of old, and during the recent visits of the duke and duchess of York it was their pleasure to entertain the royal visitors with a war dance given with all the old-time ardor and realism.

These Indians have accepted civilization only so far as it has suited their convenience. They do not disdain the annual annuity of five dollars per head which the government pays them, or the privilege of occasionally selling or killing a steer with which the government intrusts them.

Nor are they above accepting the products of a civilized commerce when it appeals to their sense of fitness. As an illustration of this it is seldom that the painted faces are now colored with the old-time vegetable dies. The paint is still there, but as a concession to civilization they now use the coarse red paint of commerce with which the settler protects his farm building against the elements.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. EVENING WRAPS.

Three-quarter Capes of Fur Useful For Theater Wear.

Long coats and Russian blouses entirely made of ermine are among the extravagances of the season. Russian blouses of this description are made with beautifully jeweled belts, lace jabots and undersleeves. They are frequently ornamented with bows of black velvet.

Although capes are not fashionable this year, yet an exception is made in favor of three-quarter length garments of sable for evening wear. The lower edge of these capes is finished by a big ruffle, also of the sable, and this ruffle is often headed with a handsome band of Arabian lace. Such capes are lined with pale colored satins and chiffons and have a fall of lace at the throat.

An evening muff of chiffon and fine lace is one of the accessories of an up to date evening wrap.

A black satin evening coat is shown in the sketch. It has a scalloped collar and fronts of ermine overlaid with vandyke points of rich lace. Inside of this there is a frilling of chiffon. The garment, being intended for evening wear, is cut with a rounding train. The sleeves are rather large and are held in tucks down to the elbow, where they puff and are gathered at the wrist into a wide cuff of ermine.

TEA GOWNS.

Their Limitations and Their Possibilities.

The tea gown is one of the events of the season—that is, the revival of the tea gown, for it is revived every few years or so. It is a thoroughly English idea. The English woman is fond of taking her ease even if by so doing she hides the lines of her figure and takes away one of her chief charms. This year, however, the lithe Parisienne has appropriated to herself the tea gown and has made it thoroughly French by fitting it in here and there and almost turning it into a princess gown.

In its loose state the tea gown can only be used in the privacy of one's own apartments or to receive one's women friends. It is a sort of high class wrapper. Made over a clinging lining, with an empire or princess effect, the tea gown may become a thing of beauty fit almost for grand receptions. It is particularly becoming to the picturesque woman, she who does not look her best in street clothes.

In today's picture we have a dainty tea gown of cream china silk. It is trimmed with pure white lace and with narrow black velvet ribbons. The neck is cut V shaped to allow a soft fichu of the white lace. The sleeves have deep elbow puffs also of the lace, with an upper and an under cuff of insertion banded with black velvet. The bottom of the skirt is composed of a deep flounce of the lace headed by a diamond shaped patterning of the insertion banded by the narrow black velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Trouble on the Torolito.

BY FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright 1898, by Francis Lynde.)

Measured by agonizing, it lasted long. The water was no more than waist-deep, but the might of a strong man would have availed little against the swift down-rush of the torrent in its bowlder-studded bed. Twice and yet once again, I made frenzied shift to struggle to foot or knee in the boiling raceway; and at the final emergence had a vanishing glimpse of the embankment of the Selter dam with some one standing thereon. It was a woman, and her figure was outlined against the wedge of blue sky beyond the canyon gateway. So much I saw in the catching of a breath, but when I would have cried to her the torrent uprose in its might and effaced me.

CHAPTER VII.

"BACK TO THE EARTH AGAIN."

If the immortal soul of man be a conscious entity, as some assert, what becomes of it in those lapses of the realities when the wheels of the mental recording machinery, stop, and some buffet or bruise of the body corporeal tears a leaf out of the book of time? For a certain curious onlooker, whose queryings sent him to plunge unwillingly into the icy waters of the Torolitan Avernus, time's clock stopped with a glimpse of the dam, an outlined figure of a woman, and a mighty dinning of the flood in his ears. When it began to tick again, it was night, and the point of view was the pillow of a bed in a strange room. A lamp was burning on a small table at the bed's head, and the room appeared as a half-story chamber in a substantial log house, with the rough rafters pitching low over the bed.

A murmur of voices came from below, and an intermittent clatter of knives and forks on ironstone china. Presently a chair complained in the room beneath, and a slow step mounted the stair. I closed my eyes wearily to open them when the leisurely steps reached the bedside.

The man who stood over me was tall, lean, leathern-skinned; and with no more beard than an Indian. If he had not worn his hat at the supper-table below, he had put it on to come upstairs. He was in his shirt-sleeves, and his manner was of those to whom coats are unmeaning luxuries.

"Mandy, she thort she hearn ye stirrin,'" he said, and his speech associated itself with my recollection of the leisurely step on the stair. "Done foun' yourself ag'in, at last, have ye? Feel like ye could eat a little something?"

I wagged my head on the pillow, and asked the stereotyped question of the lately resuscitated: "Where am I?"

"Ye're here," he replied, with a simple directness which left nothing to be desired. "Nan, she fished ye out 'n the creek, an' we cyarr'd ye up to the house, 'mongst us, an' ye've been here ever since."

"Nan?" I queried.

"Oomhoo; she's my daughter. She was 'sooeyin'" the cow, an' she saw

IT WAS A WOMAN.

you floppin', 'round in the run-away 'bove the dam. What-all was ye tryin' to do, anyhow?"

"Trying to get out, if I remember correctly. What is this for?" I put my hand to the bandage on my head.

"Hit's a purty tolerable bad cut; bumped it ag'inst a rock, I reckon. Hurts some, don't it?"

"Not much; but I'm as weak as a child. You say your name is Selter?"

"Naw; I didn't say so, but hit air. An' ye're the tenderfoot from Macpherson's. I've hearn the name, but I misremember hit."

"Halcott," I said; and this was my informal introduction to the Selter household.

"Reckon ye couldn't eat anything," he said, hospitably, after an uneasy pause.

"No, I think not."

He left me at that, shuffling as he had come; and a few minutes afterward there was a lighter step on the stair and a tap at the half-open door. I said "Come," thinking it was the daughter. It was Miss Sanborn. She had improvised a tray out of a tin kettle-cover, and was bringing me a slice of toast and a cup of tea. Hunger was not in me, but her thoughtful kindness stirred some faint simulacrum of it.

"Thank you, Miss Sanborn; that is very good of you. But I don't believe I could eat a mouthful."

"You must," she insisted. "You are getting better now, but you won't gain strength until you begin to eat. We mustn't let you starve yourself."

"There isn't much danger of that, is there?" I queried. "I ate a very hearty dinner, as I remember it."

She made the pillows comfortable and sat down at the bedside to hold the improvised tray. "When was that?" she asked.

"To-day; two or three hours before I started out to ride up the valley."

Her smile was a cordial in itself.

"Nature is kind to us—sometimes. You have suffered dreadfully, and have been very near to death without realizing it. Your hearty dinner was eaten just three weeks ago today."

It was blankly incredible, and I said so.

"It is true. It was brain fever, the doctor says. You have been delirious all the time when you haven't been unconscious."

"The doctor, you say? I didn't know there was one in the valley."

"There isn't. But Mr. Macpherson brought Dr. Raynor up from the fort, and has kept him here ever since." I had eaten half of the toast slice and was reaching for the other half. She gave it to me. "That is right; it will do you good."

"That is just like Mac," I say. "There is no end to his good-heartedness."

"No." She said it frankly, and if there were the faintest flush of self-consciousness to go with it, the light was too poor to betray her.

It is not to be expected that a man who had just lost three weeks is the chaos of delirium should be wholly responsible, and I said: "It must have been a sore trial to him not to be able to come here to see me."

Her straight brows went up in a little arch of surprise, and there was an alarm signal setting itself in the frank eyes.

"Not to be able to come here? He has watched with you every night."

I saw my blunder and was not too far gone to try to retrieve it.

"I didn't know," I said. "I thought the trouble between him and Selter might keep him away."

She smiled again. There was relief in it this time, and the alarm signal in the eyes of serenity took flight.

"Your illness has been a blessing in disguise," she said; "the trouble between them was growing day by day, but Mr. Macpherson's coming here so much has given them a chance to arrive at a better understanding. Their interests are identical, when all is said."

"Yes; but I understood that Selter had gone over to the enemy," said I.

"He did sell his water-right to the land company; but he is sorry for that now. Mr. Macpherson has shown him what the result will be; that he will presently have to buy water of the company, at the company's price. Shall I bring you another cup of tea?"

"No, thank you. But tell me more about—"

She shook her head with great decision. "Not any more to-night. By and by, when you are stronger, Mr. Macpherson will tell you all about it."

"Will Mac be here to-night?"

"I presume so; yes, certainly he will come. Can I do anything more for you?"

Her presence was so restful that I tried to think of some pretext for detaining her. Since none offered, I was reluctantly constrained to bid her good-night, and I did it with a firm resolve to stay awake long enough to question Macpherson when he should come. But when she was gone, the opiate in the low hum of voices from below stairs struck hands with weakness, and I slept—slept so soundly that I knew not when Macpherson came or went; and it was late the following evening when I awoke out of a doze to find the master of the ranch at my bedside.

His greeting was large-hearted, with a little quaver of gratitude in the voicing of it.

"By jove! old man; I thought you were going to make a die of it in spite of us," he said, and his eyes were suspiciously bright. "How are you feeling?—a bit stronger and better?"

"I'm coming on all right. I think I've slept most of the time for 24 hours—or is it another three weks?"

There was a heartening in his laugh. "No, it's only a day this time. But you mustn't talk. Doctors are bad people to run up against."

"If I can't talk, you'll have to. When I dropped out—or rather in—we were about to take up arms against a sea of troubles. Piece out the story for me and I'll be as quiet as a lamb. Otherwise I shall have a query-fit and run my temperature up. What has happened in my temporary absence?"

Macpherson laughed again. "A whole lot of things have happened. Selter has seen the error of his ways and is mad—slow-mad like an Indian, and after somebody's scalp—Wykamp's for preference, though I believe he wouldn't hesitate to ambush the entire board of directors after the most approved Tennessee mountaineer style if he had the chance."

"What converted him?"

Fencing Promises to Be a Popular Sport This Winter

FENCING this winter promises to be more popular than ever before. Last season the sport enjoyed what was said to be a period of greatest popularity. Interest in the "greatest exercise" known was unprecedented. Now doctors are actually prescribing fencing to society clients. Reports from Boston indicate that the Hub is to have more fencing clubs this winter than some big cities have dancing and card clubs. The foils and masks are being taken down and prepared for use. Women are going to develop the grace of the French woman and obtain the benefit of the assault and parry. The love of arms to-day is just as great as it was when knighthood was in flower, but the foil accomplishes bloodlessly what the sword too often used to be used to destroy—a perfectly developed physique.

La Belle Americaine, as the best woman fencer in this country—Mme. Leonie Stamm—has called her American sisters, will soon have all of the accomplishments of the society leaders of the continent. The latter would as soon neglect their fencing lessons as they would eliminate outdoor exercise. Mme. Stamm heartlessly calls fencing a fad in this country, but she must be accepted as an authority. That veteran of many friendly passages at arms, Col. Monstery, when asked what he thought about it declared emphatically that long after golf, tennis, automobile riding, etc., had ceased to attract, the people would return to the use of the foils. Fencing, in his opinion, was too well founded as an art—the greatest of its kind—and has too many centuries of history behind it to ever become a mere fad.

You must make up your mind to be a close observer of detail if you will follow a course in fencing. That much I learned two minutes after talking to a great professor of the art in a big athletic club. This professor now has more pupils than he can attend to. But he will not become enthusiastic over public exhibitions—tourneys for prizes, etc. If fencing is to continue its popularity it must be in the club, in the "gyms" provided for women who would cultivate grace of motion and strength of body.

Anybody may take a course of fencing with his neighbor if he will pay particular attention to printed instructions. But to acquire dexterity and skill without a master swordsman to guide you is almost impossible.

The rough-and-ready foilsman is invariably like a child when brought into competition with the trained handler of the foils. That the beginner may not be discouraged, let it be known that in the old Central Music hall, recently demolished to make room for a mercantile house, many spectators have seen the veterans of the guard and lunge beaten for points by pupils from one-year classes from the turn vereins. The man who has "fought" with the foils occasionally outpoints the fencer of skill.

Does a graceful fencer become a graceful dancer? That query was recently asked F. W. Hitchings, the Harvard university expert, and he replied in the affirmative. The gaining of control over most of the muscles of the body in fencing is the most direct of all of the benefits of fencing and of course that helps in dancing.

"All fencing movements begin with the position 'on guard,'" says Hitchings. The feet are at right angles to each other in this position, and from 14 to 18 inches apart. The height of the fencer governs this. Both feet must be flat on the floor and the right foot in advance must have its heel in a line with that of the left foot. It is a common fault with learners to bend forward when making an attack and to lean backward when being attacked. Of course the knees are bent considerably, but the trunk is held perpendicular to the floor. Hard work, you say! Certainly it is, but that is where the professor will drill you most in the beginning.

Another thing that learners must watch—that is to hold the head erect and not to bow. What is more graceful than the poise of a veteran like Col. Monstery with his left arm raised over the head toward the left side, the muscles loose and the fingers unconstrained? The skilled fencer makes obtuse angles at the elbow and wrist as a stiffly held arm with a fixed forearm invariably spoils the grace of the pose. It requires considerable practice to maintain the position of the foil arm. The foil should be lightly grasped with the concave side of the handle toward the floor and the other toward the left side. The thumb lies along the outer side, a little toward the outer and upward angle, and the fingers grasp the handle with the back of the hand being toward the floor. As in golf, "form" is a great requisite in this art of fencing, and too much detail, I am told, cannot be mastered by the beginner. Every actor of distinction has had his course in fencing, and more than one duel scene in a melodrama has afforded the combatants not a little pleasure in real tests of prowess.

You will be told by your instructor to always hold the foil in a straight line with the forearm. The tip of the foil will then be on a level with the eye of your opponent. Practice lunging by extending the sword arm as far as it will go without moving the body. If you neglect this "form," you will always have a "jab-thrust," which is as bad form as the smash stroke in golf. Besides, if the opponent is touched by it, the cry of "foul" will be heard from the watchful instructor. It has been said by some of the most expert swordsmen that no man could lung quickly enough to touch an expert without straightening out the left leg at the knee. The lunge has for its object the touching of the velvet jacket of your opponent so as to leave a chalk mark, and of course that is equivalent to a wound in a duel. After each lunge you assume the position on guard.

To properly guide the fencer, the foul is made necessary if his foil strikes anywhere except between the lower line of the jacket, a line drawn along the lower edge of the collar on the jacket side following the seam to the top of the right shoulder, to the seam of the insertion of the sleeve on the front side, thence to the armpit, and finally to the lower edge of the jacket to the middle of the right side.

I have been told that proper lunging may be acquired by practicing before a mirror. One of the simple things to remember, say the teachers, is to make the foil bend upward every time it touches a person. It is an axiom that every lunge has its parry. Simple carte and tierce, where the blade is forced to the right or left, or moving the foil just enough to cause the tip of the opponent's foil to pass the body, are easily acquired with practice.

Keeping the foil tip as nearly in line with the body as possible, the shorter the distance it has to move the better the fencer can get in the riposte or return thrust. Always parry an attack, say the fencers, before attempting a return stroke. When you get more skillful you will use the contre carte and contre tierce instead of the simpler parries. The former parries come only with experience, and are strong ones. The best fencers do not make the same lunge twice in succession, or if they do so to fool their adversaries, they vary their parry for the simple reason that a skilled opponent will take advantage of the play.

The National Fencers' League of America has ordered that in all competitions which come under its jurisdiction the costume of the fencer shall consist of a white jacket with a leather facing of buckskin—chamois will do—and the jacket should be made of a strong duck cloth. The jacket should be cut high in the neck in front to protect the sensitive nerve centers and the large blood vessels. A light gauntlet glove with padding on the back, if that is desired, may be worn, and generally is donned by all fencers. The selection of a mask to protect the face should be left by the beginner to his instructor. Too much care cannot be exercised in getting a mask with meshes entirely satisfactory for the work.

SPORTING NEWS

ROD AND GUN.

Dr. J. H. Cooley, of the borough, has returned from a hunting trip in Virginia. He brought ninety-seven ducks and several wild turkeys with him.

A live bird shoot has been arranged to take place tomorrow at Whitehouse, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning. There will be five hundred birds and there will also be target shooting. It is expected that the affair will be one of the largest of the season and Plainfield will be represented by a large number of sporting men.

KILLED BY CARS.

Howard Doty Called Home by Death of His Sister.

Horace Doty, of Syracuse, N. Y., formerly of this city, arrived in Plainfield, last evening, in response to a telegram informing of the accidental death of his sister, Mrs. Henry, by being run over by the cars. He learned the accident had taken place in Newark, Monday, where Mrs. Henry had been residing. She formerly lived here and will be recalled by her maiden name, Miss Lillian Doty. No particulars of the accident were given.

FOOT CRUSHED.

Thomas Brown Met With an Accident at Pond Tool Works.

Thomas Brown, of South Second street, an employe of the Pond Tool Works, met with a severe accident this morning. In some manner his right foot became wedged between the table and uprights of a planer, which he was running, and was badly crushed. The foot was held for several minutes while the machine reversed. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital where medical attention was given.

Big Bunch of Them.

At the meeting of Court Plainfield, I. O. F., to be held Friday evening, eighteen candidates will be initiated. The High Chief Ranger and other High Court officers will be present and assist in the work. Officers will be elected for the ensuing year and matters of interest to every member will come up for consideration.

Bound Brook Arrives.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, Dec. 11—The Bound Brook, the second of the New Jersey Central's new double-decked ferryboats, was delivered at the local wharves by the builders, the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company, this morning. It will be placed in the Liberty street ferry service Friday. The third new boat will be delivered next June.

Judgment was taken yesterday in Justice Hand's court in the case of Callahan against Ralph. Execution will be issued today.

MADE HER DEBUT.

Miss Leila Moore Cruikshank Introduced to New York Society in Reception Yesterday.

Miss Leila Moore Cruikshank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue, was introduced to New York society, yesterday afternoon, at a large reception given by her mother, assisted by Mrs. William Lewis Moore and Mrs. Nathaniel Denin Lancaster, at 301 West Seventy-second street, New York. There were over five hundred guests present and the affair was a brilliant one. The receiving party was assisted by Miss Catherine Young, of Chicago, who has been visiting Miss Cruikshank, and Miss Helen Savage, of Rahway. Miss Cruikshank will return home today and tomorrow will leave for Chicago, where she will be the guest of the Otis Youngs, who are to entertain in her honor. A number of Plainfield society folks attended the affair in New York, yesterday.

MET IN THE DARK.

Wheelman and Pedestrian Had a Serious Accident at Fanwood.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, Dec. 11—Henry O. Drake, afoot and Rutson Hull, awheel, collided early last evening at the entrance to the railroad bridge near Scheelein's grocery store, with serious consequences.

Drake was knocked down and, beside receiving contusions over the entire body, had an arm broken. Hull underwent a flight through the air but suffered only a few scratches. His wheel was badly wrecked. Both young men were employed at Scheelein's.

Contracts for Road Building.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 11—A meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders was held here yesterday morning. Arrangements were made to award contracts for road building, the sections to be improved being the road from Rocky Hill leading to West Princeton, and the intersection of the road leading from Liberty Corner to Belle Meade.

Free Masons Chose Officers.

At the regular meeting of Anchor Lodge, F. and A. M. held last evening, the following officers were elected: Worshipful master, Frank R. Wynkoop; senior warden, L. I. VanAlstyne; junior warden, R. L. Giddes; treasurer, J. E. Turrill; secretary, T. A. Rogers. A number of other officers remain to be appointed on December 20.

Used for First Time.

The new dishes, recently purchased by the Young Women's Mission Band, Ladies' Christian Work Society and Christian Endeavor Society, of Trinity Reformed church, were used at the Endeavor Society social in the church, last evening, for the first time.

The soprano soloist, Msss Anita Rio has sung here twice before, the contralto is Miss Florence Mulford, the tenor is Leo Lieberman who is said to have a voice of great sweetness and power, and the basso is Mr. Gwilym Miles, who has also sung in Plainfield before, and whose voice requires no praise. The conductor is Frank J. Smith, who is an old favorite in Plainfield.

The concert certainly promises to be one of the greatest interest and ought to secure a full attendance.

GROUNDUNDER WHEELS

Wm. S. Baroe Killed Near Whitehouse Station Yesterday by the Cars.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 11—Wm. S. Baroe, age twenty-five, section foreman for the New Jersey Central at Whitehouse station, died late yesterday afternoon in the Somerset Hospital here. He was brought here shortly after noon on a freight train and his condition was so serious the physicians deemed it unadvisable to operate. Baroe was walking between the tracks at Whitehouse station. The Rockaway Valley road was using the Central tracks to make a fly. In some way just as the engine pulled away from the car it was shifting to another track, Boroe stepped in front of the car and was ground under the wheels. An arm and leg were broken and he was almost cut in two about the waist.

Baroe left a wife. He was a member of the Foresters and Knights of the Golden Eagle.

This is the second accident of the kind that has happened within the past year or so there. Conductor Samuel Griffin, of the Rockaway Valley Railway was killed in about the same way.

Where They Studied.

Miss Willis, who jointly gave a recital at the Casino with Miss Howell, Monday evening, is a pupil of Hobart Smock, who sang on that occasion. Miss Howell is a pupil of Miss Minnie Marsh, of Madison avenue. She has also studied in the School of Accompanists, of New York, which is in charge of Miss Isabel McCall. The name of Frederick W. Goddard was omitted from the list of ushers at the recital.

Licences in Middlesex.

Among the licenses for the sale of liquors granted at yesterday's sitting of the Middlesex county court were the following: Piscataway, Lawrence Kerwin and William M. Norman; Dunellen, Joseph Maier; Lincoln, Charles D. Fisher. The application of Morris Higgins, of South Plainfield, was laid over.

At Calvary Church.

A concert and entertainment will be given in the Calvary Baptist church, tomorrow evening, for the benefit of the Sunday-school Christmas tree. The programme will be made up of singing, recitations and dialogues by the Sunday-school pupils. Deacon Spencer Conway will render a solo.

Arthur L. Titsworth.

The marriage of Arthur L. Titsworth, of West Seventh street, to Miss Nellie S. Runner, of Philadelphia, will take place tomorrow afternoon in the latter city. It will be a very quiet and simple affair. The bride and groom will return to this city Saturday and take up their residence in West Seventh street.

Piano Recital.

Mrs. William Seymour Tyler and Miss Maud VanBoskerck, will entertain a number of friends at the former's home on West Eighth street, tomorrow afternoon, at a piano recial. Miss Harriette Cady, one of New York's famous artists and a pupil of Professor Leschettitski, will play.

—A delegation of women from Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., paid a fraternal visit last evening to Safety Lodge, of Newark.

The Megaphone in Warfare.

During the great Ashantee campaign the megaphone was tried by the British officers for giving orders, since the columns traversing through the African bush were so long that it was impossible to convey orders in the usual way. The experiment was unsuccessful, however, because the thick jungle and the winding paths prevented the sound from traveling.—N. Y. Sun.

WEDDING BELLS RANG FOR ONE OF SOCIETY'S FAIREST.

Beautiful Ceremony Made Miss Katherine Reinhart the Wife of John Atkinson Thayer, of West Virginia.

GRACE CHURCH WAS THRONGED.

LARGE RECEPTION FOLLOWED AT "OAKWOOD," HOME OF THE BRIDE'S PARENTS.

Composition of the Bridal Party—Magnificent Gowns of Bride and Her Attendants—Vested Choir Took Part In Services at the Church—Elaborate Decorations at Church and House—Many Distinguished Guests—Some of the Gifts Received—Other Details.

Splendor, beauty and solemnity marked the wedding of Miss Katharine Reinhart, the queenly daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Reinhart, of "Oakwood," to John Atkinson Thayer, of Charleston, West Virginia, at Grace P. E. church last evening. Two families, the one socially prominent here and the other holding a similar position in the aristocratic south, were joined by the joyous ceremony, and the brilliancy of the occasion equalled, if not surpassed, any similar function of Plainfield's smart set for many years.

Society had gathered in the stately edifice to witness the ceremony decreed by the church to join together in this instance one of the most popular belles in exclusive social circles of this city and a young barrister of West Virginia. The inspiring music of the full vested choir, the elaborate floral decorations in chancel and naive, and the magnificent gowns of the bridal party as well as those of the handsome women in the congregation, made it, indeed, effective.

The bridemaids were a galaxy of fair young women including the Misses Helen Christian and Eleanor Bosher, of Richmond, Va., Miss Carman Ryan, of Williamsport, Pa., Miss Julia Parmelee, of New Haven, Conn., and the Misses Mary Anderson Reinhart, a sister of the bride, May Evans and Florence and May Waring, of this city. Mrs. Edward T. Van Buren, the elder sister of the bride, was the matron-of-honor. Miss Reinhart was escorted by her father, who subsequently gave her in marriage.

At the chancel steps the bridal party was met by the groom and his best man, Richard McGrann, of Lancaster, Pa. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, the rector, conducted the brief betrothal service of the church and then the solemnization of the marriage took place before the altar.

During the short interval between the betrothal and the solemnization, Choppel's Gloria Patri was sung, and just before the blessing of the marriage a quartette composed of Miss Cornelia Miller, Miss Beatrice Miner,

Mrs. John Atkinson Thayer, nee Miss Katherine Reinhart

A short organ recital was given by Mrs. Wm. A. Freeman, while the ushers were engaged in seating the guests. It included fragment Symphonique, Le Maigre; allegretto, D. Minnick Scott; Reverie Impromptu, Mourlani, Scherzino, Polibio Fumagalli, and March, Ketelby.

It was precisely 8:30 o'clock when the choir appeared at the robing room door and led by the crucifer marched down the right aisle singing "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." At the large front door of the edifice the bridal party was met and led to the chancel steps, the choir singing the wedding march from "Lohengrin."

The choir preceded the ushers, who were Daniel Vaux Buckley, Ulysses Mercur, George H. Brooke and Maurice Belknap, of Philadelphia, Dalton Newcomb and John S. Wise, of New York, Joseph Beury, W. T. Thayer and Davis Elkins, of West Virginia, Lieut. Edwin Gilpin, of Washington, E. T. VanBuren and F. O. Reinhart. Following them was a little page, Edward M. VanBuren, a nephew of the bride, clad in a white serge suit with Russian blouse, and carrying a silken pillow upon which rested a Tiffany prayer book to be used in the ceremony.

William Tallamy and Arthur A. Freeman, rendered Barnrby's "O Perfect Love." The recessional was Mendelssohn's Wedding March, while the choir recessional was Messiter's "Rejoice Ye Pure In Heart."

At the conclusion of the nuptial service a reception was held at "Oakwood," the beautiful country residence of the bride's parents. The bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart, Mrs. Todd Thayer, Miss Thayer and Miss Reinhart received. Mr. and Mrs. Thayer stood in the gilt parlor just off the main drawing room. Green and white was the color effect of the floral decorations. Ivy, laurel, myrtle, smilax, chrysanthemums, roses and carnations had been massed here and there throughout the various rooms and large hallways in a tasteful manner by a skillful florist. Myriads of tiny electric lights studded the ceilings and walls. Florsheim's Neopolitan orchestra, of New York, rendered a fine musical programme during the hours of the reception.

In the alcove to the left of the grand stairway dinner was served to the bridal party, the table being "T" shaped. Maresi, of New York, was the caterer and the menu was particularly dainty.

At a late hour Mr. and Mrs. Thayer left for New York. Their honeymoon will be spent abroad. On Saturday they sail for Italy, and an extended sojourn will be made in Venice. Before their return in May they purpose to make a short stay in Nice.

The bride was gowned in oyster shell moire embroidered in chiffon roses and seed pearls. The yoke and elbow sleeves were of real point applique lace, being draped with the same kind of lace caught up with orange blossoms. She wore a full tulle veil surmounted by a wreath of orange blossoms. A diamond heart, in the center of which was a large emerald, was fastened at her neck. The shower bouquet was composed of lillies of the valley and orchids.

Mrs. VanBuren wore a gown of cream lace over pleated petticoat of chiffon and her waist was trimmed with chiffon. The bouquet of the matron-of-honor was American beauty roses.

The bridemaids were gowned in white chiffon brilliante, the skirts having three flounces finished on upper edge with a band of Chantilly lace and on the lower edge with rows of baby ribbon tied at intervals with fluffy bows. The waists were decollete with elbow sleeves trimmed with soft shirred chiffon lace and ribbons finished on side with short sash of Liberty satin ribbon. They carried shower bouquets of white carnations.

Mrs. Reinhart wore black Brussels net over white; the skirt with deep shaped flounce of real lace and medallions of black velvet applique between sets of tucks. The waist was decollete draped with pointe Venise lace finished with ribbon velvet sash. The gown of Mrs. Todd Thayer was of black lace with light blue panne velvet trimmings. Miss Thayer's gown was of white crepe de chine, deep flounce, black and white lace applique. Her waist was trimmed with real lace.

The groom's gifts to the bride were a diamond heart jewel and a gorgeous Tiffany Book of Common Prayer. Turquoise matrix pendents were the bride's gifts to the matron-of-honor and the bridemaids. A seal ring was the gift to the page, while the groom's gifts to his ushers were monkey skin card cases with gold monograms.

The best man received a gold-mounted monkey skin wallet of an elaborate design.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. James W. Ponder, of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. G. Todd Thayer, of Charleston, W. Va.; Mrs. Charles Mellor, the bride's aunt, and A. G. Reinhart, of Pittsburg, Pa.; George Gordon Battle, of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. Walter Fairfield, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. William Howard Bingham, the Misses Lefferts, Hon. and Mrs. George Washington Best, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby Sharpe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Sterrett, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. H. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Delanoy, George Frederick Hawkins, of New York; Mrs. Stanton and Miss Stanton, of Sewickley, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. David Reno Locher, of Philadelphia.

Many rare and costly presents were received by the bride. Among them were: Chest of solid silver, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Reinhart; silver ice cream set, Miss Thayer and William Thayer, of West Virginia, sister and brother of the groom; silver decanter, Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart and Francis O. Reinhart, sister and brother of the bride; silver tea service, G. Todd Thayer, of West Virginia, cousin of the groom; large vase, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ladd.

ENAMEL WORKS DESTROYED.

Fire at Lincoln Yesterday Which Caused Heavy Loss.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, Dec. 12.—A fire started in the storage rooms of the Franklin Enamel Works, at this place, yesterday morning. Despite the heroic efforts of the fire department, the building was destroyed before the fire could be extinguished.

Spontaneous combustion is believed to have been the cause of the fire, there being a quanity of chemicals stored in the room where the fire started. The total loss cannot be ascertained at present.

To Settle a Mighty Question.

The young people of the Mt. Olive Baptist church will give an entertainment and debate in the church this evening. The subject of the latter will be "Which has done more for the nation, the pen or the plough?" The additional programme which is to be rendered is said to be an excellent one.

Meeting of Barbers.

The regular meeting of Local Journeymen Barbers' Union, No. 215, will be held this evening at which matters of importance are to be considered. Among them will be the changing of the meeting place from the present quarters in Washington Hall to Trades Council Hall.

Gesang and Turn Verein Meets.

A meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein will be held in Saengerbund Hall this evening.

CARPENTERS DINED AND LISTENED TO SPEECHES

Banquet of Plainfield Carpenters and Joiners Branch Union Last Night.

FARMER ORATOR SPOKE.

OTHERS WHO WERE CALLED UPON TO SAY SOMETHING.

A Jolly Good Time Enjoyed at Saengerbund Hall by the Local Carpenters and Their Invited Guests.

A jolly good time was enjoyed in Saengerbund Hall last evening by the men who are responsible largely for the construction of many of Plainfield's homes. The occasion was the banquet of the Plainfield Carpenters and Joiners Union, branch No. 155, of the International Union of Carpenters and Joiners of the United States of America.

Of course the supper was the principal feature, as it was so intended. The menu was a good one and great holes were made in the laden dishes prepared by Henry Haurand After the meal the members adjourned to the main hall of the building where speeches were in order.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, had something to say about the times when he was a boss carpenter and also the feeling he has for the men of the craft. The eloquence of "The Farmer Orator" James E. Martine, was then tapped. For thirty minutes the Cedar brook agriculturalist and politician kept the crowd busy applauding his well phrased sentences regarding the benefits of unity among workmen and the evils of trusts.

Others who were called upon "to say something" and did so were Charles Wilson, Wm. Brokaw, John Lloyd, Peter Mundy, Robert Jahn, Richard McCullough, Robert Rushton, Charles Keller, J. Crosby, Herman Hanson, and J. J. Stahl. It was midnight before the men left the hall.

HE TOLD OF SIEGE OF PEKIN

INTERESTING TALK BY REV. COURTENAY H. FENN, WHO WAS THERE.

Given in Chapel of First Presbyterian Church Last Evening—Pictured That Experience.

Under the auspices of the King's Messengers, of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Courtenay H. Fenn, a missionary to China, last night related his interesting story of the siege at Pekin. Mr. Fenn gave this talk several months ago in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church. The speaker has a vivid and clear conception of what happened within the walled city and no one is better fitted to tell of the terrible times experienced during the uprising.

Mr. Fenn told of the Boxer movement, of the way the Chinese sought to destroy all foreigners. This he attributed to the fact that many foreigners had been trying to steal valuable ports in China. Mr. Fenn then told in a graphic way something of the siege, how the missionaries and native Christians were saved, which he attributed to God's never-failing care of His own.

Miss Mary Kane, as president of the King's Messengers, was in charge of the meeting. At the close a collection was taken for mission work.

WOODMEN ELECT.

Officers Chosen for Robin Hood Camp of Woodmen of the World.

Robin Hood Camp, Woodman of the World, elected the following officers for the ensuing year at its meeting, last evening: Past councillor commander, William Newcorn; councillor commander, Dr. Arthur H. Dundon; advisory lieutenant, Walter Heidloff; clerk, Frederick Huff; camp physician, Dr. Arthur H. Dundon; escort, Walter Hetfield, Jr., inside sentinel, Thomas B. Cardner; outside sentinel, H. P. Greenwood. John P. Powers was elected trustee for the term of three years.

Deputy J. B. Barnes, deputy organizer, of Jersey City, was present and he made a speech, complimenting the officers and members on the standard of the camp. A public installation of the officers chosen will be held in January, at which time the degree work will be performed by a crack Brooklyn team. The next meeting of the organization will be held December 30.

SAY OFFICER'S CHARGE WAS A FALSE ONE

Attempt Being Made to Secure a New Trial for Edward Marcellus.

ARGUED THIS MORNING.

CLAIMED THAT M'CARTHY ABUSED THE BOX BEFORE ARREST.

Marcellus' Lawyer and Corporation Counsel Argued Case Before City Judge Runyon This Morning.

Argument was heard before City Judge Runyon, this morning, between Counsellor Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., and Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, to show cause why a new trial should not be granted the former's client, Edward Marcellus, a fourteen-year-old colored boy who on November 29 was sentenced to forty days in the county jail. The court reserved decision in the matter until tomorrow morning.

The boy was arrested at the North Avenue station on the evening of November 28 by Patrolman McCarthy. An old complaint had been hanging over his head for some time on a charge of stealing coal and it was on this he was taken into custody. At the trial next mornnig, McCarthy testified that the boy had been impudent to him when told to go home and when placed under arrest, resisted all the way to the station. It was principally on the charge of resisting an officer that the boy was sent to jail.

It was afterward averred by a number of witnesses that the boy was inhumanly treated by the officer before he was placed under arrest and his father's attention was called to the fact. He retained Counsellor Hetfield and the latter secured evidence which, he claims, entitles the boy to a rehearing and will show that McCarthy is guilty of conduct unbecoming to an officer. Mr. Hetfield also intends preferring charges against the patrolman at the next session of the police committee of the Common Council.

The contention of Mr. Hetfield, this morning, was to the effect that the boy had the right to a new trial on the ground of new evidence and on other reasons which he specified. He was vigorously opposed by the Corporation Counsel who declared if one was granted it would be establishing a bad precedent. In the event of Mr. Hetfield's request being granted he will take steps to have the boy released from jail immediately.

RING WAS FOUND.

Police Discovered It on the Person of James Smith Who Could Not Account For It.

James Smith, a colored man, dropped in at S. VanFleet's jewelry store, last evening, to look over some rings. A trayful was inspected, but none suited and Smith left for other parts. He had gone but a short time when the clerk noticed, or rather didn't notice, a diamond ring which had been on the tray a short time before.

Patrolman Gamo was notified and in a short time had Smith in custody. When searched at police headquarters the missing ring was found on his person, but Smith really didn't know how it got there. Justice Nash held him $100 bonds in default of which he was locked up.

BLAZING CURTAINS.

Caught From Flying Match Head and Caused $75 Damage Last Evening.

While an eight-year-old daughter of Orra Green, of Arlington avenue, was about to light a lamp, last evening, the head of the match flew into a lace curtain. A fire followed which caused $50 damage to the house and $25 to the furniture. The latter was not insured.

The instant the flames sprung up, the girl and two other children, who were alone in the house, hurried to the street without receiving injury. An alarm was sent in from box 41 by Howard Leggett. The flames were extinguished by the department in a few moments.

Narrow Escape From Injury.

While crossing Park avenue, near Fourth street, last evening, Frank Hedden, of Central avenue, narrowly escaped being run down by an automobile. The machine was headed for Metuchen and was going along at a lively clip. No bell or other warning was sounded. His coat was caught and he was whirled about.

RECEPTION FOLLOWED.

THE BRIDE WAS MISS MABEL LOUISE JUDSON, OF BROOKLYN.

Pretty Afternoon Wedding Was Witnessed by Many Guests—Miss Cox Was Bridemaid—Groom's Brothers Attended Him.

A charming society event of yesterday afternoon was the marriage of Miss Mabel Louise Judson, daughter of Henry I. Judson, of 116 Willow street, Brooklyn, to Dr. Rowland Cox, Jr., son of Mrs. Rowland Cox, of West Seventh street. The affair took place at 5 o'clock in the Second Presbyterian church, Brooklyn Heights, which was filled with prominent people in society from Greater New York, and several large cities and Plainfield. Rev. Dr. McGriffin, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was richly gowned in tulle and applique lace, with a court train of white satin and a veil. She also wore a pearl and diamond necklace, the gift of the groom. She was attended by Miss Helen T. Judson, a sister, who was maid-of-honor, and the following bridemaids: Miss Felicia Judson, cousin of the bride, of St. Louis; Miss Fanny Cummins Cox, sister of the groom, of this city; Miss Agema Wheeler, Miss Mary Post, Miss Ethel Pearsall, Miss Katheryn McCahn and Miss Beatrice Barnes, of Brooklyn. The maid-of-honor and the bridemaids were gowned alike in tulle. They wore picture hats with white plumes.

The best man was Archibald Cox, brother of the groom, of this city. The ushers were Robert Hill Cox, brother of the groom, a Harvard student; John VanNostrand, Dr. Percy R. Turneur, Dr. Augustus B. Wadsworth, Johnston DeForest, of New York, and A. D. Shepard, Jr., of this city.

Following the wedding a reception was held at tthe home of the bride's father, where a dinner was served to the bridal party. There were many guests present besides the bridal party, including Col. and Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards and the groom's mother, from this city.

The bride is a prominent member of Brooklyn's smart set and has many friends in this city, where she has visited many times. The groom is also prominent and counts among his friends many people in New York and this city. He was a member of the class of '96 at Yale University and the class of '99 at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York. He served for some time at Gouveneur Hospital, New York, and has been practicing in the latter city since last fall.

Dr. and Mrs. Cox, after a bridal tour, will take up their residence at 547 Madison avenue, New York, where the groom has completely furnished a home for their occupancy.

The gifts received by the bride and groom comprise an almost unlimited collection of articles of great value and use. They were handsomely remembered by their many friends.

FAIR AND BAZAAR.

Opened at St. Peter's German Lutheran Church Last Evening.

A two night fair and bazaar opened in St. Peter's German Lutheran church, last evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. F. E. Kinsman, of Sherman avenue, has returned home from a business trip through Northern New York.

D. T. Kenney, of Rockview avenue, left yesterday afternoon for Pittsburg, where he will remain for some time.

Mrs. W. D. Bauer, of Somerville, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. VanDyke, of East Front street.

George L. Apgar, of East Front Front street, has returned to his duties at the Pond Tool Works after several days' illness.

Charles C. Davis, of East Fifth street, who is at the hospital under treatment, is steadily improving and hopes to return home soon.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Clarence Rittenhouse, of New street, has resigned his position at the Pond Tool Works.

—An important meeting of Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held tomorrow night.

—Wyman & Haberle, the contractors, are gradually completing the new house on West Seventh street for Mr. Terry, of Westfield.

—Miss Etta MacMurray, the assistant in the office of City Clerk J. T. MacMurray's office, has purchased a fine horse of Herbert S. Taylor, of Westervelt avenue.

MASONIC OFFICERS.

Chosen at Election of Stone Square Lodge, F. and A. M.

The following officers were elected at the meeting of Stone Square Lodge, No. 38, F. and A. M., held a few days ago: Worshipful master, Rudolph Connett; senior warden, Charles Irby; junior warden, Rev. J. W. Mitchell; secretary, Eugene Coles; treasurer, Ernest Austin; chaplain, Samuel Fields; tyler, Junius Betts. A collation followed the meeting and addresses of considerable interest were made.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

On Christmas Eve.

Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will nominate officers at the meeting to be held Christmas Eve. The election will be held one week from that date.

Going to Build.

Hugh McMurray, of this city, has purchased a choice building site on West Seventh street and intends erecting a house thereon in the near future.

Of Benefit to You.

D. S. Mitchell, Fulford, Md. :"During a long illness I was troubled with bed sores, was advised to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and did so with wonderful results. I was perfectly cured. It is the best salve on the market." Sure cure for piles, sores, burns. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants.

Cashin, the Park avenue tailor, has just purchased from the mill a complete line of stylish goods for suitings and overcoats.

Ladies, when you are making Christmas presents, don't forget to examine your husband's slippers. Willett & Son have a select assortment.

The children as well as grown-up folks are delighted with the toothsome sweets offered by Campbell, of West Front street. He is now busy making his Christmas goods.

The Netherwood Farm Dairy, William Lindsay & Son proprietors, has just been thoroughly inspected. As usual, the cows were found to be in the pink of condition, assuring absolutely pure milk.

When ordering flowers during the Christmas season, it is well to bear in mind Wm. H. Brower's Sons, the New York florists, 946 Broadway. Orders may be left with John L. Brower, of 127 East Fifth street, this city.

Flemington sausage, the kind that tickles the palate these cold mornings, can be obtained at R. W. Barnes, of Park avenue. Smoked liver, boiled ham, potato salad, pickles, crullers and mince meat are among his specialties.

VanArsdale is making a big bid for the holiday trade in shoes and slippers. You'll find a good variety to choose from. He has a fine assortment of the Alfred Dogle felt slippers and these are always acceptable. Then a pair of rubber boots or skating shoes please the boys, too.

Much interest is being taken in the "corn cure" contest at C. E. Hepburn & Company's drug store. Customers are allowed to guess the number of grains of corn in a two quart bottle, $5 being the prize for the nearest guess. It's an advertisement of Hepburn's corn cure.

A grocery store is always an attractive place just before the holiday season. A display of foreign and domestic fruits, nuts and nick-nacks savors of the Christmas dinner and delightful little socials. J. C. Blimm, the East Third street grocer, has prepared a fine line of goods for his customers.

The custom of employing celluloid in the manufacture of dainty little trifles has never reached the stage it has this season. Pretty gifts for holiday presents in all shapes and unique designs are made from it and never fail to please. Lederer has some of the newest among his large display.

EVERYBODY'S STORE.

Holiday Time Has Come to Store of Amos H. VanHorn, Ltd.

The thousands that visit Newark around holiday time will be certain not to overlook one of the city's interesting retail establishments, one known as "Everybody's Store," 73 Market street, near Plane street.

The enterprise and sagacity which has been shown year after year by this remarkably successful furniture and carpet house is something of which New Jersey may well be proud.

There are literally acres of sensible holiday gifts ranging from the modest and inexpensive article to the most elaborate thing ever designed in the furniture line. Nor is this stock confined to furniture; there are many beautiful designs in rugs of various as well as new ideas in dinner and tea sets, lamps, pictures, lace and tapestry curtains and similar things suitable for the embelishment of the home.

Almost any day one may see the spacious furniture delivery wagons of the Amos H. Van Horn people making their way through the suburban towns, a thing that give very clear evidence of the popularity enjoyed by this successful concern.

The completeness of its many lines, the low prices at which they really sell their goods and the very unusual leniency of their present system for those who prefer to open accounts, has justly placed "Everybody's Store" at the head of New Jersey's mercantile enterprises.

Routine Business.

There was a meeting of the trustees of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Tuesday evening, but only routine business was transacted. The annual meeting will be held in February.

Reunion Meeting.

The Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a reunion service a week from tomorrow evening, when all the old members are expected to be present.

Mrs. John S. King, of Passaic, is spending a few days with Plainfield relatives.

Mrs. George Dunham, of Park avenue, is the guest of friends in Newark for a few days.

ASTHMA CURE FREE.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. F. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.
Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

February 5, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington street.

THEATRICAL.

With the opening of Proctor's new theatre in Newark, the Proctor circuit will include seven theatres—the largest chain of houses under control of one single ownership in the world. The new house will be open to accommodate Christmastide pleasure seekers, and the introduction of the best in vaudeville will be the policy of the house.

The F. F. Proctor Stock Company will continue the presentation of old comedies elaborately revived in the New York theatres of the circuit, and vaudeville will be the policy at Manager Proctor's Albany and Montreal houses. Vaudeville will also be given between acts of the several dramas presented, as usual.

Manager Proctor has contracted for the revival of many of the best comedies of the past decade. He is now reviving the last of a series of the famous Augustin Daly's comedies, and will give other plays equally celebrated and successful.

The vaudeville talent in the Proctor entertainments will always be of the best, and will at all times represent the best selections of American and foreign talent the profession affords. These big bills, in addition to the extremely reasonable prices—15, 25 and 50c.—make the Proctor theatres popular with the masses.

Two things in the treatment of nasal catarrh are now fully understood. First: the drying process is a delusion that produces more mischief than benefit. Second: science, common sense and experience proclaim Ely's Cream Balm to be instant relief, and final, certain cure. It cleanses the diseased membranes and never makes the patient sneeze. Price 50 cents. Sold by druggists and by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Old-Fashioned Carol Service.

An old English carol service will be held at the Church of the Holy Cross Wednesday evening, December 18. There will be no sermon, but instead carols of "Merrie England" will be sung by the full-vested choir under the direction of the choirmaster, William E. MacClymont, who will act as organist during the service. The public is invited to attend the service.

Preparing for Smoker.

At the regular meeting of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., to be held this evening, arrangements will be perfected for the holding of a smoker and entertainment next week. The affair will probably be public and an invitation will be extended the friends of the members. One candidate will also be given the warrior's degree.

Expect to Choose Pastor.

It is quite likely that a selection of a pastor will be made at the congregational meeting to be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church next Sunday. While no person has been decided upon for the pastorate, a number are being considered and a call is almost sure to be extended soon.

Unique Sale and Tea.

The entertainment committee of the guild of the Church of the Holy Cross is conducting an unique affair in the shape of a Japanese tea in the parish house, this afternoon, and it will be continued this evening. Fancy work, candy, ice cream and cake are among the things on sale.

At Fanwood Fire House.

A sociable will be held in the Fanwood fire house Thursday evening, December 19. Young people of that town are planning the event. The committee consists of E. Schwabe, H. Frawery and G. Terry. Sorensen's orchestra will furnish the music.

In Justice Hand's Court.

The following summons have been issued from Justice Hand's court: Griffen against Blynn; same against Bowden; Rheaume et als against Mumford; same against Stratton. All are on contract and are returnable Wednesday, December 18.

First of Series.

Sunday morning Rev. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, will preach the first of a series of three special sermons. The subject of the first discourse will be "The World's Preparation for the Advent of the Messiah."

Will Tell of Convention.

At a meeting of the W. C. T. U. to be held Thursday, December 19, Mrs. Tomlinson, county president, will give a talk concerning the recent National convention of the Union held at Fort Worth, Texas.

Masquerade Ball.

The Germania Beneficial Society will hold its annual masquerade ball in Saengerbund Hall, Monday evening, January 20. Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra will furnish the music.

New Year's Eve Dance.

The Pastime A. C. has completed arrangements for the giving of a dance on New Years eve. It will take place in Washington Hall and promises to be a successful affair.

Almost Paid Up.

A trifle more than $200 remains unpaid of the delinquent taxes prior to 1899, and Collector F. H. Smith expects to receive that amount in the near future.

BIG TUNNEL PROJECT

Pennsylvania Railroad Announces a Big Enterprise.

BROOKLYN TO JERSEY BY ELECTRICITY

Line Will Traverse Manhattan Island at Such a Depth as Not to Interfere With Future Subway Work.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, today makes public his plan for securing a New York terminus for his company. He gives out the following statement:

The Pennsylvania Railroad company is now prepared to carry out its policy, long since adopted, of extending its railroad into New York city, therein establishing a suitable passenger terminus for the accommodation of the public. To accomplish this on a comprehensive plan the Long Island Extension Railroad company will withdraw its application for powers to construct its terminal railroad, and in lieu of such independent construction it is now proposed to build under the charter of the Pennsylvania New York Extension Railroad company, just organized, and a New Jersey railroad company about to be organized a through underground connection between the Long Island railroad and the Pennsylvania lines in New Jersey and to construct a proper and commodious joint underground terminal station in New York city for the Pennsylvania and Long Island roads.

After years of exhaustive study the conclusion has been reached that a tunnel line operated by electricity is in every way the most practical, economical and the best both for the interests of the railroad company and of the city. The line as adopted will traverse the city of New York from the Hudson river to the East river and be underground throughout and at such depth as not to interfere with future construction of subways by the city on all its avenues similar to the one now building along Fourth avenue.

As the railroad will be wholly underground and operated electrically in the same manner as the recently constructed Orleans railway extension in Paris it will not be objectionable in any way. There will not be any smoke, dirt or noise, and as all the surface property may be built upon after being utilized underneath for railroad purposes the neighborhood of the station will be improved instead of marred, as is so often the case when railroad lines are constructed on the surface or elevated. The company has acquired the bulk of its property for its principal station and means to go forward in the acquisition of such additional properties as will be required either by purchase or condemnation in the belief that the city authorities will meet their application in a spirit of fairness and expedite as much as possible this much needed improvement and great public convenience. Immediately upon the necessary authority being granted the work of construction will proceed and the whole line be completed and put in operation as soon as possible.

Company Incorporated.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 12.—A railroad company, which includes among its directors officials of the Pennsylvania and Long Island Railroad companies, has been incorporated here to operate a railroad line through an underground tunnel connecting New Jersey with Long Island. The name of the company is the Pennsylvania New York Extension Railroad company, and its capital stock is $1,000,000.

Schaeffer Broke His Record.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—Two swimming contests for the American championship took place last night at the sportsmen's show, E. Carroll Schaeffer, national champion, winning both and lowering the record for 500 yards. In this race Schaeffer finished in 6m. 51 3-5s., the previous record, held by himself, being 7 m. 24 4-5s. J. W. Spencer of Columbia university finished second and Frederick Wenck of the New York Athletic club third.

He Sold Bogus Jewelry.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 12.—William Panikoff, a clerk in a jewelry store in Chapel street, was arrested on a warrant alleging the sale of a gold article marked "14 carat" which turned out upon being assayed to be brass and another article marked "sterling" which proved to be only one-eighth silver.

ANOTHER CAR DYNAMITED.

Explosion In Scranton Does Little Damage—Strikers Resuming Work.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 12.—Another trolley car was dynamited on Capouse avenue last night at 7:20 o'clock. The wheel that ran over the explosive was broken, the windows smashed and the machinery beneath the car damaged. The few persons aboard were severely shaken up, but no one was injured.

This makes the third time that the crew aboard this car has encountered an explosion.

Ten strikers have returned to work this week, making twenty-four in all who are back on the cars. The company has now succeeded in opening up all its lines from Pittston to Carbondale, a distance of twenty-two miles, excepting small branches of two different city lines.

The strikers' executive committee had a conference with National President Mahon of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees. Tonight they will conduct a mass meeting, at which speeches will be made by some of the leaders of the American Federation of Labor convention.

The Antiboycott league, composed of 3,000 citizens, issued a statement today declaring against the boycott of the cars and calling upon the public to resume its patronage and revive business.

The Brevet List a Large One.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The army board which has been for several months preparing a list of officers who shall be recommended for brevet rank in consideration of gallant service in Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippines and China has completed its work, and the report will be submitted to the secretary of war in a day or two. This list is to take the place of that laid before the senate last session and withdrawn before action. Notwithstanding that this board began with the purpose of very much restricting the bestowal of brevets they have been unable to keep the sum total of names much below 1,000 in number. It is expected that President Roosevelt's name will be on the list with the rank of brigadier general of volunteers.

Revision Committee Progressing.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Considerable progress was made by the Presbyterian revision committee which is preparing a brief doctrinal statement of faith. The important subjects regarding the person and work of Jesus Christ and regarding also the person and work of the Holy Spirit were given careful attention, and the further subjects of justification, repentance and the life to come were passed in review. The day was fruitful in results and witnessed the greatest progress that the committee has made.

Yokohama Hotel Burned.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 12.—News is given in advices from Japan of the destruction by fire of the Oriental hotel at Yokohama. The hotel was accounted the handsomest in Japan. The fire occurred in the early morning, and a number of guests escaped with nothing but their nightclothes. One Japanese nurse was burned to death. A telegram from Sendai to the Japanese Herald says an American missionary named Snyder has been arrested for assaulting a Japanese boy by striking him with a Bible.

Feast of Guadaloupe Hidalgo.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 12.—Large numbers of pilgrims are here to attend the feast today of Guadaloupe Hidalgo, where is shrined in the magnificent church the reputed miraculous picture of the Virgin. There will be special services, and many thousands of people, mainly Indians, will be present. The Indians regard the Virgin Guadaloupe as their special protectress and always have held her in patriotic as well as religious veneration.

Courses at Cornell Lengthened.

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 12.—The Cornell faculty of art and sciences met yesterday and decided to extend the course for the A. B. and medical degrees from six to seven years. Hereafter no art student will be allowed to register in the medical course unless in the beginning of the senior year. Two years of the seven will be spent in the New York department and five in Ithaca.

Yung Lu Gets Two Eyed Feather.

PEKING, Dec. 12.—An edict has appeared bestowing honors on the late Li Hung Chang and on Prince Ching and other officials for participation in the peace negotiations. The most remarkable clause awards Yung Lu, who commanded the best disciplined troops which opposed the allies, the two eyed peacock feather for protecting foreigners against the Boxers.

MacArthur Ordered to Denver.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Major General Arthur MacArthur, who has been stationed in this city recently as a member of the board of army posts and as a member of the army provost board, has been ordered to Denver to assume command of the department of the Colorado, vice Brigadier General H. C. Merriam, retired.

Fishermen's Strike Spreading.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Dec. 12.—The strike of the fishermen which was begun here ten days ago has spread until about 700 men are out. There seems no prospect at this time of a settlement. All the fishing smacks have been dismantled, towed across the bay and anchored in a cove.

Constitutional Amendment Carried.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 12.—The indications are that the amendment to the state constitution prohibiting the legislature from passing local or special acts exempting property from taxation has been adopted by a majority of 45,636 votes.

IS THIS SO?

Plainfield People Can Decide.

You would not accept the word of an utter stranger as readily as that of a person whom you knew. The following statement is made by a citizen, perhaps a neighbor. Read it:

Mrs. M. A. Hall, of 219 Prescott place, says: "For several years I had a dull aching pain across my back, at times extending to my hips. I was compelled to lie in just one position all night and stooping, lifting or bending forward aggravated the pains. Although I used different remedies that were recommeded to me I obtained little if any relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed in our daily papers and procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It was not long before I felt great relief and I was surprised how quickly the pain in my back disappeared."

For sale by all dealers, price 50c. a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

FUNSTON ORDERED HOME.

Filipino Women Organize at Manila. Leaders Urged to Yield.

MANILA, Dec. 12.—General Funston has been ordered by the doctors to leave the climate of the Philippines. He sails for the United States Dec. 16 on the transport Warren.

The Women's Peace league, under the leadership of Senorita Poblete, a Filipino, has, with the permission of General Chaffee, transmitted letters urging peace to the insurgent general Malvar and other Filipino chiefs.

These letters remind the Filipino leaders in the field that the war has destroyed innumerable homes and devastated large territories. All of which, while it abundantly proved the tenacity of the insurgents and their faith in their cause, does not remove the fact that the operations of American soldiers throughout the islands daily demonstrate the resolution of the people of the United States to make respected their sovereignty over the archipelago. The league urges the leaders to make peace in order to avoid greater evils.

The Women's league has also received a cablegram to the effect that the Filipino general Lukban, in Samar, is pleading for a discontinuance of hostilities.

New York Dairymen Meet.

OLEAN, N. Y., Dec. 12.—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the New York State Dairymen's association is in session here. The meeting is largely attended, and much interest is taken in the discussions. Former Governor W. D. Hoard of Wisconsin spoke of methods in the manufacture of dairy products that could be improved upon, giving an increased profit. Oleomargarine legislation was reviewed by former Congressman Grout of Vermont. Other speakers were Hon. George Flanders, assistant commissioner of agriculture, on the subject, "Shall We Preserve the Reputation For Integrity of Our Butter and Cheese In the Markets?" Lillian M. Wilson of Denmark, Me., "The Use of Cheese In Cooking," and Professor I. P. Roberts of Ithaca on "How Profits From Dairies Can Be Increased."

The Scranton Labor Convention.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 12.—Business closely relating to the organization of labor in those fields where there is no union and strengthening of the hands of those who have embraced unionism took up most of the time of yesterday's sessions of the American Federation of Labor, which is now in convention in this city. Thirty odd resolutions were considered, upon eight of which final action was taken. All the other propositions were either sent back to committees or referred to the incoming executive council, which has the power to dispose of questions referred to it. The great question of trade autonomy is now in the hands of the special committee appointed to consider the subject.

Train Thrown Into the River.

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 12.—Pennsylvania freight train No. 89, southbound, on the Clean division, collided with extra freight No. 29, northbound, last night at Walnut Bend, eight miles north of here, throwing about fifty cars into the river. Two trainmen were injured, and one man is missing. They are Head Brakeman McCaddon, missing, supposed to have been thrown into the Allegheny river and drowned; Fireman Van Brunt, collar bone broken, and Thomas Martin, engineer, thrown into the river, slight injuries. The accident is supposed to have been caused by a misunderstanding of orders.

Red Cross Re-elects Miss Barton.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Red Cross society held its annual meeting here and unanimously re-elected Miss Clara Barton president of the society. General John M. Wilson was elected first vice president, Mrs. John A. Logan second vice president, Mr. Lyman J. Gage treasurer, Mr. Richard Olney, formerly secretary of state, counselor and Mr. S. W. Briggs secretary. The treasurer's report showed receipts for the year $5,310 and expenditures $3,699. Plans were partly formed for the extension of the society by means of state auxiliaries.

Brothers Took Poison.

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—The medical examiner has decided that Maurice and Edward Fitzgerald took poison of an unknown nature to end lives which had been full of hardships for twenty years. They were found dead amid squalor. Maurice, once a priest and of brilliant attainments, was excommunicated by Archbishop Williams for violations of his priestly vows and for years fought in the courts to get the ban removed.

KILLED BY THE BOERS

Kitchener Gives a List of Natives Shot.

HAMILTON CAPTURES A COMMANDO.

Seven Boers Killed and One Hundred and Thirty-one Prisoners at Trichard's Fontein — Secretary Brodrick on Situation.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Lord Kitchener's promised statement specifying thirty-seven separate instances in which natives have been shot by the Boers and which involve the loss of eighty-four lives has just been issued by the war office.

In some of the cases mentioned the blacks were shot after an informal court martial or upon being accused of spying, but in numerous instances Lord Kitchener indicates the natives were shot in cold blood in order to hide traces of the movements of Boer commandos.

The period covered by Lord Kitchener's statement is over one year.

Lord Kitchener in a dispatch from Standerton, Transvaal Colony, announces that General Bruce Hamilton, after a night march, surprised and captured practically the whole of the Boer command at Trichard's Fontein. Seven Boers were killed and 131 were made prisoners.

Speaking at Glasgow last night, Mr Brodrick, the secretary of state for war, referred to Lord Kitchener's report on the shooting of blacks by the Boers. Mr. Brodrick said this report made it perfectly clear that these murders were not committed in moments of passion, but were part of an organized system to cover the tracks of the enemy and to prevent possible information of their whereabouts.

Dealing with present aspects of the war, Mr. Brodrick said Boers had accepted parole and broken it and that there would be no repetition of such actions. Within recent weeks Boer commanders had shown less regard for the laws of war than at any previous time, and these bandits would before long reach a crisis when they could no longer be treated as belligerents.

The speaker said the government was for no half measures in securing a settlement and that any fresh negotiations must emanate from the Boers.

Mr. Brodrick confirmed the government's decision, already announced, to break up the unhealthy concentration camps and remove the overflow of concentrados to the coasts, where attempts would be made to provide them with more permanent shelters.

A correspondent of The Standard, wiring from Brussels, says he hears that confidential negotiations are imminent between Great Britain and Holland which are not unlikely to result in an arrangement to bring Boer women and children to Holland.

Trust Company In Receiver's Hands.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 12.—On application of William Wallace, Judge Fawcett in the district court yesterday appointed William J. Potter receiver for the Omaha Loan and Trust company. Attorney H. E. Scott, for the trust company, said the application had been considered for some time and that the action had been taken after conferences with representatives of eastern creditors and between the stockholders and directors. The application, he said, was made in the interest of the creditors, of whom none is preferred.

Officers and Bunko Steerer Killed.

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 12.—When Officers J. C. James and Herman Youngst attempted to arrest an alleged bunko steerer, Sid Preacher, the latter opened fire with a shotgun. At the first shot he mortally wounded James, who fell. He then fired at Youngst, knocking him down, and was on top of him, beating the officer, when James raised himself from the gutter and fired three times, killing Preacher. James and Youngst died within the same moment. There is great excitement over the matter.

Cargo of Cotton Afire.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Dec. 12.—The Austrian steamer Gottfried Schenker, Captain Zenkovitch, from New Orleans for Triest, has put in here for coal and with her cargo on fire. The fire was discovered among the cotton in her cargo just as the vessel came in the capes. It is probable that from 300 to 400 bales of cotton will have to be removed to reach the fire.

Oriental Disturbances Looked For.

YOKOHAMA, Dec. 12.—Replying to the speech from the throne delivered by the emperor yesterday at the opening of the imperial diet in Tokyo, the lower house of the diet declared there were indications of a disturbance in the orient in the near future and pledged itself to discharge its duties carefully and with circumspection.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

Attention was called in yesterday's Daily Press to the fact that the Common Council was already discussing the subject of a new water contract with the Plainfield Water Supply Company and that it was an excellent opportunity to incorporate rights which the public demands. While the subject has not come up for formal discussion in the sessions of the Common Council, several informal conferences have already been held between several of the councilmen and the officials of the company.

It is understood that the Plainfield Water Supply Company would much prefer that the present arrangement with the city should be continued indefinitely. The city officials are, however, in favor of a new agreement signed for a term of years. It is probable, therefore, that the desires of the city will be complied with.

In making this new agreement, there is one thing that the councilmen should insist upon. They should compell the insertion of a provision which will provide that the water company shall install a meter when it is desired. There are a few residents who do not desire them. The majority favor their installation as providing an equitable basis for the charge for consumption. The councilmen should therefore see to it that the public's desires are catered to by the water company.

This is an opportunity which may not present itself again for some time to come. The Common Council now has the chance. Let it not be neglected. And let the new agreement be such that the city is safeguarded in the future against any poor service on the part of the present company or its successors. The existing trouble with the local trolley company is a prominent example of the need of such provisions in contracts between the city and quasi-public corporations.

The music loving people of Plainfield may be thankful, indeed, that A. H Atterbury ever decided to make his residence in Plainfield. Like the rest of them, Mr. Atterbury is a lover of good music, well rendered. He has gone further than the others, however, and has taken the initiative in giving this city a series of subscription concerts, the equal of which cannot be heard outside of the great cities. The best artists have been secured and a delightful programme prepared. All this has been done, and it is no slight task, without the least thought of gain but simply in the public interest. There are few men who would have undertaken the task, year after year, as Mr. Atterbury has and his efforts should be justly appreciated by the people of Plainfield who are the gainers.

When you come to think them over, Plainfield possesses an unusual number of citizens who are well qualified to speak from the lecture platform. Not only have they the ability to talk but they have something to say. The course of lectures given under Y. M. C. A. auspices, is evidence of the fact. So is the course at the North Plainfield High School, which is soon to start.

One important reason for the remarkable activity by public school authorities throughout the State in rounding up the children and enforcing the truancy law so strictly is that the school moneys are now divided on the basis of the attendance instead of according to the school census as heretofore.

An important happening in State trolley circles is the incorporation of a company to build a line connecting Trenton and New Brunswick by trolley. That will mean that Plainfielders will soon be able to go to the State Capital by trolley.

An event in the local social world was the wedding of one of Plainfield's fairest young women to a son of one of West Virginia's oldest families, last evening. The whole affair was carried out in magnificient detail.

DRAMATIC TREAT.

Story of the Plot of "The Brixton Burglary" to be at the Casino.

A genuine dramatic treat is assured in the performances of "The Brixton Burglary" at the Casino Saturday afternoon and night. A young wife takes it into her head to pay her mother in the country a visit. While away the husband is persuaded to spend an evening in Brixton. By a coincidence his servants also have a night out, the housemaid to ride her master's bicyle in "bloomers" and the man-servant to enjoy himself with a select party at Brixton. The father-in-law of the husband is also visiting Brixton, surreptitiously to spend an evening at a club. The man-servant, wearing his master's clothes, has the misfortune to get into an encounter with a burglar in an empty house, and is compelled to change his clothes, at the point of a pistol, for those of the thief. The coat borrowed by the man-servant and stolen by the thief falls into the hands of a Scotland Yard detective, and a name in the pocket puts them on the track of the husband. Complications and explanations follow, but all is made clear in the end.

MANY CARRIAGES.

But They All Were Well Cared for by Frank Hedden.

More carriages and coupes were handled at the Reinhart-Thayer wedding and reception, last evening, than have ever been noted at a similar function in this city. Exactly 194 vehicles were piloted to the Reinhart residence and their occupants discharged without the slightest accident of any kind occurring. It is needless to say this small army of drivers was in charge of the veteran Frank Hedden, who arranged all plans for the arrival and departure of the guests.

ODD FELLOWS ELECT.

Officers Chosen for the Year at Meeting of Union Lodge.

At the meeting of Union Lodge, I. O. O. F., held Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Past noble grand, Ernest Austin; noble grand, Thomas Johnson; vice-grand, Robert Stevens; secretary, James Whiteley; permanent secretary, John Murray; treasurer, Tucker Johnson; advocate, W. H. Jones; prelate, William Phillips. The officers will be installed Tuesday evening, December 24.

An Envangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but did not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist, of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure afford immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kind of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. L. W. Randolph.

Both Were Remembered.

Frank White, the special marshal for the Saengerbund Hall, and his wife, the janitress, have been remembered by the West End Hose Company for their services during the recent fair. Mr. White received a purse of cash and Mrs. White a quilt, and both are happy.

Officers Nominated.

There was nomination of officers at the meeting of Star of Plainfield Lodge, Shepherds of Bethlehem, last evening. The election will be held January 8.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition They stimulates the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. SCHOOL BOARD RELUCTANT

WILL CONFER REGARDING THE SUBJECT OF VACCINATION.

Committee Appointed to Meet the Board of Health Tomorrow Night.

On whose shoulders shall rest the responsibility for vaccination of the teachers and pupils of the borough public schools has not as yet been determined. The Borough Board of Education met last evening to consider the request made by the Board of Health that the vaccination take place at once, but it appears that the former body is reluctant to comply.

It is claimed by the authorities that they are not empowered by law to compel vaccination and that all they can do is to keep the children, not vaccinated, from school in case of an epidemic. On the other hand, the health officials declare that the Board of Education is given the right to demand vaccination.

After respectfully deliberating over the communication and conferring with Dr. Buchanan, the school physician, it was decided to appoint a committee to confer with the Board of Health. This meeting will take place in the Somerset street school house Friday evening. The members of the board appointed are John H. VanWinkle, Sr., chairman, A. V. D. Honeyman, Dr. J. H. Cooley and S. St. John McCutchen.

MASTER'S SALE.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY

Between the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, complainant, and John A. Doty and Minnie his wife, and William G. Chittick, Junior, defendants.

Fieri Facias, for sale of mortgaged premises, returnable February term, nineteen hundred and two.

By virtue of a writ of execution issued out of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, in the above entitled cause, on the twenty-ninth day of October, nineteen hundred and one, directed to me, Addison H. Hazletine, one of the Masters of said Court, I shall offer and expose at public sale to the highest bidder on Wednesday, the eighth day of January, nineteen hundred and two, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, all those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, situate in the Town of Plainfield, Union county, and in Piscataway township, Middlesex county and State of New Jersey, which, together are bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point where the centre line of the New Brooklyn Road intersects with the centre line of Pemberton avenue, distant seven hundred and twelve feet northerly and at right angles to Pemberton avenue from a Brown stone monument on the division line of Union and Middlesex counties in said New Brooklyn Road and running thence easterly through the centre of Pemberton avenue twelve hundred and forty-nine feet to the centre of Central and Pemberton avenues; thence southerly through the centre of Central avenue six hundred and forty-two feet to the southwest corner of land conveyed by Field Brothers to one Deklyn; thence southeasterly (old course, south seventy-two degrees and ten minutes east) along Deklyn's land sixteen hundred and forty-five feet more or less to a point thirty-eight feet southerly of the north line of Isaac street, and four hundred and sixty-three feet easterly from the east line of Lake avenue; thence southwesterly to the centre of Cedar Brook at a point ten feet north of the north line of Laura street and one hundred and eighty-seven feet east of the east line of Lake avenue; thence southeasterly and southwesterly along the centre of Cedar Brook aforesaid to a point three hundred and twenty-seven feet southerly from the south line of Rahway avenue and thirty feet easterly from the east line of Lake avenue; thence northwesterly five hundred and fifteen feet more or less in a straight line to a point sixty-five feet southerly from the south line of Rahway avenue, and two hundred and sixty-six feet easterly from the east line of Lane avenue; thence westerly to the east line of Lane avenue at a point fifty-three feet southerly from the south line of Rahway avenue; thence westerly through the centre of the County of Rahway Road twelve hundred and eighty-eight feet more or less, to a point four hundred and seventeen feet at right angles from the west line of Central avenue, and thirty-four feet southerly from the north line of Rahway avenue; thence south two degrees and twenty-eight minutes east (old course) six hundred and forty-three feet, six inches; thence north eighty-two degrees and forty-one minutes west (old course) nine hundred and twenty-one feet and five inches to the centre of the New Brooklyn Road aforesaid; thence west of north through the centre of said New Brooklyn Road eight hundred and eight feet more or less till the same intersects the west line of Brooklyn avenue; thence easterly and parallel with Laura street forty feet to the centre of Brooklyn avenue; thence northerly through the centre line of Brooklyn avenue eight hundred and seventy-five feet to a point in John street opposite the brown stone monument on division line of Union and Middlesex counties aforesaid, and distant northerly thirty-eight feet from the south line of John street; thence easterly through John street and parallel therewith twenty-seven feet and six inches to the centre line of the New Brooklyn Road aforesaid (and distant westerly twenty feet from the brown stone monument); thence northeasterly through the centre of the New Brooklyn Road aforesaid seven hundred and fourteen feet, more or less, to the point or place of beginning. Containing one hundred and eleven acres and thirty-three hundredths of an acre.

Excepting, however, out of the above described tract all that tract, situate in the Township of Piscataway, in the County of Middlesex and State of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point in the centre line of old Brooklyn avenue, as originally laid out, and opened in Foote's line; thence along said Foote's line in a magnetic course of the year eighteen hundred and eighty, of south eighty-one degrees and forty-three minutes east nine hundred and eighteen and six hundredths feet to a point in Sherwin's line; thence along said Sherwin's line north one degree, thirty-five minutes west two hundred and eighty-three and forty-three one hundredths feet to a point in the centre line of Marsh street; thence along the centre of said Marsh street parallel with Rahway avenue at a distance of three hundred and sixty feet at right angles as shown on a map entitled "A map of five hundred and seven cottage lots, being over fourteen hundred city lots, the property of Isaac M. and John K. Field, N. Y., May, 1869, by R. Graves, City Surveyor," in a course of north eighty-four degrees and thirty-five minutes west nine hundred and fourteen and nineteen hundredths feet to a point in the first mentioned centre line of old Brooklyn avenue; thence along said centre line of old Brooklyn avenue south two degrees and twelve minutes east two hundred and thirty-eight feet and forty one-hundredths to the point and place of beginning. Containing five acres and four hundred and twenty-two thousandths of an acre of land.

Also excepting certain portions which on a map entitled "Map of the Field property, situate in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, April, 1895; F. A. Dunham, C. E. and Surveyor, Plainfield, N. J.," are known and designated as lots numbered 269 to 280, both inclusive and taken together are bounded on the north by Marion street; on the east by Central avenue; on the south by Firth street, and on the west by lots numbered 256 and 268; also excepting lots numbered two hundred and eighty-one to 292, both inclusive, and which on said map are bounded as follows: On the north by Marion street, on the west by Central avenue, on the south by Firth street, and on the east by lots numbered 293 and 307, as laid down on said map. Also lots known on said map as numbers 153 to 160, both inclusive, and numbers 173 to 180, both inclusive, and which are bounded on the north by Beatrice street, on the east by Central avenue, on the south by lots numbered 181 and 165 to 172, both inclusive, and on the west by lots numbered 152 and 172. Also lots numbered from 43 to 90, both inclusive, on said map; bounded on the north by Pemberton avenue, on the east by Central avenue, on the south by Beatrice street, and on the west by Field avenue. Being a part of the same premises conveyed by the said The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, to the said John A. Doty, by deed bearing date the fifth day of October, in the year nineteen hundred.

And also excepting therefrom certain portions of said premises which have been recently released by the said The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, by two deeds of release, the first of which was dated the twenty-second day of January, 1901, and released the following described premises: First, all that plot of ground lying on the northwesterly corner of said mortgaged premises, bounded northerly by Pemberton avenue, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by Beatrice street and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered one to forty-two, both inclusive on said map. Second, all the northerly half of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Beatrice street, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by the centre line of the block, and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered ninety-one to ninety-six, both inclusive, one hundred and three to one hundred and twelve, both inclusive, and one hundred and twenty-five to one hundred and thirty, both inclusive, on said map. Third, all that portion of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Beatrice street, southerly by the centre line of the block, and westerly by Field avenue, and consisting of lots numbered one hundred and thirty-seven to one hundred and forty-two, both inclusive, and one hundred and forty-nine to one hundred and fifty-two, both inclusive, on said map.

Fourth. All that easterly half of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Firth street, easterly by Central avenue, southerly by Clifford street, and westerly by the centre line of the block, and consisting of lots numbered four hundred and twenty-nine to four hundred and thirty-four, both inclusive, and four hundred and forty-one to four hundred and fifty-eight, both inclusive on said map.

Fifth. All that plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Clifford street, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered five hundred and eighty-five to six hundred and thirty-two both inclusive on said map: Sixth, all that plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Rahway avenue, easterly by Field avenue, southerly by Marsh street, and westerly by Plainfield avenue, and consisting of lots numbered seven hundred and ninety-six to eight hundred and forty-three, both inclusive, on said map. Seventh, all that westerly portion of a plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Clifford street, easterly by lots six hundred and forty-five and six hundred and fifty-seven on said map, southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Field avenue, and consisting of lots numbered six hundred and thirty-three to six hundred and forty-four, both inclusive on said map. Eighth. All that plot of ground which is bounded northerly by Clifford street, easterly by Lane avenue, southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Central avenue, and consisting of lots numbered six hundred and eighty-one to seven hundred and thirty-two, both inclusive on said map. Ninth. All that westerly portion of a plot of ground which is bounded: Northerly by Clifford street, easterly by lots numbered seven hundred and forty-eight and seven hundred and sixty, on said map; southerly by Rahway avenue, and westerly by Lane avenue, and consisting of lots numbered seven hundred and thirty-three to seven hundred and forty-seven, both inclusive, and seven hundred and fifty-seven to seven hundred and fifty-nine, both inclusive on said map.

And the second of which releases was dated the twelfth day of March, nineteen hundred and one, by which the following described premises were released. Being lots numbered six hundred and forty-five to six hundred and eighty, inclusive, on said map; being thirty-six lots which, taken together, are bounded and described as follows: Beginning in the southerly line of Clifford street at a point distant one hundred and fifty feet easterly from the easterly line of Field avenue; thence running southerly parallel with the line of Field avenue three hundred feet to the northerly line of Rahway avenue; thence easterly along line of Rahway avenue four hundred and fifty feet to the westerly line of Central avenue; thence northerly along said line of Central avenue three hundred feet to the said line of Clifford street; thence westerly along said line of Clifford street, four hundred and fifty feet to the point or place of beginning. Also lots numbered four hundred and fifty-nine to five hundred and ten, inclusive on said map. Being one entire block or fifty-one lots; bounded, northerly by Firth street, easterly by Lane avenue, southerly by Clifford street, westerly by Central avenue.

The lands above described are to be sold in two parcels, the first parcel consisting of the premises above described, after excepting out the land above excepted, and also excepting therefrom the following parcel situated in the Township of Piscataway in the County of Middlesex, and more particularly described as follows: Beginning at a point in the southerly side of Marion street, distant in an easterly direction one hundred and fifty feet from the southeast corner of Marion street and Central avenue; thence running in a southerly direction and parallel with Central avenue three hundred feet to the northerly line of Firth street; thence easterly along the northerly line of Firth street three hundred feet; thence northerly and parallel with Central avenue one hundred and fifty feet to the southerly line of Marion street; thence westerly along the southerly line of Marion street one hundred and twenty-five feet to the point or place of beginning. Being lots numbers two hundred and ninety-three to two hundred and ninety-seven, both inclusive, and three hundred and seven to three hundred and eighteen, both inclusive on the map above referred to. And the second parcel to be sold is the tract of land last above excepted. Together with all and singular the rights, liberties, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining.

BEAVER TAIL SOUP.

A Michigan Lumber Camp Delicacy That Amazed and Pleased a Marylander.

"Although I am a Marylander, and an Eastern Shore one at that," said Chauncey F. Raynor, reports the New York Sun, "and consequently know what good things to eat are, I want to tell you that I'll have to take off my hat to the lumber camp cook of the upper Michigan peninsula as the discoverer, fabricator and dispenser of a dish that knocks the Eastern Shore cuisine silly. And that rare lumber camp dish is beaver tail soup.

"I was with Col. Park, of Columbus, O., deer hunting in the Rainy lake region of Michigan one fall. We lived at a lumber camp boarding shanty.

"There were signs of beaver at the upper end of the lake, and a trapper succeeded in trapping one of the wily dam builders.

"When the beaver was brought into camp the camp cook went nearly wild. And so did the lumbermen when they heard the news. All because they had been trying to trap a beaver for weeks; not for its fur, but for its tail, as they were pining, they said, for beaver tail soup.

"The cook took that broad appendage of the beaver, mailed like an armadillo, took from it the underlying bone and meat, and from it made such a soup as never came from any other stock, at the beck of the most expert and scientific chef that ever put a kettle on.

"We could do the same thing, and perhaps better, on the Eastern Shore, but we lack one thing. We haven't got the beavers to yield us their tails."

THE NEW SLEEVES.

They Are Made In Every Conceivable Way.

There seems to be a great deal of diversity of opinion about sleeves. A general tendency toward fullness has been observable for some time. A few models show puffs from shoulder to elbow and are tight fitting beneath, whereas others are the very opposite. Cordings, tuckings and puffings vie with lace insertion to produce an elaborate effect. Coat sleeves show a decided fullness at the shoulder.

The sleeves of evening garments are made very wide and flaring. Often there is an inner puff of fine lace or tucked chiffon. This inner puff is gathered into an embroidered band. The newest sleeve for taffeta and peau de soie coats is tucked to the elbow, where it springs into a large puff which at the wrist is confined into a close fitting band. These bands button and unbutton to allow the hand to pass through them.

Elbow sleeves are still very popular. They appear in many afternoon gowns. There is a new length of sleeve half way between the shoulder and elbow which is pretty in dinner dresses. It is usually made of ribbon and transparent lace.

The plain, tight fitting sleeve, with a slight fullness at the shoulder, is still seen in strictly tailor made costumes.

The up to date street costume in the illustration is of tan broadcloth edged with narrow bands of sable. The waist is made with a collar and front of rich guipure lace and the body proper of the broadcloth, having a triple banding of fur over the shoulders and down the front. The sleeves are very full and bishop in shape. The skirt is made with a triple effect, due to the bandings of fur. The muff is of the cloth, with tabs of velvet and rich falls of lace.

The hat is on the toque order, with the crown of lace and fur.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAY AND EVENING HATS.

Large Picture Shapes to Be Worn on Dressy Occasions.

Large picture hats of velvet and beaver in all the delicate shades are to be worn for theater and evening. They are elaborately trimmed with feathers or fur, and the brims are enriched with drapings of lace. Hats of tulle and chiffon are combined with fur and most natural looking roses. The tendency seems to be still toward low drooping trimmings and flat effects. Many hats, especially sailor shapes, have almost plain tops, with the flower trimmings fastened beneath the brim.

No pale colored hat is complete without a touch of black velvet, and square, drooping bows give a pretty effect against the hair in the back.

A great deal of brown appears in the new millinery, and so many dainty colors harmonize with the deeper tones of brown that a chic finish to a brown toilet can be obtained for brune or blond. All hats and toques are worn very forward, and the back is kept as flat and close as possible.

Birds' breasts still form the trimming of the smartest "tailor made" hats, but these breasts are in most cases taken from domestic fowls and dyed beautiful colors. Especially effective is a long plumage of different shades of coral red. This gives a very chic effect when worn by a brunette on a castor colored hat of fine felt.

The striking hat in the illustration is made of black and white velvet ribbons sewed together and tacked here and there carelessly. In front there is a broad band of Russian sable.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Trouble on the Torolito.

BY FRANCIS LYNDE.

(Copyright, 1898, by Francis Lynde.)

"Several things contributed. First, he had to divide the purchase money for the water-right with the other settlers, and there wasn't enough to go around. Then it was discovered that he had been too ignorant or too negligent to secure interim rights—water to use while the dam-building goes on—and in consequence the whole settlement is likely to go dry through the summer while Wykamp is tearing out and putting in. That stirred up a hornet's nest, right, and when the buzzing began in good earnest he came to me and wanted advice and help."

"And you gave both, I presume?"

"I gave him a Scotch blessing, and sent him off with a bee in his bonnet to keep the hornets company. I was still pretty warm under the collar. But about that time you were trying your best to drop out, and when he tackled me again I weakened. I told him there wasn't anything to do but to grin and bear it—since he'd thrown up his chance—but he'd got wind of the placer-claim alternative and he has been crazy to have me jump on. I haven't made a move. I'm holding off—jib-sheet free and head to the wind, ready to come about at the critical moment. There's no hurry. It's working beautifully without me just now; settlers holding indignation meetings in the schoolhouse, wheezing and resolving, and everybody mad enough to fight at the drop of the hat. My part has been to pour oil on the troubled waters; not too much oil, you know, but just enough to keep somebody from killing somebody else; and I promise you I've had my hands full. One pot-shot from behind a bowlder just now would spoil the whole conspiracy."

"Is anyone likely to fire it?" I asked.

Macpherson wagged his head dubiously.

"There are plenty of itching trigger-fingers hereabouts just now, and one of them is going to crook itself some dark night if Wykamp doesn't have a spasm of common sense. What do you suppose he's up to now?"

I made the sign of unknowledge; and Macpherson drew his chair nearer and lowered his voice in deference to the Dionysian-ear qualities of the loosely built house.

"You know his attitude toward—toward Winnie—Miss Sanborn? Well, he changed it in a day; came here two or three times and tried to see her, and when she wouldn't he began on the girl—Selter's daughter. I don't know how far it has gone, but far enough to make a family row, with the father and mother on one side and the girl on the other. Of course, Nan believes in him and stands up for him; but Jake knows, and loads his rifle accordingly."

"There'll be a murder," I ventured.

"I'm afraid of it. And at this time it would be most confoundedly inopportune. The news of the fight with the land company has gone abroad in the county and the state, and public sentiment is with the settlers. But if one of them should forget himself and happen to kill the land company's chief engineer—well you see what would happen; public sentiment would take the other side in the turning of a leaf."

"Assuredly. Can't you bring the girl to her senses?"

Macpherson grinned. "I've already burned my fingers in that fire—burned them rather badly. You haven't forgotten about the pony and the riding-lessons, have you?"

"No."

"And, besides, I have a funeral of my own and I can't furnish mourners for Wykamp's. I'd much rather furnish the corpse."

Silence, for the space of a full minute, and then I say: "You haven't found out anything more?"

"Not a syllable. I've been respecting her prohibition as much as I could, feeling as I do, and coming here every night. We meet and speak and pass, and that's all there is to it. But I've seen and heard enough to make me feel murderous; she fairly shudders at the mere mention of his name."

"I wonder what he did to her?"

"I don't know; but I'm beginning to suspect that Nan does. If—if it's anything—anything bad"—the words came hard—"it would be like the fiend to boast of it to another woman."

"You mustn't jump at conclusions, else it will be your itching trigger-finger instead of Selter's. Why do you think Nan knows?"

"I can't tell; it's in the air. I've caught her looking at Winifred in a way—but don't make me talk about it—don't make me talk about anything. Turn over and go to sleep, or I shall go away."

I was too weak to withstand him, and, truly, sleep was again knocking at the door. But when the door was opened and closed again, a dream came between and I saw Wykamp directing the work on a dam in a precipitous canyon—saw him and wondered that I had not before remarked that his ears were pointed, and that a pair of satyr-horns curled gracefully over the visor of his outing-cap.

CHAPTER VIII.

DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE.

(Winifred to Priscilla Bradford.)

Dear Prissie:

Your last letter accuses me of a lack of confidence, and it's so. I have been "talking scenery," as you say, and it is because a thing so dreadful has happened that I haven't been able to bring myself to write about it, even to you. But I shall lose my mind if I do not confide in some one; and since you have asked for a share of the burden, you shall have it.

Inasmuch as you know all the pitiful foregoings, for you I can compress the dreadful thing into three words: He is here. How he found me out I don't know; or if it were design or a mere arrow of spiteful chance; but the miserable fact remains. He is the engineer in charge of an irrigation project which involves the welfare of the entire settlement; his camp is but a short half-mile from the schoolhouse; and I am forced to see him every day. Knowing what this must mean for me, you will wonder that I did not shriek and run away at the very first. That, indeed, was the first impulsive prompting, and under other circumstances I should have obeyed it unquestioningly. But it is not so easy to disappear when one is far from the highways of travel; and there was a second thought potent enough to make me stay—and suffer.

Put together all the little odds and ends I have written about Mr. Macpherson (but you have doubtless done this long ago) and draw your own conclusion. There is fuel enough, God knows, to keep the shame-fire burning all through my miserable life, but this is not of it. Having said so much, you will understand what follows, reading between the lines if you care to.

Our first meeting—the only one in which he has had the hardihood to speak to me—was one evening when I was walking home from the schoolhouse with Mr. Macpherson. He was riding past and he recognized me, wheeling his horse to fling himself from the saddle and to add another insult to all that has gone before. Mr. Macpherson resented it promptly, like a man and a gentleman, and he—he struck him! After that, I knew I had to stay; that otherwise there would be more misery and perhaps bloodshed; and however rich his deservings, God would require his life at my hands.

"WHY DO YOU THINK NAN KNOWS?"

So I have stayed and suffered, not knowing what a day might bring forth, and drinking the cup of terror to the dregs. Thus far, Mr. Macpherson has amply justified all my believings of him. His quarrel with the land company is quite as bitter as that of the settlers—the plans of the company, if carried out, will practically dispossess him—but he will not make it a personal matter with the engineer—for my sake, if for no better reason. So long as he does not know the shameful facts, I tell myself there is reason to take courage; but if he should find out—oh, Prissie! living as you do in the peaceful quiet of the old New England home you can't understand. But the men of these wildernesses, men reared in homes just like yours, perhaps, become terribly swift to right their wrongs with the strong hand.

You will say that, so long as I keep my secret, exposure can come only through the man who will stand a self-confessed villain in the telling; and this is true. But the dastardly hardihood of this man is past belief, and I have begun to fear that the worst is yet to come. You will recall my frequent mention of Jacob Selter's daughter. From what I have seen, there is reason to fear that she is in danger of becoming his latest victim. They are together a great deal, and Nan's dislike for me is growing day by day. What he has told her, I can only surmise; but her attitude toward me has lately changed from frank aversion to something like contempt. Merciful heaven! If he should boast to her, and it should come to Mr. Macpherson's ears—but I must not anticipate.

Write me a good long letter, Prissie, dear, and try to comfort me if you can.

Lovingly,
WINIFRED.

A MINING SENSATION.

A Famous Rich Idaho Property In Litigation.

BOISE, Ida., Dec. 12.—A sensational mining suit, involving the title to the famous Golden Chariot property, which has produced $13,000,000, has been filed in the United States court here. The suit is brought by the Golden Chariot Mining company, the stockholders of which are mainly San Francisco people, against Timothy Regan of this city and the War Eagle Consolidated Mining company.

After the crash of 1873 the Golden Chariot was closed down. Subsequently it was relocated and finally passed into the ownership of Mr. Regan. The War Eagle camp, holding an option from Mr. Regan, is driving a long tunnel in order to reach the vein many hundred feet below the old workings.

The present suit is brought for the purpose of recovering the title to the mine, it being alleged that the relocation of the property for alleged non-performance of assessment work was the result of fraudulent conspiracy.

Professional Freedom Bill Passed.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 12.—After a prolonged discussion lasting several days the lower house of congress has approved of a bill providing for the free exercise of all professions. The vote stood 76 to 56. There had been a heated debate on this matter, and regular physicians, lawyers, etc., holding diplomas generally have been opposed to the measure, though many took a liberal position and favored a new law. When the chamber of deputies had adjourned, the crowd seized Don Pablo Macedo, the chief advocate of this measure, in their arms and bore him in triumph to his carriage, while a crowd of opponents to the measure went to the office of El Imparcial, a newspaper advocate of free exercise of all professions, and shouted, "Death to El Imparcial!" and finally had to be dispersed by the police. The senate has a similar measure before it and it is expected will approve it.

Christmas Present For Lipton.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The guests who were entertained by Sir Thomas Lipton on the yacht Erin are sending him a punch bowl and tray as a Christmas present. The bowl is of silver, about twenty inches in diameter, with a heavy rococo border two inches deep running into its fluted panel sides. The tray is twenty-five inches in diameter and similar in design to the bowl. The tray bears the following inscription: "Sir Thomas J. Lipton, Christmas greeting, 1901. From a few American friends, guests on board the Erin during the international yacht races."

Burning Mine Sealed Up.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 12.—The Big Lick mine fire near Lykens may be extinguished before many hours. Even now there are hopes that the fire which has been raging in one of the abandoned workings is under control. Men at great risk have sealed up the mine at both ends. The long gallery toward Lykens was closed, and the mine opening at Big Lick was sealed up. This, it is thought, will smother the flames, as no air can get to them. Water is being piped from Williamstown in case it should be necessary to turn it into the mine.

Has Slept Five Weeks.

PEORIA, Ill., Dec. 12.—On the morning of Nov. 7 James A. Harris, sixty-eight years old, went to sleep while seated in a chair at his home. Since that day he has not been conscious for more than half an hour at a time and then only on two occasions. He seems to be sinking. The physician in attendance says he can survive but a short time. Harris' case has puzzled the local physicians.

Marconi's Great Expectations.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 12.—William Marconi of wireless telegraphy fame is awaiting the arrival in mid-ocean of the Cunard line steamship Lucania. He hopes to open wireless communication with the Lucania while she is still from 250 to 300 miles from the land. Mr. Marconi will follow the steamer's progress across the long stretch of sea parallel with the region beyond the Grand Banks.

TREATY DISCUSSED.

Senate In Executive Session on Canal Convention.

BACON OF GEORGIA OPPOSES MEASURE

Will Not Vote For, Yet Will Not Obstruct Ratification—Senator Cullom Points Out Good Points of New Agreement.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—When the senate met yesterday, prayer was offered by Rev. Herrick Johnston of Chicago, Chaplain Milburn being absent. The house concurrent resolution providing for a holiday adjournment from Dec. 19 until Jan. 6, 1902, was referred to the committee on appropriations. The senate then, at 12:22 p. m., on motion of Mr. Lodge went into executive session to further consider the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and at 2:50 p. m. adjourned.

Two speeches on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty were made in the executive session of the senate, one by Senator Bacon in opposition to the treaty and the other by Senator Cullom, the prospective chairman of the committee on foreign relations, in support of it.

Mr. Bacon replied to the speech made Tuesday by Senator Lodge. He summed up his objections in the statement that he could not freely accept any treaty which does not place the isthmian canal entirely under American auspices and American control. This, he said, the pending treaty does not do, nor does it do anything like it. It did not by long odds accomplish what had been accomplished by the senate amendments made to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty at the last session of congress.

The Davis amendment, he said, had abrogated all the objectionable provisions of that treaty as negotiated, and it did not matter what provisions there were in the agreement so long as the United States was authorized, as it was by the principal Davis amendment, to secure the safety and maintenance of the canal by its own force. That amendment had given this country a free hand to do what was necessary for the protection and defense of the canal, whereas the present treaty carries all the restrictions which were originally contained in the old treaty, leaving out the modifications of the Davis amendment.

In conclusion Mr. Bacon announced that while he had no intention of voting for the treaty he would do nothing to obstruct its ratification.

Senator Cullom congratulated the senate and the country upon the fact that there are two things in connection with the new treaty upon which, he said, practically all are agreed. One of these was the desirability of the supersession of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and the other that of the necessity for the construction of an isthmian canal.

He contended that the new treaty radically changes the conditions presented by the first Hay-Pauncefote treaty, clearly relieving it of the necessity of such an amendment as that made to the old treaty upon the suggestion of Senator Davis, because the treaty itself would permit the United States under international law to own, manage and defend the canal in any way that it may choose. In other words, he added, in a war with Great Britain or with any other power the treaty would be suspended under the law which governs nations until the war should be concluded, when it would be revived and again enforced. He dwelt upon the fact, which he said was the most important circumstance to be considered, that the new treaty supersedes and abrogates the Clayton-Bulwer convention of 1850 and for this reason would be of untold value to the country.

He contended that the provision in regard to the policing of the canal appl

PAID THE CITY.

Trolley Company Sent a Check for Its Indebtedness in Response to Demand.

Councilman R. I. Tolles, as chairman of the street committee, has received from the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company a check for $800, that being the amount the company owed the city as its share for work done along the streets where the trolley runs.

It will be remembered that the Common Council recently took action against the trolley company and reminded them of the amount due the city, hence the quick response.

Nothing was said in the letter regarding an improvement of the service in this city, but as the company met in Neward today a letter in reference to that part of the complaint may be received soon.

Lamp Broke in Her Hands.

Miss Florence Scribner, of West Front street, met with a painful accident yesterday, which necessitated her going to Muhlenberg hospital for treatment. She was filling a lamp at the time when it broke and fragments of glass were imbedded in her hand. The pieces were successfully removed but the young woman will remain at the institution for a few days.

NEW TROLLEY MANAGEMENT

ELECTION OF OFFICERS WAS HELD THIS MORNING.

Thomas C. Barr Made President and John N. Ackerman General Manager.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, Dec. 12.—The directors of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company met this morning in this city and elected the following officers: President, Thomas C. Barr; general manager, John N. Ackerman; treasurer, Col. E. W. Hine.

It was expected that Mr. Barr would be made general manager as well as president, but he will devote his time to the general oversight of the road, while Mr. Ackerman will give especial attention to the line between Elizabeth and Plainfield.

Thomas N. McCarter, who was the treasurer, retires, having too much other business to attend to. By the action of the meeting, David Young relinquishes his position as president of the line between Elizabeth and Plainfield and he will continue his duties with other lines. It is expected that the Elizabeth-Plainfield line will receive a general overhauling and put in first-class condition.

WANTS HIS BOY.

Italian Claims That Fred Bird Took the Lad in Defiance of of His Father's Wishes.

Sylvester DeLago, an Italian living on North avenue near the water works, appeared before Justice Nash, this morning, and swore out a warrant against Fred Bird, of East Front street, who he claimed had kidnapped his son Michael DeLago.

Bird left yesterday in his house wagon for a trip through Virginia taking the boy with him in defiance, it is alleged, of the father's wishes. The elder DeLago declares the boy was to receive no wages during the trip and it was for this reason he objected. The warrant will be served on Bird as soon as possible.

Miss Della Voehl, of Somerset street, has returned from a visit to friends in New York.

HORSE WAS NEARLY DROWNED

FELL INTO EXCAVATION ON SOUTH AVENUE LAST EVENING.

Had to be Lifted Out With Fall and Tackle—Driven by Man From Garwood.

Lewis Coombs, proprietor of the Manhattan Hotel at Garwood, and three friends from Trenton, were driving along South avenue, near Scott's Press Works, shortly after 7 o'clock, last evening, when a vehicle approaching from the opposite direction forced the former to turn to one side of the road. In the darkness he did not notice sewer excavations were being made at that point and the horse plunged down a seven-foot trench, wrecking the wagon shafts and harness. The wagon and occupants escaped injury.

It was impossible to lead the animal out and assistance was summoned from Hand's trucking stables. Under the supervision of Frank Hand, a fall and tackle was rigged and the horse was raised to the surface, barely in time to save its life from drowning as the trench was nearly filled with water.

It was taken to Hand's stables and this morning was found to be all right. It is said the excavation was properly guarded by lights but were not seen in time by Mr. Coombs.

YOUNG WOMAN SPOKE FOR W. C. T. U. MEDAL

Prize Contest in Elocution Was Given at Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Evening.

MISS KREWSON WON IT.

COMMITTEE OF JUDGES AWARDED THE MEDAL TO HER.

There Were Musical Selections, a Farce and a Pantomime in Addition to the Prize Speaking.

A medal contest in elocution was given last evening in the Y. M. C. A. Hall under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. It proved to be very enjoyable affair. Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey was in charge and arranged the programme.

At the conclusion of the prize speaking, the selected judges, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, Rev. C. E. Herring and Homer J. Wightman, retired to select the winner.

After due deliberation it was decided that Miss Ursula Krewson, who recited the thrilling tale of a horse race, named "Black Nance," was entitled to first honors and the medal.

Second honors were given to Miss Mabel Pound, who gave "Equality of Sex," by Samantha Allen, although it was admitted that there was only a difference of one point in the decision.

Mrs. Tomlinson made a few remarks at the close of the entertainment complimenting the winner and expressing her regret that the prize medal had not yet arrived.

The programme opened with a violin duet by Miss Cave and Miss Cahoone, followed with two recitations, "Pledge with Wine," Miss Ellen Vandervoort, and "The Bishop and the Caterpillar," Miss Ruth Bullock. There was another violin duet, after which Miss Bessie Martin recited "Old Soapy." Part first was concluded with a farce entitled "Miss Flipper's Holiday," which was given by Miss Ethel Pearsall, Miss Margery Slade and Miss Helen Gale in a clever manner.

Part two was opened with the recitation by Miss Mabel Pound. Then Miss Carolyn Dewey and Mrs. L. R. Howard gave a piano duet, followed with the recitation by Miss Ursula Krewson. Another piano duet, "Country Dance," preceded a pantomime, "Leah, the Forsaken," given by the Misses Ruth Bullock, Ursula Krewson, Bessie Martin, Mabel Pound, Bessie VanArsdale and Ellen Vandervoort. Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey read the story which was interpreted faithfully by the young women.

Everyone taking part in the programme received a cordial reception, while Miss Luckey was accorded much praise for her efforts, which resulted in the success of the affair.

NEW CAPTAIN.

Will be Elected at Meeting of Company M.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, December 13—Colonel Gilmore has ordered an election for captain of Company M, to be held here this evening. Major Dungan has been ordered to preside. Christmas Day there will be a contest at the rifle range which will be open to everybody. It is expected that a number from Plainfield and New Brunswick will enjoy the sport. The prizes will consist of turkeys and cigars. A small entrance fee will be charged competitors. Any kind of rifle will be permitted.

CHURCH CONSECRATED.

Impressive Church Ceremony Held at Somerville Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 13—St. John's Episcopal church was consecrated yesterday morning by the bishop of the diocese, R.. Rev. John Scarborough. At the celebration of Holy Communion Gounod's Missa Coelestis was sung, the chorister boys of St. James' church, New York, and the tenor soloist of St. Agnes' church, New York, being in the choir. Bishop Worthington, of Nebraska, was the celebrant. There was a large number of clergy present, among them being Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, Rev. Wm. Montgomery Downey, Rev. James P. Taylor and Rev. W. Bryce Morrow, of Plainfield.

FIRST FUNERAL, THEN JAIL

HORACE DOTY ARRESTED HERE ON AN OLD COMPLAINT.

Had Just Returned From Sister's Funeral at Newark, Where Complainant Saw Him.

Horace Doty, a former well-known Plainfielder who for some time past has been living in Syracuse, N. Y., came from the latter place, Tuesday, for the purpose of attending the funeral of a sister who was killed at Newark, Sunday night. While present at the obsequies he was recognized by a hay carter who had preferred a charge of larceny against him fourteen months ago. The complainant informed the police.

As the police surmised, Doty proceeded at once to this city after the funeral. He was found on West Front street, yesterday, and taken into custody by Patrolman Saffron. The Newark police were informed and a detective wsa sent for him last evening.

It is said Doty, who is better known as "Doc," sold a load of hay for the carter and failed to return the money. When in this city he was employed by the street railway company and also John Carl, of Manson place.

STRONG SPEAKER.

Miss Sara Wray Will be at Y. M. C. A. Meeting Sunday.

Miss Sara Wray, at one time associated with Col. Hadley in his Ocean Grove meetings, will be the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. meeting, Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. Miss Wray is a woman of broad evangelistic experience having spent some time in the White Chapel district, London, of which she will speak at this time.

Charles Powlison, formerly of Plainfield, now secretary of the religious work department of the West Side branch, New York, says: "She cannot be advertised too highly. She is considered by Col. Hadley as one of the strongest women speakers on the platform."

Directory Canvass Complete.

The canvassing for Plainfield's directory for 1902 is now complete and the names and addresses of the residents of the city and borough are in the hands of the printer. New residents and any who would like to have their New York address placed in the directory or anyone who thinks their address has not been given correctly, can have the name and address correctly inserted if they will send the information to J. R. Wand, 101 West Front street.

EVERYTHING WAS OF THE FLOWERY KINGDOM

Japanese Tea Given at the Parish House of Church of the Holy Cross.

PRETTY DECORATIONS.

TEA WAS SERVED BY FAIR LITTLE JAPANESE MAIDENS.

Then There Was a Pagoda and Booths Were Other Things Were Sold—Those Who Were in Charge.

A delightful affair termed a Japanese tea was held under the auspices of the Church Guild entertainment committee in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross, yesterday afternoon and evening. It was largely attended and proved to be an enjoyable and profitable form of entertainment.

The decorations were quite elaborate, everything being arranged as far as possible to conform to Japanese styles of ornamentation. A tea room was probably the most attractive, although a pagoda, where fancy work was sold, was of no mean design. In fact all through the room the decorations showed that much originality had been used in the ideas brought into play.

Delicious tea was served by some young Japanese maidens, while others served cake, sold candy, ice cream and fancy work. The gowns worn by these young women who impersonated the maidens of the Flowery Kingdom were really effective, and added much to the spirit of the affair.

Mrs. J. O. Stevens, the chairman of the entertainment committee of the Church Guild, was in charge. Those assigned to the various departments were: Fancy work pagoda—Mrs. Wm. Montgomery Downey, chairman, Mrs. J. H. Carman, Mrs. I. S. Murray, Mrs. Frank S. Browne and Mrs. J. C. MacClymont; tea room—Miss Ida Davis, chairman, and the Misses Florence Stevens, Ada Westphal and Miriam Carman, waitresses; candy—Miss Florence Burr, chairman, and the Misses de Maziere, Phillips and Martinsen; cake—Mrs. A. E. Faber, Jr., chairman, Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Miss Davis and Mrs. G. P. Dupee; ice cream—Mrs. W. A. Westphal, chairman, Mrs. Brock and Mrs. Tapscott, and the Misses Burt, Frankie Burr and May Faber.

CLEVER COMPANY.

Will Produce "The Brixton Burglary" at Casino Tomorrow.

W. J. Ferguson, and the clever company of comedians will produce that successful farce comedy, "The Brixton Burglary" at the Casino tomorrow afternoon and night.

The engagement is sure to be a notable one, as the comedy is conceded to be the most notable of recent English successes, the production is the same as that used during the engagement of the play at the Herald Square Theatre, New York, and the company is the most talented seen in many a day.

"The Brixton Burglary" is by no means an unknown quantity here, as theatre-goers here watched its success in New York last spring with great interest. Aside from the excellence of the presenting company, the comedy itself possesses a charm and originality which accounts for its tremendous vogue in London and this country; it is full of novel complications, and ludicrous situations. Special prices for matinee. See advertisement.

Expect High Honor for V. W. Nash.

It is confidently expected that V. W. Nash, of this city, who is now grand foreman of the Ancient Order United Workmen, will soon become the grand master workman of the State Lodge. This is the highest State office in the lodge and the many friends of Mr. Nash believe that he is entitled to the honoe. For several years he has been an earnest and zealous worker in the lodge and helped materially to build it up.

Winter Uniforms Soon.

The members of the local police force will shortly receive their regulation winter uniforms. The new helmets have arrived and the coats and trousers are being made by local tailors.

TROLLEY CARS TO NEW YORK

A Through Trolley Traffic Promised As a Result of Gigantic Deal.

WILL GO BY A TUNNEL.

One Report is That North Jersey Traction Company Will Use Pennsylvania Tunnel—Other That it Will Complete Old Tunnel.

The most gigantic and far reaching deal ever made between transportation companies promises to be the means of giving Plainfield direct trolley facilities with New York in a manner heretofore undreamed of. According to the Newark News an arrangement has been made between the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the North Jersey Street Railway Company, the latter company having signed an agreement giving the right to use the proposed tunnel of the railroad company under North river, for 999 years.

A meeting attended by A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and E. F. C. Young, president of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, and other magnates, was held in Jersey City, Wednesday evening. There, the News says, plans were agreed upon which will give exclusive rights to the trolley people to use the projecting tunnel in connection with the great railroad system.

If this be true it means that the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central New Jersey Street Railway Company, which is allied with the North Jersey company, will have all the advantages of this deal. Through trolley cars will speed between this city and New York and passengers will be landed in the heart of the metropolis. It is said that the North Jersey people have secured the privilege of lighting the tunnel. The central station will be established in New York and the swift trolley service will connect the cities of Newark, Elizabeth, Plainfield and other points. It is expected that the plan will go into operation within two years.

Another story is told in today's New York Herald. It is to the effect that the meeting between the magnates failed to bring favorable results and as a consequence E. F. C. Young, representing his company, purchased the controlling interest in the old Hudson river tunnel, which was abandoned eight years ago. This tunnel will be run from Washington street, Jersey City, to Morton street, New York, and will be used exclusively by the North Jersey company and its connections, which means that Planifield will receive the advantages along with Newark and Elizabeth.

There's another rumor floating about to the effect that the Pennsylvania company has purchased the controlling interest in the North Jersey company.

Following these announcements comes the news that a million dollar trolley syndicate was incorporated in Trenton yesterday. It is proposed by the incorporators to construct a trolley from Elizabeth, along Staten Island sound to Boynton Beach. The proprietors are Governor Voorhees, Julian and Hamilton Kean, Judge Vail, of Rahway, Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, and James Cahoon, of New York.

The Trenton and New Brunswick Company has also been incorporated with a capital of $1,000,000.

It will construct a third rail electric system from Trenton to Millstone on the Raritan river and then by using other lines effect an entrance to Staten Island.

All these various movements are believed to be made with the intention of connecting Philadelphia and New York by direct trolley lines, with connecting lines to all the principal cities and towns in New Jersey.

SECOND OF SERIES.

Pleasant Social Given by Young Men's Bible Class.

The second of a series of pleasant socials, of the young men's Bible class of Monroe Avenue church, took place in the Epworth House, last evening.

Games, music and singing were the features which passed the hours away and at the close refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Samuel Beekman, Adam Neuman, N. Mansfield Smith and George Whitley.

GREAT BOWLING GAVE WESTFIELD TWO GAMES

Rolled Series at Cranford in Daily Press Bowling League Last Evening.

ALL MADE HIGH SCORES.

WESTFIELD OVERWHELMED HOME TEAM IN TWO GAMES.

Sharp, of Cranford, Saved the Third Game for His Club—He Was Rolling Well Last Night—The Scores.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, Dec. 13—By rolling a strong game, the team from the Westfield Club captured two out of three games in its series with the Cranford Casino, in The Daily Press Bowling League, last evening. The games were rolled on the Cranford Casino alleys. All the scores were good.

The Westfield team was rolling in fine form and set such a pace in the first game that the home team could not hope to keep up. Sharp was in better form than in the week before and improved still more as the games progressed. The first game went to Westfield by sixty pins with a strong finish.

There was a slight improvement on the part of both teams in the second game but it proved very similar to the other and the fine bowling of the visitors swept them on to victory by fifty-five pins, both sides scoring better than 800. Fred P. Condit, captain of Westfield, made high score for his team, 202.

The last game was the exciting one of the series and hard fought from start to finish. Sharp, Cranford's veteran, came to the fore with a 214 and won the day for the home five. The windup was exciting but Westfield failed to come up to its previous game and Cranford won out by fifteen pins.

The individual scores:

FELL ON TRACKS.

Mrs. Henry Liefke Injured in Alighting From Train in the Darkness.

In alighting from the 7:14 train at the Grant avenue station, last evening, Mrs. Henry Liefke, of West Front street, did not perceive there was no platform at the point and fell between the tracks. It was impossible to see anything on account of darkness. On arising, she again stumbled and struck her face on a rail, leaving her in a dazed condition.

The conductor had re-entered the car. It was with some difficulty that the injured woman's sister, Mrs. Samuels, assisted her to her home. Drs. Boone and Fritts were called, and found Mrs. Liefke cut about the face and suffering greatly from shock. This morning she was greatly improved.

WEDDED IN PHILADELPHIA.

A. L. Titsworth Quietly Married to Miss Nellie Runner.

Miss Nellie S. Runner, of Philadelphia, and Arthur L. Titsworth, of West Seventh street, were married yesterday afternoon in Philadelphia by the bride's pastor. Only the immediate relatives of the two families were present, the affair being a very quiet and simple one. Mr. and Mrs. Titsworth will return to this city tomorrow and take up their residence on West Seventh street.

Changed Date of Tree.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., met last evening and nominated officers. The election will be held Thursday evening, December 26. It was decided to postpone the Christmas tree festivities to Thursday evening, January 2. The officers will be installed on that evening.

TWO COMEDIES.

Amateur Dramatics by Students From New York at Casino.

There should be a full house to greet the Seniors of the American Academy of Dramatic Art and Empire School of Acting, when they appear at the Casino next Thursday. At Frohman's Empire Theatre, New York, where their performances are given with great regularity, their work is considered superior to the general run of stock companies, and their appearance here, brought about after much negotiation, will no doubt warrant the same conclusion. The plays to be presented are "The Money Spinner," and "A Duet in Two Flats," original plays, affording splendid opportunity for display of talent.

GUILD ROOM WAS DEDICATED

MEMORABLE DAY FOR HOLY INNOCENT'S CHURCH, DUNELLEN.

Room Was Dedicated by Bishop Scarborough Who Made An Address.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Dec. 13—Yesterday was a memorable day in the history of Holy Innocent's church, of this place. The new guild room was dedicated by Right Rev. John Scarborough, bishop of this diocese.

The services commenced in the church at 4 o'clock. Hymns were sung and prayers made and then Bishop Scarborough made a short address. He dwelt principally on the beauty of giving to others if only a little and used the illustration of the widow's mite. He also complimented the members of the guild on their efforts which have resulted so excellently and said he hoped the room would be used continually as much in a social way, of which he highly approved, as in a religious way, for a sewing school and teas as much as for a meeting place for worship. The Bishop went on to say that he believed the building of the guild room was the beginning of Holy Innocents church.

After the services were over the whole congregation was invited into the new room which adjoins the church. After a short service was read dedicating the room to God and the church, the time was given over to the women who had provided excellent refreshments of which all partook.

Mrs. Wm. Vance was in charge assisted by Mrs. H. Garabrant, Mrs. E. Wade, Mrs. Brogun Brokaw, Miss Rita Brokaw, Mrs. Chas. Kelley, Mrs. L. O. Sutton, Mrs. Nathan Wade, Mrs. Fred Holden, Miss Jessie Haines, Miss Emma Nelson, Mrs. Lisbon Pierson. The services were attended by the pastors and members of all churches in New Market and Dunellen.

NO MORE TICKETS.

The Subscription List for Ward Stephen's Musicale is Complete.

Plainfielders are looking forward to Saturday evening's musical treat with great pleasure. Not another ticket can be had for Mr. Stephens' "First Musical Evening" as the number of tickets is limited and only subscribers could get them. The "musicale" will start promptly at 8:15 and carriages can be called at 10:45 o'clock.

It is possible that a very charming singer of enviable reputation from New York will come out to hear the evening's programme and perhaps sing a few songs during the intermission.

JUST WALKED IN.

Morris Brokaw Wasn't Expecting Guests, But They Came.

Morris Brokaw, of West Front street, was made the victim of thirty of his young friends, last evening, who called at his home unexpectedly to tender him a party. The young man was greatly taken back, but within a few moments had regained his composure and joined in the games and music which followed. Refreshments were served at the close. The affair was arranged by Miss Hazel Martin and Daniel Randolph, the young people meeting at the latter's home on Plainfield avenue.

Concert and Entertainment.

A concert and entertainment will be given at the Calvary Baptist church Thursday evening, December 26. Miss M. J. Statts, the celebrated prima donna, assisted by the Mullen family, of New York, will appear.

In Justice Nash's Court.

The landlord and tenant case of Young against Ray will be tried before Justice Nash, Monday, December 16.

VERY PLEASING WAS FIRST VOCAL CONCERT

First of Season's Subscription Concerts Arranged by Mr. Atterbury.

PLEASING PROGRAMME.

QUARTETTE OF TALENTED VOCALISTS FROM THE METROPOLIS.

Sang Solos and Quartettes—Old Favorites Were Heartily Received, While the New Artists Greatly Pleased.

It is seldom that four voices blend as well as did those of the quartette of talented vocalists who appeared, last evening, in the first of this season's subscription concerts at the Casino, arranged by A. H. Atterbury. They were also heard in solo numbers and give universal satisfaction to the large audience of Plainfield music lovers. In every way was the concert a decided success.

It was in the opening number that the voices were heard together. They were Miss Anita Rio, soprano; Miss Florence Mulford, contralto; Leo Leiberman, tenor; and Gwilym Miles, bass, all of New York. The wedding chorus from "Lohengrin" was well given but the fine work of the quartette was particularly evident in the familiar "Sweet and Low." "Stars of the Summer Night" was also of special excellence.

Mr. Miles was the first of the soloists to be heard and he scored a decided hit, as on former occasions. He is the possessor of a full rich bass voice while his enunciation is perfect. He sang with spirit. "The Minstrel Boy" found special favor as it seemed best adapted to his voice. He was repeatedly encored.

Of charming personality, Miss Rio pleased all with her perfectly placed soprano voice. It was very sweet but of great volume and yet under perfect control. She had a wide variety of selections. "Die Lorelei," displayed her ability in heavier work while the ever popular "Coming Through the Rye," given as an encore, showed her equally successful in the lighter selections. Her reception was an enthusiastic one and she was called upon for several encores. Is she evidently a favorite in Plainfield, having sung here twice before with marked success.

Of equally high class were the selections of Miss Mulford, whose rich contralto voice was heard to advantage during the evening. She sang with feeling and used her voice with much effect, particularly in the pathetic "Im Herbst." In striking contrast but equally pleasing was that old favorite, "The Lowe-Backed Car." She was encored.

A solo from "The Persian Garden" was chosen for Mr. Lieberman's first individual effort. His was a heavy voice of wide range. He reached the high notes without effort and sang sweetly and with much feeling. His other selections were well chosen and pleasingly given. So well did the audience like him that he was several times recalled.

The whole programme gave eminent satisfaction and there were many pleasant things said about those who took part and Mr. Atterbury whose energy made this delightful affair possible. The ushers were Frederic W. Goddard, Hartley Mellick and Dudley H. Barrows.

Fair Ended Last Evening.

The two night fair, given in St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church, came to a successful close last evening. Nearly all the articles were disposed of and the following received presents: Pastor Duensing, a sofa cushion; Mrs. Arden, chocolate pitcher; Richard Warneck, apron.

Made Much Money.

The entertainment given by the senior class of the Plainfield High School in the Franklin School, Tuesday evening, netted the sum of $65. The various committees on arrangements made their reports at a meeting of the class yesterday and were discharged.

Only Routine Business.

The Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held a monthly business meeting Wednesday evening. Nothing but routine matters were considered.

Three to Muster In.

A meeting of the Woman's Veterans Union Relief Union will be held this evening in G. A. R. Hall. Three candidates are to be mustered in on this occasion.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants.

A well-dressed and stylish young man walked out of M. Weinberger's clothing store in West Front street, a few days ago, and as he passed down the street he attracted much favorable comment.

The African raven is among the rare collection of birds to be seen at Dobbin's cigar store on North avenue. There are over 300 birds in the collection, and few are seldom seen in this vicinity.

A visit to the toy department of I. H. Boehm's, on West Front street, may furnish suggestions as to what to give the little ones for Christmas. Toys and Christmas novelties, large varieties and low prices.

The delicacies of the table in the meat line are all to be found in the pink of perfection at Fred Endress's West Front street market. It is hard to get meats that are just right that you will appreciate his place of business.

The special line of granite ware and articles usually found in a hardware store are displayed in great variety at H. E. Gayle's, in West Front street. A newly-married couple could scarcely find a better place to select necessary things for the household.

Before it is too late, John G. Bantle, the tailor, of Watchung avenue, wants the wife, who is trying to think of a suitable Christmas present for her husband, to drop in at his up-to-date establishment. Smoking jackets and house coats are what most men need.

Two prominent Plainfield society women stopped at J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store on Park avenue, yesterday, and were so well pleased with his display of holiday goods that they made several selections for presents. They said it did not pay to go to New York any more.

Nearly every person wishes to make a gift to a friend or relative at this time of the year and no place affords more ground for selection than the pharmacies. Hodge's pharmacy in the Y. M. C. A. Building is always stocked with seasonable goods appropriate for presents at any time of the year.

Henry Windham, proprietor of the Hotel Waldorf, has completed arrangements for an unusually fine display about his premises this season. He has contracted for the placing of innumerable electric globes about the building to light up the decorations about the building at night. Every color scheme known to the decorator's art will be used. Mr. Windham has the assurance that the effect will eclipse any of the past season's efforts.

WASHINGTON.

Holiday Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Chrestenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsal of food. Finally I was confined to my bed. Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. L. W. Randolph.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

ENDEAVOR NEWS.

(Contributed by the Press Department of the Union County Union.)

The last "round table" of the State secretary shows that New Jersey Endeavorers are widea wake. Atlantic county reports one new society during the past month; Camden county is laying much stress upon literature, one society having in circulationa library of 90 volumes, while another is planning to publish a bi-weekly paper, giving church and Christian Endeavor news; Cumberland county reports a fine rally addressed by the new State president, and announces a series of visits tot hew eaker societies of the union; Hudson county will have in place of a rally an educational meeting in each of the six districts of the union; Bergen county's secretary has assumed the publication of "gleanings," a medium for conveying to the county's societies the work undertaken and accomplished along various lines.

As there will be no national convention next year the next State convention will be held in July. The 1902 convention will be a two-day's session. The committee having it in charge are: H. B. Zimmerman, of New Brunswick; Dr. A. W. Bailey, of Atlantic City; and Rev. Dr. Cornelius Brett, of Jersey City.

Union county Christian Endeavorers are certain of having an efficient district secretary in Miss Martie P. Anthony, of 444 East Front street, Plainfield, who has just been appointed to this important position.

The Elizabeth local union will supply the inmates of the city almshouse with fruits and other delicacies on New Year's Day.

THEATRICAL.

Every unfledged playwright who woos Dame Fame now-a-days attempts a romantic or a rural drama, a majority choosing the latter because of the reputed ease with which a story of country life may be written. The aspirant little realizes that the success of most such pieces is the result of their realism, the growth of detailed business and detailed investiture, and that nothing in the science of stage-authorship is more difficult than the devising of this business. William A. Brady's magnificent production of "Way Down East," which has made more money than have any two of its rivals and which now is nearing its 500th performance at the New York Academy of Music, is an admirable mosaic of pretty bits unmistakable in their effect both upon the rustic bred, who recognize them, and upon the city bred, who only feel their aptness. Mr. Brady has taken care to furnish scenery and accessories which in every way heighten the effect and sustain the illusion. "Way Down East" continues to be acted by a cast which includes Phoebe Davies, Robert Fischer, Ulric B. Collins, Will T. Ellwanger, Felix Haney, Frank Bell, J. H. Bunny, Frank Currier, Ella Hugh Wood, Sara Stevens, Marion Louise Shirley and a double quartette. The last performance in New York positively will be given on the evening of December 28.

VOTING DATE FIXED

An Expression of Senate on Treaty Next Monday.

FAVORABLE REPORT ON MORGAN BILL

Senator Money Criticises New Hay-Pauncefote Convention—Senator Foraker Thinks All Objections Have Been Overcome.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The senate agreed yesterday to take a vote before adjournment next Monday on the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty for the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and opening the way for the construction of a canal across the isthmus of Panama by the United States. This agreement was reached after four hours of debate, sufficiently interesting to insure the constant attendance of most of the senators. Senator Spooner, who was one of the principal speakers of the day, had just concluded when Senator Lodge made an effort to secure a vote. It developed there were other senators who desired to be heard, the result being that the date for the vote was postponed until Monday. The agreement provided for an adjournment of the senate until Monday and for a meeting at 11 o'clock of that day, one hour in advance of the usual time. The understanding is that as soon as practicable after the senate convenes Senator Lodge shall move an executive session and that the treaty shall have the entire attention of the senate until a final vote is reached before the adjournment for that day.

The principal speakers beside Senator Spooner were Senator Money and Senator Foraker. Mr. Money, while finding much in the treaty to criticise, said that as he found the fortunes of the proposed canal across the isthmus inextricably intertwined with the treaty he could not see his way clear to do anything that would prevent or even delay ratification. The particular features of the new treaty with which he found fault were those retaining the neutrality provision of the Clayton-Bulwer convention and specifying police control of the canal when built. He argued that the effect of these provisions inevitably must be to limit and prescribe the power of the United States to control its own property in case of war.

Senator Foraker maintained that provisions of the new treaty meet every objection made to the original Hay-Pauncefote treaty and cover every essential thing that was included in the amendments made by the senate to that document. He regarded it as of the utmost importance that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty should be wiped out. This result was effected by the convention under consideration. He asserted that all rights of the United States were amply protected under this treaty and that our absolute and complete control of the canal could not be questioned by Great Britain or any other power. Mr. Foraker's speech dealt largely with the legal construction and the general effect of the treaty. He said that after a careful study of its provisions he was firmly convinced that it could be honestly supported by every patriotic citizen.

The senate committee on isthmian canals early in the day authorized a favorable report upon Senator Morgan's bill providing for the acquisition from Nicaragua and Costa Rica of the right of way via the Nicaragua route. Senator Morgan later presented this report to the senate, accompanying the return of the bill with a voluminous report upon the general subject of a canal across the isthmus. Action upon the bill providing for the construction of the canal was deferred.

Stolen Diamonds Recovered.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 13.—Chief of Police Donahue expects to recover $10,000 worth of the diamonds stolen in Portland a month ago. Prue Johnson and her companion, who were arrested with part of the gems in their possession, were questioned and, the police say, with favorable results. From what was learned from her it is believed the Johnson woman did not commit the theft, but is being used to dispose of the valuable jewelry.

Fierce Storm In Great Britain.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The postal authorities say that yesterday's gale and snowstorm caused the worst breakdown of the telegraph and telephone lines that has occurred in twenty years. North of a line drawn through Birmingham the whole country, including Ireland, is almost cut off from communication with London. Press dispatches had to be sent by rail. The heavy snowfall continued throughout the day, and the gale is still raging.

Good Price For a Handkerchief.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Dec. 13.—The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church of Mooers, Clinton county, sold at auction a lady's handkerchief sent by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt. The handkerchief brought $40.50 and was purchased by the Clinton county board of supervisors. The supervisors will have the handkerchief mounted and framed.

Von Waldersee Not Ill.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—The Countess von Waldersee has telegraphed from Hanover saying that the reports of the dangerous illness of her husband, Count von Waldersee, who acted as commander in chief of the allied troops in China, are wholly untrue and that the health of Count von Waldersee is entirely satisfactory.

CONSPIRACY PROVED

Organizer Iglesias Tried In Porto Rico.

A SEVERE SENTENCE IS IMPOSED.

Leader Who Was Trying to Organize Island Laborers on American Plan, With Seven Others, Found Guilty.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 13.—Santiago Iglesias, president of the Federation of Workmen of Porto Rico, together with nine companions, has been tried in the district court of San Juan on a charge of conspiracy, and Iglesias was sentenced to three years, four months and eight days' imprisonment. Seven of his companions were sentenced to four months' imprisonment, while two were acquitted of the charge of being the founders of an illegal association and conspiracy in August, 1900, to raise the price of labor in Porto Rico.

Iglesias, as the founder of the conspiracy, gets the heaviest sentence. The other men were merely his associates in the crime. Under Spanish law, which is still in force here, persons convicted of a crime have to pay the costs. The local Federation of the Workmen, of Porto Rico, which is now part of the American Federation of Labor under the presidency of Samuel Gompers, has been ordered dissolved, as it has been adjudged illegal because of this conspiracy.

Mr. Savage, judge of the district court, dissented as to the illegality of the local federation, although he agreed that Iglesias was guilty of a conspiracy to raise the price of labor Aug. 1, 1900, when the currency of Porto Rico was changed. At that time nearly all the merchants and employers here raised their prices from pesos to dollars, an advance of 40 cents. Iglesias did the same, contending he only raised wages in proportion to other increases. This constitutes the conspiracy.

The case has been appealed to the supreme court of Porto Rico, where it will probably be heard in a month. Pending this appeal Iglesias is at liberty.

Since Iglesias has been here as the local organizer of the American Federation of Labor he has been continually attacked in circulars and threatened by certain Republicans who oppose his plans. Last Tuesday night these Republicans fired several shots at the building of the federation. The police searched the rooms of these men for arms, but found nothing. The men who fired these shots have not been arrested. Iglesias has petitioned Governor Hunt, citing reported assaults upon his men and asking for protection. Iglesias said:

"If the laws of Porto Rica are inadequate to punish these offenders, if I cannot continue my work of Americanizing Porto Rican laborers unmolested, please inform me, so that I can return to the United States, abandoning this country and my mission here."

Grand Army to Meet at Washington.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Members of the executive committee of the national council of the Grand Army of the Republic at a meeting here last night decided to hold the next annual encampment of the organization at Washington. It has been decided that the encampment will be held in the fall. Atlantic City, N. J., and Denver wanted the meeting, but after the claims of the three delegations had been heard the national capital was selected unanimously. Among the things mentioned in favor of that city was that the monument in memory of General William T. Sherman, which is being erected there, will be ready for dedication during the time of the encampment.

Goebel Documents Burned.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 13.—By the burning of the store of Lowery & Goebel Arthur Goebel lost the papers relating to the death of his brother, William Goebel, and the trials of ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers, James Howard, Henry Youtsey and others, who have been tried or indicted in Kentucky for the tragedy at Frankfort almost two years ago. These papers included affidavits, confessions and volumes of testimony. Since the death of his brother Arthur Goebel has given most of his time to securing evidence for the attorneys in the prosecution in these cases.

A Reception by Mrs. Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Roosevelt will hold a public reception for ladies tomorrow from 3 to 5 o'clock. She will be assisted by the ladies of the cabinet and will have with her during the reception a number of young ladies, including those of the cabinet circle. This will be the first of the public receptions by the mistress of the White House since the Cleveland administration.

Knitting Mill Burned.

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 13.—The entire plant of the Riverview Knitting mills at Tarboro has been destroyed by fire. The loss is $50,000, with $35,000 insurance. The entire spring stock was destroyed and nearly a hundred operatives thrown out of employment. The tenement houses were saved by great exertion. The proprietor, J. F. Shackelford, has not yet announced his intention to rebuild.

Fire Destroys School Building.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 13.—The Alston Grammar school on Boardman street, accommodating 500 pupils, was burned last evening, the loss being $35,000. An explosion in the Sloyd department of the school on the third floor did much to wreck the structure. The building was erected more than fifty years ago.

WORTHY OF CONSIDERATION.

The announcement that the Pennsylvania Railroad will tunnel under North river and establish a great depot in the very heart of New York City, is a matter of great interest to every citizen of New Jersey, as well as affecting every foot of real estate within its borders.

Ferry boats are too slow for this age. Also the necessity of change from cars to boat is tedious and annoying. Anything that will save these inconveniences to the travelling public will be appreciated.

The citizens and travellers on the line of the New Jersey Central have long felt the need of some way by which they might be landed in New York without change, and we are now prompted to ask if some satisfactory arrangement between the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Central roads cannot be made whereby both lines may use the proposed tunnel and terminal? Such "communication" with the metropolis would stimulate trade for the railroad and be the means of dotting our hills and dales with cosy homes, for always there will be thosands who will prefer the pure air of country to the pent up confines of the great city.

Will not our enterprising road, the Central, consider this matter?

Now that Plainfield has a military company of its own, any important happening in the National Guard of the State is of interest to Plainfield. The local National Guard men will learn with interest that there is a fair chance that they will be equipped with guns of the most modern type in place of the present Springfields. In his annual report to Governor Voorhees, Quartermamster General Donnelly, strongly recommends that the militia be equipped with arms of the most modern type. There is an opportunity to obtain the desired arms from the Federal Government at the present time while the present equipment is said to be unfit for service on the rifle ranges.

A city merchant of long experience is quoted by the Philadelphia Record as saying that a great change has been made in recent years by the running of fast suburban trains, the establishment of country trolley lines and in many rural sections the daily delivery of mail by carriers. One of the results is that all of the prosperous farmers—those who can be influenced by advertising—now take a daily newspaper and can be reached by the same advertisement which reaches most of the city people.

New Jersey Arbitration Board has admitted that the object for which it was formed, has not been accomplished. The services of the board were offered in forty-seven labor disputes, and in forty-seven cases was the offer flatly rejected. There is an answer to the labor problem somewhere but it is evident that New Jersey's Board of Arbitration, under existing conditions, is not in that direction.

Within two days, it is announced to the world that two tunnels will soon be started under the Hudson river to enable the people of New Jersey to reach the metropolis without crossing the ferry. Surely the good things come together.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Middlesex county may have another trolley road, and a long one, if the schemes of the million-dollar company, chartered at Trenton, comes to fruition. The plan of a cross State line, running from Milltown to Trenton, over a purchased right of way, is a bold one. It will tap a section of country untouched by trolley lines. It remains to be seen, however, whether the new company really intends to build the railroad and run cars, or is simply out to secure and hold rights of way, with a view to selling out at some future time. The day is not far off when electric railways will carry freight in New Jersey. At present there are certain legal prohibitions, but when these have been removed, the long haul will be all that will be left to the steam railroads and the express companies. The short haul and the local business will be done by trolley freight. This is one of the conditions making speculation in trolley road franchises and rights of way attractive just at the present time.—New Brunswick Times.
